Superintendent J. P. Newbury of the plant stated yesterday that about 100 employes are already at work at the plant engaged in the first stages of work on gelatine products, preparatory to the return of the full force of men and women.

While the future of the industry depends in a large measure upon the action of congress in connection with the tariff, officials of the company are hopeful. Representatives of the company are now in Washington working in behalf of the local industry.

CITY CLERK DOWD LAUGHS AT LAW--- SNUBS ENTERPRISE

What is apparently an attempt on the part of City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to pick a quarrel with the Peabody Enterprise is shown by a story in a Lynn paper of some days ago which quoted the Peabody City Clerk as intimating that the Enterprise had threatened to bring court proceedings to require him to no longer conceal the marriage intentions from publication.

There had been no threat on the part of the Peabody Enterprise nor is there any political fued that animates this newspaper or can possibly induce Peabodys newspaper to start any controversy with Clerk Dowd. He was never known to make any such an extended talk, and it is obvious that someone else is largely responsible for the outburst which strangely appears in a Lynn paper.

It is possible that the assistant clerk has done the talking to the Lynn correspondent. It has long been the practice of the assistant City Clerk to ask couple applying for marriage intentions if they wish their approaching marriage to be published immediately, placing a question on the romance and making it appear that secrecy was the desired thing. The insinuation is apparent in any event and would in most cases be rightfully resented.

It is a fact that City Clerk Dowd has refused to give the Enterprise access to the marriage intentions filed in his office. He has accused us also of having published someone's marriage intentions after his assistant clerk had informed the Enterprise that no publicity was to be given the particular intention. In other words, someone assuming authority in the City Clerk's office has decreed that the statute which allows publicity on a public record for every marriage intention filed in Massachusetts is an idle law and does not apply in Peabody, the world's largest sheepskin center.

City Clerk Dowd admits the marriage intentions shall be a part of his public record and consequently as such is, of course, open to inspection by every citizen of Peabody, whether a property owner or not. By the same token, of course, the record is public for inspection of any reporter for the Peabody Enterprise. Yet Clerk Dowd rules otherwise.

CITY CLERK DOWD LAUGHS AT LAW

It's a rather monstrous situation that City Clerk Dowd has focused upon himself and his assistant City Clerks.

The recent instance of a Salem mother being able to prevent a secret marriage of her minor daughter which a Salem newspaper laid bare to her by publication of her daughter's marriage intention, prompted the Enterprise to publish marriage intentions filed at the City Clerk's office in Peabody. We are quite willing to give credit to the Salem News for the newspaper effort, for it seemed equally important for the Peabody newspaper to protect deserving mothers from just such a contingency arising in this city.

Clerk Dowd's duty is to protect the interests of every mother and father without regard to favor or political pull or influence. He has no quarrel with the Enterprise except it be we have not said something nice about him in every issue since our first editorial on his election, in which we gave him no slighting mention.

It may be that some of his supporters, and he has many, who have personal grudges against Mayor Shea, have taken this marriage intention episode as an excuse to keep on forever blowing bubbles. It may be that Clerk Dowd has his own desire to pick a quarrel and that he is not the spokesman or the agent for someone else. If so, the Enterprise is in ignorance of any ground on which he elects to base his sudden outburst in the Lynn newspaper interview which came from his office.

It may be that a complaint paid to his assistant, Mrs. Jessie Newhall, in these columns when she attempted to line up the 1920 City Council to elect her to the position of the first woman City Clerk in the state, may have been unwise without first securing the sanction of Clerk Dowd.

The Enterprise has never bothered to make capital out of the deal that went through whereby for his assurance of keeping Mrs. Newhall in the City Clerk's office he was given amajority pledge of the Councillors, on the eve of his getting the job. It is known to the majority of the City Council that Dowd's promise to keep Mrs. Newhall as his first assistant won over several of the Councillors to his candidacy. It might also be said here that five of the Councillors were pledged to vote for Mrs. Newhall and refusal on the part of Councillor Duggan alone deprived the young matron of the exalted berth which is some real job if efficiency and intelligently filled.

It was a happy bargain for Clerk Dowd and it satisfied Mrs. Newhall, although she may not be contented. The fact is she was bound to be the guiding force in the office for filling the job of City Clerk is no sinecure and something vastly different in detail and municipal law than the former inspector of sewers had ever been called on to handle.

Clerk Dowd must be grateful to Mrs. Newhall and because of the deal she must be grateful to Mr. Dowd, and contentment should reign in their office on their respective positions.

Because the Enterprise has asked for a square deal for Mayor Shea on the part of men who owe their bread and butter to him in political appointments and because we have insinuated that forces in the City Council are avowedly hostile to the Mayor and doing all they can to give him a "rotten" deal, is probably the best excuse City Clerk Dowd has for displaying his present absurd position regarding publication of marriage intentions.

It may be that because the Enterprise did not applaud him when he wrangled with Mayor Shea and ordered his assistant clerks to likewise snub the Chief Executive of the City that the Enterprise has fallen in grace at the hand of the City Clerk.

It may be that the expose on the part of the Enterprise of the attempt of some man prominent in city affairs to secure unlawfully military aid from the pay-roll prepared by Commissioner Andrew Fyfe is one of the thorns which have brought forth the present wrath of City Clerk Dowd.

That he may be placed right among his friends, we have it from Commissioner Fyfe that someone—not the City Clerk—was the man who sought to induce him to falsify his record of payments by putting on the name of a man no more entitled to military aid than the man who was turned down in the army draft.

The Lynn paper story which was dedicated to Mayor Shea, Commissioner Fyfe and the Peabody Enterprise publisher featured its space with the bluff that "certain" members of the City Council propose to call Commisioner Fyfe to account why certain single men receive more military aid than some married men. There's about as much likelihood of Commissioner Fyfe being called before the City Council as there is of his receiving a million dollars from a long lost aunt.

There will be at least one sensation develop if Fyfe is called before the Council and be given a chance to tell all he knows about influences which have been fruitlessly brought to bear on him to "graft" the taxpayers' money for men not entitled under the law to much military aid.

It seems a pity almost that the present even tenor of way of the City Council cannot be enlivened with a star session in which Commissioner Fyfe ,who won his spurs in the world's war overseas and who has the documents to prove his qualifications, is not likely to mince words or names.

Commissioner Fyfe says that the law inflicts a penalty of $1000 fine or a year in jail for publishing any names or amounts of payments made under the military aid act.

He explains how single men who were wounded or gassed naturally draw more money than a married man who suffered no ill effects in the war service. He also shows why some single men who support a mother, sister and perhaps a brother get more aid than a married man with only a wife to support.

He welcomes a probe into his department and declares if called before the City Council he will make some people sorry they started a fight with him. If he does get into action before the City Council it is pretty well understood that political aspirations of some Peabody men may go smash.

At the last city election the citizens by a majority of 2600 elected William A. Shea Mayor of Peabody, and the citizens who gave him their preference want him to get a square deal in City Hall from every subordinate and particularly from appointees who had no hesitation in accepting his favor.

Throughout the Donnell administration, as we have recently stated, the Enterprise was found consistently demanding he be given every chance to make good as Chief Executive of the City. We have been found echoing that same demand in behalf of Mayor Shea and in common with the majority of citizens. What makes for a progressive Peabody should find the Mayor, City Council and city officials working in harmony.

"Pike's Peak."

Gen. Zebulon Pike of the United States army saw the peak in 1806 and is generally regarded as the first white man to discover it. This is disputed, however. The first ascent of the peak was made in July 14, 1820, by Dr. James, a geologist. Pike had reported that the peak could not be climbed. Nowadays many tourists get to the top of it every day during the summer by automobile.

Square Deal Practice Best Business Remedy Says Eglee

Justice — Co-operation — Service— the three great principles. Justice comes first because all civilization has grown through the wish for A Square Deal between man and man. We can not live together in peace unless that peace is founded upon Justice. The country or nation that comes nearest to the practice of A Square Deal is the most prosperous and the best to live in. The United States is ahead of every other country in the world in trying to give A Square Deal to everybody.

But the United States is a long way from being perfect. Why? Because men don't want A Square Deal; they want all they can get without regard to the other fellow. Not everybody. But enough of us are grabbing all we can grab and are making a lot of trouble for the rest of us. Look around you in Peabody and you will find that about 90% of the people are fair and square and honest, if it were not so we would have no schools, no water works, no stores, no civilization, no factories, no banks. Most of the people must be honest and just or the factories and stores couldn't trust them and business would stop.

The other 10% are the ones who make trouble, cheat, beat their bills, get the best of the other fellow, talk against the government, stir up discontent and try in some way to get a living without doing an honest day's work. These people have to be watched, laws are made for them by the other 90% and courts and jails are necessary. It is about the same in every part of the country, about one out of every ten persons is making trouble for the other nine. They don't want A Square Deal and so we cannot yet be perfect anywhere.

Another thing we must think about. Men don't know what a Square Deal is; we are hearing more and more about Justice every day. That is why our laws are changing; what we thought was all right fifty years ago we will not allow today. Fifty years ago little children worked in factories and in mines; the Justice of today does not allow this. One hundred years ago the law said a man could beat his wife all he wished if he didn't use a stick thicker than his thumb. Today we put him in jail. Twenty years ago women couldn't vote; this was not A Square Deal. Women are voting now. We have learned more about Justice.

Day by day; year by year, we are learning more about A Square Deal, growing better, bigger, thinking more, studing the question, more and more of us, more and more every day. Where do we learn most about Justice? On the job is where we learn most, whatever that job may be. Doctor, lawyer, storekeeper, manufacturer, clerk, workingman and woman, all together in one big mass learning the lesson of A Square Deal each on his own job.

Once in a while we get a big, strong example of what happens when men are not fair and square with each other. The German war was one such example, but last winter's strike in Peabody comes nearer home to all of us; that was a little war right here. Men were out of work, factories were closed, women and children suffered, storekeepers lost trade. The money lost in wages, in goods the stores did not sell, in the leather that the factories did not manufacture, the trade the factories lost and have not got back, all this runs up into hundreds of thousands of dollars; perhaps millions.

There is a better way to build up a nation than by fighting; Germany has found that out. It will cost the German people many years of hard work to get back the lives and the money lost in war and although the other nations were victorious, they, too, must work and save for a long time to recover.

There is a better way to build up the leather industry than by fighting; the better way is to build up A Square Deal between man and man. Who builds this up? You do. Each man by himself and every man together. Manufacturer, manager, superintendent, foreman, salesman, clerk, working men, working women; all this mean, YOU.

"No use to blame the other fellow when I, myself, am trying to 'do' the other fellow all I can. I must practice A Square Deal if I expect to get A Square Deal. The whole business of Justice starts with me." This means, YOU.

In thousands of factories all over this country "A New Idea" is being worked out; we are trying to bring harmony into our daily job in some factories by one method, in other factories by other methods. "We are on our way." "Let's go." Think it over. We'll talk about it among ourselves.

Washington St. May Be Reopened Thru Efforts Chamber Commerce

The Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce are extremely hopeful of the eventual reopening of the Washington street route of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway. Just at present the committee is awaiting a conference with Frank I. Hardy, former manager of the Salem division of the road, who is now stationed in the Chelsea division. A previous conference with Mr. Hardy was postponed because of the latter's illness.

While the railroad officials have issued the ultimatum that the route cannot be reopened without an outlay of $20,000 in repairs to the roadbed, and only with the understanding that the city repave the street between the rails, the Chamber committee are hopeful of reaching a satisfactory understanding in both directions.

It is felt that members of the council who have shown a disposition to sit tight on the lid of the city treasury in many other matters, will consider it a matter of good politics to pass any order that may come before for the repaving of Washington street between the tracks, when the matter is eventually brought before them for action. The demands of the residents of the Washington street section of the city for a resumption of the street car service on that route has been so insistent that the Council will hardly dare to ignore the requests from the large percentage of voters in this territory.

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS NEW DANIEL F. KEEFE SCHOOL

The keys of the new Daniel Francis Keefe school on Washington street were turned over to the city at informal exercises held at the school building yesterday afternoon. Members of the school committee accepted the keys following an inspection of the building. The meeting of the board was called at 3 oclock.

Exercises marking the official opening of the new school will be postponed until after the classes have been installed in the building.

The new building is the most up-to-date in the city. Its six class rooms with accommodations for about 175 pupils will greatly relieve the congestion in three schools, particularly the Center school. Pupils for the new school will also be drawn from the Wallis and South schools. The grades will range from one to six. Mrs. Mary S. Murphy, who was a teacher at the Thomas Carroll school last season, will be assigned as principal of the new school. Mrs. Murphy was formerly principal of the Endicott school. The grade teachers have not yet been assigned.

The buildings, a one-story brick and stucco structure, is modern in every detail. Fire hazard has been practically eliminated by individual doors leading from each of the six class rooms directly onto the walks surrounding the building. Many modern features, which are new to Peabody schools, have also been installed to conserve space. The class rooms have been laid out for greater convenience to both teachers and pupils.

A large hall, with a slightly raised platform at its rear, is located in the very center of the building. The class rooms lead off the hall, two on each side, and one each to the right and left of the front entrance.

One of the features of the class rooms is the so-called Chicago system of closets for clothes, in which the minimum space is used. The closets are so located in each room that when not in use a series of sliding doors can be lowered and the closets completely concealed. An individual black board forming the top panel of each sliding

OUR 1921 TAX RATE

From $21.00 a thousand the tax rate this ear is announced at $28.10. This increase is large and many conversant with the situation claim it need not have been. It is not the purpose of the Enterprise to go into this matter with facts and figures, for the figures are not forthcoming. But the present administration has increased the several departments as to costs, and whether it was advisable to do so is a matter of judgment. Efficiency is the slogan of Mayor Shea, and in his judgment he believes that to have it, proper latitude must be allowed the departments. That our debt limit was reached before Mayor Shea took the reins, is admitted. That there are many items in the school buildings that must be cleared up, must also be admitted. The $20,000 for grading and school furniture must be expended. Interest on the bonds is a large item and must be met, first of all. So while Mayor Shea's judgment as to increasing appropriations is questioned by many, all must admit that he was confronted with many problems which were trying, to say the least. We believe our Mayor could clear up many questions that have been asked and remain unanswered. We believe if he did answer them it would place the situation in a far better light so far as his administration is concerned. He has placed his judgment against that of former Mayor Donnell, and having done so, why not lay down the cards? Both of these gentlemen we are satisfied have and are working for the best interests of the city. Both own considerable real estate here, particularly Mayor Shea, whose real estate interests can be rated as one of the largest.

PLAYGROUND FIELD DAY

Any skeptics on the subject of playgrounds for children are invited to attend the annual exhibition and field day of the Peabody playgrounds next Thursday. If, after observing the healthy, natural, wholesome games, drills, races, etc., that will be shown at this time, any doubt remains as to the benefit of city playgrounds, it will not be the fault of the playground commission, who have made a real success of their program this season. When most of us were children there were vacant lots and fields enough near at hand to accommodate every youngster who desired to toss a ball or play a game of tag without using the streets. Even if we did play in the street, the only danger we need fear was that we might be struck by a bicycle or some equally speedy vehicle. Now the only opportunity most city children have to indulge in active play without endangering their lives is at a public playground. Here they have a chance to romp and play games under the watchful eye of an experienced instructor. They may make all the noise they care to without disturbing nervous neighbors. They can have their choice of slides, swings, sand box, ball field or any of the various "stunts" that children delight in and that make for healthy, active young boys and girls. Good sportsmanship is taught at all times at this general meeting place of young America. The spirit of fair competition for honors is drilled into the growing youth of our city who later on will be unconsciously "playing the game" in industry and profession as they learned to play it as children—fair and above board. There are not enough playgrounds in Peabody at present. It is to be hoped that the scope of this work will be enlarged another year. It should be developed so that some substitute could be offered during the winter months. Children need a chance to exercise even more when confined in school than they do in the summer months. The Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls, Community House and other organizations realize this and are meeting the situation to a certain extent. The Rotary Club is becoming interested in the welfare of the growing boy. If other organizations will incorporate this idea in their platforms they can do a real service. And if you have the opportunity, do not fail to visit the kids' field day on next Thursday. It will do you good.

THE AMERICAN HOME

The home, the greatest of all institutions, and in many cases the most unthought of, is in these modern times rapidly becoming merely a place to eat and to sleep in. The crash and speed and jazz of the present century is taking from the home the content and comfort that was so strongly identified with the little homes of our forefathers. The home of long ago was the centre of all entertainment and pleasure, but today movies, dance halls and auto parties hold such a lure for the young man or woman that there is very little time left for the home, for every evening finds the young folks with "something on." This is a serious situation and makes us wonder what the future holds along this line. Now is the time to think about this and inject a little more firmness into the discipline of the young people, for there is not an event that ever happened which could not in one way or another trace its origin to the home. With this thought in our minds then let us plant in our homes only such seeds as will bear good fruit for the men, women and homes of tomorrow.

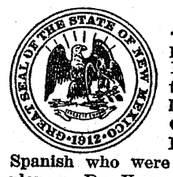
XLV.—OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA holds the record for rapid growth. It was in the first term of President Benjamin Harrison that Oklahoma was opened up. Good farm land available under the Homestead Act was difficult to find so the United States bought from the Indians, who had been segregated in Indian territory, a large tract of some 40,000 square miles that had been used largely by the Indians as pasture for their cattle and horses. This was called Oklahoma, a word meaning "fine country," and was arranged to be ready for sale to homesteaders at 12 o'clock noon of April 22, 1889. Troops were placed on guard to prevent any settlers entering before that time for more than 100,000 "boomers" as they were called, came from all over the country to obtain farms or places for business. On the stroke of the hour, bugles sounded and the mad rush by men, women and children to locate claims began. The government had arranged land officers at many places at which claims could be filed for the farms or city lots, and all that day these were besieged by fighting mobs to register their selections. Before nightfall hundreds of farms were staked out and Oklahoma City and Guthrie were well on their way to become cities.



Thus was developed this region which came into the possession of the United States as a part of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 and which was set aside for so many years as Indian country. Previous to the formation of Oklahoma territory, congress had forbidden white settlers in this part of the country, and this edict was enforced by federal troops. As the demand for more land was felt and as the Indians decreased in numbers, Indian territory was added to Oklahoma territory, and in 1907 it was admitted to the Union as the State of Oklahoma, adding another star to our flag, which for eleven years had contained forty-five. The state has flourished to such an extent that it has ten presidential electors, which is more than double that of many of the older states of larger size.

XLVI.—NEW MEXICO

AS ITS name implies, New Mexico's history is closely allied with Old Mexico. It was the Spanish who were its first explorers, De Vaca visiting this region in 1536 and Coronado four years later. The natives were the Pueblo Indians, although they are somtimes erroneously reputed to have been Aztecs as they were well advanced in the arts and had a comparatively high civilization. These Indians were conquered in 1598 by Juan de Onate and became subject to Spanish rule, being forced to work the mines and pay tribute. Missions were established and Santa Fe was founded about 1605.

Except for a period of ten years when the Indians revolted and maintained their independence, New Mexico remained under Spanish control until in 1821 Mexico gained its independence from Spain and New Mexico became a province of Mexico. Thus it remained until the outbreak of the Mexican war, when in 1846 Colonel Kearny marched from Fort Leavenworth with his troops, occupied Santa Fe and declared this region a part of the United States. By the Treaty with Mexico in 1848, the upper part of the state was formally ceded to the United States and the Territory of Mexico was organized in 1851, which reached from Texas to California.

Arizona was set off from New Mexico in 1863 and a few years later a portion was contributed to Colorado. Application for admission as a state started in 1850, but it was not until 1910 that New Mexico became the forty-seventh state.

New Mexico ranks fourth in size among the states with an area of 122,634 square miles, but is sparsely populated and accordingly has only three electoral votes for President.

ROUND ABOUT

Four girls at the Emerson Park grounds have finished sweaters, for which they furnished their own material, and they are very anxious to wear them before the exhibition day.

The West Peabody playground baseball team played the Emerson Park nine, making the trip to the park by automobile. With the exception of two innings, the Westside team played good ball and they are anxious to play again. Score: Emerson 11, West Peabody 4.

I observed Samuel B. Folsom, a former Peabody citizen, renewing old acquaintances in this city, the other day. Mr. Folsom is now located in Schenectady, N. Y., where he went from Peabody some time ago.

I understand that Roger H. Smith, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Peabody Rotary club, is promising some excellent speakers and musical talent for the coming fall meetings of the club. He has secured Clarence E. Sherman, librarian of the Lynn public library, as the speaker for next Tuesday. Mr. Sherman represented the Lynn club at the international convention of Rotary clubs held at Edinborough, Scotland, last month. His meeting with the King of England and other celebrities is told, and many pleasant incidents of his trip furnish interesting topics on which Mr. Sherman will talk.

I met John W. Richardson of Pawtucket, R. I., at the District Governor's conference at Worcester on Monday. He represented the Pawtucket Rotary club. Mr. Richardson is a former Peabody boy, his family having resided on Tremont street 30 years ago. He attended the Bowditch school and carried newspapers for Charles C. Hills. He asked to be remembered to Carroll F. Edgerly, a former classmate of his at the Bowditch. Mr. Richardson is engaged in the towel supply business, and has been located in Pawtucket since leaving Peabody 30 years ago.

John Young of Holten street is in Harcourt, New Brunswick, this week, attending the funeral of his father, Henry Young, who died suddenly last Friday at the remarkable age of 101 s. Deceased also leaves two other sons, Alfred Young of Berry street, this city, and Richard of Swampscott, and three daughters.

John Ellis and James Dee, Peabody firemen stationed at Combination No. 2 house, have occupied their spare time between fires in repainting the motor chemical stationed at that house. In its new dressing of paint, the kit looks like new. Incidentally, the city treasury has been saved an expense of $300, which the repainting of the kit would have cost. Willing service of this sort merits commendation.

Principal Warren Bowen of the Wallis school is spending his vacation at Outlook cottage, Jackson, N. H.

Raymond H. Bacherman, a dealer in exchanges and foreign steamship line tickets, has leased the store at 30 Main street, where he expects to move about September 1. He is now located in the Allen block. His brother, Harry Bacherman, will occupy a part of the new Main street store as a haberdashery.

The metal discs bearing the name "Peabody," designed by the Chamber of Commerce officials, as a means of advertising the city on every local automobile, have been received at the local headquarters of that organization and are being distributed. There are two discs for each car, to be placed above or below the registration number. Several have already made their appearance on Peabody automobiles.

Mountain climbing is a pastime in which the Rev. C. Norman Bartlett, pastor of the Baptist church, is finding much enjoyment on his summer vacation. Since his arrival at the Wilson cottages in Jackson, N. H., he has tramped 175 miles over the mountains and has averaged a mountain a day. He has climbed Kearsarge, Moat, Wildcat, Curber Dome and Washington, and reports Wildcat to be the champion of them all, being about like a flight of stairs. Following a tramp of about eight miles and a climb up Curber Dome, the clergyman's party stopped in at the camp cottage of John O. Ballentine, also of Peabody, last Saturday, where they were guests of Mr. Ballentine at supper. Warren Bowen, principal of the Wallis school, has joined the tramping party on several trips. Wednesday a party of six headed by the Peabody clergyman climbed a group of mountains in Crawford Notch.

Good Word for Puzzlers.

Did you ever hear of xarque? That is a perfectly lovely word to add to the vocabularies of the makers of word-squares for the puzzle page. Xarque is dried and salted beef, known in English as jerked beef. It comes from Brazil and most of it is exported to Cuba.

A Real Optimist.

The other day we heard of a real optimist—a woman who stood watching her house burn down in a community with no fire protection and weak water pressure. She remarked: "Well, anyhow, I'm glad I went to the movies yesterday instead of washing my windows."

Here's Marvelous Dinner Dish.

The great national dish of Korea is cooksu. To make it, you plunge a large lump of ice into a bowl partly filled with steaming vermicelli of the endless variety. Over this you pour a portion of hot beef stew. The ice congeals the beef fat into little islands of grease, and you never know whether the portion dangling from the end of your chopsticks will be icy cold or burning hot. The vermicelli, which is very tough, is to be lifted to the mouth with the chopsticks. Keeping a firm hold on it with the lips and teeth, you slip the chopsticks down to lift again and take up the slack by sucking.

Joyce Lewis, member of the American Legion at Long Prairie, Minn., was among the mourners at the funeral of his buddy Corporal Robert Burns Hess at St. Paul, Minn., last week. Lewis owes his life to the dead soldier. The latter had dragged him wounded out of a shell hole and was later killed in action. Lewis recovered and returned to the United States. He lost all trace of his rescuer until he read in a newspaper that the Hess' body would be brought from France for reburial.

Altitude trials, parachute drops and a spectacular aerial derby, participated in by Eddie Rickenbacher, William Furlow, Edgar Tobin and other famous aviators, will be included in a flying circus to be held during the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City October 31 to November 2.

Charging that Winthrop D. Lane, a sociological expert employed by a legislative investigating committee in New York City, is editor of a pamphlet called "Uncle Sam, Jailer," which attacked the government on the political prisoner question, the executive committee of the King's County of the American Legion, comprising seventy New York posts, has sent a petition to State Senator Meyer, chairman of the investigating committee, requesting Lane's dismissal.

A clash between employes of a circus and the police of Fremont, Nebraska, as the latter attempted to stop alleged "con" games, came to an end when the mayor of the city threatened to call out members of the American Legion to preserve law and order. The police were outnumbered by the circus roustabouts, who refused to obey orders of the mayor until the latter announced that he would call Legion men to assist the police.

A baseball game between members of the Woodston, Oklahoma, post of the American Legion and members of the Women's Auxiliary resulted in a victory for the women with a score of 28 to 18. The right hand of each of the Legionnaires was tied behind his back, a handicap too great to overcome.

LYNN MERCHANTS OFFER BIG VALUES

Lynn merchants through the Trade Extension Committee of the Chamber of Commerce have completed their preparations for one of the biggest trading events of the season, to be known as SUBURBAN DAY, which will take place August 20. All previous efforts at price reductions fade into insignificance when compared with what Lynn merchants will offer to the buying public who visit Lynn on that day.

Accordingly upon deciding to conduct SUBURBAN DAY on August 20, Lynn merchants realized that to bring to Lynn those living in nearby cities and towns a far greater effort to offer the best in merchandise at the least possible cost to the purchaser than was ever attempted before was necessary.—Adv.

SALEM SLEUTHS WATCHING OUR TANNERIES---THE CLAIM IS UNDERGROUND STREAMS

(By ENERGY)

We are still in a word war with Salem about the sewer. Judge Farnham, our city solicitor, tells the Council it is propaganda on the part of Salem. He tells them our engineering department has facts and figures which will offset any claims Salem can make, and that the trouble lies with our neighbors. Meanwhile sleuths are watching our tanneries, even claiming the discovery of underground streams which wend their way into North river. It would seem from their claims that we are all bad. That we spend our time largely trying to see how much filth we can empty in North river so that Salem can get the benefit of the odor.

But when disinterested persons look over the situation, find out the large sums which the tanners have expended so that the sewer will take care of the discharge, a different opinion may be formed. it is certain if the sewer does not care for it, this sewerage must go somewhere, and Salem will be asked why it has not been cared for. They may also be asked why they haveallowed so much turned into the brook and for so long a time without acting until now. It would seem that for years they have pleaded guilty for not protesting.

I do not suppose it could be called a feud between these municipalities. But 50 years ago the boys of Peabody would go to Salem to meet the Boston streeters and a free for all resulted. I could look back 25 years more and it was the same. The governments of the two places have always been as far apart as are France and Germany. When this agreement on the sewer was made it was one of the big surprises of the year to those who knew conditions.

I do not know why such feelings have always existed unless it was handed down by Roger Conant or by the witches of Gallows Hill. True it is Salem possessed the territory now Peabody and Danvers. Perhaps there was a feeling that they should have kept this territory. But two municipalities so woven together as are Salem and Peabody should be able to fix up their troubles without giving the lawyers fat picking. I understand the lawyers are not to blame. All of us would exchange places with them.

—*—

But, getting down to brass tacks, why not get together and have a sewer that will care for Peabody as well as Salem. Why not quit trying to put something over the other fellow, and pick some representative men from each place who will serve only for the interests of their city, men who are above playing politics, and who will handle the situation equitably and right for all concerned. We have a sewer which perhaps is not perfect. It was built when the sewerage was not what it is today. But it can do the work when applied properly and the threats and hard words which are being hurled today gets neither municipality anywhere. Either that or do as the boys of '65 did—fight it out once for all.

Do you see that tanner walking down Foster street? Did you notice the drawn look on his face, and did you stop to think why it was there? That chap was in the leather business, before the world war, and since. His pockets were bulging with money once, but an examination today shows the pocket has been cut out and the money is gone. Talking with him he tells me it was some tough loss to lose that role, but it is tougher to look into the future and see only a blank

Washington Street May Be Reopened

Mayor Shea stands favorable to the appropriation of a reasonable sum for the work, and the Chamber committee express the hope that the road will find a way to make the roadbed passable for a sum that will be considerably smaller than the original estimate of $20,000.

The Chamber committee is also working in conjunction with M. E. McCormack, head of the Salem district of the road, for an extension of the fare zone on the Lowell street line, and if the present plans carry, it is hoped to extend the zone from Town House square, Salem, to Rogers Gate, instead of Peabody square, as at present.

Through cars from Salem to Danvers via Peabody square became a reality last week. These cars are operated once every hour, and are declared to be a very pleasing accommodation for residents of Central street and the points beyond on the Danvers route.

door demonstrates the system of efficiency adopted to get the greatest possible service out of the least possible space.

A triple sliding blackboard in the rear of the teachers' desk in each room is also a new feature which should prove decidedly popular, especially with the teachers. The walls of the class rooms and hall are finished with a dark brown base and cream colored upper walls.

The front entrance to the building leads into the teachers' rest room at the left and the principal's office on the right. The main hall of the building will be used for the present for the general exercises in which the entire school will patricipate.

The hall was designated to meet the demands of the community for some time to come, and if at any future time an addition is placed on the rear of the building, the hall will be still sufficiently large to accommodate the personnel of the entire building.

Two smaller rooms located in the rear of the building will be used for the storage of books, supplies and furniture.

The boiler room is located in the basement at the front of the building. Here two large boilers have been installed in connection with the heating system.

Toilets of the new building are located on the main floor with cement flooring and modern plumbing throughout. These are located on either side of the main hall.

The majority of the pupils drawn to the new school will be taken from the various class rooms of the Center school, and it is expected that the result will be the removal of about two complete classes from that school. The number of pupils to be drawn from the Wallis and South schools will not be as large. The Center school last year was the most congested in the city, with classes conducted even in the halls of the building.

The line between the new school and the South school will now be drawn at the corner of Lynn and Lynnfield streets. The present line for the South school is located at High street.

Dalton's court and Lowe street will form the line for pupils drawn from the Wallis school to the new building, and pupils drawn from the Center school will reside south of Oak street on Foster or Washington streets.

It may be interesting to local citizens to know that since the Keefe school was completed, officials of the Attleboro school board visited and inspected it with the view of drawing plans for a new school in that city, with the result that Attleboro will have an exact duplicate of the Keefe school.

wall. A prominent Boston banker tells us the break in hard times has arrived. He says it will take some time to get going, but he can see that the going is soon to be good. Coming from the source it does, I have considerable faith in his statement. The banks practically control the situation. Business must look to them for credit and when credit is given where for two years it has been refused, why not better business? The big fellows have been hard hit in the credit matter. There have been failures recently, or assignments if you will, that involved men with millions, and there have been many of this kind on the brink of financial trouble. There has been big lots of leather sold at prices less than the cost of the raw skins, The end to such things is in sight, it is claimed, and the downward tendency of commodities is certain. This readjustment is a long and tedious process at the best. We have mastered it to the extent of bringing back faith in the future, and Father Time with the scythe which should be used more by the people, has cleared a path for better times. Here's hoping he does the trick.

There is 50 per cent. of the leather workers idle today. It is to be regretted that such is the case, but there is no remedy until we get business. Now and then appears bright spots, with certain kinds of leather having the call. It is as unhealthy as is the man who sits down to a meal with no appetite except to pick here and there. The loss in wages mounts up and affects everybody in the city.

The Turner Tanning Machinery Co. is doing little. I understand officials representing the United Shoe Machinery Co. are there sizing up conditions, and what will be done is problematical. Naturally changes will come, as the situation warrants. New owners generally mean new ideas. Therefore the tanners are much interested and watching developments.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Leach and daughter, Louise are spending a week with her mother, Mrs. B. P. Danforth.

In Pleasantville, N. Y., July 18, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. White, a formerly well known resident of West Peabody. The baby has been named Harrison Everett White.

The Sunday school picnic was held the tenth of August at the Willows. A good time was had by all who attended.

Virginia Carten has gone to Orleans, Mass. on a camping trip with the Soewamapenesett Camp Fire, of which she is a member.

Misses Kate and Ellen Macdonald of Montreal, Canada, have returned to Montreal, after spending two weeks with the brother, John Macdonald of Goodale street.

Miss Maude Macdonald of Goodale street is visiting relatives in South Effingham, N. H.

Miss Mildred McKenze is recovering after her recent relapse of illness.

Miss Bessie Taylor of Lowell street has returned from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. White of Ellsworth, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Carten of Crystal Lake Farm, have returned from a trip to Syracuse, N. Y.

Mabelle Leach is having a vacation for two weeks. This week she is spending at home, but next week she will spend in Maine.

The Boys Club held their outing in Ipwich recently. The main feature of the outing was a "clam bake."

The last two ball games and scores were as follows: Aug. 6, vs. Crescents of Peabody, we won, 17-2. Aug. 13, vs. Moody A. A. of Salem, our victory, 5-0. Aug. 20, tomorrow we will play the Father Mathew team again, and all look forward to our victory. Back up the team in this game.

A dance was held in the school hall Wednesday evening. Porter's Orchestra furnished music.

CAN YOU PICK THE MOST POPULAR LADY IN PEABODY

Who is the most popular lady in Peabody? If anyone can solve that problem successfully, there will set at rest more than one vexed and perturbed mind and incidentally the identity will be established of the particular female who is to be crowned "Queen of the Fiesta" here at the big out-door celebration of Peabody Lodge of Moose, which is scheduled for the week of August 29 at Emerson Park.

The person or social organization that first nominates the winning "queen" candidate is to be the recipient of a cash award of twenty-five dollars on Friday evening, September 2, the closing night of the competition.

P. T. Langan and his aides on the Fiesta arrangement committee are determined that this celebration is not to be an exception to the time-honored precedent. A "queen" there is to be and the "who" of it will be the final result of what promises to develop into a decidedly exciting period of popular balloting ere the contest reaches the finale.

"Not Guilty" at Strand Theatre Featuring Sylvia Breamer and Richard Dix Today and Saturday

"Not Guilty," the photoplay which will top the Strand's bill for today and Saturday, will arouse interest among the patrons of that house because many of them have read Harold McGraths thrilling novel, "Parrot & Company," from which it is adapted. Sylvia Breamer and Richard Dix head a big cast of players.

The plot is an unusual one and involves twin brothers who love the same woman and who, strange to relate, are both loved by her. One of the brothers commits a crime, turns out to be a murderer and his twin changes identity with the guilty brother. Then events follow in rapid sequence. The innocent brother self-exiled goes to India, the land of "brilliant days and purple nights," where the love, the life, the lure of the tropical east soothe the hearts and the hopes of the civilized west. Then by a strange coincidence the girl visits India. But the course of true love, which never did run true, winds thru a veritable jungle of tense situations to an amazing climax. The picture is a First National attraction. "Pretty Lady," a Sunshine comedy, and a smashing chapter of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" are the other attractions listed for showing today.

Bessie Barriscale in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands' 'and Zazu Pitts in "The Heart of Twenty" will be the double bill for Sunday evening.

New York, ever-changing, ever-fascinating and gay, is the local of the George Fitzmaurice Paramount production "Paying the Piper," which, with Conway Tearle in "Bucking the Tiger," will be the program for Monday and Tuesday.

"Paying the Piper" is from an original story by Ouida Bergere, who wrote the continuity for that other Fitzmaurice masterpiece of New York life, "On With the Dance," and it possesses scenes, characters and situations just as convincingly real as did its predecessor. For "Paying the Piper" the authoress chose people typical of New York—Wall street millionaires who have heartlessly marched to the top; their spoiled, reckless offspring; ambitious hardworking professional people who find their success or defeat in the great metropolis. Around them she has spun a theme showing that money cannot buy happiness or the most desired things of life. Dorothy Dickson, the famous Follies dancer, makes her debut in this picture. Other favorites in the cast are Alma Tell, George Fawcett and Rod La Rocque.

Outcasts from the four corners of the globe are the characters in "Bucking the Tiger," the second feature on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. Scenes are laid in the wild snow-bound wastes of the far north, where man takes the law into his own hands unhampered by the red tape of legal procedures. It is generally considered the greatest role of Mr. Tearle has yet essayed.

WEST PEABODY

Miss Lillian Rankin has returned from a visit to Newburyport.

Misses Evelina and Blanche Martin have returned from a visit to Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spidell have returned from a visit to Nova Scotia, Mrs. Spidell's mother, Mrs. Weaver returned with them for a visit.

summers of their young lives. They have also benefited through the many instructive lessons in basketry, weaving, handicarft, physical training, dancing and clean athletic sports that have been taught by the istructors stationed on each playlot.

Henry A. King, supervisor in charge of the playgrounds, outlined this year the first organized program that has ever been carried out on the playlots. He has been ably assisted by Miss Alice Woodman, as assistant supervisor, who has devoted her time an deiforts to the work among the girls. Miss Woodman, who is a graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Culture, has given particular attention to the athletic work among the girls.

The accomplishments of the eight weeks' season will be demonstrated in the program of events which has been arranged for next Thursday afternoon. It is expected that the attendance of parents and friends of the children will be large.

The program will be started at 1.30 Thursday afternoon with a parade in which all the playground children will participate. Starting from Chestnut street, the children will march through Peabody square, circle the monument and proceed up Lowell street to Chestnut through Franklin street to Emerson Park.

The parade will be headed by a band and plans are being outlined to have two floats in the line, both illustrating various forms of playground handiwork. Several sections of the parading children will wear costumes.

The exhibition program at the park will be staged directly in front of the grandstand. Besides a program of entertainment, a number of athletic events will be run off, these to include a marathon race and baseball game. Teams representing the Bleachery and Emerson Park playgrounds will play baseball for the championship of the city.

A class of 40 girls will give a very complete exhibition of the physical training work carried out during the past eight weeks. They will work under the personal supervision of Miss Woodman. This number will be followed by a Dutch folk dance given by a dozen girls of the Emerson Park playground, after which Miss Mary Callan and Miss Agnes Callan of the Bleachery playground will entertain with Irish dances. The Callan sisters are noted in this section for their ability to exemplify the intricate movements of the old-time Irish dances, and this number should prove one of the features of the afternoon.

The East End playground will be represented by Miss Victoria Dersolo in a solo dance and by eight young women in a Russian peasant dance. An exhibition in acrobatics will be given by two other East End girls.

The South Peabody girls will contribute to the program with a May pole dance, after which there will be a doll carriage parade in which every playground will be represented. Prizes will be offered in the latter event.

Events on the athletic program will include a 50 and 100-yard dash for girls, and the same for boys, a pie eating contest, a potato race for girls and a wheelbarrow race for boys.

A pleasing list of prizes have been selected as awards in the various events.

High School Will Be Ready Sept. 7

The fall session of the Peabody schools will start Wednesday, Sept. 7, according to announcement made by Superintendent Albert Robinson today. This includes all schools in the city.

Many inquiries have been received by the Enterprise as to the date of the reopening of the high school.

Members of the contracting firm of C. H. Cunningham & Son Co. stated very definitely that the old part of the high school building will positively be ready for occupancy Sept. 7, and it is anticipated that the necessary parts of the new building will also be ready.

POSSESSOR OF LOVING CUP

Miss Louise W. Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore of Holten street, is the proud possessor of a beautiful silver loving cup presented by the Pomona Granges of Essex County at their picnic and field day held at Hathorne last Wedensday. The cup was awarded for the highest number of points scored in the athletic events during the day and went to Miss Moore, whose score was highest over a large number of entrants.

Personals

Alfred Smith and family of State street will spend the coming week at Hampton Beach.

Ralph Russell and family are enjoying a week at Portland, Me.

The Misses Annette and Juliet Smith will spend their vacation at Hampton Beach.

Mrs. C. F. Petraske of Chestnut street has as her guests Amos Petraske of Portsmouth, N. H., Mrs. Tracey Moak and Mrs. Scott Taylor of Gloversville, N. Y.

Lowell Street

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Alyward of Proctor's Crossing, are rejoicing over the birth of a son which occurred at the Victoria Hospital, Salem, last Friday.

Miss Louise Doyle after a fortnight's vacation has returned to her desk at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

Norman Crane, Chester Bent and Dr. Miller went on a duck hunting trip this week. The law is off on water birds and the boys promise a banquet for their friends upon their return.

The latest returns on automobile ownership in Peabody tend to show about 1500 machines registered from this city which as the modest estimate of $6 per week for upkeep would indicate an expenditure almost equal to the costs of running the entire affairs of the municipality, and we still talk of H. C. L.

Tom "Had" Sawyer, sealer of weights and measures, is visiting at Sanbornville, N. H.

Charles H. Simmonds of Emerson street, is enjoying his annual vacation devoting his spare moments to recreation on the golf links.

Raymond E. Porter of upper Lowell street, the pernenial amateur champion of the Homestead Golf Club with the professional of the club, Fred Millery, entered the tournament at Winchester last Monday and made a very creditable showing. On a strange course they scored 152 and their play was commented upon by several Boston papers, which featured some of their shots as never having been equalled in match play on those links. Louis "David" must soon arise or the present championship shield will have no names below the first winner, L. B. Paton but that of R. E. Porter.

Mrs. S. Chase Tucker is located for the next few weeks at the Isle of Shoals.

Mrs. Alice Warner has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ray A. Macdonald for a few days the pass week.

Louise O'Hare of School street is located at Middleton for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Claude B. Cross of New York is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Macdonald.

Construction on the new unit at the N. H. Poor Company plant is progressing rapidly and it is easily seen that the building will aid materially in increasing the daily output of the concrete which is set at quite an ambitious maximum.

Miss Ailsa Sinclair has returned from a vacation spent wth her sister, Mrs. Hiram McAlpin of Rochester, N. H.

Mrs. William Leighton of Malden has been stopping for a portion of the week with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Barnes of King street.

Miss Frances O'Brien is enjoying a visit with relatives at Plymouth, Mass.

Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Albert Robinson have returned from their summer home at Tenents Harbor, Maine, which Mr. Robinson painted and improved personally this summer and are adjusting themselves in their recently acquired residence on Chestnut street.

H. J. Pushard is back from a week spend at Camp Ellis, Me., with his family. "Dos" returns greatly benefited both physically and mentally by the complete rest.

Miss Ethel Wessel of Danvers has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Wilbur Merrill of Lowell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Macdonald passed last week end with friends at Princess Cove, Yarmount, Me.

Miss Dorothy ust, daughter of Rev. B. W. Rust of Charlemont, Mass., is spending the week with Misses Maida and Elva Beckett of Emerson street.

On Saturday she will motor to her home with Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Beckett and family, who will spend a week there.

City Hall Notes

Mayor Shea is braving the ocean breezes on a trip down east. We know of no better time of year for such a trip for the health and comfort.

—*—

Harry Duggan, our assistant janitor, is taking his vacation. We note he visits City Hall frequently, which shows his interest in his job. He is a busy fellow about City Hall.

—*—

With Chief Grady on his vacation, the duties of chief are divided between Inspector Pierce and Sergeant McManus. Their rank is on paper, however, but should be real. Peabody's police business keeps those in authority on the jump, and that Ford of the inspector's covers much ground.

—*—

If others made as much noise in the early morning as do the police at their headquarters, there would be some arrests on the calendar. No doubt they do not realize how noise travels in the still of the morning.

—*—

There was talk of another budget which would have to be attached to next year, and which would take in the appropriation of furniture for schoolhouses, grading and so on. It has not materialized as yet, but is forthcoming.

—*—

Then about the Anodver street water main. Danvers cannot legally furnish water to us for any length of time. That main on Andover street is in poor shape and must be replaced with a larger pipe. Mt. Pleasant must have water and this method seems the only way to get it.

—*—

We wonder what is doing about that water main to West Peabody. There was more talk about it some time ago than about a murder. But somehow it lost momentum and is apparently forgotten except by those who need the water.

—*—

Engineer Frank Emerson is taking a short vacation. His duties are the most trying in City Hall, for the complaints from all sides are many and must be settled one way or another. But Frank is firm when he takes a stand, and the other fellow must accept his ruling. He plays no favorites.

—*—

The tax bills are nearly completed and Ward 1 has been sent out. This is better than two weeks earlier than last year and six weeks earlier than the old custom. The city is the gainer, for many bills are paid and the city gets the benefit of the money.

—*—

There has been more demand this year for the women's street list of polls than the Boston Post. What an opportunity for the fair sex to discuss the ages of their friends, and say they know such a one is five years older than the list records. But you know that short skirts and peek-a-boo waists serve to make the middle age woman look younger and therefore is popular.

—*—

We can see no reason why the women should not pay a poll tax. And little later help support the family. There are some cases where they do this thing we admit, let's make it unanimous.

—*—

At the next election, whenever that is, we expect to see City Hall actually littered with women would-be politicians, which may serve to drive out the male pols, some of whom have adorned the place for a score of years to say the least. The change would be welcome.

—*—

When a woman gets married and has been registered under her maiden name, she must repeat the process under her married name or be dropped from the voting list. That is about the only remaining thing the men have on the women.

The unpaid taxes of 1919 vintage will soon be advertised. If unpaid after due time they will be sold or taken over by the city. No doubt many of these will be settled. All owners are notified by mail of the advertisement, so no excuse will be justified.

Assitsant Road Commissioner William Sheen paid a visit to City Hall this week looking the same as he has for 40 years. There must be a tonic in his neighborhood somewhat like the elixir of life we read about. He tells us the Newburyport turnpike is now open through Peabody, and the autos travel ilke express trains. Where is that motor-cycle?

Chamber Outing at Suntaug Wednesday

The third annual outing of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce held at Suntaug Lake Inn, Lynnfield, Wednesday afternoon, attracted between 60 and 70 members of the organization. The party left the Chamber headquarters at 2.30. Of the program of sports, the baseball game was the feature. Following dinner served at 5.30, Miss Gertrude Crosby entertained with vocal selections and monologues. The party broke up shortly after 7 o'clock.

MEETING POSTPONED

The absence of a quorum caused postponement of the School Board meeting Thursday, when the keys of the new Ward 2 school were to be turned over to the city.

GUESTS AT ASBURY GROVE

Members of the First Baptist church will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green at their cottage at Asbury Grove tomorrow afternoon. An truck will leave the church at 1.30 P. M. to convey the party to the grove.

There will be a meeting of the Royal Twilight Lodge, I. O. O. L., at Levin block Wednesday evening, Aug. 24, at 8 o'clock.

WEST PEABODY VS. FR. MATS.

Manager Waldon of the Y. M. S. Club says that he has his team in fine shape and with batting eyes all set for Mr. Buckely. He will use the same line-up which defeated the Crescents and Moody A. A. and on Saturday, August 20, hopes to defeat the fast Fr. Mats nine. There is quite a little feeling between these two teams and a large crowd is expected.

War Risk Bd. Names Dr. Foss Examiner Here

Dr. Ralph E. Foss, war veteran and chairman of the Public Health Commission of Peabody has been named medical examiner for World War veterans in this city. His appointment came some days ago from the War Risk Deparument in Washington. Dr. Foss enlisted in the war service at the call for medical men and received a commission as first Lieutenant.

Peabody's Chamber of Commerce is responsible for the appointment of a medical examiner in Peabody. President Sanger of the Chamber wrote to Secretary of War Weeks requesting that the examiner be appointed for Peabody to take care of local war veterans and the request was quickly approved together with the promise that some physician would be selected. The Chamber had no candidate for the office.

Dr. Francis J. Marrs, dentist, has also been appointed to represent the War Risk board in Peabody and he is treating many war veterans.

Failure of the City Council to pass an appropriation for $3000 asked by Mayor Shea in his budget to provide for water pipe and supplies for renewals, deprived one family residing at 53 Harris street of water for four days this week. The matter was only straightened out after an urgent appeal had been made to Mayor Shea.

Agent James J. Ray of the Health Department who was called into the case, found that the family consisted of a husband, wife and three children. There was sickness in the family and danger of more serious illness because of the absence of running water.

Agent Ray took the matter up with Acting City Engineer Roger Macdonald who was powerless to do anything.

Relief for the family was only secured after the matter had been brought to the attention of the Mayor. The water supply in the house was completely cut off, due to corrugated pipes leading from the water main in the street.

The following letters relating to case are self explanatory:

Office of the Department of Public Health,
47 Lowell St., Peabody, Mass.,
August 23, 1921.

Honorable William A. Shea, Mayor,
Dear Mr. Mayor:

Mayor Gets Hearing To Put Lynn Trolleys Back On Washington St.

In his effort to bring about the return of the Lynn cars onto Washington street, Mayor William A. Shea has asked the Trustees of the Mass. Eastern Street Railway to grant a public hearing. The trustees have set the hearing next Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 12 noon at 1 Beacon street, Boston.

Mayor Shea has received numerous letters from factory owners urging the return of the cars as a better accommodation to their employees. Mayor Shea has the word of several Foster street plant owners that they will be glad to have the Lynn cars taken from that thoroughfare.

The Mayor's letter is as follows:

Office of the Mayor, City Hall,
Peabody, Mass., August 23, 1921.

Homer Loring, Chairman,
Board of Public Trustees,
Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.,
No. 1 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

My dear Mr. Loring:

I respectfully petition your honorable board to grant a public hearing to the people of this district relative to the restoration of car service on Washington street in the City of Peabody, on the Lynn and Peabody line.

It is my belief that both the trustees and the people would be greatly benefited by the requested hearing because the true conditions as they exist at the present and the advisability of the elimination of the said conditions by the restoration of the said service, could be ascertained with accuracy.

Thanking you kindly for your anticipated attention in this matter, I am,

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM A. SHEA,
Mayor.

City Hall Notes

Tax bills for wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 have been sent out. Wards 5 and 6 are nearly ready for distribution, and all will be in the hands of the tax payers by September first. The idea of sending tax bills early brings into the treasury money that would otherwise not come in until after October first.

—*—

The old story that the amount of a tax bill is what appeals to the payer, is shown this year, for the same valuation brings a big increase by the $7.10 jump in the rate. Complaints come in on the amount and it takes the assessors much time to explain the increase.

City Treasurer Elmer J. Foley is confined to his home because of sickness. His clerk, Miss Cassidy, is filling the gap, and this office is popular with city employes because of the long green which it contains.

There appears to be little disturbance in the political horizon just now. But there are rumblings which forecast something later. Those who give out this information hold tight when asked why, but they look very wise.

—*—

Assistant City Engineer Macdonald is now the big noise in the engineering department in the absence of Frank Emerson. They say Frank is enjoying the ocean breezes at Hampton beach, where there is plenty of life. Meanwhile, he may give them pointers how to build roads in that place, where they sadly need it. The travel there is enormous.

—*—

Harold Childs, Assistant City Collector, is up in the fashionable part of New Hampshire showing the natives how to play the American game. If that Charley horse does not interrupt his progress, he can fit in well as a shortstop.

—*—

Had Sawyer, sealer of weights, is on his vacation. It is a good bet he is using that inside stuff on the boys who play baseball. He could not keep away from baseball any more than he could his meals. He is strong on both.

—*—

We wonder what will come out of the water question on Mt. Pleasant. If Danvers shuts off its supply and we do not put in larger pipes, there will be nothing for those people to do but get a recipe for home brew.

—*—

Collector Sherry will have 166 parcels of property to advertise this year. This lot being the 1919 tax, the delinquents will have an opportunity to pay up or their property sold.

—*—

We note traffic policemen are on duty longer hours than formerly. With such a busy corner as Lowell, Main and Foster streets, one is needed most of the time. There is plenty of chance for accidents at this spot, in fact one occurred the other day, but fortunately no great damage was done. Keep up the good work, Chief.

—*—

It is about time for another accident on the turnpike. With such a smooth road and no one to stop them, automobilists certainly do some speeding.

—*—

Brother Hills suggested that the traffic lanterns be cleaned and we note his suggestion was followed. There are much improved traffic posts, and when the city gets the price, which may not be this year or next, we should have some. It is difficult to keep up-to-date without the price.

—*—

The National Calfskin Co. have a sewer cleaner which is a marvel. It is good that the city have borrowed it. With a force of water behind it and placed in a pipe, it forces its way without assistance and will plow through pipe that has been clogged easily. It looks like a valuable asset to the sewer department, and the cost is small.

—*—

We note that trees on Main street are wanted out of the way. This once pretty street with its mammoth trees has gone in the march of progress. Few dwellings will be there in five years.

—*—

The condition of Councillor Francis Poor is improved, which is welcome news to his many friends about City Hall. His fighting blood keeps him in the game.

Miss Kelly will devote her time to teaching foreign children and backward cases. The children will range in ages from eight to twelve, and will be drawn from all sections of the city. This is termed a non-English class.

Lowell Street

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Vaughn of Philadelphia renewed local acquaintances last Monday while en route by motor to northern New England for a short holiday.

Miss Frances O'Brien of Lowell street has recently purchased an Overland touring car.

Arthur T. Ellis, lately connected with the Van Blarcom Motor company for Lynn, agents for Studebaker cars, have severed his association with that concern and has joined the selling force of the Townsend Motor Co. of Salem, representing the Hudson, Essex & Nash cars and White trucks.

Leonard C. Hunt has been entertaining Stephen Comstack of New Haven, Conn., over the last week-end.

Miss May Flynn of Franklin street has resumed her position with Madame Shipley, after enjoying her usual summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Colety of Franklin Hill are observing today their crystal wedding, the 15th anniversary of their marriage.

Henry J. Pushard, proprietor of the Lee Pharmacy, is spending the second installment of his vacation at Ferry Beach, Maine.

James F. Ingraham, Jr., and family are spending a few weeks at Conomo Point, Essex.

A peculiar accident occurred on Lowell street a few days ago when a foreigner on a bicycle attempted to overtake and pass an automobile on the latter's right side. The space was so narrow that the bicyclist's pedal came in contact with the curb and he fell, striking his head with some force on the granolithic sidewalk. No serious damage was done to either wheel or rider and no blood was shed, but language flowed in quantity.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Pray and family of Perkins street are at Wiscasset, Maine, for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Margaret L. Poor sustained painful but not serious injuries by a a fall at her home on upper Lowell street last Sunday. She was conveyed to the Union hospital at Lynn, where she is still a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Barnes motored to Hillsboro, N. H., over the last week-end.

Word has been received from Washington, D. C., of the engagement of Harold Fellows to Miss Frances Holme of Virginia.

Miss Mary E. Hills of Chestnut street with a party of friends leave the city tomorrow on a motor trip in Miss Hill's car, that will cover Cape Cod to Provincetown and return.

Council Cut Off Money For Fire Station

In their efforts to sit tight on the lid of the city treasury, in the passing of appropriations for the 1921 budget, the finance committee of the City Council precipitated a situation in the city electricians office that has never before been equalled. Incidentally, it makes the city a violator of the building regulations as related to wiring, and has endangered the lives of the six firemen who are on duty each night at the Central fire station. When the matter was officially called to the attention of Mayor Shea this week by City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, the former issued immediate instructions to the city electrician to remedy the conditions to safeguard the lives of the firemen.

City Electrician O'Keefe in making an inspection of the wiring in the Central fire station some weeks ago discovered many defects, which were in violation of the state laws. Under the present conditions the fire headquarters is a constant fire hazard, according to the city electrician, and the danger is increased at night when many of the lights in the station are in use.

Incandescent lights that should carry an average of 110 volts frequently carrying as high as 220 volts, according to the electrical expert, and with this high voltage the danger of fire is very great.

The fault lies in the present system of wiring. When the annual budget was being prepared, City Electrician O'Keefe pointed the defects out to members of the board of fire engineers, and the latter asked for an appropriation of $500 to rewire the fire station, that it might be made safe for the firemen.

The finance committee in its overzealous efforts to protect the finances of the citizens of Peabody blue pencilled the appropriation as being unnecessary.

This action placed the city electrician in a rather unusual predicament. It remained in his power to turn off the electric current in the fire station under the state law, but if such drastic measures were taken for the protection of the six firemen sleeping at fire headquarters, the operation of the fire apparatus stationed in the central house would be crippled completely after dark each day. In so doing the city electrician realized that the danger of heavy property loss from other directions would be greatly increased, and he held off patiently until this week, when he appealed to the board of engineers and the Mayor for action.

Mayor Shea did not hesitate to order the work attended to immediately.

RED MEN FETE AT LILY POND

Tomorrow the outing of Red Men consisting of tribes of Lynn, Swampscott, Cliftondale and Peabody will be held at Lily Pond Grove, Saugus. There will be all kinds of sports, baseball game, dancing, etc. A feature will be an Indian village reproduced where all the customs of the Indians and their dances will be exemplified. There will also be a drill in full regalia of the degree team of Poquanum tribe of Lynn.

Busses will leave Red Mens' hall, Foster street, at 10 o'clock in the morning and 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and tickets can be procured from members or on the bus. The committee from Peabody consists of Thomas Mansell, chairman; Fred Morse, John Foster, Clifford Shea and John H. Thomas.

The open door to the life that the revellers know.

Life had taken Rosamond through gambling dives and Chinatown. Success had brought her tumultuously to the stage on glittering Boardway. Love had told her if she wanted love there could be no marriage. Heedlessly she had sown the wind. "If at the end of thirty days you still want me, then I am yours." And now she awaited the whirlwind she would reap on the thirtieth day.

CLUB WOMEN TO PREPARE LUNCHES FOR HIGH SCHOOL

The completion of the new high school addition will give to the pupils at that school a real lunch room, which has never before been possible. In preparing the plans for the new building, more space was set aside for lunch room purposes. This will be fitted up to meet the needs of the school.

Mrs. Edward A. Blaney of the Peabody Woman's club, who has been in charge of the lunch counter at the high school since the movement was started by the Woman's club several years ago, will again take up her duties with the opening of the school term Sept. 7.

For many years the pupils at the school have been provided with recess luncheons at cost price. Sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream have been served at a ridiculously low figure, and sometimes at a small loss. This loss in the food products has been covered, however, by a small margin of profit through the sale of candies.

In the past an average of about 400 pupils out of the total of 600 in the school have been served during the half hour recess each day. It has been the custom to prepare about 480 sandwiches. The sandwiches are made by Mrs. Blaney in her home and the bread and cake are purchased outside.

Mrs. Blaney is making plans for a busier season than ever when school is reopened, for in the new lunch room with its two counters and entrances and exits for both boys and girls, the work of putting out the food will be simplified.

State Police Order Change At Keefe School

Several changes in the ventilating and heating systems at the new Daniel F. Keefe school in Ward 2 have been made necessary as a result of the failure of State Building Inspector Cheney to approve the systems installed at the school. The fact that the state inspector condemned the heating and ventilating system became known this week. The school committee instructed the architect to take an appeal from the finding of the state inspector to Chief Plunkett of the state police. When this action was taken the chief sustained the finding of his inspector.

The necessary changes have now been named, and other changes in the electrical apparatus which have been suggested by City Electrician O'Keefe are also being made in order that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the school sessions on time.

Final approval of the school by the state police will not take place until the cold weather has set in. It is stated that it is impossible to make a proper test of the heating and ventilating systems of the schools until the temperature outside has reached the low level of 32 degrees, so that final acceptance of the school by the school board will probably be delayed until after the report of the state police has been received.

Burglars After Cellar Stock

"Come up here quick, there's two yeggmen crawling in my cellar window."

This was the message received over the telephone at Peabody fire headquarters one night this week. The voice on the other end of the wire was that of a w. k. resident of Andover street.

The report was turned over to the police. On arriving at the house two guardians of the law entered the house stealthily and proceeded immediately to the cellar, where they of course expected to meet two desperate characters.

After several minutes their searchlights fell upon two perfectly harmless citizens, friends of the excited tenant. The two intruders were seated in the darkest corner of the cellar, beside one of those old-fashioned steel-hooped receptacles, the contents of which were once credited with making Milwaukee famous.

There were no arrests.

SOME LEATHER PLANTS RUSHED WITH ORDERS AS IN WAR TIME

(By ENERGY)

When one goes about the leather factories in Peabody, the striking conclusion arises, why is it a certain few of the factories are busy and the rest doing little or nothing? This week I visited a sheepskin factory here where business is as rushing as at any time during the war. I do not know if this concern has pickled sheep in quantities to finish, but I do know that they are busy today and have been for months. I note they are producing a large variety of finishes, from blacks, many colors, to pearl ooze leather. It comes to me that perhaps such tanners are making a superior article to their competitors.

I am ready to believe this is the case until I am shown. I know that chrome tanners may have all the ingredients and the skill to mix them so as to get proper results. But there are other things which enter into the proper tanning of leather which have been overlooked by the large majority. Perhaps I should not enter into the home brew game. But there is a chemical process there which must be watched to get results. I am told beer should be kept in the proper and even temperature to be right. I offer this to show that leather tanned by the chemical process should have the same conditions. In the kodak industry the temperature and humidity of the work rooms are the same the year round. Making leather must follow in the footsteps of the kodak and brewers if you may, to get better results.

I know one factory that follows out this line of procedure and the leather produced by them is called as good if not the best in the market. One can readily see, if looked into, that leather made in cold weather is different than in summer. Therefore an even temperature and humidity not varying will give better results.

—*—

Here is where one of the biggest steps has been taken in the leather industry. Here is where science comes in, and the old fashioned tanner who cared not how he tanned his hides so far as temperature went it outclassed. The same thing would have applied to vegetable tan, but when we think that vats in the open were common, and later only covered with a shell of a building where the thermometer inside and out corresponded, then what is the answer? The leather varied when finished and why in the name of common sense shouldn't it?

So all tanners will finally come to the conclusion that their factories must be so constructed as to have an even temperature. It is being done by those who have dug deep into leather making, and those who insist it makes no difference will lag far behind. In fact today, the factories which are doing a fair business can be picked as the ones who produce the best leather. The shoe manufacturer of shoes today has his pick of leather. His pants at the knees need no longer be worn, and he is consuming the best leather only. There may not be enough demand to keep all busy. But there is considerable leather being cut into shoes today. There is today more raw material coming here than for many moons.

SEVENTH INNING

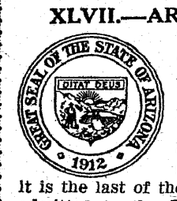
American business may be said to be in the "seventh inning" stage of the game at the present time. That is, whether the game is won or lost depends to a great extent on how the fans in the grandstand and bleachers pull for the home team to get out and hustle the necessary runs to pull over a win. We have heard enough of the kind of talk that is calculated to depress everyone within hearing distance, and it is high time for someone to yell "everybody up" and root for better business. To the keen observer of the straws which show the way the wind is blowing, several encouraging points are being brought out at the present time. Congress is getting down to brass tacks on business building matters like the tariff, and is evidently trying to remove to a great extent the oppressive burden of taxation that has held down American business of late. European politics are showing a brighter trend, and when several matters now pending are brought to a peaceful settlement a big buying power will be released that will go a long way toward stimulating our foreign trade. Of course this is the season anyway when things are at a standstill. August is America's vacation month. Men who have been in the harness for eleven months take time in August to relax and get into shape for the demands of the coming year. It is right that they should Pessimism never yet bred anything but depression, while its enemy optimism is the greatest little business builder there is. Vacations tend to breed optimism. For the above and for many moer reasons, we urge "everybody up" to root for a seventh inning rally that will put over a win for American business over its opponent "depression." We do not mean to be falsely optimistic, but be the kind of optimist whose confidence is based on real facts, chief of which is that the best brains of the world are at work here in America on the industrial and political problems caused by the war, and that out of it all American business is bound to rise triumphant.

BOY VANDALISM

Two items have recently appeared in Peabody columns of Boston and Salem newspapers referring to vandalism on the part of boys. This is very poor advertising for Peabody, but as it appears to be the truth the best thing to do is to search for a remedy for it. Nothing will discourage the man who is trying to maintain a real home more than seeing his time, money and effort wasted by the malicious acts of hoodlums. The ideal American home, the home with the garden, chicken house and fruit trees, the home with the well-kept lawn, this home will never produce the hoodlum. The boy brought up in this environment knows that property is to be respected. He knows how his parents care for and plan for their crops from their little back yard "farm." This type of boy needs no attention. But the boy whose parents are lax in their dealings with property, the boy who has no real home life, this boy needs something to occupy his mind and body in the right channels. The parent has the first responsibility in the work of bringing up his boy right. Many parents are falling down on the job, some because conditions prevent the everyday contact with the boy that is necessary to understand and to know how the boy is spending his time; others because they do not care, as long as the boy is not bothering them, who else they may bother. The last force to bring to bear on boy vandals should be the police force. Every other agency for good in the community should interest itself in the problem of the growing boy. Vandalism should be prevented, not cured, and it can only be prevented by methods tending to teach the youth of today the respect due to the rights of other people. One of the best methods of bringing out this lesson is in boys' clubs, organizations like the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts of America, who are doing real good along this line. Peabody societies would do well to push this work and save Peabody the disgrace of appearing in the public print as a city where boy vandalism is rampant.

WHO IS PROFITEERING?

A farmer in going around sold one of his customers a basket of berries for 35 cents. On emptying the same a note was found in the bottom of the basket, saying that they were sold for eight cents a basket, and wished the purchaser to write and tell how much they had paid for the same. On a return visit of the farmer he was told of the note and the price paid, and he said he could not see where the first party could have sold them for that price, when the baskets and crating of the same were considered. The berries came from Nova Scotia.



The Season.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XLVII.—ARIZONA

HISTORICALLY, Arizona is both the youngest and probably the oldest of our states. While it is the last of the states to be admitted to the Union and as such dates its existence only from 1910, its history before the advent of white men dates back into the dim past. Here were located those interesting people, the Cliff Dwellers, and the ruins of their cities high up in inaccessible places have caused much speculation as to these ancient people. It is supposed that these Cliff Dwellers were the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians and were decidedly more advanced in civilization than their neighbors. They were probably of the same race as the Aztecs of Mexico and understood irrigation, agriculture and the building arts.

It was rumors of the great Pueblos that instigated the first visit of the white men. Padre Nizan in 1539 explored this territory and he was followed by Coronado in search of the mythical wealth of the Indian cities. Coronado, though failing to find the reputed gold, did discover the Grand Canon of the Colorado with its wonderful scenic beauty, which has become one of the great assets of the state.

This region was considered part of Spanish territory and when Mexico declared its independence it became a Mexican province. After the Mexican war the section north of the Gila river was ceded to the United States and the southern portion was acquired through the Gadsden Purchase in 1853. In 1863 Arizona was separated from New Mexico and made a territory.

The derivation of the name Arizona is uncertain, but it possibly came from the Spanish, meaning "dry belt."

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XLVIII.—TERRITORIES

"THE Story of our States" would not be complete without a brief mention of the other territory of the United States, which is not included in the actual forty-eight states. The biggest of these territories is Alaska, with an area of 590,884 square miles. This huge region was under Russian domination until 1867 when the United States purchased it for $7,200,000, or less than two cents an acre. There was some grumbling at the time by a few congressmen over "adding a refrigerator to the United States." But the refrigerator has been found to be well stocked with gold, coal, forests and fisheries, so that Alaska has proven a profitable investment

Hawaii, like Alaska, is a regular territory. In 1893 there was a successful revolution against the Hawaiian queen, and a provisional government was formed under American protection. In 1898, at the request of the population, Hawaii was annexed to the United States.

Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines were ceded to the United States in 1899 as a result of the Spanish-American war. Porto Rico and the Philippines are dependencies and not territories. Their local affairs are administered by a legislature of two houses and they are represented in the United States by resident commissioners elected by the legislatures. Guam is under the control of naval officers in command of naval stations. Under similar naval control are the Tutuila group and Samoa, which were ceded in 1899 by Great Britain and Germany.

Then there is the Panama Canal Zone, which was purchased from Panama in 1904 for $10,000,000. This is governed by the Isthmian Canal commission

The year 1917 saw the purchase from Denmark of the Virgin Islands, for $25,000,000. These aggregate only 150 square miles and are temporarily governed by a naval officer.

Finally, there is the District of Columbia, which was organized in 1791, as the seat of our federal government. The residents have no vote for either local or national officials, nor are they represented in congress.

ROUND ABOUT

The Newburyport turnpike which has been closed to through traffic for 20 months, was opened temporarily last Wednesday, thus relieving the main thoroughfare of Peabody of the vast amount of motor travel that has been diverted over them through the past two summers. During this interval about 8½ miles of the pike from the Saugus line to the Danvers line has been completed and the Massachusetts Highway Commission has announced that they expect to award contracts shortly for six miles of additional construction to be started this autumn, necessitating another crossing of the boulevard. The remaining 10 miles completing the link between Boston and Newburyport will be commenced next year, and the entire project completed and the permanent road opened for through travel in the fall of 1923. The entire cost will total about $2,000,000.

My attention has been called to the death trap which abides at the corner of Lowell and Newbury streets now that the Newburyport Turnpike is open for traffic once more. Last Sunday while Chief Grady stood nearby two cars coming at right angles collided. Autos bound for Topsfield have to make the hill at the corner and machines making the Turnpike from Lowell street are likewise under high pressure. The result is that neighbors living adjacent to the corner are frequently finding themselves prepared to behold a crash of the gasoline buggies. The police should operate a trap and arrest these speed monsters.

Artificial Leg Affects Watch.

Good watches lose in accuracy by exposure to a magnetic field. A war veteran working in a watch factory found it difficult to keep his watch right. Knowing something of magnetism, it occurred to him that the steel in his artificial leg might be magnetized. He experimented and found this to be the case. He went to an electric light company and had his leg demagnetized. After this treatment his watch kept perfect time.—Popular Science Monthly.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Yolk of eggs are "well beaten" when thick, light and lemon-colored.

A bit of thyme added to the filling for a fowl will give a good flavor.

An electric iron outfit in the sewing room is a great convenience.

Even a spoonful of cereal is worth saving to thicken soup, gravy or sauce.

After washing the sink, sprinkle a little chloride of lime down the drain pipe.

The best-shaped utensil for deep fat-frying is a cast aluminum kettle with an oval bottom.

Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and dry and add to two cupfuls of plain mayonnaise. This makes a deliciously fluffy dressing.

Butter made from pasteurized cream or milk should be given to children in their sixth year. Before that age jellies and fruit butters are much better for them.

A fruit salad may be served with cheese balls in place of the customary dessert. The bread sticks may be split open, buttered and laid on the edge of the salad plate.

If you have difficulty with your cake becoming stale, try cutting out a portion right across the middle first and put the two sides that are left together.

A good dressing for fruit salad is made by adding to one cupful of plain mayonnaise three tablespoonfuls of sweet whipped cream and three-quarters of a cupful of grated coconut.

Gingham is highly commended as summer cottage curtain material and the up-to-date nursery, whether in town or country, now has summer curtains, crib coverings, dresser coverings, etc., of fine checked gingham.

Insects That Dive.

Among the natural curiosities of Japan are singing insects. The most prized of these is a black beetle named "susumushi," which means "insect bell." The sound that it emits resembles that of a little silver bell.

ULLVEN IN THRILLING LEAP AT MOOSE LODGE BIG FIESTA

The Peabody Loyal Order of Moose Harvest Home Fiesta will be the attraction at Emerson Park all next week with several big features. Chairman P. T. Langan and his associates on the committee have made all arrangements for the big outdoor celebration. The opening night will be tomorrow night.

The grounds will be illuminated. Tomorrow afternoon there will be entertainment such as the merry-go-round and ferris wheel for the kiddies and the women folks.

Beginning next Monday night, the Fiesta management will offer nightly at 10.30 o'clock a special feature "free attraction" in the open air, consisting of a daring "slide for life" performance by one Dare Devil Ullven. This exhibition is scheduled to take place at 10.30 and is described as a real thriller. The performer is hoisted to the summit of a pole sixty feet high and then at a given signal starts his daring descent to the ground some six hundred feet away, where he lands in a safety net. The halo of a spotlight constantly keeps him clearly in sight.

It is confidently expected that one of the very largest attendances ever known at Emerson Park will be recorded there during the Fiesta. Every night is a special event night of some sort and special letters of invitation have been sent out generously to all the various fraternal organizations that are represented here with local lodges. Wednesday evening of next week should particularly bring out a record breaking crowd. This is Moose and Lady Legion night and visiting delegations are quite reasonably certain from the lodges of neighboring cities and towns.

As is to be expected, there is strongly in evidence a greatly increased interest in the "Queen of the Fiesta" voting contest which has been staged to determine the identity of just who is the most popular lady in Peabody. The winner of this interesting balloting event is to receive the distinguished title of "Miss Peabody" for a period of one year from the date of her election, and that honor is well worth hustling for, to say nothing of the beautiful solitaire cluster diamond ring which is offered as first prize. The latter, together with the solid gold lady's wrist watch and the diamond studded barpin third prize, are now on public display in the store windows of Parke Snow, Inc., where they are naturally attracting much public attention and admiration.

The "queen" race is on in earnest, with a present total of ten candidates. Here is the line-up: Mrs. Veta M. Brown of Chestnut street extension, Miss Alice Smith of Washington street, Miss Elizabeth Shea of Washington street, Miss Ruth Batchelder of Clement avenue, Miss Ella Emerson of Lowell street, Miss Blanche Levasseur, 16 Northend street; Miss Barbara Johansen, 2 Waters street; Miss Mae Jermyn, 112 Lynn street; Miss Lillian Boyarski, 8 Sanborn street.

The special contest committee has made an enterprising move by arranging with several of the most progressive of Peabody's merchants to give away "queen" voting coupons to cash customers. A special window card tells the public the exact location of these stores, as also does the display advertisement of the Fiesta in today's issue of the Enterprise.

For the information of those interested in the "queen contest," this competitive event is to be brought to a conclusion on Friday night of next week and then on Saturday, the closing night of the celebration, is to be observed the presentation of the prizes and the official coronation ceremony with the formal crowning of the "queen."

LACES PREDICTED FOR FALL

Embellishment Promises to Be Fashionable for Use on Blouses as Cool Days Come.

The blouses now found in the show rooms of the smarter shops are principally made of georgette, with the exception of some types of mignonette. The belief is expressed, however, that laces of many sorts will be fashionable for blouses in the fall.

Some newer models of the sport suits are exceptionally attractive. The combining of homespuns in overplaid with duvetyn is particularly effective in a suit where the plaited skirt is developed in homespun of a brilliant shade of red, with an overplaid in black and white. A silk duvetyn coat is faced with the homespun of the skirt. The same model is made of Harding blue plaid homespun, combined with black duvetyn. While box coats are shown, they are invariably accompanied by narrow buckle or tie belts. Sport topcoats are entirely mannish as to cut and are shown in long and three-quarter models.

Keefe School Well Protected Against Fire

The changes made this week in the ventilating system to meet the requirements of the state police consisted of the removal of every other blade from the louvre on the vent from the hall of the school and also from the boiler room and basement. The removal of the blades increase the size of the air inlet. And the openings in the basement have been provided with shelter to protect radiation in extreme cold weather.

Pending the final approval of the school by the state police and its acceptance by the city, payment of 15 per cent. of the total cost of the school building will be held back from the contractor, according to the terms of the contract.

Protection against fire afforded pupils at the new Daniel F. Keefe school in Ward 2, through the automatic equipment that ha sbeen installed in that school under the personal supervision of City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, is as nearly perfect as mechanical equipment will permit.

On either side of the large hall of the school there are two manually operated combination auxiliary and local fire alarm signalling station, each having a substantial iron case, provided with a door mounted on brass hinges and provided with suitable lettering to clearly instruct the person who desires to give a signal.

These boxes are pulled in the event of fire by breaking the glass, which automatically sends a pre-determined code signal throughout the building on the large tapper bells, and at the same time registers a box number on a device in the principal's office, where it can readily be seen by the firemen when they enter the building in search for the fire.

At the same time the street box number 212 is automatically pulled from the inside of the building at that point and the fire department summoned without the person giving the alarm having to run one or more blocks to the nearest street fire alarm box.

At the same time the many doors on all sides of the building afford ready exits for the 200 children direct from the class rooms to the outdoors.

PEABODY FIREMEN

Firemen stationed on Engine 1 and Engine 5, connected with both shifts, participated in a test of the two engines which took place at the pumping station this week. As neither of the engines had been used for several weeks, it afforded an oportunity to give them a thorough tryout, which lasted two hours and a half. The purpose of the tryout was to acquaint the relief men with the working of the engines, while the regular engineers are on vacation.

—*—

While it may not be generally known, it is a fact, that the firemen during their hours of duty are frequently called upon to perform many odd and interesting kinds of service, besides fighting fires. One duty of the firemen which is not at all uncommon is that of rescuing cats from high trees.

—*—

In Peabody there have been about 10 such rescues by the firemen during the present year and one pet feline on Andover street has the distinction of having been rescued four times. This particular cat has a habit of climbing out on the very outside edge of the branches where it is impossible for any man to reach her, so while the firemen hold a lifenet, one of their number climb the tree and shake the cat into the net.

What happened to that movement started a few weeks ago to have the police ambulance respond to all alarms of fire? It is to be hoped that it is still in the works and that eventually it will be brought about. Frequently the department responds to alarms where the ambulance is needed because of someone having been burned, or a fireman is injured. The practice of sending the police ambulance in answer to all alarms of fire is adhered to in many cities, and many instances can be cited where lives have been saved as a result. In some of the larger cities a pulmotor is also carried on the ambulance.

Chet Carlin, war veteran, stationed at fire headquarters, is one man in the department who is not superstitious. At any rate he does not fight shy of the number 13. Chet was born on the 13th day of the month, took his examination for the fire department on the 13th, and entered the navy on the 13th. And, perhaps if cupid works in harmony with the fates, Chet may venture out upon the sea of matrimony with a 13. Anyway, he's eligible and not altogether unlucky.

—*—

It seems only fair to the drivers attached to the pieces of fire apparatus in Peabody that the city authorities should take some steps to protect these men from liability in case of accident, by taking out some form of liability insurance. Under the present law drivers of fire apparatus are held liable for any accidents or deaths that may result while they are operating fire kit in response to an alarm of fire. Accidents will happen and while Peabody has been very fortunate in this regard, it must be realized that the old town is now a city, and city methods should be adopted. Several instances can be cited in other cities, where the private property of firemen has been attached and tied up for many months as a result of such accidents, which usually are unavoidable.

—*—

James Carr, driver of Engine 1, and Allie Larrabee, driver of Engine 5, are on their vacations this week. Cornelius Duggan is filling on Engine 1 and Chet Carlin on 5.

—*—

Acting Capt. Dan. Hannon returned to his duties at the Central fire station on Tuesday after a motor trip into Canada with his family.

—*—

George Emerson of Chemical 4 has returned from his vacation which was spent in Haverhill.

SEASONABLE NOTES

Divide and replant rhubarb clumps this month to insure a good vigorous crop for next spring.

Fall web worms are very abundant now. They should be controlled by hand stripping or local spraying. Besides the unsightly web, remember that their work may reduce yield for next year.

During the coming six weeks many hardy borders can well be thinned, planted and re-planted. The various garden irises can be profitably moved at this time.

It often pays the fruit grower to remember practice succession picking with early varieties of apples. Removal of the highest color and more mature fruit allows the remaining fruit to increase in size, color, quality and yield.

LEATHER NOTES

But the fact remains that with 6,000,000 men loafing, economic conditions are far from normal. My belief is that business will not for years to come need the big plants now under operation. Some of these plants will go by the board and to my way of thinking it is for the best. The farmers can take care of many of the millions loafing, when these men come to thinking they can lower themselves as they imagine, to work on the farm. The greatest danger facing us today is just this fact, that the farms should produce more and only by the big army of unemployed taking kindly to this work will conditions improve.

Everything tends toward better farm conditions. In the leather industry the capacity of the leather factories is such that a production of 100 per cent. would give at least 40 per cent. over production unelss this per cent. over production unless this eign countries. We all know that Europe today cannot do business here for the price is not forthcoming. It is gradually growing better. Belgium has come back wonderfully since the war. It appears that this small country could come back quicker than France, for there is less to come back. So down the line. The bigger nations have the largest load, therefore more time is necessary.

I have been tackling some pretty big questions for my size. I do not suppose I have settled any of them, and I do not know as my logic appeals to my readers. But those of you who know little or nothing about the newspaper game, can realize that if a reporter can get by the managing editor with his bunk, he gets his money, which is the principal thing. But the big point I will make counting the rest a failure, is, that success in leather making today lies in the ability to make the best leather. It will crowd out the other fellows until they wake up to the fact their leather is not what it should be and strive to better it. But do not lose sight of the fact that the fellow who is on top today means to stay there, and that his brain is continually working to keep his product at the head of the procession. I agree there is no bunk to these statements. Do you?

LEATHER MARKET LEAD

Sole leather demand has improved somewhat. While heavy and medium weight leather is the more wanted, some quarters report light weight leather moving in a better way. Offal is moderately active. Volume of business booked not quite up to several week ago. Calfskin demand continues good. Scotch grains, boarded finishes and smooth leathers are moving in a satisfactory way. Side leather trading has improved but is not as active as calf leather. Patent leather demand improved. Peabody and Woburn tanners are operating plants on a larger scale. Sheepskin buyers are looking for lower prices. Trimming cutters have been purchasing low grade, dull blacks at near their figure. More inquiries for chrome sheep at a price. Glazed kid continues popular with the shoe manufacturing trade. Better grades are sold up and prices are holding steady. Philadelphia tanners find the call for heavy sole and findings leather in excess of supply. Extra light rough double shoulders are bringing 40c. in Philadelphia.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

'BIKES' MUST BE LIGHTED AS AUTOS

Owners of bicycles and horse drawn vehicles are notified by Chief of Police Grady according to the latest rulings of Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, all such vehicles must be equipped with lights, visible from both front and rear, for operation on the public highways after dark. This law went into effect Aug. 8, and failure to comply with the regulations lays such owners liable to arrest in this city.

Elections this fall will be few. No vote for state offices, some few county offices, and only ward councillors in the city and a few odds and ends. Pretty quiet.

Says the dealer— "Less carbon"

"SOME motorists have a lot of trouble with carbon. Believe me, there would be less knocking on hills, fewer scratched cylinder walls, and less spark plug fouling, if everybody would use Socony Gasoline.

"It has taken nearly two generations of refiners to produce Socony, but when you have it in your tank, you know you are right.

"It's all clean power, no waste, full mileage, quick starting. Always pure. Always uniform."

QUINN-MULLEN

A wedding of more than local interest was solemnized at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at St. John's church, when in the presence of a large number of friends, Miss M. Alice Mullen of this city was united in marriage to Harold T. Quinn of Salem and Worcester, by Rev. Charles D. McInnis. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengren's wedding march played by Miss Mary P. Clifford.

Little Elieen O'Brien, the flower girl, was daintily dressed in white net over pink taffeta and carried a basket of sweet peas and pink shores. The bride was becomingly attired in white Canton crepe with overdrapery of chantilly lace. Here tulle veil was caught coronet fashion with lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Bessie Mullen who wore a dress of pale pink georgette and black lace hat. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses. The best man was James T. Wentzell of Salem.

The groom's gift to his bride was a crescent of pearls and to his best man a ribbon watch chain. The bridesmaid received a set of arm bangles.

The reception which was held at the home of the bride's aunts, Misses Elizabeth and Amelia McCarthy, 9 Ayer street, was attended by about 100 guests including friends from Boston, Athol, East Douglas, Worcester, Salem and Providence. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, hydrangeas and garden flowers, and music was furnished throughout the evening by Higgin's orchestra. The gift room, where a veritable shower of beautiful things were on display, was in charge of Miss Marion McBride The bride who has been employed as stenographer at the B. E. Cox Leather Co. received an entire set of cut glass serving glasses from her employers and a mahogany chime clock from the employees. The groom who is an optimetrist with Andrew J. Lloyd of Salem, received a purse of gold from his associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn have gone on a two week's trip to Atlantic City and on their return will reside at 9 Ayer street, where they will be at home to friends after October 1st.

POULTRY FIELD DAY

Interesting program planned at Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorn, Mass.

A full program is planned for the First Essex County Field Day to be held on the lawn of the Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorne, Mass., Saturday afternoon, August 27th at 2:15 p. m. This meeting offers an exceptional opportunity for poultry raisers to visit the Egg Laying Contest and the School Poultry Plant, to talk their problems over with other poultry raisers, and to ask questions of the different specialists present.

Program

2:15 P. M.—"The School as a Factor in the Poultry Industry in Essex County," by Fred A. Smith, director Essex County Agricultural School.

2:30 P. M.—"Using Pullets for Breeders," by A. W. Richardson, New Hampshire State College.

3:30 P. M.—"Culling: A Factor in Breeding," by W. C. Monahan, Massachusetts Agricultural College.

4:15 P. M.—"First Essex County Home Egg Laying Contest," by John S. Carver, Poultry Specialist and Instructor, Essex County Agricultural School.

The Essex County Agricultural School opens under auspicious conditions on September 6th. The staff is without broken ranks, and there is every prospect of a large entering class.

The school grounds are in excellent shape at present, due to the constant attention of Herman Herrick, a member of the class of 1921.

The field of fodder corn, directly below the dairy barn, is receiving the favorable comments from visitors to the farm.

Seasonal Notes

Now is the time to bud seedling trees. This applies to all the common fruit trees.

Two revised bulletins from the State Department of Agriculture have come to our notice which will be of interest to farmers; i. e. Orcharding Series No. 2, and Small Fruits and Berries, Bulletin No. 4.

The cultivated orchard, if on a side hill, should now be sown to rye and vetch or some other winter cover crop to prevent soil erosion and to provide green manue for plowing under in the spring.

BE A BOOSTER

Anita Stewart At Strand Monday In Her Latest National Film

The novel situation of a brilliant young physician losing his identity and joining an illiterate community in the Blue Ridge mountains has been made into a photoplay and will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday. It is called "The Blazing Trail," and Frank Mayo is the star. It is a picture that gives the star a great opportunity to inject punch drama into snappy romance. As the story opens Mayo is seen as Dr. Bradley Yates, a young physician who has spurred his brain over the border of amnesia. He has been working too hard on a specific for blood poisoning and is found wandering in a daze about the city. At the suggestion of a fellow physician he goes to the most illiterate community in the Blue Ridge mountains where he cannot be distracted by the scientific problems which have driven his mind to exhaustion.

In the mountains he finds a problem of another kind which gives his mind greater action than ever before, yet leaves him the strong and vigorous young fellow he was before the laboratory sapped his strength and upset his poise. In the joy of protecting some one weaker than himself is a genuine surprise, one that will linger long in the memory of all who see it. Lillian Rich, Ray Ripley and Mary Philbin head the supporting cast. Miss Philbin is to be starred by the Universal company next year. Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders" and "Sunless Sunday," a screamingly funny Mremaid comedy round out the program for today and Saturday.

Milton Sills, a fine actor and general favorite, will appear Sunday evening in Cosmo Hamilton's novel "The Week End." Marguerita Fisher co-stars, with Mr. Sills in this production. Mary Anderson in "Bubbles" will be the second feature on the bill for Sunday evening.

Anita Stewart in her latest special attraction "Sowing the Wind" will be the big attraction the Strand will offer for Monday and Tuesday. Critics declare this to be Miss Stewart's best effort in interpreting the silent art, of which she has long been recognized as one of the most popular exponents In "Sowing the Wind" an unusual story is unfolded—it concerns an innocent convent girl who goes out into the world only to discover that her mother is the keeper of a notorious gambling house. Her struggles to get away from the possibility of emulating her mother, her subsequent meeting with the man she loves and finally the locating of her father combine to make a story of rare charm and understanding. A cast of unusual importance supports Miss Stewart. James Morrison, Mrytle Stedman, Ralph Lewis and William Vong are especially worthy of commendation for their finished performances in the meritorious picture. As the picture is nine reels in length it will be impossible to show any other picture except the News Weekly with it.

Tom Moore in "Hold Your Horses," with titles by Rupert Hughes and Billie Burke in "The Frisky Mrs Johnson" will be the double bill for next Wednesday and Thursday.

BALL GAME

The Peabody Y. M. H. A. will play the Father Mathews, Sunday, Aug. 28th, at 3 P. M.

The Y. M. H. A. promises to surprise the Father Mats, as Manager Paitchel has secured some new players. The Father Mats will have their strongest line-up, including Eddie O'Connor, Hubby Lawrence and other stars.

Chance for a Debate.

PLAYGROUND KIDDIES PARADE--- GIVE ENTERTAINMENT WITH SPORTS

The annual parade and exhibition of the playground children Thursday afternoon was easily the best that the city has witnessed since the institution of the same some 10 years ago. The weather was ideal for the occasion and a large crowd turned out to see the children in brilliant costume in the parade and on the exhibition field at Emerson Park.

The parade was unusually large and prettily costumed, led by a detail of police and Spence's eighteen-piece band, followed by Mayor William A. Shea, Henry A. King, William T. Coyle and George F. Gill of the playground commission.

The first section was made up of the physical training girls, dressed in white middies and dark blue bloomers, in charge of Assistant Supervisor Miss Alice L. Woodman, who gave a drill at the Park. Next came the float beautifully decorated with pink and white bunting, bearing a large placard with words "PLAYGROUND HANDICRAFT," under which were seated several young misses dressed in white, who have exhibited wonderful skill in sewing and basket work on the playgrounds.

The second section consisted of the girls from the Bleachery playground, costumed in bright yellow capes and bonnets, attracting much favorable comment.

The third section saw little girls pushing doll carriages, decorated as well as the owners in fantastic design. This section in charge of Miss Ella Reed was a novel feature in the parade.

The fourth section of the parade consisted of the West Peabody boys and girls, the girls dressed in white with red sashes and red headgear.

The fifth section of the parade was made up of Miss Helen McElroy's charges, the girls dressed in white wearing red capes and bonnets, made a very attractive section.

The seventh and last section consisted of the boys and girls from the Samuel Brown playground, dressed in a Red Riding Hood costume, followed by the boys carrying flags. Miss Cecilia Lynch was in charge.

Henry A. King, acting as chairman of the occasion, introduced Mayor William A. Shea as the speaker for the day. The Mayor told of the great value of playgrounds to a city and praised the work of the playground commission, instructors and children.

The physical training exhibition in charge of Miss Woodman and the Irish Jig by Mary and Agnes Callan were the two outstanding features of the program. Although this is the first season that physical training work has been carried at the playgrounds, the girls went through their exercises like veterans. Mary and Agnes Callan were called back for an encore, for their clever footwork made a decided hit with the audience.

The Program

Physical Training Exhibition, class of 40 girls, all playgrounds. Solo Dance by Victoria Tersolo of the East End. Swedish Dance, girls from the Wallis school. Dutch Dance, Emerson Park girls. Acrobats, Anna Ducette and Victoria Tersolo. Russian Peasant Dance, East End girls, Elenor Wilson, Elli Jokinen. May Pole Dance, South Peabody girls. Doll Carriage Parade, all playgrounds. City Council

Ordinance increasing the pay of Dr. Varney, city physician, and Elmer Brown, chauffeur of the street sweeper, were passed and both will probably be vetoed by the Mayor.

Harry Merken, a property owner at 6 Sanborn street, told the Council last night that he had paid $20 to a Peabody attorney who had promised to get Sanborn street accepted and laid out by the city as it should be. He named the attorney, adding that three other men had given $5 to make up the $20. They paid the money a year ago. Several residents of the street were at the Council meeting. The matter will be brought to the attention of the street committee for a report at the next meeting.

Atty. Michael J. Sherry informed the Enterprise today that his law office was paid $15 by Harry Merken for services in getting up a petition to be laid before the Council for the acceptance of Sanborn street, which was done a year ago.

Military Aid Commissioner Andrew Fyfe was not called before the City Council last night to explain anything about his office. The Enterprise did not expect to see him called. He is ready and eager to be heard before the Council, but it doesn't look as if he "would be let."

Frank Chinery, war veteran, filed a claim for the difference in his soldier-sailor's pay, and that he would have been drawing from the city. His claim was for $809.72. It was referred to the claims committee. Mary A. Eager filed a suit for $10,000 for the death of her husband Harry, who was killed by a fire truck some months ago.

tion which I found on investigation of a complaint made from No. 53 Harris street, this city.

There is a family of husband, wife and three children living at this address, and they have been without water for three days, the cause being the need of a new supply pipe from the city water main.

There is illness in the family at the present time and with this condition existing, it is imperative that the pipe be fixed at once.

I wish to enlist your aid, that you may request the water department to attend to this matter at once.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES J. RAY,
Agent.

Office of the Mayor,
City Hall,
Peabody, Mass., Aug. 23, 1921.

Frank Emerson,
City Engineer,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I have been informed by the agent of the Board of Health of this city that the tenants of the house at No. 53 Harris street are without water and that illness exists in one family at the present time.

I appreciate the fact that, owing to the action of the City Council in cutting from your budget the appropriation you asked for in anticipation of such contingencies, that you are without power to eliminate this deplorable situation, by the installation of a new supply pipe from the city water main, which I understand is needed to correct this trouble.

In view of the fact that this installation is imperative, I would suggest that you make the necessary expenditure and if it cannot be paid for by your department, I will take care of it out of the contingent fund.

Very truly yours,
WILLIAM A. SHEA,
Mayor.

How It Started

THE REAPING MACHINE.

ALTHOUGH we are accustomed to regard reaping by machinery as a modern art, there are records that in Pliny's time the Gauls used a crude comb-shaped affair of knives to strip the heads from the standing grain. The first real patent on a reaping machine was granted to John Boyce of England in 1799. Richard French and J. J. Hawkins received the first American patent rights in 1803. But it remained for McCormick, in 1831, to make and demonstrate the first practical reaping machine.

(Copyright.)

United States Holds Patent Record.

A larger number of patents are granted in the United States each year than in any other country.

Isle Royale in Lake Superior.

Isle Royale is the largest of a group of small islands in Lake Superior. They formerly constituted a county, but now form a part of Houghton county, Michigan. Isle Rayale, known principally as a summer resort, is about forty-five miles long and nine miles wide. The island is about eight hours' ride by steamer from Duluth, Minn., but is nearer to Port Arthur, Ont.

BUSINESS MEN SPEAKERS

A story is going the round of the Massachuestts newspapers to the effect that business men are forming classes in which to study the art of public speaking. The impelling force behind this movement is the necessity for a better understanding of business affairs by the people, especially in connection with state and national legislation. During many years business has been inarticulate while politicians and the so-called learned professions have had access to the public ear.

It is becoming better understood that business men must get closer to the people so that they will not continue to be misunderstood. The best brains and ability have during many years been tempted to enter business pursuits because of the large rewards offered to those who succeed in commercial occupations.

The industrial organizations have already done much towards developing the art of public speaking. In practically all mercantile lines there are men who can think on their feet and speak extemporaneously in a convincing and effective manner. The man who thoroughly understands the subject he attempts to talk about should have little to fear. About all he needs to learn is what may be termed the technique of public speaking. He must acquire the art of distinct enunciation, something about gestures and above all to marshal his facts in orderly and logical sequence.

If manufacturers and merchants were to speak for themselves instead of hiding behind lawyers who frequently are unfamiliar with the subject under consideration a much better impression would be made when business concerns are under discussion before legislative committees. In our own craft of shoes and leather there are many men of good forensic ability who have time and again demonstrated their great value to the trade.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Goggin Bares Plot To Get Soldier's Aid

City Auditor William F. Goggin was responsible for the cutting off of $45 graft from the soldiers' aid payroll last week which a city employee tried to collect from the city in addition to $169.39 salary from the City Engineer's department. The man, a regular army service man, who enlisted in 1900 while war was being waged in the Philippines, had asked for aid on the ground that he was unemployed. He has several children.

He was employed on the night gang work cleaning the sewer and received his four weeks pay during the month of August up to last Saturday night.

Gourley Boy Shoots Self

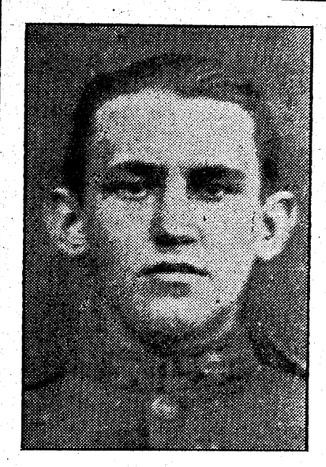
Arthur Gourley, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gourley of Milk street, is at the hospital hovering between life and death as a result of a self-inflicted wound by a bullet which punctured his lung and came out his back. The shooting accident occurred yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the A. C. Lawrence Co. garage on Crowninshield street, where the youth was with his uncle, Gordon Gourley, one of the chauffeurs. The gun belonged to Chauffeur Frank Moore who is licensed to carry a weapon.

Unbeknown to any of the garage employes young Gourley got hold of the gun which he found on Moore's truck and turned it on himself and pulled the trigger. The gun was loaded and the shot brought the employes to the lad who was unconscious. He was rushed to the hospital where Drs. Pomeroy and Foster operated to save his life. He is in a precarious condition.

The boy's parents left the city yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., for a visit over the holiday. They were notified and arrived home today. The boy attended the Wallis school. There are two other children.

PATRICK LYNCH

May Remove Lynn Cars To Washington St.



Mayor Shea and City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham, accompanied by the editor of the Enterprise, conferred with the trustees of the Mass. Eastern Street Railway company in Boston Wednesday, when the Mayor took up the matter of restoring the Lynn electrics to Washington street.

Chairman Homer Loring of the board promised to make an inspection of the rails on Washington street from the Bleachery to Main street, and following the report of Supt. McCormick of the Salem division, intimated that the trustees might favor removing the cars from Foster street.

It is understood that the condition of the rails on Washington street may be found capable of doing service for the next few months before new rails and ties are laid. With a little outlay it may be possible for the change of the cars to be made in the near future.

The attitude of the trustees was plainly to heed the popular demand

City Hall Notes

Have you received your tax bill? That jump of $7.10 a thousand makes the bill compare with the ice man's. But just remember, we are lower than Lynn, Salem, Danvers and Marblehead, not to mention the other cities of the commonwealth. Only rigid economy, which means everyone connected with the city government must share, will reduce the tax rate to conditions before the war. It must come.

We note Chief Grady with his assistants are gathering evidence against fast riders on the Newburyport turnpike. The presence of a motor cycle policeman there would stop further reckless driving. The cost of having one there would save money over the present way. That is no extravagance.

We note more are embarking in the candy business outside, and jakey within, business. It just seems the more the government tries to stop the selling of liquor, the more try to break the law. Human nature.

—*—

So the police keep raiding and convicting the guilty ones, but they keep on selling. What a dry time some people must have.

—*—

Inspector Pierce finds time to try out the marsh birds, and Salisbury beach has the call of the marshes for this sport. Out-door life keeps Dive in the pink of condition.

—*—

Had Sawyer, sealer of weights and measures, came out this week in a new Ford. The old one had served its three score and ten, therefore its demise.

—*—

Assistant Janitor Duggan returned to his duties this week after two weeks' vacation. As usual, he is on the job strong.

—*—

Warren D. King attends the convention of electricians next week. Miss Louise King will handle matters in the office, which means all is well.

—*—

We note that Salem officials with their lawyers are looking over the catch basins in the tanneries and the Salem Evening will do the rest. Propaganda appears to be the up-to-date way to help the cause, but oftentimes it reacts in favor of the opposition. We repeat there is another side to the controversy which will be heard later and newspaprs will have little to do with the result.

—*—

It is whispered that Superintendent King has a new car, but there is some doubt where the money is coming from to pay for it. If we remember rightly, the electric department are allowed to do things under a special law, and this may be the loophole. But Mr. King must have a car in his business, and his old one could not be classed over 25 per cent. efficient.

—*—

Because the Mayor is meeting with opposition by politicians who are looking for something in the future, every possible stone is placed in his way, which of course hurts the city more than any one else. There have been cases where the public stood up on their hind legs and elected men of different calibre. What a pity it can not take place soon.

—*—

The plain talk of Chief Justice Taft and others in Cincinnati this week at the way things are tending in our country will no doubt sink in and when this era is over, sober judgment will change matters. Peabody is far from being alone in this matter.

—*—

Massachusetts has an unfair law as to the taxing of automobiles. April first is the day of record as to ownership of personal property. We might add April first and before. One who owns a machine after this date need not pay a tax for that year. In New Hampshire in order to get a license for the machine, a receipted tax bill must be produced, or there is nothing doing. One-half of the owners of machines in Massachusetts do not pay taxes on them. Pretty tough on those who do we say.

—*—

We note Elmer J. Foley, our city treasurer, is out from his recent illness. He is to take a short trip to New Hampshire before returning to work.

—*—

Ward Two schoolhouse is completed and cost some $50,000 more than the inspector of building's figures. At this rate what will the addition on the high school cost? Perhaps algebra will be better than arithmetic in this case, or both.

—*—

Is the driver of the street cleaner worth more money than others in the same line? How do we get that way? If it is reckoned by the room he takes, we quit. Again, politics, and not judgment, had the call. We have one councillor who can say no to most of the raises.

—*—

Councillor Joseph A. Ryan and family motored to Plymouth last Tuesday where they were the guests of the former's brother, Thomas A. Ryan, leading druggist of the Pilgrim town.

Legion Boys Back Up Fyfe

Resenting veiled charges and insinuations that have been directed against Andrew J. Fyfe, Commissioner of State Aid, members of the Peabody Post 23, American Legion, rallied to the support of their brother member in a meeting held this week. The meeting was one of the most heated sessions in the history of the local body.

Several members took the floor and launched vicious attacks upon one city official in connection with the published insinuations against Mr. Fyfe. Two members are said to have openly challenged the city official, but the latter maintained silence.

The situation existing in the office of the State Aid Commissioner was thoroughly aired and feeling as expressed by the members was that the attack on Mr. Fyfe is entirely uncalled for.

The meeting had one result most gratifying to the large circle of friends and supporters of Mr. Fyfe, and that was the very unanimous manner in which the Legion membership rallied to his support when the matter became an issue.

At the request of Mr. Fyfe, the Legion voted unanimously to have the local adjutant communicate with Commissioner of State Aid Richard R. Flynn, requesting that that official investigate very thoroughly the office of Mr. Fyfe.

Joseph Foley, a former resident of this city, was a recent visitor in town.

J. J. Sullivan has returned to the west, after a pleasant vacation with relatives and friends. It has been 15 years since his sister, Mrs. Nellie Cassidy, and six brothers have met. Their brother Andrew is ill in the hospital.

Edw. E. Spence Mail Carrier For 17 Years

EDWARD E. SPENCE,
Popular Letter Carrier

Edward E. Spence, the letter carrier and band leader, joined forces with Uncle Sam on March 1, 1904, as a substitute letter carrier, taking the examinations while he was employed in the shipping department of the Waters River plant. Spence remembers when the A. C. L. plants were somewhat smaller than today. The growth of the postoffice in Peabody was so slow for a number of years that Spence was kept waiting 84 months for a regular berth and might not have landed then had not William Beckett, the first named carrier, resigned his billet to take effect Nov. 1, 1911.

The South Peabody citizen was first assigned to the "mounted route," which meant that he and Old Dobbin were destined to become allies. He had the parcel post wagon and later was given the Eastend route where he is now daily making his rounds.

"Ed" is a musician, being rated as a talented violinist and as a band leader he is known throughout the county. He has always had a penchant for music and his vocal ability is known to several churches. He started with St. Paul's choir, went to the Lafayette street M. E. church, Salem, and for the last several years has been choir leader at the South Peabody church. He is to teach a number of beginners among the alien population this fall. He organized a band at the Community house last spring that may result in some of the players rivaling Sousa. Spence is a highly successful teacher of music. He is courteous and has made legion of friends by his service to Uncle Sam in this city. He was born March 10 1883 is married and has two children, Helen aged six and Wesley aged two. The family reside at 30 County street. He is a member of the Odd Fellows and Beavers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Felt motored to Kennebunk, Me. over the week-end. Mrs. Lizzie Felt, who accompanied them, remained there to visit her brother, Fred Lewis.

By the number of children who made regular appearance at the playground the instructors were encouraged. A better season is looked forward to next summer. That they were interested in the West Peabody playground was readily told by the number that turned out on exhibition day.

A dancing party will be held in the West Peabody school hall next Wednesday evening. Potter's orchestra will furnish the music.

McEWEN—HAYES

A quiet but pretty home wedding took place last evening when Miss Luella May Hayes, daughter of Gideon F. Hayes of 17 Osborn street, was united in marriage to Cameron M. McEwen, junior member of the firm of Reid & McEwen. Rev. I. F. Lusk, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the double ring ceremony, and Lohengren's wedding march was played by Mrs. Walter H. Beckett, sister of the bride. The couple were unattended.

The bride's wedding gown was of midnight blue charmeuse and her traveling suit of beaver brown broadcloth with panne velvet hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. McEwen have gone on a trip that will take them to Albany, New York, via the Hudson River and on their return will reside at 17 Osborn street. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

P. H. S. GRIDIRON PLAYERS WILL SEEK CHAMPIONSHIP

Peabody high will have this season one of the strongest football aggregations that have ever entered the field from that school, in the opinion of Faculty Manager Henry A. King. Under Coach Marty Donovan the Peabody boys at the high school gave a good account of themselves in both football and baseball last year.

Both Faculty Manager King and Coach Donovan have expressed themselves as very optimistic as to the laurels that are in store for the local team this season, and after a series of wins that took Peabody up to a second place last year, they are not backward in predicting a league championship for Peabody this year.

There will be but four new players on the 1921 eleven, so that Peabody will have the advantage of a line-up that has been very efficiently trained for the 10 games that have been outlined for the coming season.

It is stated that Coach Donovan may send out the call for football candidates almost any day, and from these the best timber will be selected to fill the four vacancies due to the graduations last year. The substitutes will also be selected from among the large group of candidates who are expected to answer the call.

Due to the fact that the high school sessions will not open until Monday, Sept. 12, and the first games in the North Shore League schedule are listed for Oct. 1, unless the football practice season is started before Sept. 12, but very little time will remain for practice and training work.

Two holiday games will be played in Peabody during the football season. On Columbus Day, Oct. 12, Beverly high will meet the local aggregation at Emerson Park, and Chelsea high will come to Peabody Thanksgiving day.

The one outstanding game of the season will be that scheduled to be played with Salem high, Saturday, Nov. 5, at Salem. The contracts for this game have already been signed and Peabody is to receive a purse of $500, which is guaranteed, rain or shine.

Coach Donovan will start on his second season in Peabody with the opening of the football season. Peabody will play nine games in the North Shore League schedule, and while this schedule has already been drawn up, it will be revised in several instances, to satisfy outside teams. The Salem game will be a separate contest, apart from the North Shore League schedule, making a total of 10 games.

With the following high school boys listed for places on the team, Peabody will boast of one of the heaviest elevens in the league: Bandy Donohue, who weighs about 212; Arthur Gavigan, Mansfield Munroe, who will play in the back field, where he distinguished himself last season; Bill Crean, end; Frank Hennessey, the star center; John Connelly, who was a substitute last year, will probably tackle; George Lawrence will play in the back field; Morris Harris, quarterack. Ralph Holden has already been elected captain of the eleven and will play a line position.

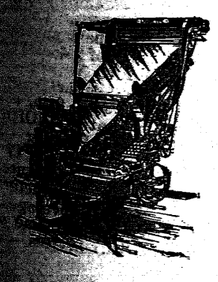
Eglee Works For Shop Spirit

The Peabody Enterprise has published two articles entitled "Little Talks Among Ourselves," the first of which was called "Co-operation," the second "Justice." Today the third article appears under the caption "Service."

CHARLES H. EGLEE

These "Little Talks" are sponsored by the Peabody Chamber of Commerce and are written by Charles H. Eglee, who has been retained as Industrial Counsellor by the Massachusetts Leather Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Eglee is an engineer by profession, having been engaged for years in building irrigation dams and water power installations, often employing over 5000 men, usually in remote localities in the west. He began his work as a day laborer in water works construction in 1879, and passed through the positions of foreman, superintendent, partner and owner of his business. He was thirty years of age and with a family growing up around him before he began studying engineering.



He is a member of several engineering societies. He was an advisory member on the staff of the National Industrial Conference Board; has made a number of research studies in various industries; was part owner in a small shipyard during the war, constructing tug boats for the U. S. government, and is now using his experience in endeavoring to harmonize the relations of employer and employe in Peabody and other near-by ities and towns.

He bases his endeavor entirely upon the principles of "A Square Deal" between man and man; "Co-operation" or getting together and working together; and "Service" to the public in order to increase the volume of business. In other cities he has obtained very satisfactory results both to workers and manufacturers. His article this week appears on Page Six.

Looked Too Youthful to Him.

After typhoid fever auntie had to have her hair cut off. One day a little friend came to see her. The child seemed interested in auntie's bobbed head and said: "My, but you've got awful young hair for an auntie."

MRS. MARGARET DONOVAN

The death of Mrs. Margaret M. Donovan, wife of Daniel F. Donovan of this city, which occurred last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at her home on Franklin street, was a sad blow to her family and the wide circle of friends by whom she was held in the highest esteem. She was an ideal mother and a true friend. A staunch Catholic, she was a devout attendant at St. John's church, a member of the Married Ladies' Sodality and of St. Theresa's Court of Foresters. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin of Lynn and Miss Ella V. Donovan of this city, a deputy collector in the office of internal revenue, Boston; a brother, John Cannon of New Jersey, and five grandchildren.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at St. Johns church on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. T. P. McGinn, assisted by Rev. Fr. Shaughnessy as deacon and Rev. Fr. Dixon of Salem as sub-deacon. The spiritual bouquets and floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, where Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy read the committal service.

Louis Birmingham has been named manager of the Co-operative store on Tremont street.

Versatility In Leather Making, Road To Success

(By ENERGY)

All one hears today is that business is slow. Sometimes I think many people are bound to have it so, and continue to do their part toward that end. We of Peabody can only judge business as we see it here. Traveling men may be excepted, but many of us seldom leave this burg long enough to get in touch with outside conditions. We scan the newspapers and they tell us time and again the Republican congress is not doing things that will bring us out of the long spell of depression. Allowing this to be true, if they do not change their tactics we are doomed to have poor business for at least two years, or until a new congress comes in.

I will say right here better business is coming down stretch and before the snow flies it will have arrived. I do not want to hear more of the dullness in the leather trade. I could name at least a dozen factories in Peabody today who are working to capacity. It may be the owners of this stock are gambling on the future, but from what I can glean this stock is selling. It might be wrong to publish the names of the busy ones, but it does not matter, for other tanners know who they are and the public doesn't care a rap.

I know of one concern who have purchased more pickled sheepskins than ever before in their existence. I know of one sheepskin plant whose best average previous to this year was an average of 268 dozen skins daily. They are today turning out 380 dozen daily, and everything points to a continuance. Is this a sign of depression or a forerunner of what is to come shortly? I have no patience with some tanners who sit back and wait for business. There are many of this kind here in our midst. I am aware that perhaps their kind of stock is out of the market just at the present time, but a tanner who cannot make but one line had better take what money he has and either go out of the business or quit kidding himself his line will come some day.

That is what happened to the old brogan tanners in the 80's. They kept telling themselves brogan leather will come back and what they should have said was it had gone back, and the thousands which were sunk could have been saved.

Any man or concern who get fixed on any line is gone. It grows on him like a mushroom, and he wonders why the other fellow is making good. So while those lines of leather which are not popular has placed some tanners in the doldrums, let these fellows consider they can make other leather and go to it. Versatility must be a factor in tanning as in other lines to make winners.

Henry Ford has brought something in the powder line which he proposes to make into imitation leather for those Lizzies he manufactures. This is not a new idea, for the Duponts have made this imitation many years ago. But the fact he has purchased such a large amount of this material

START NOW

A year ago this time several people tried the experiment of laying aside a couple of dollars or so a week toward their next year's vacation. These same people are now enjoying a week or two in the mountains, at the seashore, or in the country, and are resolving to repeat the experiment this year. Those of us who planned to meet our vacation expense in the regular way have found it more difficult than usual this year, and the plan of periodical savings with a fine lump sum at the end to spend on a real trip in the vacation season appeals as an idea well worth adopting. The plan is doubly effective, for this lump sum may come in just the time for a "rainy day," if it is found that a vacation is out of the question. The only difficulty in putting this plan into operation is in getting started. Most of the banking institutions have taken care of this by organizing clubs similar to the "Christmas club" idea. These are under way now. If a regular vacation next year appeals to you, why not get ready now?

UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE

Secretary of the Interior Herbert Hoover has been delegated by the President to call a conference in Washington to discuss the unemployment situation and to see what can be done about alleviating the ills resulting from it. Whether or not such a conference can be of real assistance in remedying the present situation, which finds us with nearly 6,000,000 unemployed, is a question, but at any rate it is gratifying to see the pressure of government brought to bear on the subject. There are so many factors bearing indirectly on the unemployment situation that it is doubtful whether such a conference can immediately result in a revival of business. It may, however, result in the presentation of certain recommendations to the various factors bearing on the situation that will have weight enough behind them to be heeded. It is to be hoped that Mr. Hoover will call on men who will have the courage to point out certain ills in our internal organization and the ability to suggest remedies for them.

It is certain that this conference will be closely watched by the majority of American business men and politicians, and the good that will come out of it will be wholly up to the way these same business men and politicians accept the recommendations of Mr. Hoover's committee.

HENRY FORD'S LATEST

A writer for one of our local dailies has gone "daffy" over the fact that Henry Ford has purchased 35,000,000 pounds of cardite of a foreign power and intends to revolutionize the entire leather industry of the United States even to the making of sole leather. The writer of the article referred to is much more excited than the members of the leather industry.

For years the coating or varnish for patent leather and the artificial leather used for cheap upholstery for two-priced furniture and equally cheap automobiles has been of this variety, and it is a well recognized fact that Ford has viewed with alarm the idea that he was obliged to buy this product or any other from manufacturers, who were honestly making a profit from an article necessary to the completion of his so-called car.

His purchase from Great Britain may mean the placing of smaller orders with some of the American producers, but will be hardly completely disastrous to the Du Ponts upon whom he has been largely dependent for his former supply or upon the tanners who have made and furnished the other automobile manufacturers with a genuine leather with a semblance of some wearing qualities.

Eliminate Worthless Pictures.

If pictures are worth framing have them framed. Otherwise put them away or throw them away. Don't let the younger members of the family pin pictures on the wall. The edges curl and they soon become unsightly dust collectors. Small, fussy bric-a-brac should be avoided for the same reason.

Imitating Hard Woods Not Difficult.

It is worth knowing that soft woods, treated with oil satin finished over with two coats of varnish or varnish and wax, can be made to resemble closely light or dark oak, cherry, mahogany, walnut, or mission oak. The work does not require any exceptional skill and the result is invariably well worth the effort.—Popular Science Monthly.

Before Books Were Plentiful.

The almanac and the family Bible constituted the home library some two hundred years ago. The weather predictions in the almanacs of 160 years ago were occasionally right, and when so proved in any locality, the fame of the predicter was proclaimed abroad, at the corner groceries and tavern bars of the land.

AMERICAN FOOD SHIP SAVES 18,000 BABES FROM STARVATION

Heroic Yankee Women Risk Lives to Rescue Children, in Service of Near East Relief

Constantinople.—How the prompt action of Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, and Harold C. Jaquith, representative of that American relief organization in Constantinople, saved the lives of 18,000 orphan children and seven American relief workers in Alexandropol, Armenia, is what all the representatives of the Allied nations in Constantinople are applauding today.

For five years the Near East Relief organization had built up a work of mercy throughout the former Turkish Empire and Transcaucasia, to a point where 54,600 little children were being housed, clothed, fed, given medical attendance and taught, and over 56,000 others being supplied with food. Then suddenly, on February 5, last, there came hurried cable reports of renewed fighting in Armenia and Transcaucasia, where 75,818 of these little ones were located under the protection of the Near East Relief. Consular representatives left the country. All foreigners piled onto ships and fled. War threatened to scatter the work and render vain the long, patient efforts of the Near East Relief to salvage a whole nation's children.

But the American men and women who had cared for these little ones were undismayed. They refused to leave under bombardment, with hostile armies sweeping through the streets where the Near East Relief's great orphanages had been established, with all supplies cut off and no communication with the outside world, or with that far American homeland whose representatives these heroic men and women are, they stuck to their posts. The last food from America had come in on November 6, 1920.

It was not until four months later that the new governments of the Transcaucasian states were established on a solid basis. But famine threatened. An appeal was made to American philanthropy: "Critical need for food products in Caucasus," the cable read. "No limit to need in Armenia. New government promises better facilities for relief activity than former government." A few days later, a further piteous plea followed: "Total orphans in Alexandropol 18,000. Supplies in Alexandropol allow half-rations, April 3rd to 30th. After May 1st, nothing."

But this splendid American relief organization had not waited. Food was already on the way. On April 22, Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, cabled: "Expect ship first week in May: 1,000 tons rice; 1,000 tons wheat flour; 600 tons cornmeal, corn flour, hominy; 30 tons sugar; 500 tons beans; 5,000 cases corn syrup, from New York and New Orleans direct to Batum. Additional 1,000 tons wheat flour from Pacific Coast June 1st."

The seven American relief workers in charge of the 18,000 little ones in Alexandropol cabled a last appeal: "No food at any price. Four days more and we are finished." But when the first relief ship "Quequen" entered the deserted harbor of Batum on May 1, there were just ten bags of flour left. The food ship had come in time. America had saved the day—and the 18,000 little orphan children, who had suffered so much and lost so much in their short, war-clouded lives, never knew that gaunt hunger in the robes of death had knocked at the door of the orphanage at Alexandropol—and that America had thrust the bony hand away.

"It is the great heart of America that made this work of salvation possible," Mr. Vickrey declared. "The money that sends the bread to these children comes from ten million homes throughout the United States. It comes from the hearts of the most generous people in the world, who cannot bear to know that half a world away, little children are facing hunger and death, without helping them to life and happiness."

Mr. Vickrey is making a nation-wide appeal to the people of the United States to keep this great work going. Contributions may be sent to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Thomas Carr, senior member of the firm of Carr Brothers, leather manufacturers, has one outstanding hobby and that is playing boy again with his even-year-old son "Junior," who has been spending the summer at a boys' camp in New Hampshire. His week-end sojourn with his boy have been eagerly looked forward to and "Dad's" visit has been much appreciated by young "Tom." The latter is to enter a military school in Billerica this fall.

Two Peabody school teachers begin their 43d year in the service of the public schools of Peabody when the term opens next Wednesday. They are Miss Carrie Upton, teacher in the third grade at the Bowditch school, and Miss Laura P. Whitney, teacher of the sixth grade at the Center school. Both entered their life's work in Peabody on Sept. 2, 1879. They are excellent teachers.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler S. John Connolly of Beverly paid a visit to Peabody Lodge of Elks ast Wednesday evening. He is primarily responsible for the formation of the local lodge and was given a pleasing ovation. The Elks will turn out in a body for the triple military funeral to be held here Labor Day morning. Exalted Ruler Joseph A. Ryan has requested every member to meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

There are many motorists who feel that the rule of the highway commission which requires giving right of way to autos entering a main street from a side street on the right works a frequent hardship and even danger. It is held by many that the autoist who is leaving a cross or intersecting street to get onto the main street should be the one to give way to the motorist on the main street, since the latter sees the road clear ahead of him, and it is frequently impossible to detect an auto coming out of a side street until a collision is almost imminent. The rule is discussed by motorists who, to save a collision, slow down making the corner, following the rule of self preservation first. The rule is many times not adhered to by the motorist who is on the straight away course.

I met George M. Bryne. w. k. contractor of Boston, one day this week, who was interested to hear of the progress of Peabody. He is a selectman in the town of Winchester and chairman of the Republican town committee. He had the contract for installing Peabody's sewerage system back in 1905 and was held in high esteem by the commission that had jurisdiction of the work. He paid the late Thomas Carroll, one of the members of that commission, a high tribute, and declared that he always looks back on his work in Peabody with pleasure, because of the absence of graft or interference. Mayor Shea was a member of that commission and occasionally meets the Winchester man at the Boston City Club, where both are members. Mr. Bryne says Winchester would fare better under a city government. He has a summer home down at Wellfleet, where he spends his week-ends during the season.

The condition of Mt. Pleasant street s most deplorable and actually unsafe for travel, owing to the manner in which the early spring floods and severe rainstorms have gouged out the street, leaving deep ruts. The property owners in that section would like to see the city make at least some needed repairs which would make the road safe for travel.

Dr. Henry F. Callahan has mapped out a very pleasant trip for his vacation. He left town early in the week, going to Norfolk by steamer, and from there will proceed to Washington, Baltimore, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, New York, going up the Hudson to Albany and motoring from the latter city to Pittsfield, Mass., where he will take the train for Boston.

—*—

Judge Robert W. Hill and wife of Salem, who have many friends in Peabody, have been visitors to the land of Evangeline this week, returning tomorrow on the steamer from St. Johns to Boston.

George D. Skinner, son of Elmer Skinner of Hose 5, has been appointed a member of the state motor patrol and reported yesterday at Framingham for duty. Skinner served overseas in the World war as a member of the mounted police. He was one of the 1500 men who took the exam.

—*—

Dr. Henry I. Yale left yesterday for Springfield, where he will spend the week-end with his family. This noon he will attend the weekly luncheon of the Springfield Rotary Club at the Hotel Worthy. "Doc," who is treasurer of the Peabody Rotary Club, and a member of its boys' committee, may be depended upon to tell the members of the Springfield club some interesting tales about Rotary life in the Leather City.

Bauer Prizes

Trustee and Mrs. R. S. Bauer of Lynn have again offered the gold prizes. $100 will be distributed to the prize winners in the agricultural and homemaking departments of the school. The prizes are awarded for efficiency and accomplishment, as shown in the work of the summer projects. The judging will done by the board of trustees. These prizes have been a great incentive in urging the students of the school to do valuable, conscientious work.

New Department Head

Miss Marion P. Crawford, head of the homemaking department of the school, has been granted a leave of absence by the board of trustees, the same being allowed because of sickness of a parent. Ella S. Morrill of Andover, a member of the Women's Advisory Council of the school, has been appointed temporary head of the department to fill the vacancy. She has had a long experience in school teaching and administration work, having been a teacher in both the grade and high school, and also a member of the school board of her native town. Mrs. Morrill is well and favorably known throughout the county where she has long been prominent in the work of the Federated Woman's club.

The School and the Fairs

The various divisions of the school are busily engaged in preparing exhibits for the four county fairs. An effort will be made this year to have the exhibit of even greater educational value than ever before. The master idea which is being carried out in all of the exhibits is "economy."

Field Meeting

The extension department of the school is planning for the annual summer auto trip and field meeting. The date which has been decided upon is Saturday, September 10th. The party will visit seven prominent farms in Essex county, Mass., and Rockingham county, New Hampshire. During the noon hour after luncheon, a short speaking program will be conducted. All parties interested in good farming are invited to participate in this outing.

Poultry Meeting

The school conducted a well attended poultry meeting Saturday afternoon, August 27th. Upwards of 150 men and women, prominent in poultry raising, were present. The speakers were very well received and their lectures were fully discussed. The guests appeared to be well pleased with the program of entertainment, nd many stayed long after the meeting to visit the poultry plant of the school.

Miss Frances Brown of Danvers is oing special canning work at Sunbeam farm, Swampscott.

Seasonable Notes.

During the present drought period constant cultivation of market crops will pay liberally.

Most gardeners will have tended to the piling of sod in their compost pile by this time.

Flowers for decoration or exhibition purposes should be cut very early in the day before the bright sunshine reaches them.

shows us he will continue to make autos until every man, woman and child on this earth has at least one. When we were put on this earth legs were given us so that we could navigate. Today we have little use for these same legs when out of doors. In fact, it has taken away 50 per cent. of the usefulness of legs, thanks to Henry and the rest.

Imitation leather looked at one time as being substituted for leather in many cases. It is used largely in furniture covering and the like, but to be a serious contender with leather for popularity it has made little advance. Suit cases are being made and sold from this imitation and the bag shows it. Chair seats show the difference and so down the line.

After an exhaustive search in the hoe business for waste, the report comes the biggest waste comes in the controversy between labor and the hoe manufacturer. I believe there is ess waste in the shoe and tanning industry than in any others. Every piece of hide, the flesh, hair and trimmings we eat or wear. Every crap of leather goes for some purpose from fertilizer to purses and ongues. These tongues may not be as dangerous as those possessed by females, but they are necessary in the shoe. So while an expert is paid to dig out wastefulness and must make a howing, he will find it tough picking n most tanneries, likewise shoe factories.

Below you will note an article which ays much in a few words as to placng a tariff on hides and skins. hanges in Europe has placed the tarff in a different light than formerly, therefore such changes may be vital to the leather interests and what congress does will be interesting.

Foreign Tariffs and Free Hides

A report of the tariff commission explains the reasonably well-known fact that the tariff policies of foreign countries have greatly changed as a result of the war. Extracts from this report have been printed in the leading newspapers so that it is not necessary to repeat the matter. The British Empire long ago instituted export duties on hides and skins with preferential duties favoring the constituent parts of the empire.

The tariff situation of the world has an important bearing upon the question as to whether hides and skins should be admitted free of duty into the ports of the United States. The hide tariff has ceased to be a domestic question and must be considered in connection with foreign tariff regulations.

Members of our trade who are to appear before the finance committee of the senate next month should dwell strongly upon this phase of the situation. One of the greatest of the many world problems today is free raw material as the basis of industry. All other things being equal the countries having the best access to raw materials will prosper at the expense of countries which find themselves unable to obtain crude products upon similar favorable terms.

If the attempt to impose duties on hides and skins is considered in the light of world tendencies it will be seen that a tariff on hides and skins in the United States would be a suicidal measure. In connection with the discriminatory export duties on foreign hides and skins coming into our port a tariff of fifteen per cent. imposed by our government would automatically stop the export trade in leather and encourage imports of leather and shoes.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Combination 4, which is a horse-drawn kit, has been in the past one of the fastest teams in the department. That was in the days when the old pair of black horses were on the job. They served faithfully for 20 years. The pair of horses on the wagon today were never mated. One is considerably older than the other, and not as fast. The result is that the very efficient drivers stationed at this house cannot make the good showing that was their old-time record. It is only a matter of time before two new horses must be placed in this house, or else a motorized kit installed.

What fire alarm box is most frequently pulled in Peabody? What is the most dangerous box in the city?

Strange to say, both these boxes are located on the same street at different corners. The first is 421 located at the corner of Caller and Walnut streets. Out of a total of about 30 bell alarms that have been sounded in the eight months of the present year, 421 has struck 11 times. Box 42 is considered by the firemen to be located in the most dangerous section of the city. And the latter box, located at the corner of Walnut and Wallis streets, holds second honors with five bell alarms so far this year.

Just four hours and 55 minutes after the year came in, box 421 was pulled, the first alarm in 1921.

Considering the large number of big wooden buildings located in the manufacturing district of Peabody, the city has been remarkably fortunate in its fire losses, which have been very low. There are several sections, particularly in the Walnut street district, where a good start and a strong wind would certainly play havoc. There have already been several very threatening fires in that section this year, but the firemen have given a very fine account of themselves in every case.

—*—

With the end of the summer vacation season, only two weeks away, members of the fire department will no wstart to make plans for next year.

—*—

The fire department will be back to normal, as far as its personnel is concerned, in two weeks, when the ast two men on vacations will return to their duties.

—*—

Inspections made by members of he fire department as a precautionary measure to keep down the fire losses will be resumed shortly, after a lapse of several weeks during the vacation period, in which little work has been done along this line, due to the shortage of men in the stations. Through the inspections of property many bad fires have been averted in the past few years. Since the city, through Mayor Shea, has set the example in removing all fire hazards on city property, property owners should do likewise.

Arthur Flynn of Engine 1 will start on his vacation Monday. He will make the trip to Washington, D. C., where he will be the guest of his brother.

—*—

Acting Capt. William Brown of the Hook & Ladder company at the Central fire station, will spend the next two weeks in New Hampshire.

Postmaster Dennis J. Dullea is pending his vacation touring Northrn New York.

SERVICE

Some years ago two young men were sent to a small town in the far West, one by the big railroad company which needed a telegraph operator and ticket seller in the country railway station the other went as telephone man in the small local exchange. Both were homesick, lonesome, without friends, their homes were far away and there seemed no opportunity for any advancement; they were stuck away out there on the edge of nowhere and forgotten.

The telegraph agent found a way to console himself; he got acquainted with the girls and took them buggy riding, played poker with the country boys and looked out for a good time. The telephone boy read, studied, and found a way to make a substance to replace the soft wax used on the phonographs; every cent he could save was spent in experiments; he believed he had a good thing. He went to his friend at the railroad station and asked for help to get a patent, offering him half an interest, but his friend was too much taken up with joy riding and only laughed at him. For more than a year this boy raked and scraped and saved and stored every cent until he got a patent and money enough for his carfare to New York.

Then he went straight to Edison and the Wizard of Menlo Park gave him every assistance to perfect his invention. Today every single record used on every talkng machine pays a few cents to Edison and to this man who showed Edison the results of his studies in that far western town. His income is something enormous. Figure it up for yourself.

The world recognized this as a great service and pays for it. The world always pays big for a big service. Who pays for a man's work? His employer? Not so; the employer has very little to say about it. The public,—the big public—pays what it thinks the service is worth and when any man or set of men asks too much for any certain service, the public will not buy. Who pays for the service of a doctor or a singer or a man who writes books? The public. Big service, big pay; small service, small pay.

Years after these boys left that country town, I met the telegraph boy. He told me this story and how he wasted his money having a good time while his friend saved and studied. He too had worked himself up after he had learned his lesson, but he never had forgotten what a fool he had been.

By the value of a man's service is his work judged and paid; by the value of a nation's service is that nation judged and paid. The United States of America stands first in service to the world and as a result it is the most prosperous nation in the world and people from every other nation are flocking to our country. We think we are having hard times here just now but in Europe the people are in terrible distress and in Russia they are starving and dying.

If everybody would give out the best service he could our hard times would be over just so much sooner. Coal is high because a few miners and a few mine owners refuse to serve the people unless they can have their own way. What is the remedy? Government ownership? If ever we come to that we'll pay more for coal than ever before. The government tried to run the railroads and now our freight costs us three times as much as it used to and that again raises the price of coal and adds to the cost of hides and leather. We are trying to find a way to bring our railroads back into some decent service, but it's a hard job after the government has established wages and working rules. Coal and rent; both too high, both for the same reason. Rent is high not on account of the landlord but because it costs too much to build a house. When a painter refuses to give fair service, when he will not use a brush over four and one-half inches wide and the other trades refuse to give fair service, then people will not build.

Think it over; we are one big family in Peabody working together, giving service together, making leather together. The grocery store helps to make leather. The landlord helps to make leather. The school teacher helps to make leather; so does the doctor and the priest and minister; the trolely conductor and the telephone girl. How big a service is each giving for the good of all and the prosperity of Peabody? How much service are YOU giving?

DOG CONSTABLE ON WAR PATH

Peabody dogs beware of Dog Constable John O'Brien.

All unlicensed dogs in the city falling into the hands of the dog constable after this week will be given the death sentence in an electric kennel.

The device is being constructed under the supervision of City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, and will be completed and ready for operation by the first of next week.

The electric kennel is a harmless looking affair on the outside, and looks much like a family ice chest. It stands about six feet high, and is a closet affair, with a sheet metal flooring.

It is large enough to accommodate any dog that turns up at Constable O'Brien's doorstep.

The devise is so arranged that dogs will be led inside the kennel and when the door is closed, attachments on the door will form a direct circuit, which will send a current of 2200 volts across the sheet metal floor. The closing of the door will mean instant death to any living creature inside the kennel.

It is probable that that the death kennel will also be put to use in killing cats. The death kennel is a much more humane way of killing the animals than the present system of shooting, which is not always effective with one shot.

High School To Open Sept. 12

Superintendent of Schools Albert Robinson announced yesterday that the high school session will not open until Monday, Sept. 12, a postponement of five days, to allow the contractor extra time to finish up certain work, and to permit of the installing of the furniture, which has not arrived as yet.

All other public schools in the city will open at the schedule time, Wednesday, Sept. 7.

The school board will hold a special session tomorrow, when it is expected that the appointment of an Englsh teacher at the high school will be made. No action is expected on the appointment of a music teacher for the schools, the tendency of the board being to delay this action until the regular September meeting of the board.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL

St. John's parochial school will open its fall sessions Wednesday, Sept. 7. Announcement of this fact has been made by the pastor, Rev. Thomas McGinn.

Firestone, as "Porter," Conducts the President to Bunk in the Mountains

PRESIDENT HARDING is shown above inspecting the tent where he bivouacked one night recently while a member of the famous Edison-Ford-Firestone camping party which spent ten days in the mountains of Maryland and West Virginia.

He is being conducted to his tent by H. S. Firestone, Akron tire manufacturer, and has placed his personal effects inside.

The president was the guest of Henry Ford. Thomas A. Edison and Mr. Firestone, making the fourth member of a party to which John Burroughs, the aged naturalist, belonged until his death last spring.

The first camp was pitched beside Licking creek, a small stream that trickles into the Potomac river through the Maryland mountains. There they found quiet, fishing, and splendid country roads for horseback riding astride thoroughbred animals that Mr. Firestone shipped from his farm, where he was born and reared, near Columbiana, Ohio.

While in camp the president chopped wood for the kitchen fire, made up his bunk in the converted army tent, and proved himself a model camper.

It does not require a second glimpse of his face to sense the fact that he is glad to get away from the affairs of state to spend a while in camp.

After two days and a night in camp, the president was called back to Washington on official business, the others continuing with their scheduled trip.

H. S. Students Will Be Glad Of Auditorium

A large hall and an excellent floor promise some fine exhibitions in basketball at the Peabody high school during the coming winter season. Following last year's successes, which were brought about under difficulties, Faculty Manager King is outlining a busy program for the winter months.

A series of games will be played with Salem high, and other games will be arranged from time to time with such teams as look like strong rivals.

Due to the fact that there is no organization for such work, there will be no track events at the local high school this winter. Much disappointment has been expressed among the students who are interested in athletics, that the track in the rear of the school, which was originally planned, could not have been completed this year.

There are no facilities at the local school for indoor track events, and no gymnasium to meet the needs of such athletes.

It is hoped, however, that with the advancement of the athletic program under the very capable leadership of Messrs. King and Donovan, that in due time the city will find the way open to provide the necessary facilities, that Peabody students may enter with other high schools along the North Shore into this very popular athletic diversion.

At the present time the salary of the coach is paid entirely from the treasury of the High School Athletic Association, not one penny coming from the city treasury. This fact in itself is sufficient to demonstrate the manner in which the students receive the atheltic instruction that is made possible through the maintenance of a coach. Additional facilities will increase the value of this good work.

Fifty Years of Life.

A French statistician has been dabbling with figures to find out just what man does with that precious thing called time. He concludes that at the age of fifty years the average man has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500, walked 800, amused himself 4,000, spent 1,500 eating, and has been ill 500 days.

The Girl Scout camp that has been the summer home of so many of Capt. Edith Howes' troop, closed its season this week and compelled the return of the last of the Peabody Scouts. It has been a huge success and has been taken advantage of by a large number of local girls who have come home improved in health and advanced in standing in the organization and in the amount of merit badges to which they are entitled to display. The camp falls far short of being strictly a pleasurable affair, but rather calls for a huge amount of hard but instructive tuition in the essentials of Girl Scout principles. This camp covered Eastern Massachusetts and accommodated about 140 girls at all times.

Miss Shirley Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Merrill, entertained a party of her young friends at her home last Wednesday afternoon on the occasion of her ninth birthday anniversary.

Miss Nellie Merrill is spending the holiday at summer resorts along the coast of Maine.

The prevalence of the corn borer pest is becoming more and more obnoxious to the local farmers and the threat is being made that each infested community is to soon be quarantined individually. Miss Margaret Batchelder of Emerson street returned yesterday from an eight week's stay at the Tall Pines Camp at Bennington, N. H.

'The Witching Hour; Holiday Film At Popular Strand Theatre

One of the brightest photodramas in months, with the screen's new sensation, will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday. It is called "Short Skirts" and gives Gladys Walton an opportunity to prove that she is a capable actress as well as a lovely bit of feminity. "Short Skirts" was filmed from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Cabella Drives the Nail," by Alice Tidsley.

Miss Walton appears as a seventeen-year-old girl, who desires to be regarded as a mature woman of wide experience. Her mother works in the campaign headquarters of a man who is running for mayor and who is scheduled to marry him the day after election. Because she is annoyed at the man for gently reproaching her about her conduct, the star tries to wreck his political position and nearly succeeds. The climax straightens out the tangle satisfactorily and gives drama to a story that tingles with humor and character touches throughout. Modish clothes, sophisticated people in them, small girls who vizualize themselves as modern Cleopatras, politicians, good and bad, and election scenes of remarkable realism, all add to the interesting qualities to this clever comedy-drama. Larry Semon, known as the "ace" of comedians, will be presented in his new comedy, "The Fall Guy," as an added feature for today. Semon always offers some new thrill along with his fun, and "The Fall Guy" is no exception, because during the making of the picture he met with an accident that put him in the hospital for several weeks. Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders" round out the bill for today.

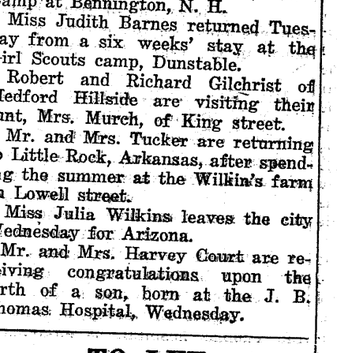
Bessie Barriscale in "The Luck of Geraldine Laird," an adaption of Kathleen Norris' popular novel of the same name, and Louise Hoff in "What Women Want" will be the double feature bill for Sunday evening.

Manager Chet Bent has arranged an excellent program for Labor Day and Tuesday, which is the start of Paramount week. Elliot Dexter in "The Witching Hour" and Dorothy Dalton in "The Idol of the North" comprise the bill. "The Witching Hour" is the best known of Augustus Thomas' stage successes. It would be unfair to disclose the plot of the production here. It is sufficient to say that the picture was produced under the direction of William D. Taylor, a director who stands at the top of his profession. Added to the talents of Mr. Taylor are the services of Elliot Dexter, who essays the role of Jack Brookfield, the Kentucky gambler, in whose hands lie the matter of clearing the murder charge against his protege. A large cast of favorites appear with Mr. Dexter, including Winter Hall, Robert Cain and Mary Alden.

Dorothy Dalton is back again in the role of a daughter of the Canadian Northwest in the days of the gold rush in her picture, "The Idol of the North," which will divide the headline honors on teh bill for the holiday. It is the best screen vehicle Miss Dalton has had in several months and her work is deserving of the highest praise.

Mayor's Order Aids City Farm

A fire hazard, due to defective wiring, which has threatened the lives of the 36 inmates and five employees for some time past, will be made safe at once, following instructions issued by Mayor Shea this week. The hazard existing at the almshouse was brought to the attention of Mayor Shea by City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, after that official had made an inspection.



City Electrician O'Keefe found that in many places about the building there are defects in the wiring system which are a constant fire hazard.

The cost of repairing to make the building safe will total about $200, according to the estimate of the city electrician, and Mayor Shea has authorized the work completed and paid for from his contingent fund.

Following the funeral service the procession will form on Chestnut street and go through the square to Central, to Tremont, Driscoll and Margin streets to St. Mary's cemetery. Commitment services will be read by Rev. Fr. McGinn. Taps will be blown by Edward Carbrey and a volley fired.

James M. Burke

James M. Burke gave his life to save two comrades who had been struck down by shrapnel. He was a member of Battery E of the 101st Field Artillery, having enlisted in May, 1917 at the age of 21. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Burke of 2 Bedford street and at the time of his answering the President's call for volunteers was a foreman in the glazing department at the Sims' factory in Salem.

His battery was at ease when his tragic death ensued. Sergt. McPhetras of Danvers and a Private Knowlton were both wounded by shrapnel and lay exposed to the range of the Huns. Burke seeing their danger went to their rescue and himself received wounds from which he died within a few hours. His heroism was commended on by his officers.

His death occurred on October 21, 1918. His body will lie in state at the Father Mathew C. T. A. S. home Sunday. He is survived by four brothers, John, Henry Francis and Albert and one sister, Mary. John H. Meade, undertaker, has charge of his funeral.

The following letters received by Private Burke's mother from Thomas Sanders, captain of Battery E, F. A., and Chaplain Robert Campbell of the same regiment, give an idea of the high esteem in which the young soldier was held by his officers and comrades:

Headquarters 101st F. A.
Thursday, Oct. 31, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Burke:

You will doubtless have heard before this reaches you of James' misfortune. As I am Chaplain of the regiment, I felt that I ought to write to you.

James was working near the guns when one of the boys was wounded. In trying to aid this wounded comrade, he and others exposed themselves to the artillery fire of the enemy and it was then that the casualty of several of our boys occurred.

It always adds a little consolation for a mother to know when a son does not endure any suffering at the time of his passing away. This was true in the case of James. You may well be proud of the part he played in this great crisis, and especially that he met the supreme test in "giving up his life for a friend."

He is numbered among the bravest and best. His work was of the highest order. The boys and officers all regarded him very highly.

There is a source of comfort to which you may go. There is a great hope which carries us beyond the grave. In these days when the memory of your boy is fresh and clear, I trust that God will comfort, bless and strengthen you.

Very sincerely yours,
Chaplain ROBERT CAMPBELL, JR.
Dec. 10, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Burke:

I feel conscious stricken at not writing you before, but due to a hospital experience and censorship regulations it has been impossible. It will renew your sorrow to get this letter, but I must express my feelings and I know you will appreciate them. The loss of your boy on that never-to-be-forgotten morning was a terrible blow to me and his friends. A more soldierly, conscientious worker never lived. He willingly gave his life and was an inspiration to every man in the battery. I ask you, could a man wish a more noble ending? Your loss has been terrible and my heart goes out to you.

Sincerely,
THOMAS SANDERS,
Capt. Battery E, 101 F. A.

Frank Martinack

Frank F. Martinack, the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Martinack of 11 Carlton street, South Peabody, was the youngest Peabody boy to be killed in action. He enlisted on August 6, 1917, and was in the service just ten months when he was killed. Four weeks after his enlistment he sailed for France, a member of Company D, 23rd Regiment. It was on his fourth trip to the front line trenches that he received his fatal wounds.

Patrick Lynch

Patrick Lynch, one of the deceased war veterans, refused to be called a slacker, although he was entitled to exemption on the ground that he was not a naturalized citizen. Instead, he answered to his name in the draft and was sent south to Georgia. Four months from the date of his entrance to the war service he was dead in a base hospital in France, a victim of pneumonia, contracted by exposure at the front. The day following his being found ill with pneumonia, his artillery replacement battalion was sent to the front line.

He was 26 years old and a brother of Daniel Lynch, now a resident of Wagner street. At the time of the draft he was a resident of Abbott street over the line in Salem, and he was drafted through the Salem board. He was employed at the A. C. Lawrence Co. and prior to that had been employed by the Clark Lumber Co. was an active member of the A. O. H. of Peabody and held in high regard by the members of that organization. He died Sept. 24, 1918, near Argonne forest.

CARROLL SCHOOL JOB WELL DONE

Contractor John O. Ballentine of Peabody, and Architect John M. Gray of Salem are receiving the commendation of Mayor Shea and school committee for their work at the Thomas Carroll school where the four room addition is completed for the opening of school next week. The addition includes fireproof staircases, exit doors from each class room into a corridor, a teachers' room and a gravity ventilating system that is said to be the best in practice in this city.

No other school in this city has the fireproof staircases. There has been no hitch on the work. The school committee members pay both Messrs. Ballentine and Gray a fine compliment in that they have not been back to the committee every other day for extras.

Removal of the east wall which always leaked, renders this new construction absolutely tight. The new floors are unscratched as generally is the case, for the contractor laid paper over them to have them in the pink of condition when school opens. The general contract was completed at several hundreds of dollars under the original bid and the city is the gainer. The cost was $43,488.48, with the heating extra.

GUESTS AT ASBURY GROVE

The Women's Relief Corps, G. A. R., will spend next Wednesday as guests of Mrs. Maria Williams of Asbury Grove. A bus will leave the square at 10 A. M.

Lynn Cars

for the return of the Lynn cars to Washington street and Main street. Mayor Shea informed the trustees that no opposition had been expressed by any factory owner on Foster street to the cars being removed from that treet.

Letters from the National Calfskin Co., the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. and other plants that supply the largest number of street car patrons on the Lynn-Peabody line were submitted by Mayor Shea. These stated unqualifiedly that the restoration of the Lynn cars back to Main and Washington street would be a distinct convenience to their employees.

The distance from Main street to the Bleachery is given as 3200 feet, which would cost the railway about $12,000 to replace with new rails. The trustees asked Mayor Shea if he could say the City of Peabody would defray the cost of paving inside of the new tracks.

Mayor Shea declared he could not promise that this would be done, since it was a matter for the City Council to determine if city funds were to be appropriated. He informed the trustees, however, that this contingency would be reported by him to the Council.

It was stated that the cost of paving inside the tracks might reach $3000.

Where similar work has been done in answer to petitions from other cities and towns, the trustees declared the municipal governments had borne the cost of paving inside of the tracks. It's a fair turn about.

Mayor Shea has spent much time preparing data for the trustees with a view to securing the restoration of the Lynn cars back onto Washington street. He has personally interviewed Foster street manufacturers and other factory owners as well. If the trustees decide to put back the cars the residents of Wards Two and Three who will be benefited by the change owe the Mayor their thanks.

A petition which was circulated by the Peabody Enterprise contains over three hundred signatures of residents in the two wards who would be benefited by the return of the cars to Main and Washington street.

GOGGIN BARES PLOT

rolls caused City Auditor Goggin to call attention to the name to Commissioner Andrew Fyfe. The latter who had been deceived quickly thanked the city auditor and reported the incident to Mayor Shea.

The man was called before the Mayor last Saturday morning in the presence of Commissioner Fyfe and reprimanded. The matter is still in the hands of the commissioner with full authority to proceed in any way the law allows It is possible that criminal charge of making a false affadavit may be lodged against the man. The only thing that may prevent this, it is said, is the fact that there are several children in the family who will suffer.

During his short incumbency of ffice Commissioner Fyfe has cut off 92 names from the "graft" payroll, saving the city $2700 a month. The law compels a war veteran to swear o an affidavit that he is in need of financial aid and the oath was some kind of a joke in instances.

One man was found to be drawing money from the local Red Cross society at the time he was getting a generous amount from Commissioner Fyfe's payroll, and the combined financial aid made a decent month's pay. This man was cut down and he is one of the best little knockers who are attacking the office of the commissioner.

Jobless Men Should Report To Chamber

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce is conducting a registration of the unemployed in this city at the request of the Department of Labor through President Warren G. Harding. The department estimates that there are in the vicinity of six million unemployed throughout the country and the United States Employment Service which is a branch of the Department of Labor has undertaken the task of securing the actual figures of unemployment from 231 cities included in its survey organization, of which Peabody is an integral part.

It is important that this information be secured before 12 o'clock Saturday as all the information secured must reach Washington Monday, September 12.

Thomas After Indiana Job

Ralph E. Thomas formerly secretary of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, is a candidate for the position of secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Evansville, Ind., Mr. Thomas is now connected with the Leo L. Redding Co. in New York City, and is at present in Columbus, Ohio.

ST. JOHNS SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY

St John's Parochial schools will open for the fall session next Monday morning. The age limit for entrance to the school has been fixed at five years and six months. And even with the increase in the age, a substantially increased registration is expected.

James Grenato and family spent the holiday at Salisbury Beach.

Bakeman's Plea Wins Council To Help Schools

An eloquent plea for co-operation between the School Committee and City Council delivered by Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of the former committee resulted in the Council appropriating $35,242 last night to pay for new furnishings for the several schools.

The Council received a communication from the Mayor which contained the school budget with the request that the appropriation be made. An effort to have it referred to the finance committee was amended to back up the committee and there was no opposition.

Before Mr. Bakeman was heard, Pres. Duggan asked if the Council was failing to co-operate with the Mayor or was the Mayor the one at fault. He thought that the new budget should have been accompanied by information as to where the money was coming from. City Solicitor Farnham said that after October 1, the city may issue notes for $50,000 more cash.

Committeeman Dr. Marrs and Supt. Robinson were present at the meeting last night.

One of the items calls for $5000 for grading the high school yard and Mr. Bakeman stated that he would favor the work being done by the city engineer's department, although anyone familiar with the situation knows it will cost twice as much money as by contract. This extra cost may be li-

ENTERPRISE TAKES CITY CLERK FIGHT TO SUPREME COURT

Judge Robert W. Hill in behalf of the Peabody Enterprise, has filed today in the supreme court a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to permit this newspaper and its reporters access to the record of marriage intentions in his custody. Clerk Dowd has twice refused to allow the Enterprise to see these records, which are public records and as such open to inspection. The petition is as follows:

Put Peabody On Your Auto

A new design of automobile plate bearing the name "Peabody" has been approved by the Chamber of Commerce, and an initial order for 100 plates has been placed.

The new plates conform in style and design to the Massachusetts State registration plate used on automobiles. The name "Peabody" will be in raised white letters on a blue background. A raised white border will surround the outer edge of the plate.

The new plates will be ready for distribution in a week or two, and orders for the same can be phoned to the Chamber headquarters. The plates are the same that are at present in use on automobiles in Chicago, Brockton, Bridgeport and other large cities. Patent fasteners are attached to each plate.

Housing Corporation Will Erect Homes In Peabody

The Peabody Housing Corporation which has been under discussion among leading business men of the city for several weeks was officially launched this week with the receipt of the state charter. The organization, comprising a representative group of business and professional men, all of whom are members of the Chamber of Commerce, and ardent boosters for Peabody, has one primary object in view, that of building up Peabody.

The movement headed by this group of citizens, who, in affiliating themselves with the corporation, demonstrate that they are firmly confident of a bigger and better Peabody, is initiated to promote greater confidence on the part of prospective home builders, and to lend assistance to the many citizens who have been hit by the housing shortage.

The activities of the corporation are expected to have a certain effect in stimulating the building program in Peabody by next spring at the latest.

The organization will purchase the land on which it contemplates building, select the design of house to be erected and award bids for the building. Citizens who have sufficient interest in the future of the community to take an equity on a home and who believe that Peabody is the best place in which to live, will be given the opportunity to purchase these new homes that are to be erected by the corporation at cost price.

It is not the intention of the organization to exact a profit from the purchasers. The cost of these homes to be erected is expected to range between $5000 and $6000.

Only one house will be started at first and according to the present plan when this is completed and a purchaser found, the second structure will be started. A single house of five or six rooms seems to be the favorite among members of the organization, and it is expected that this type will be selected as a starter.

If prospective purchasers will make known their wants to members of the organization and show an interest in the movement, it is possible that the two-tenement houses will also be added to the program.

Officers, directors and subscribers to the Peabody Housing Corpoartion include the following prominent citizens, all of whom are members of the Chamber: President, Frank Sanger; treasurer, Harry F. Whidden; clerk, Donald G. Roby; directors, Frank Sanger, Hon. William A. Shea, Charles S. Batchelder, Harry F. Whidden, Alonzo Raddin, Frank W. Penniman and William F. Carlin; subscribers, Frank H. Sanger, Harry Whidden, Donald G. Roby, Charles S. Batchelder, David A. Barry, Bart J. Ronan, George S. Curtis, William F. Carlin, John E. Fitzgerald, M. E. Kelly Co., P. J. Woods, A. P. Ames, Newell Penniman, Frank W. Penniman, Louis P. P. Osborne, E. A. Croughwell, William F. Sawyer, Hon. William A. Shea, Addison P. Sillars, Dr. S. Chase Tucker, Roger Smith, John W. Power, Lyman P. Osborne, Alonzo Raddin and Judge William H. Fay.

Papers of incorporation for the Housing Corporation were issued at the State House Aug. 26. The company is capitalized for $100,000.

3166 Pupils In Schools

A substantial increase in the school registration in Peabody is anticipated by Supt. Albert Robinson this year. While the public schools of the city with the exception of the Ward 2 primary school and the high school opened the fall session on Wednesday, school department officials state that no figures as to the total registration will be available for several days at least. It is not unusual for new pupils to straggle into the schools for several days after the opening.

Supt. Robinson stated today that the high school and Ward 2 school will open next Monday. At the former it is expected that the increased registration will total around 50 pupils. The greatest increase is expected in the primary grades, and this will show itself in the registration at the Daniel Francis O'Keefe school. School officials would not be surprised if the registration at the latter school showed an increase exceeding 100 pupils in this one district. Geographical conditions are expected to figure in a measure in the increased registration recorded at the new school.

While the general business depression may have a tendency to lower the registration in the high school, due to children at the age of 14 leaving school to take up business pursuits, Supt. Robinson is confident of an increase over last year.

The total registration in the Peabody schools as recorded at the end of the first month of the fall session last year was 3166. The falling off during the year due to pupils leaving school, is estimated at approximately 100.

With the opening of the high school sessions next Monday, it is expected to occupy at least three and possibly five or six rooms in the new section of the building. The number of rooms to be occupied will depend very largely on the progress made by the workmen in completing the flooring in the corridors. Every effort will be made to avoid placing the pupils in those sections of the buildings where the dust and dirt will be carried to other parts of the building.

Pending the time when the new addition to the high school is finally completed, which will probably require another month or six weeks, four ninth grade classes of the high school will be conducted in the old Bowditch school across the street.

Arthur Elliott Penny-post For Over 32 Years

Arthur Elliott of 21 Cottage street, who was retired last November after 30 years of continuous service for Uncle Sam, has the distinction of being one of the first four Peabody letter carriers. During his period of service Mr. Elliott witnessed many changes and improvements in the handling of the local mails.

ARTHUR ELLIOTT

He was appointed a carrier by Postmaster Thomas Jackman and began his duties Nov. 1, 1890. He was retired from the service on the thirtieth anniversary of his entry.

Of the first four postmen but three survive. Besides Mr. Elliott they are William Smith and William Beckett. In the early days of their service it was customary to work nine and 10 hours, and frequently the postmen were not through their duties until about 7 o'clock in the evening. During the winter months it was necessary to work through several hours of darkness in the delivery of the mails. This is in contrast to the system of today, which arranges the routes and hours of delivery so that the postmen have covered their routes sometime before darkness sets in, even during the winter months.

Mr. Elliott delivered the mails in the Eastend district of the city for more than nine years, and for seven years he covered the route in the South Peabody section. Later he was transferred to the center of the city, where he was stationed at the time of his retirement. With his 30 years of service, Mr. Elliott holds the record among the local veteran employes of the postal department.

The veteran postman was born in Peabody, Sept. 23, 1856. Since his retirement he has taken life easy, due to ill health, and during the summer months has given much of his time to the small backyard garden in the rear of his home.

Mr. Elliott was married in Peabody, and three children were born of the union, Arthur M. Elliott, postman at the South Lynnfield postoffice; Mrs. Alice Lillibride of Marblehead and Mrs. Bessie Tufts of Danvers.

Arthur Gourely, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gourley, who shot himself last Friday, is steadily improving. The bullet entered his chest and passed out his back.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?
By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"TO STOP AND TO STAY."

HOW frequently do we hear some one say, or read in a newspaper, "He is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel." A moment's reflection should tell the writer or speaker that a person does not "stop" at a hotel unless he walks or drives to the hotel and halts his progress there. It is proper to say, "The parade stopped at the hotel," meaning that the parade ceased its motion when it reached the hotel. But the parade could not "stay" at the hotel. A person makes a "stay" at a hotel, not a stop, and he stays there. One should not say, "I stopped at the summer resort six weeks," but "I stayed there six weeks."

The true meaning of the word "stop" was well understood by the man who did not invite his professed friend to visit him. He said: "If you come at any time within ten miles of my house just stop," says one authority of English.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

THERESA.

ONE of the prettiest of feminine names which for some reason has always been associated with France and yet is essentially English, is Theresa. It is one of the many feminine names which come from the harvest and its original source is a Greek word meaning to reap or gather in a crop.

The first to bear the name was a Spanish lady, the wife of a Roman noble called Paulinus. Both Paulinus and his wife were devotees of St. Jerome. The name Theresa had great vogue in Spain and is finally found as Teresa on a throne in Leon in the Tenth century.

The most noted Teresa appears in the Sixteenth century when the Roman Catholic church produced the remarkable saint of that name through the Spanish connection of the house of Austria; the princesses of Spain and Germany were frequently christened Teresa.

In France it became Terrese through the queen of Louis XIV and Provence called it Terezon. The empress-queen added greatly to its fame, her noble spirit winning all hearts.

St. Theresa of course brought it to England through the Roman Catholic religion, though its vogue there did not begin until after the Reformation.

England also calls her Terry and Tracy; France makes her Therese. She is Theresa in Portugal and Teresa and Teresita in Spain, Italy uses Teresa and Teresina, in Germany she is Theresia.

Theresa's talismanic stone is amber. It promises her good health, wards off evil spirits and warns approaching illness by paling in color. Thursday is her lucky day and three her lucky number.

Playground Commissioners Have Enhanced Vacation For Kiddies

With one of its most successful seasons just closed, the Playground Commission of Peabody is already mapping plans for a record breaking summer in 1922, when various new improvements may be put into operation for the benefit of the hundreds of kiddies.

The work for the season just closed has reflected great credit on the commissioners, all of whom have given freely of their time and energy to give the children a worth-while playground program for the vacation. Chairman Henry A. King, on whose shoulders perhaps fell much of the initiative, is warm in his praise for the helpful suggestions and assistance of his fellow commissioners, George A. Gill and William T. Coyle.

The Bleachery playground retains the Chamber of Commerce cup for the best work of the season, and on exhibition day. Much greater interest was manifested at all of the playgrounds and the commission gives unstinted praise to all of its instructors. Particular mention is made by Chairman King of Miss Helen McElroy of the Eastend playground, Miss Ella Reed of South Peabody and Miss Grace O'Keefe of the Bleachery.

The season's record of the playground work is outlined as follows:

	Points Allowed
Attendance	5

Systematic program for the season.
Institution of physical training.
Repair of all park property.
Grounds kept in excellent condition.
Regulation of vendors of refreshments.
Regulating baseball games by issuing permits.
Installing drinking fountains in all but one playground, which was deemed inadvisable.
Steps taken to secure a new site for the South Peabody playground.
Regular visitation of playground commissioners to playgrounds for inspection.
Location for a new playground in West Peabody and the Samuel Brown school.

HENRY A. KING
Chairman of Playground Commission

Suggested Improvements for Next Year

Suggested by the present Playground Commission:
Securing new site for playground in Ward 3, doing away with the Wallis and Sutton Park playgrounds, by combining the same into one playground to be located in the Crow village district.
Securing a new site for the playground in South Peabody.
Construction of concrete swimming pool at Emerson Park.
Securing of new location for the West Peabody playground on land near the West school.
Planting of trees at the East End grounds.
Securing large flag for the Emerson Park grounds, to be kept flying during the playground season, on holidays and special occasions.
Strict enforcement of rules governing the sale of refreshments at the parks and playgrounds.
Exclusion of carnivals from the Emerson Park grounds.
Continuation of physical training, providing for the training of the boys.

LEATHER TRADE BEGINS TO FLOURISH IN CITY

(By ENERGY)

That there is an improvement in the leather situation is an assured fact. It is in spots, but there is enough of these spots to have one make the claim all is better, if not well.

The trouble seems to be that shoe manufacturers are moving cautiously, for to be bitten once makes one that way. Therefore this caution serves to make the sale of leather for immediate wants only. But there is a healthy condition to this way of doing, we must all admit.

A salesman who covers practically all the shoe factories on the North and South shores, reports some conditions which will require some figuring. He finds those who manufacture cheap shoes in Brockton busy, those of the better variety doing little. He comes to Lynn and he finds the cheap shoe fellows doing little or nothing, and the better grades busy. Now why is such a condition It reverts back to what I have written in the past about tanners. The same condition exists here with them. It is easy enough to see that as some kinds of leather are dull that the makers of this kind find themselves out of the market. For instance, cabarettas, a leather which ranks with the best, is not selling today because a cheaper leather is taking the place. This means the shoe manufacturer is cutting costs to meet competition. No doubt he would prefer the cabarettas for topping, as it makes a shoe which will stand any inspection, so far as the tops go. But the imitation is a leather which stands the gaff to the ordinary buyer and the shoe sells. Therefore down the line, if the shoe manufacturer must compete with prices which have been cut to get business, the substitution process goes on, and the public gets a shoe for less money and less value.

Now so far as the wear goes, this cut price shoe may answer. It will not stand up as well, which all acknowledge. But with the downward tendency of commodities, first will come cut in values, then later values will be there for the cut in price. It is a quick process to inflate values but a slow one when the reduction process comes about.

During the war when everybody in business who employed help was striving to get men and women to work in the factories, five dollars a week raise in wages was common. Another week would serve to increase that amount, so instead of $20 a week it mounted to $100 a week in many cases. Now the afterclap is cutting these amounts and naturally the men and women resent it. Sober minded judgment tells all of us that the raise in wages was far too much. Do not get me wrong when I say this, for I believe that we all are better off under good wages. But after enjoying wages which in years back went to the big brains, it is indeed hard to drop back again. But we all know it must come and that we all must take it for it goes with living.

Patent leather is coming back, and the manufacturers of this kind of leather in Peabody report a decided improvement in this line. Suedes and calfskins are selling freely, with blacks and colors sharing the business. I saw this week some black shoes in a local store window which looked the money. Finished in a half dull, smoky style, they appeared to me the last word in the tanner's and shoemaker's art. These shoes were made by one of the high grade manufacturers, and from my standpoint one would pay the price for them. It would not take an expert to pick such shoes, for value was written on every angle.

The point I wish to make is that the Action by Peabody Post, American Legion, endorsing the regime of Military Aid Commissioner Andrey Fyfe backs up the approval given that official by Mayor Shea, State Commissioner's Agent Flynn and others cognizant of the contemptible tactics pursued to place Fyfe in an unwarranted light. As an overseas veteran, Fyfe has a record the equal in endorsement of any veteran in this city. He is fearelss and unbiased and efforts to besmirch his integrity has fallen down. He has given his office the highest kind of an efficient management with the slogan a square deal for all without favor or political pull. The critics of Commissioner Fyfe reckoned without their host when they insinuated he was unjustly using a single war veteran entitled to financial aid. The endorsement of the local American Legion was due this prominent member and the Enterprise congratulates the Legion on their action.

BETTER BUSINESS

There are unmistakable signs of better business in Peabody today with many of the leather plants adding to their force of workmen. Shoe salesmen have gone into their districts for winter orders and reports from all parts of the country indicate a better pulse in the busines world. The readjustment process is being helped along. There are better days in sight for the workers and the employers and Peabody has no reason to be unhappy over its outlook. The 30 per cent. estimate is believed to be the accurate number of workmen unemployed, and this figure is bound to be cut down in the near future.

FALL FAIRS

That Essex County is still in the front rank agriculturally will be demonstrated during the next few weeks by four different fall fairs, including that held by the old Essex Agricultural Society at Topsfield. This is the fair that was held so many years at Peabody, and used to call out tremendous crowds each September. There is considerable inspiration to be derived from a visit to one or more of these agricultural exhibits, and each year finds the crowds turning out in increasing numbers to admire the best specimens of animal, vegetable and flower kingdoms that the year has produced. Essex County, through a beehive of industry, also has some of the finest soil in the state, and can boast of being able to feed her inhabitants with enough to spare to send to the Boston market. This is a healthy condition for a community to have, where she can give employment in her industries to hundreds of thousands and still have the means to care for a large proportion of the demands made upon the food supply without going outside. The fall fairs do much to stimulate and keep alive the interest in local agriculture. They deserve the fine patronage that they earn each season. We wish Peabody's exhibitors the best of luck in winning their share of the prizes this year.

THRIFT COUNTS

A shining example of the value of small savings was shown this week in a news item which stated that due to the economy of Boston housewives in the matter of extracting every particle of fat from their table waste, that the cost to the city for garbage collection has doubled, meaning a difference of two million dollars. To many of us the amount we may be able to save at a time may seem trifling, but if these trifles are allowed to accumulate, the total will be a very worth while sum. Any busines man will tell you that it is the little leaks that eat up the profits. Just so it is in the home. The French the past masters of the art of thrift in the home, and the Americans have earned the opposite title of being the most extravagant people on the earth, simply because we have been in the habit of looking at things in a large way and not bothering with details. America has won her way under this plan, but in order to hold her own she must follow up the details as well. The time for thrift is all the time and the best time to start is now.

RIDING ON STREET CARS

There ought to be some way of stopping boys and young men from riding on the rear of electric cars. Even full grown men have been seen to beat their way by hanging on to the rear outside of cars. Those who get rides that way not only evade their fares, but they are in danger of being injured. They can be seen daily by the police who have the same opportunity for observation that comes to other citizens, and the practice should be stopped. We have too many helpless cripples in the world already and somebody is obliged to pay for the indifference to such stunts on the part of young and old.

GREEK SOVEREIGN LAUDS WORK OF NEAR EAST RELIEF

Cables Thanks for Christian Lives Saved in "Beautiful Work" of Mercy

Athens, Greece.—The wonderful work done by the Near East Relief organization in saving the lives of tens of thousands of Christians throughout Asia Minor and Transcaucasia has received signal recognition in praise bestowed by Queen Sophie of Greece in a cablegram dispatch by the Greek sovereign to Dr. James L. Barton, Chairman, and Charles V. Vickrey, Secretary, of the Photograph by International.

KING AND QUEEN OF GREECE

Near East Relief organization, 1 Madison Ave., New York City. Her message reads:

"Deeply touched your great kindness towards Greek war sufferers in Straits Area and Asia Minor. Thank you all most sincerely.

SOPHIE."

At the same time, the Greek queen sent her check to Dr. Barton, Chairman of the Near East Relief Committee, for 1,000 francs as a contribution to what she termed the "beautiful work" of feeding, clothing and housing the more than 110,000 little children who have come under the care of the Near East Relief during the past year.

Besides Queen Sophie, Admiral P. Coundouriotis, of the Royal Hellenic Navy, who was regent of Greece following the death of the late King Alexander, on October 25, last, has also cabled to express the gratitude of the Greek people for the aid furnished the Christian populations of Turkey by the Near East Relief. More than $120,000.00 was raised among the Greeks of the United States, in two weeks, and sent to the Near East by the Near East Relief, to be used in helping the widows and orphans rendered destitute by the continuation of disturbed conditions in the former Ottoman Empire. The funds of the Near East Relief are gathered by private subscription not only among Americans, but among the Armenians and Greeks in the United States, whose countrymen in Turkey and Transcaucasia have been through indescribable suffering.

In an official report to Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, Miss Glee Hastings, of Spencer, Iowa, describes the pitiable condition of tens of thousands of homeless, starving, half-naked refugees, driven from their homes in the war area, and huddled in stables and out-houses, or on the bare ground, for lack of shelter.

"Most of the refugees are country people with almost nothing except the clothes on their backs, stupefied and dazed by their misfortunes. Bread is given only to women and children at the rate of one-half loaf for a person, each day. The milk is reserved for the babies and sick. The refugees sit around, huddled up against the walls—women with dull, sad faces, little children that are blue and pinched with the cold, and too miserably lifeless to cry. One family of five sleeps at night on a bare stone floor, under one thin, ragged half-cotton blanket. In one room several women are wasting away with tuberculosis; in another are some severe eye cases, including two young blind girls, who have no one in the world to care for them. The overflow from these buildings live in a wooden shed with the walls and floors gaping with holes where the wood has rotted away and in tents improvised from rags and pieces of carpet."

A nation-wide appeal is being made to carry on this work, checks to be sent to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

U. S. ARMY HEAD ASKS ARMENIAN AID

Washington. — Major General James G. Harbord, recently appointed General Pershing's assistant Chief of Staff, has gone on record in support of the work of the Near East Relief in Armenia. He says, in a letter to the Near East Relief:

"Of all the heart-breaking distress that exists in other countries, I believe that the Near East situation should most appeal to our charitable people. There are many thousands of helpless orphans—children of Christian parents in a Moslem land, who must be helped by our people if they are to survive. The Armenians have preserved their race, their religion and their language under conditions of distress for over a thousand years. They are worthy of a better fate than to perish, and I believe that will be their fate without substantial financial and moral support from the good people of our country.

"J. G. HARBORD,
"Major General, U. S. Army."

General Harbord is one of the trustees of the Near East Relief organization, now making a general appeal for funds to continue its work among the destitute of Bible lands.

ROUND ABOUT

Among the most beautiful dahlia exhibits in the city is that of Nicholas Pappas of Mt. Vernon street. There are many prize specimens in this collection, and the garden is kept in fine condition.

It is interesting to note in the annual report of the school committee that no truancy was recorded among pupils of the High, West and Felton schools during the school year 1920-21.

Citizens know little of the work of the local Red Cross branch which is doing much good to assist war veterans in need of attention. Miss Mary E. Poole is chairman of the local chapter and she and her committee are rendering a real service to the Peabody boys in the Parker Hill Hospital. One of the veterans could use a second hand suit and Miss Poole would be glad to hear from some Peabody citizen whose weight is about 170 pounds who may have one to donate.

Here's one on Chief Michael H. Grady of the police force. Tuesday afternoon he drove his car up to the curb near the O'Shea building and parked it near Trask's market. He disappeared and in his absence a w. k. citizen hurried into the postoffice and wrote on a card, "Please call at the police station." The card with its invitation was tied to the chief's auto and was found by the police head when he returned to drive away. It is said that Chief Grady suspects one of his reserve police officers, but eye witnesses to the incident aver no policeman had anything to do with the card. Autos are not supposed to park where the chief left his machine and it looks as if the cigars are on him.

I observe that Dr. Charles E. Campbell, dentist, is sojourning with his family at Wolfeboro, N. H., where he is said to be enjoying fishing in Lake Winnepesaukie and getting some real catches.

Tom McCabe, one of the leading sporting writers in Boston, paid Chick Davies, Peabody's famous twirler, a handsome compliment for his work in Labor Day's game when the local southpaw working for Salem shut out the fast Cornets of Lynn. McCabe in a special article addressed to Connie Mack of the Athletics wants to know why the White Elephant leader doesn't yank Chick back into major league baseball. Davies with the aid of Jack Barry, former captain for the Athletics, won the game for Salem. It was Chick's stellar pitching and Barry's old-time emergency single that won for Salem.

I understand that Edward M. Boynton is making many friends in his new store on Central street. "Ed" gave up the tinsmith business some years ago and purchased his present store where he is always hard at work satisfying a patronage that appreciates his service. He has a smile that makes his customers feel at home. The kiddies are his friends and that's a pretty good proof that "Ed" is doing a real service in his new activity.

Dr. John J. Hickey and P. H. O'Conor, his father-in-law, who returned this week from their summer sojourn at Little Nahant, were among the bathers at the beach this summer, making it almost a daily practice to dip into the briny. I observed them one afternoon last week getting real pleasure in their swim, none the least being playing with the doctor's children.

During the wait for the triple funeral procession to reach Peabody square on Labor Day morning a Pennsylvania touring car stopped and the man at the wheel asked what the crowd was waiting for. He was informed and when he learned that three war veterans were to be buried he asked if young Martinack's body had been received. He was told it had. The man who didn't give his name said the Martinack family were once neighbors of his in the Keystone state. The visitor attended the funeral.

King of Signboards

Probably the most elaborate sign-board ever exhibited was that of the White Hart at Scole, Norfolk. Sir Thomas Browne, in 1663, described it as the "noblest signpost in England, about and upon which are carved a great many stories as of Charlemagne, Cerberus, Actacon and Diana, and many others." This king of signboards was erected in 1655, and is said to have cost over £1,000. It was in existence up till the end of the Eighteenth century, and possibly may still be preserved somewhere or other.—London Chronicle.

Cultivate Observation

Observation is a quality that is easy to cultivate if you make up your mind to do so. Try to notice the birds and beasts, the men and things you see every day. Ask yourself at night what you have seen during the day. At first your answers will be very short, but soon you will find that you are beginning really to see things. It is not difficult, and it is well worth while. Allied with observation is the power of imagination. The first enables us to see things as they are, by means of the second we see things as they might be. Imagination makes use not of the outward eye, but of the mind's eye.

HORSE ATE HIS HAT

Peabody firemen say the joke is on Charlie McCarthy, best little fire fighter of Hose 4, who mourned the loss of a good straw hat one night this week at Hose 3 station. Charlie left the hat too near one of Driver Bodge's fire steeds and "Jerry" proceeded to munch the straw. Before he had stopped this indoor sport the hat was wrecked and "Mac" had to go home bareheaded.

BRADLEY'S BODY SWEPT 27 MILES

Word has been received by A. A. Mackinnon that the body of his brother-in-law, George Bradley, a Canadian overseas veteran, who was drowned in Alberta, July 28, was found on August 5 over 27 miles down the river from where he met his death. The body was recovered by patrols of Odd Fellows and Masons to which deceased belonged. This patrol followed the stream 12 days in their quest for the body. The funeral was in White Mountain House, Alberta, and was the largest funeral ever known in that place. Bradley served four and a half years in France. He visited Peabody on his return from overseas, joining his wife, Mr. Mackinnon's sister, in this city. Bradley lost his life while at work as a government forester in charge of a large district. He was crossing the river when his boat capsized.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

The body of Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion at the time of his accidental death at Indianapolis, Ind., in June, will not be interred in Arlington national cemetery at Washington, D. C., according to advices last week from the widow and brother of the late commander. Burial will be made at Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati, O., where the body was placed in a temporary vault following the largest military funeral in America since the Civil war.

With the practical closing of the harvest season, the employment office of an American Legion post at Aberdeen, S. D., where I. W. W.'s tried to cause a general "strike" among farm hands, has closed. In three weeks the Legion served 1017 free meals, found jobs for 617 men, gave 304 places to sleep, gave 373 free baths and 12 treatments by the post physician.

The city election in Birmingham, Ala., may be postponed at the request of an American Legion post of that city. The service men want to vote. When a law exempting them from poll tax was declared unconstitutional recently, the men were disqualified as voters. Thirty thousand World war veterans of the state are affected.

—*—

Evidence of the plight of unemployed service men was carried to cultured Boston last week, when Armand T. Gaudreau, University of Maine graduate, besought the American Legion employment bureau for any work that he could do. Previously Gaudreau, dressed in his collegiate cap and gown, appeared in the streets of the banking section, selling newspapers.

A silver reproduction of the historic statue atop Castle San Angelo, Italy, mounted on a pedestal of stone from Mount Grappa, will be brought to the American Legion by General Armando Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies, when he attends the Legion convention at Kansas City in October, cable dispatches declare.

To send back to her home on the Rhine the German widow of an American doughboy, wearer of five battle clasps and cited for valor, the American Legion of New York is raising a fund of $250. The veteran met his bride while with the Army of Occupation and through illness left her practically penniless upon his recent death.

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, and Charles R. Forbes, national director of the bureau of war risk insurance, spoke on the same platform in addressing the state convention of the American Legion of North Carolina last week.

The old Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago will be taken over by the American Legion of that city for the exclusive use of homeless and jobless service men in plans now being worked out by the Legionnaires. Accommodations will be provided for 1000 men.

When President Harding visits Birmingham, Ala., in October, he will be attended by an honor guard of 1000 members of the American Legion, drawn from each of the 80 posts of the state.

The parents of Merle Hay, one of the first three Americans killed in the World war, will receive no insurance because their boy died before the war risk act became operative. The American Legion of Iowa, Hay's home state, has petitioned for the parents' relief and is seeking to find any other parents whose sons "died too soon."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

LITTLE TALKS AMONG OURSELVES

THE VALUE OF TIME

Fifty years ago very few people could afford to carry a watch; today watches are made in such quantities in so many factories that people can buy watches at a moderate price. Almost every one carries a watch and yet so few of us appreciate the Value of Time. Do we ever think when we hear the Peabody square clock strike the hour that it is a notice to us that the hour has gone. We never notice Time until it has passed.

We seem to think our watches are machines that divide the day into hours and minutes instead of the real fact that they are reminders that NOW is the time to do the thing that must be done. We do not stop to think we use a watch because we are civilized and intelligent. Drunken, insane and dead men do not need watches, they know nothing about Time and have no use for it.

No matter what a man does to earn his living, he begins to grow bigger and better and can earn more money as soon as he learns how to use to advantage the little bit of Time in every single day. He builds up his character by his work and his study so that the little bit of Time he calls his life will be of value. The great question is: "What am I doing with my Time?" "What have I done with it?"

Well, it doesn't look good during the year that is past. We haven't done much, but try to get over the mistakes of the after-war years when we wasted our Time in jazz and jag and joy rides and extravagance and as little work as possible. All of us. You and I and the whole nation. We didn't think of the Value of Time. "I should worry." "Let George do it." Wasting and fooling away the day. We thought we were prosperous. Wages were good; profits were good; we were feeding the world; we were ahead of every nation in the world. Why worry.

The war is ended. We have learned that the loss of lives, of money, of Time, must be all made up again. They must be made up by you and me each and every day on the job. We have to use our Time to the best advantage if we expect to hold our job. We cannot understand why there are so many who haven't any job and cannot use their Time to advantage. Why is this?

The explanation is simple, so far as this country is concerned. The United States must export one-fifth of all it manufactures or we have hard times here. Today we are not exporting anything like this amount of goods. The leather we used to make in Peabody and send abroad is not going. The foreign nations haven't the money to buy because they are not using the Time of every day to advantage. Russia is not working and people are starving. Poland is still fighting; Greece is at war with Turkey; France has not recovered from her terrible loss.

But Belgium is on her feet. Italy is in good shape once more. England has stopped her bitter strikes and gone to work again and now we can see that gradually business will improve. Slowly and gradually we'll get back into a steady, normal business. We will if we appreciate the Value of Time. They say that in Germany they are working ten hours, twelve hours and in many cases fourteen hours a day. We do not know whether this is true or not, but we do know that they are working long hours and getting in all the Time they can.

JUSTICE SERVICE CO-OPERATION

Can Germany beat us in our industry? No. Today we are the leaders of the world, because in this country we breed real men; skillful, intelligent, enthusiastic men. This is not any accident, but because it is a national business policy and a sure winner. It has been a winner in the past. Will it always be so? Well, it's up to you, son. No one else.

We think that just one man cannot do much. He cannot; BUT think what would happen if every man and woman in Peabody fully understood the Value of Time. Think, too, what one man can do when he gets his chance. Old man Foch got his chance and he won the war because he understood the Value of Time. Think it over and you'll find this is true.

Yes, we are the leaders today, but don't you fool yourself. The only way to be ahead is to KEEP ahead. We can't afford to waste time, for when war-tired Europe gets on her feet again and is rested, we'll have to hustle some to catch up if we throw away that priceless gift of Time.

We know how to do things. The problem now is when shall we do them. Look at that watch again and think of the wonderful Value of Time.

SALEM LAUNDRY

FINN FAVORS FEDERAL CONTROL OF RAILRODAS TO PROMOTE BUSINESS

Editor "Peabody Enterprise":

As the writer has pointed out on more than one occasion, all real progress made by the people of this country has been made as the result of deep thought on their part. When people are ready to take up a question and look at it from all sides, they will find a solution for every measure which they consider.

In a recent report given to the newspapers, it was said that the state of Iowa has raised more corn this year than during any one year of its history. At the same time, it is pointed out that the farmers of that state are unable to find a market for that corn, chiefly due to the fact that the railroads are unable to move it; or if they do move it, the freight charges are so high that it hardly pays the farmer to ship it to market.

In this same report it is stated that the farmers of Minnesota will burn corn this winter instead of coal; or that many farmers in that state, at least, will be doing so. They will burn corn because it is impossible for them to obtain coal at its present high cost. The returns from the sale of corn is so small that they will save money by burning corn instead of coal.

If these facts are as represented it would seem that it is about time for the people of this country to make some inquiry into the railroad situation with a view to bettering it. If the railroads cannot haul corn to the east, they lose a certain amount of business because of their failure in this respect; and if they are unable to deliver coal to the west, they lose again. In fact, they lose money in both directions. And not only will the railroads meet this financial loss, but also the farmers, and the people of our industrial centers, who make clothing, shoes and other commodities which the farmers need.

There is a widespread depression in business all over the coutnry at the present time, which bids fair to become deeper still if something is not done with the railroad question in the very near future. Even the man who has given this question no consideration, must know that the farmers cannot buy shoes or other supplies if they are unable to market their own product. If they cannot sell the goods they produce, they cannot buy the product of other people's labor, which means that less leather will be made in Peabody, and fewer shoes made in our shoe centers, because of this reduced purchasing power on the part of the tillers of the soil.

As the writer sees it, the railroads ought to be run and operated in the interests of the whole industry in this country. In the early days people had to take over the roads and turnpikes so that business could proceed unhampered. Turnpikes and roads are no longer important in the matter of transportation; railroads are the arteries of commerce today. They took the place of the turnpike many years ago.

The railroads should be owned by the public, in which event a vast saving would be made at the very beginning. At the present time, the people have to pay some fourteen millions of dollars each year to the stockholders of the railroads. The government has guaranteed the stockholders something like six per cent. on their investment; and no matter what happens, this money must be paid or the railroads will cease to function.

We cannot get along without the railroads in this country; and since this is true, we should take them over and operate them, as the people of Canada are now doing. The policy in Canada is to have government ownership of railroads, while the policy in the United States is the direct opposite. These two systems will be worked out within the next few years, in which time a chance for comparison of the two systems will be had by the people of both countries. The writer believes that Canada has the right idea of it and that the people of that country will be more prosperous because of their advanced stand in this matter.

It will be noticed that we have made wonderful progress in all lines of endeavor where public ownership has been adopted. Every child in America is guaranteed a certain education because of our publicly-owned school system. Before the people took over their school system, not one child in ten could get an education, which is a fact that all students of social history will admit.

In the matter of our streets, water departments, fire departments, public parks, police service and other things, we have made wonderful progress. So, too, in our postoffice department. If the postoffice were operated by private interest, it would probably cost fifty cents to send a letter to Chicago. Today we can send a letter to San Francisco for two cents; at the same time, the workers in the postoffice are paid far higher wages than they could possibly hope to obtain in private employment.

We must make use of the railroads to expedite business, to carry goods back and forth with as little delay as possible, and with the least expense. Leather made in Peabody must be shipped to the most remote parts of the country; and there must be no heavy freight charges to prevent that leather being transported. At the same time, we can make it possible to bring food-stuffs from the west and lay them down on the eastern seaboard at the bare cost of the service. In doing all this the railroads will merely be the handmaid of industry, so to speak.

At the present moment, there is considerable trucking going on over all our highways; and some of our larger companies are forced to send goods several hundred miles away by truck, at a considerable expense. That is a clear waste of labor and a clear waste of money. At the same time our roads are being worn out at a very rapid rate, which means an added burden to the tax-payer. And all the time the railroads, which could be made to handle all of this business, are doing one-half, or one-quarter, of the work which they might be made to do under a proper system.

The writer would also state that the present high cost of coal is due partly to the heavy charges made by the railroads. There was a time when coal could be bought here in Peabody for seven or eight dollars per ton. Now that same coal costs $16 per ton. And much of this added expense is due to the higher toll of the railroads in bringing coal from Pennsylvania to this section of New England.

Just now, there is great complaint from the mass of our people because of the wrong conditions existing in society. But these conditions will continue to exist and will actually grow worse just so long as the average man and woman fails to give some thought to the cause. If conditions are wrong, there is always a remedy in sight; and it is up to the people to find that remedy and apply it, if they are to make headway in their business life in future years.

The average citizen today is willing to pay good money to see a prize fight or a baseball game, neither of which can help him, financially or any other way. And the average man seems to know all about these two sports; whereas he knows nothing at all about the cause of unemployment and the high cost of living. These are the questions that come first and should be given most consideration; for the future prosperity of the people depends upon their solution.

SCHOOL DAYS

Essex "Aggie" School Notes

Extension Dept. Farm Tour

On Saturday, Sept. 10th, farmers and families of two Counties will enjoy a tour of a portion of Essx County, Mass. and Rockingham County, N. H. The trip will be made by auto. The party starts from Topsfield Town Hall at 10:00 A. M. with the following itinerary and objective; farm of D. Lockwood, Boxford, pure bred sheep and R. I. Red fowl; Tenney Farm, Ipswich, homemade silo and silage corn crop; L. G. Dodge, West Newbury, general farm, Holstein cattle. At this point, George M. Putnam, President New Hampshire Farm Bureau will address the company. The next stop will be at the farm of A. W. Bartlett & Sons, Salisbury, where a number of demonstration plots will be studied. Basket luncheon will be enjoyed on Batt Hill, which overlooks both Essex County and southern New Hampshire. After luncheon, the party will cruise in Rockingham County, visiting Applecrest Farm, Hampton Falls, quite famous for its gigantic poultry plant and its extensive young bearing orchards. They will also visit Holmes' Farm, Stratham, Baker Farm, Stratham, and Monohan Farm at East Kingston. This is an outing well worth while and everyone interested in improved farming and fine scenery will be welcome to take the trip. County Agricultural Agent Stiles has charge of the first part of the trip, representing the Essex County Agricultural School.

New Class

The largest class in the history of the School was admitted on Tuesday, September 6th. New students are still enrolling and it would now seem that the class will number upwards of 135. The fall work commences with great vigor, the girls taking up intensive courses in canning, jelly making, evaporating and pickle making. The boys are already receiving lessons in harvesting of fruits and vegetables and also in collecting a vast amount of material for use in the class room during fall and winter months. There are at present 24 Federal students in the School taking a course in vocational training in agriculture.

Millinery Teacher

The Trustees have appointed Agnes M. Dalton instructor in millinery. She is appointed to succeed Miss Simms, who has resigned. Miss Dalton has had a long and varied training for the work which she takes up at the School. She is a graduate of the Lowell High School and of the Framingham State Normal School. In addition to the above, she has had a long and varied experience in trade work and is a milliner with a wide professional experence.

Seasonal Notes

Dahlias are in fine bloom at the present time. Why not select your varieties now on the grounds of the commercial growers or at the various county agricultural fairs!

One who intends to propagate a few plants for house decorative purposes should do so at once. Many of the varieties perish with light frosts, notably coleus. All varieties propagate before cold weather.

If you are not in a section where currants and gooseberries are condemned, September is a good month in which to make and plant cuttings. There is great difficulty in introducing plants from nursery for fear of carrying the white pine bister rust.

One who intends to use bulbs either for house blooming or for the early spring flower beds should secure the bulbs at once. By a selection of best varieties, it is possible to obtain most wonderful spring displays. Order tulips, hyacinths, daffodills, and crocus for fall planting.

One of the most troublesome fruit diseases is brown rot, which seriously attacks the peach, plum, and cherry. Even in as bad a year as the present, this can be controlled by frequent spraying with self-boiled lime sulphur. If in need of suggestions regarding the preparation and use of this material, the staff will be pleased to supply information.

SHOE MARKET

Salesmen are leaving for their territories. Most factories have business on the books for several weeks ahead and before this volume is completed orders from salesmen on the road will arrive. Many retailers have not yet placed their requirements for late fall and winter and the early days of the present trip should result in picking up considerable of this business, which will probably call for quick delivery. Samples run to a high percentage of low cuts, although some boots are being offered. Many manufacturers believe a seasonable winter will bring a demand for high shoes. Manufacturers are making a strong effort to attract retailers on price. Stock departments at the factories are being placed in condition to care for quick deliveries as it is believed that most dealers will stick to the policy of close buying. Jobbers report a more active business with retailers in many cases sacrificing price for quality.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Quinn have returned from their honeymoon trip and are residing at 9 Ayer street.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. James McLaughlin of Haskell place on September 6.

C. Edward Bickford of Holten street has returned to his home from a trip to the White Mountains.

The Leo Guild has contracted with the John B. Rodgers Producing Company to produce one of their latest and best musical comedies here on October 6 and 7. The title of the show selected is "All Aboard" and is from the pen of the late Junie McCree. New York put the stamp of approval on "All Aboard" a short time ago, when it enjoyed an extended run on Broadway. Rehearsals will begin about September 2, under the personal direction of one of the firm's expert producers, and the committee having the show in charge are busily engaged in making the necessary preparations for this unusual fantasy.

best leather is selling well. I do not wish to infer that because some leather is not selling, that such leather may not be favored, but it must be admitted that clever salesmen have a way of showing their wares with such a convincing way as to get business. My experience in years past makes me reason that salesmanship at this time has much to do with some factories being busy. That way of getting to the buyer must be born in a man, and cannot be acquired, only to a certain extent.

Hunt Rankin are building an addition to their tan room which will add to capacity. Since the National Calfskin finished their mammoth storehouse and office building little has been attempted by local tanners in the building line. But perhaps this Hunt Rankin building is the forerunner of better things. In five years tannery property goes to pieces rapidly, particularly if repairs are not frequently made. Particularly the older buildings show their age, which leads me to think when business shows more life, there will be much new and repair work.

Some one has figured recently that there is but 30 per cent. of the tannery employes loafing today. From all I can gather this is near right. In another month it is fair to predict this 30 per cent. will be cut to 15, and then we are getting down to normalcy, for 10 per cent. of such help are drifters. True it is that the National Calfskin Co. have dropped many men, but I believe this is for a short time. Let us all be optimists, and pull for the future, which looks bright as predicted by the best minds in our country, and where can one go for better judgment

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

MOTHERS MAKE MEN.

SAMUEL MATTHEWS VAUCLAIN, head of the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, has had wide experience in the selection as well as the handling of men.

He admits that he has a method, a secret, in making his selections.

HE FINDS OUT WHAT KIND OF A MOTHER A BOY HAS, and pays no attention to the father. In the course of a long business life he has made few exceptions to this rule.

This theory of Mr. Vauclain has a negative as well as a positive side.

It explains not only why so many undistinguished fathers have distinguished sons, but also why so many fathers who are failures have sons who are successful.

There are two sides to the question. For one thing there is a tendency on the part of a boy to derive his predominant traits from his mother.

For another, the mother is obviously more instrumental than the father in creating the environment which plays a large part in the development of the sons.

In the average home the problem of providing a minimum of income—which is the duty of the father—is much less complicated than the problem of making both ends meet—which is the problem of the mother.

Long before statesmen ever dreamed of a budget system, that method was familiar to the women. In one generation after another they have had to pay their way with resources that did not increase in proportion as the families grew.

The carefulness, prudence and foresight that a woman displays in running her house naturally show themselves in the bringing up of her men-children. If she is incompetent and shiftless in one direction, she will be the same in the other.

The mother, as distinguished from the father, has played a leading part in the formative period of men of conspicuous genius who have lifted themselves "by their bootstraps" into places of great eminence.

The mothers of Abraham Lincoln and Napoleon Bonaparte supply the only available explanations of the rise to leadership of two men who are types of success, under the most difficult circumstances.

In each case a powerful, dominant character made possible the passage from a log cabin to the White House and from Corsica to the leading place in Europe and an imperial throne.

In our own time the supreme qualities of Marshal Foch are traceable to the powerful individuality of his mother.

From the dawn of history to the present day, in sacred and secular affairs, the influence of the mother has always been the greatest factor in the development of ability or genius. She has been the source of inspiration as she was the source of being.

Sometimes she has pulled the children, handicapped by the father's characteristics up to her own level.

Sometimes she has pushed them above both herself and the father by an indomitable determination that neither poverty nor ill fortune of any kind should interfere with her ambitions.

Mr. Vauclain's plan of selection will serve its purpose in the great majority of instances. He is safe in concluding that if the boy had the right kind of a mother he can count on his being the right kind of a boy.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"GOSSIP."

"GOSSIP" or "gossib," as Chaucer spelled it, was the name given by the Hampshire peasantry to the persons who acted as sponsors in baptism, the godfathers and godmothers. It was a compound word, made up of the name "God" and the word "sib," still used in Scotland in the sense of "akin"—the meaning being that the gossib was akin to God and stood in this relation to the child, a sense which is still extant in our own word "godparent."

Considering "gossip" in its ordinary use as one addicted to tattling or prattling or the carrying of tales and it appears to bear little relation to the word as originally coined. But it should be remembered that the "gossibs" were brought by a common sponsorship into a close familiarity with one another, which led eventually to trivial, idle talk and the carrying of information from one to another. That this failing is not peculiar to Anglo-Saxon godparents is evident from an examination of the French word commerage and the fact that commere has passed through precisely the same stages as its English equivalent.

Ethel Clayton Here Tonight As Strand's Leading Feature

A picture that will strike home to nine-tenths of the audience viewing it; an excellent combination of clever comedy and serious moral—is "Sham," Ethel Clayton's latest starring vehicle which will be presented at the local playhouse today and Saturday. As Katherine Van Riper, a "gentle grafter", Miss Clayton has a perfect light-comedy role that shows her at the very peak of her well known ability. Her cast in the picture is unusually fine and includes Theodore Roberts as a bluff old old millionaire while Walter Hiers is his hefty son. All in all, "Sham" contains all the humor that characterized the popular stage version with added touches made possible thru the enlarged visual scope of the screen. A thrilling chapter of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" and a Clyde Cook comedy entitled "All Wrong" will be the other number listed for showing today and Saturday. Clyde Cook, while a new comer to the screen, has, for years, been one of the favorite comedians of the European stage, chiefly thru his uncanny ability to twist his body into almost any shape.

Alice Joyce in "Cousin Kate," a role made famous on the stage by Ethel Barrymore, will be the main attraction on the Strand's bill for Sunday evening. "The Highest Law," starring Ralph Ince, is the second feature for Sunday evening. Mr. Ince is famous as an impersonator of Abraham Lincoln and his work in this picture has received favorable comment from the press of the entire country.

Tom Mix in "Hand Off" will top the double feature bill for next Monday and Tuesday. Needless to state this picture is replete with virile action of the most rugged sort. It is probably the best and biggest production Mix has ever offered to the public. It contains among its thrilling scenes a realistic stampede of horses which has never been equalled in motion pictures. In the path of the maddened animals is a four-year-old youngster, whom Mix reaches just in the nick of time. Escape on either side is impossible so the star rushes ahead and jumps into the town pump, where he holds the boy until the stampede is over. There are many other thrilling scenes in this picture which is adapted from one of the stories by William MacLeod Raine, a noted writer of Western life. Playing opposite the star is Pauline Curley and other included in the cast are Charles K. French and Lloyd Bacon.

Cullen Landis and Molly Malone will divide the headline honors in "Its A Great Life" which will be the second attraction on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. This picture is adapted from the story "The Empire Builders," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

WITH THE FIREMEN

"Jim" Cunningham, another member of the Bench Crew at the Central House, is one of the most efficient members of the volunteer force according to regular members of the department who aver that he would make a valuable addition to the department when the next appointments are made.

Have you ever seen that Boulevard Greyhound that Firemen Ray Skinner and Arthur Flynn use to get to fires quick, when they are off duty? They call it the "Gazunka" at Fire headquarters. It's an odd name for an odd vehicle. At any rate the thing goes, and if it don't go Skinner and Flynn simply turn it up, just as a father would a disobedient son.

Dick is the popular mascot of the firemen at the Central Fire station. When Dick first wandered into the Central station some nine or 10 years ago, he looked like a tramp, and the firemen taking pity on him established him in a comfortable box in the basement, and christened him Dick. All went well until Dick reported for roll call one morning with several little Dicks. Then the firemen discovered their mistake and thought to right matters they would call the mascot, Mary or Marion or something like that. And then Dick proved she was the female of the specie, by refusing to answer to either Mary, Marion or anything else but Dick. Dick has a habit of taking her naps in the basket on the top of the hook and ladder truck, but only once has she been caught napping in the basket when the gong rings. With the first stroke of the big bell Dick is on her feet and leaping to the floor. She had one wild ride in that basket on the old hook in her younger days, and she has never forgotten it. The fire was on Foster street and when the firemen arrived they found her in the basket more scared than hurt. She rode on the seat back to the station and has never been known to go out on the kit since that time. Incidentally she is the champion dog chaser of Peabody.

It is whispered that Charlie Lawrence is scouting for information. And if asking will get it, he has hopes of finding out just how many different ways there are in which to charge a chemical tank. To date his findings number two, one of which is Charlie's way.

The past two weeks have been rather busy days for the local firemen, with three bell alarms and three stills.

Stuart Pollock whose name is so closely linked with the Curtis Drug store, that to many the mention of the Curtis store means Pollock, and vice versa, is also a charter member of the Bench Crew at the Central Fire Station. Stuart is more than a member of the Bench Crew, however. Among the firemen he is rated as a valuable volunteer, particular in fires that occur on Walnut street. He is particularly adept with the hatchet. But they say that in North Salem there are those who would prefer to see Stuart riding behind the drivers of the swift Salem apparatus.

Frank Basford, has threatened to furnish certain members of the fire department with ear trumpets to go with their gas masks. Frank is rated as a full fledged member of the Bench Crew at the Central Fire station. This, however, has nothing to do with his threat. While on his way home one evening recently Frank discovered what he thought was an honest to goodness fire in the Barnes House on School street. He telephoned to the Central Fire station but over the telephone the man on duty at the Station undersood that there was a barn fire on School street. Members of the Bench Crew side with their chief in his opinion that there is neither a joke in a Barn fire nor a Barnes fire either. So, why not ear trumpets?

Peabody Pays Last Tribute To Veterans

Peabody's triple funeral on Labor Day was most impressive ceremony yet been held in Peabody for deceased veterans of the World War, when tributes were paid Frank F. Martinack, Joseph M. Burke and Patrick Lynch.

The streets were thronged with citizens who turned out to witness the procession which was formed near the Lexington monument with Commander Joseph T. Sweeney of Post 153, American Legion, as marshal.

South Peabody paid a great community tribute to Private Frank Martinack. Lee's band of Lynn was furnished by the A. O. H., out of respect to Patrick Lynch, who was one of the most popular members of that order.

The arrangements for the affair were under the chairmanship of William F. Carlin, who is entitled to much credit. Spence's band and Gove's of Lynn furnished music during the procession.

The services were held in St. John's church, after which the caskets were placed on caissons and escorted to St. Mary's cemetery by a large delegation of Legion members, 13 automobiles containing mourners, Mayor and City Council, Relief Association of the fire department, Chief J. F. Barrett; Ladies of the Division and 125 members of Division 11, the Fr. Mathew C. T. A. Society, Leo Council, K. of C., and other fraternal organizations, Boy Scouts and citizens of South Peabody.

CITY COUNCIL

censed if it gives work to enough unemployed men.

City Finances Low

That city finances are at a low ebb just now is shown by a report from City Auditor Goggin submitted to the Council last night in which he set forth several departments as already having exceeded their appropriations. The departments where funds are overdrawn follow: Strike police, $3841.95; fire alarm, $14.73; sidewalks, $302.76; special street work, $261.22; soldiers' relief, $46.18; electric light, $6751.18; water extension, $62.08; cemetery, $1566.60; grade schools, $28,546.68; water pipe, $38.34. Receipts in both the electric light and cemetery are expected to cover their deficit.

City Auditor Goggin refuses to approve of the bill for a new Buick roadster purchased by Manager King of the electric light plant recently. The City Council last night adopted a motion by Councillor Jones asking for a ruling from the city solicitor as to whether Manager King has violated the city charter in not advertising for bids for the new car.

Councillor Walter H. Brown fathered a motion last night to have the city adopt an ordinance which will standardize the city autos. He favored Ford trucks and roadsters.

The Board of Health, through the Mayor, asked the Council last night to appropriate more funds for its department. They want $1000 more to pay for Peabody patients at the county hospital in Danvers and $940.38 for expenses in cleaning out the brooks. Both measures went to the finance committee.

The Council voted the sum of $200 damages for alleged injuries received by Nellie Sheehy when she fell on Margin street some months ago. She was confined to her home for 13 weeks.

City Hall Notes

The all absorbing topic in City Hall this week and next is taxes. With a raise of $7.10 it appears to many people that their valuation has been raised when such is not the case. The raises in valuation this year have been few and far between. Where it seemed to the assessors that certain property needed raising to come up to their neighbors it was done. It is done every year for if, the man or men exists who can value every piece of property right, he (or they) have not been found by the tax commissioner's office, whose deputies cover the State.

—*—

The undercurrent of ill feeling between the Mayor and others in City Hall continues on its way, and is only the natural result of what is and has been in municipal affairs but Cooperation is the decent business-like goal.

—*—

That driveway in the rear of city hall needs a better foundation than dirt and cinders. Every heavy rain washes the gravel on to the sidewalk and Chestnut street, and paving blocks would seem to be the remedy. The city has had many of these blocks in the past, and no doubt has some now.

—*—

Every day sees the need of a city map or plan for the assessors use. While there are plans taken from those of the sewer which cover only the streets in the center of the city on the streets only, rear land, all land above County street on Lynnfield, the whole of West Peabody is practically unknown except what the records of the valuation books show, which in the opinion of many does not take in more than 75 percent of the property in those sections. Perhaps these plans would yield the city far more than many things done in the past.

—*—

The women's list of polls are exhausted, for the demand has been far more than anticipated. The Men's list is not as popular. Funny, isn't it?

—*—

The schools opened Wednesday excepting the High School which starts Monday. The number of small children commencing their education is larger this year than is usual. One could not but remark what a neat looking lot they are, the futures of U. S. The foreign born parents outnumber the others.

—*—

City Soliitor Farnham and Councillor Walter Brown braved the wilds recently and caught unheard of fish as to size. Had Sawyer had the ground well marked as he had been there before them. It matters not where they were only that the fish welcomed them, probably thinking they were novices, which was indeed a mistake.

—*—

That new car of Warren King's, or more properly the city's, looks in decided contrast with the old one. An allowance of $250 for the derelict was small but plenty.

—*—

Frank Emerson returned to his desk Tuesday looking well enough to work. He covered most of the country from Hampton Beach to Maine, and reports a fine trip.

—*—

The conidtion of Councillor Francis Poor shows for the better. He has had a hard seige but his grit will win. Meanwhile his many friends keep him in mind and inquiries for his health are frequently heard.

—*—

Collector Sherry has advertised some 60 parcels for the taxes in this week's Enterprise. There were about 160 delinquents, but the hundred have paid. Collector Sherry is fast catching up and is advertising the 1920 taxes in this issue. In Danvers they are advertised the same year and after the first shock everybody is happy. The best way.

—*—

The principals of the several schools were called recently to meet the teachers who are beginning their duties here. The school committee believed it a good idea to get acquainted before school duties commence.

—*—

Charles Boyle will take the school census. His appointment came as a surprise to many, but Charley can do the trick. He's a wizard at figures. He may wear a tall hat on his canvass of the homes.

Lowell Street

Mrs. Edith C. Holman spent the week-end with friends in Manchester, N. H.

"Tommie" Ray, the "Mats" regular twirler, pitched a nice game for the Danvers Legion team against the Lafayettes last Saturday, holding that hard-hitting outfit to two runs in eight innings, only to see another hurler substituted in the ninth and the game thrown away by the score of 6 to 5. The loss was not charged to the local boy, as his team was leading when the change was made.

Kenneth Hill, Ralph Basford and Ralph Partridge are spending two weeks at Lake Winnepesaukee.

Louis P. P. Osborne has closed his summer home at West Alton, N. H., for the season and has returned with his family to Peabody. His three daughters have qualified as expert swimmers during their summer at the lake.

Miss Mary Wilson of Middleton has been spending a two weeks' vacation with Miss Pauline Lawton.

The Phoenix Club announce another of its dances at A. O. H. hall tomorrow evening.

Henry J. Pushard has returned from spending the third instalment of his summer vacation among the beach resorts of Maine in the vicinity of Old Orchard.

Newell W. Penniman aided and abetted by the Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, umpired the Labor Day baseball game between the Mats and Bleachery teams at Emerson Park.

Kenneth McCharles and family returned Tuesday from a weeks outing spent at Plum Island.

Miss Dorothy Roome, who graduated from Peabody high school last June, has registered at Burdett college for the opening of the fall term.

The passing last Saturday of Mrs. Mary W. Humphrey in her 96th year probably means the death of the oldest resident of the city. She has been in poor health for some time and a few months ago, upon the observance of her 95th birthday, was obliged to decline an anticipated interview with the Enterprise representative on account of a temporary indisposition. She has resided for years on Franklin hill with her son Charles S., who has been most devoted to her welfare and to whom the sympathy of the entire neighborhood is extended.

Rev. John Reid and family of Chestnut street have returned from their vacation and Mr. Reid will occupy his South church pulpit upon the resumption of services next Sunday.

Horace Nichols, formerly of Peabody, but now located as manager of one of his father's stores in Stoughton, spent the week-end and holiday with his garndparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Sawyer.

Leander Macdonald, former principal of the Center school, and coach of the high school teams, has been playing the catcher's position with the Center Harbor team while enjoying his vacation at that famous summer resort.

Announcement of the building of a new $375,000 dormitory at Holy Cross college at Worcester calls to mind the fact that the president of the college, Rev. James F. Carlin, S. J., is a former Endicott street boy.

Miss Ruth M. J. Sewall of Endicott street and George Adams of Salem, with Mr. and Mrs. John Mullane and daughter, Phyllis Eileen, of Danvers, motored to Hampton Beach, N. H., where they were the guests of Mrs. Annie T. Sewall over the week-end.

Mrs. Annie T. Sewall and daughter Edith and Miss Audrey McManus, with Miss Myra Holt of Malden, are stopping for two weeks at the Undine cottage, Hampton Beach, N. H.

FIREMEN SPLIT OVER HOSE LAYING

It was the hose laying contest that attracted a large delegation of East Enders and several fire department officials to Gloucester last Monday. And the contest in which Caleb Kirby and James Yelverton were entered against Charles McCarthy and Jack McDonald, all of this city, developed a rivalry that may split the local fire department into factions.

McCarthy and McDonald, who had been devoting practically all of their spare time to practice for some weeks, went down to defeat. Kirby and Yelverton beat them by five seconds. Now McCarthy and McDonald in their determination to prove that they are the champion hose layers of Peabody have challenged the two firemen from Combination 4 house to a championship test for a purse of $25, to be staged at the Central fire station at an early date.

According to the rules of the contest the two teams must be in bed. When the gong rings they must dress and lay 50 feet of hose from a hydrant, and the team having the water running in the shortest space of time is the winner. The Central fire station is particularly adapted for the contest, there being a hydrant directly across from the building, and it is probably probable that this location will be selected for the Peabody championship contest.

BASEBALL

West Peabody Y. M. S. Club will play the Father Mats at Emerson Park tomorrow afternoon.

Among the honor roll pupils for high schoolarship marks in the Ellsworth, Me., summer school conducted under the auspices of the Boston University for the benefit of the men in training under the Federal Bureau of Vocational Education as announced by Director Charles E. Bellatty a few days ago, was the name of Everett E. White of West Peabody.

PERSONAL

At the reception to the new teachers to be held in City Hall this evening a musical program of unusual excellence will be given by Miss Mary L. McCarthy of this city, Mrs. Margaret Millea Henry of Salem and the Angelus Glee Club. Miss Alice Duffy will be seen in specialty dances, and general dancing will be enjoyed. Dr. Francis J. Marrs of the School Committee is in charge of the arrangements.

William H. Larrabee, chief expert and inventor at the Union Water Meter Company at Worcester, was the guest of his cousin, George E. Parker, South Peabody, Wednesday. Allen Hartwell of Medford was also a guest

Edward G. Stacey, general secretary of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce was a visitor in Peabody last Tuesday when he outlined to Secretary Donald G. Roby of the local Chamber the proposed activities of the State Chamber during the coming year.

William H. Little, after spending his school vacation in Manchester, N. H., has returned home, coming over the road by auto with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Stevens.

OLD NEWBURYPORT HOUSES

Pictures of old Newburyport houses are on exhibition at the Peabody institute and are attracting much interest. The collection is being shown under the auspices of the Library Art Club. The public is invited to inspect the pictures.

Florence McCarthy of 93 Bridge street was drawn as juror for the criminal court at Lawrence Sept. 19.

Miss Bessie Fitzgerald, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fitzgerald of this city, left yesterday to enter the novitiate of the Order of Notre Dame at Waltham. She is a graduate of Trinity College, Washington, D. C., and has been a substitute teacher in the Peabody high school on several occasions.

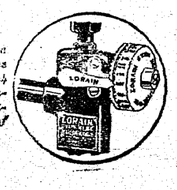
LORAIN
OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

A New and Better Way to Put Up Fruit

Here is a way to put up fruit, berries and vegetables that is so simple you don't even have to know the rudiments of cooking to do it successfully. And the result is remarkably delicious.

It is called "Lorain" Oven Canning, because it is done in a gas range oven equipped with the "Lorain" Oven Heat Regulator.

Wash and clean the fruit or vegetables. Blanch (scald) if the recipe calls for it, cold-dip, then fill glass jars with it. If it is vegetables you fill the jar with boiling water, adding a teaspoon of salt. If fruits, fill jars with a syrup made from a cup of sugar to four cups of water. Then put covers on lightly and set jars in the oven. Adjust your "Lorain" wheel for 250 degrees and forget all about it for one to three hours, according to chart. At that time remove jars, and seal tightly. That's all.



And in this simple, easy way you can have fresh fruit, berries and vegetables all Winter.

CARLIN INDUCES B. & M. TO SELL VALUABLE LAND

VIEW OF R. R. LAND ON WALNUT ST. SOLD TO MORSE BLACKING COMPANY

One of the most important real estate transactions in Peabody in recent years, entailing the transfer of valuable commercial property in the heart of the city, was closed this week when the Boston & Maine railroad voted at a directors' meeting Tuesday to sell to the Morse Blacking Co. of this city the land between Wallis and Walnut streets near the railroad tracks, consisting of 49,000 square feet.

On this property are located eight stores, fronting on Walnut street, blacksmith shop and the factory of the Morse Blacking Co. on Wallis street, also two storehouses and a wholesale junk shop and a boiler plant, which face the railroad tracks.

The sale was made through the office of William F. Carlin, after two years of persistent efforts to secure the authorization of the railroad officials to place this property on the market, as it is unusual for the railroad to dispose of their holdings.

The buying of this property by the Morse Blacking Co., whose growth since they opened their plant on Wallis street ten years ago, has been rapid, means much to the commercial interests of the city. It will open up valuable industrial sites with railroad sidings for which there is much need in this city.

The new owners have already started to construct a large addition to their plant, consisting of a one-story brick building built over the canal. The work is being done by the E. H. Porter Co. Because of the fact that the boundary line runs through the center of these buildings, it was necessary to demolish at least two of the buildings bordering on the railroad tracks. Papers will be passed in a few days.

HEBREWS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO FLAG

The Young Men's Hebrew Association will hold a mass meeting on Sunda, Sept. 18, at Moose hall, to celebrate Constitution Day, which commemorates the adoption of the constitution of the United States by the constitutional convenion on Sept. 17, 1787.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Constitutional League of America, of which President Harding is a member. Special entertainment will be furnished and the following speakers will address the gathering: Morris Miller of Peabody, who will talk on the Young Men's Hebrew Association; Rabbi A. Ordman, who will talk on the constitution and immigrant; and ex-Assistant District Atty. William H. McSweeney of Salem, who will talk on the constitution and the American flag.

LYNN CARS BACK TO WASH'G ST.

Mayor William A. Shea has won a victory for the citizens in inducing the Mass. Eastern Street Railway Trustees to restore the Lynn cars back on Washington street. The trustees gave the Mayor an interview some days ago when His Honor presented facts that surprised them. The rails will be repaired for winter use and next year new rails will be laid. Mayor Shea will ask the Council to appropriate money next year to pay for repaving the tracks on Washington street. The letter from the railroad trustees agreeing to restore the cars to Washington street is as follows:

Hon. William A. Shea,
Mayor,
Peabody, Mass.

My dear Mr. Mayor:—Referring to your request that the Lynn-Peabody car service be restored to Washington St., the Trustees beg to state as follows:

The track on Foster street is in excellent condition. The track on Washington street was laid in 1900 and therefore is twenty-one years old and needs rebuilding. The Trustees will make light temporary repairs to the Washington street track and run the cars into Peabody Square via this route, provided that the City of Peabody will agree that when the Trustees rebuild the Washington street track, probably in 1922 or 1923, the City will repave that portion of the street in which the repairs are made.

If you will notfy us that this arrangement is satisfactory to yourself and the Council, we will proceed at once to put the track in condition for winter operation.

Yours truly,
HOMER LORING,
Chairman of Trustees.

Mrs. Fuller Given Check For $1027.58

The Peabody Enterprise this week presented Mrs. William P. Fuller, widow of the late William P. Fuller, a check for $1027.58, the amount of subscriptions received through this newspaper from its many readers who held the late husband and father in high esteem. The full amount of subscriptions received as already acknowledged in these columns was $1026.90, and the interest on the deposit at the Warren National Bank amounted to 68 cents. Harry E. JUSTICE SERVICE CO-OPERATION

COMING BACK

Sometimes we see a man who has made a failure in business "Come Back" to his old position and steadily improve until he is a better man than he was before. We admire him and are glad to see him succeed. As we shake his hand and congratulate him we ask how he did it. The answer is always the same. He had Courage and he had Faith. He didn't know when he was licked. He believed in himself and in his job and in his ability.

We are facing the same situation in this country; we are trying to "Come Back" after the dreadful mistakes of war. It is not easy to do this; the process is not pleasant; there is hardship and suffering and we kick and complain and want to have our own way. We need more Courage. We need more Faith.

This is no time for anyone to make trouble. Right now is the time for cool, calm, earnest thinking; time for every one to try the best he knows how to hold his faith in himself, his town, his job, his country.

Let's see what happened and maybe we'll understand better how to go ahead. Suppose a farmer lost his house and barns by fire; suppose he was a prosperous man and had good credit; he'd go to the bank and borrow money, build up again, then work and save and economize until that debt was paid. Of course he would.

This country burned up in war many billions of money as well as many young lives. We had good credit. We borrowed from the people to make our losses good and win the war. It was a fearful debt. Did we work and save and economize to pay that debt? Did you? Well, what you did everyone in the United States did. We spent money as we never spent before,—we bought more than we could pay for,—we wasted, we said "I should worry",—we had a good time and never thought of the future. All of us did this, instead of paying what we owed as the farmer would have done.

Now we are trying to "Come Back". The hardest part of the job is teaching thrift and work to the young men and young women who began to work during the war years. They never saw anything but rising wages, shorter hours, less work and more good times. They don't understand hardship. They never learned Courage and Faith on the job. They are learning now. We are "Coming Back" as fast as the people can learn.

Yes, we are "Coming Back." Business is improving a little every month. Textiles are in the best shape because the workers have taken the loss in their wages without losing courage and the manufacturer has taken enormous losses in goods without losing his courage. Leather is not so good. Leather depends upon shoes and the shoe worker refuses to work except for war time wages, and the retailer is still too high in his prices. although the manufacturer is making little or nothing. There is no co-operation in the shoe trade as yet and consequently we are dull in the leather trade. Meantime the people are getting their shoes from the West where leather is cheaper and wages in the shoe factories are lower. One trade after another is improving as the people see the spirit of co-operation spreading. The people will not buy until they do see this spirit. It is on that account business improves so slowly Each trade must prove to the people the value of its service.

We are here in competition with the West and recently with Germany. We are up against the problem of salesmanship. The best salesman sells the best goods and the most goods. Every man who handles a skin is a salesman; he either helps sell that skin or he ruins the sale. In the leather market a skin is not regarded by the salesman as a part of an animal; it is looked upon as money. A first quality skin is more money; a second quality less money. Some part of that money belongs to the man who tanned and finished that particular skin; each and every particular skin. Every worker is a salesman whether he wants to be or not. He builds up the reputation and the sales of his factory and helps it to "Come Back." He holds his job and helps to get more jobs for more men; or,—he pulls that factory down by his poor work, the skins don't sell, there is less work and the West gets the trade.

Yes,—We are all working together whether we know it or not—we are cooperating. Each man is helping others to "Come Back." Every man and woman is a salesman.

Peabody Given Big Welcome At Lynn Rotary

Lynn Rotarians under the direction of President "Bob" Caverly, entertained the Peabody Rotary Club members last Tuesday, taking charge of the Tuesday luncheon and putting over a big program. "Ed" Connelly sang a topical song dedicated to leading Rotarians of Peabody, Frank Van Blarcom sang one of his choice ballads, and Band Leader Jess Gove gave an exhibition of triple tongue playing on his cornet. Secretary Clarence Sherman led the Lynn delegation of 20 members in singing "Down on McDonald's Farm," which was a hit of the meeting.

President Caverly called on Rotary Clubs to make better Rotarians out of their personnel. Yesterday noon over 25 Peabody members went to Lynn, where they furnished an entertainment for the Lynn Rotarians.

The board of directors of the Peahave signed for the fall conclave at Poland Springs Sept. 28, and the leather city is assured of being well represented.

Manufacturing Billiard Balls.

Quite large elephant tusks are a requisite in the making of billiard balls. They are first cut into the required length, forming blocks from which the balls are to be carved These blocks are placed in the hands of expert tracers who mark the standard measurements of circumference after which the block goes to the cutter and is gradually cut by machine into spherical form. The process of polishing is done after six months during which period the balls are kept in special dark drying chambers.

Farmers Join To Boom County

Essex County farmers have combined for the purpose of assuring a proper market for Essex County milk among Essex County people. It appears that the bulk of the Essex County farmers have for some time now been unable to sell their milk to any responsible parties and that the milk which is being sold in Essex County is produced in and shipped from Northern New England and Canada, while milk raised within a few miles of the distributing centers is being forced to go to waste.

The purposes of the organization is to encourage better and more economical and efficient methods of production; better manufacture and delivery to the consumer of high quality milk, cream, butter, cheese and other dairy and farm products.

The slogan of the movement will be "Essex County milk for Essex County people".

Headquarters for distribution and for manufacturing purposes will be established in Beverly, and in this movement the incorporators have the assurance of active and hearty support of the Beverly Chamber of Commerce.

The preferred stock is to be issued at $100 par and carrying accumulative dividends at the rate of 5%. It is not to be offered as an investment, but to those people who are interested in backing the movement from the standpoint of a public spirit.

Common stock at a par value of $50 a share is to be sold only to producers of milk who will dispose of their product to the association.

The officers for the purpose of organization are as follows: Albert H. Cole, Topsfield, President; Isaac H. Sawyer, Boxford, Vice-President; E. Lawrence Howie, Salem, Treasurer; Judge Robert W. Hill, Salem, Clerk.

Essex "Aggie" School Notes

Enrollment

The school opened on Tuesday, September 6th, for the fall term of the new school year. Students have been enrolling daily since that time. At the present time the registration is 320, by far the largest in the history of the school, and an increase of 60% over last year. The total enrollment by departments is as follows: Agricultural 211, Homemaking 109. Peabody has 16 students enrolled.

There are in addition to the above, 21 students waiting for admission to the Homemaking Department.

New Instructor

The trustees have elected Oral A. Page instructor in the Agricultural department. Mr. Page was born on a farm in Kingston, N. H., and is a graduate of Sanborn academy and of the N. H. State College. During the last two years he has been a successful teacher in Colebrook academy, Colebrook, N. H., teaching agricultural subjects.

Athletics at the School

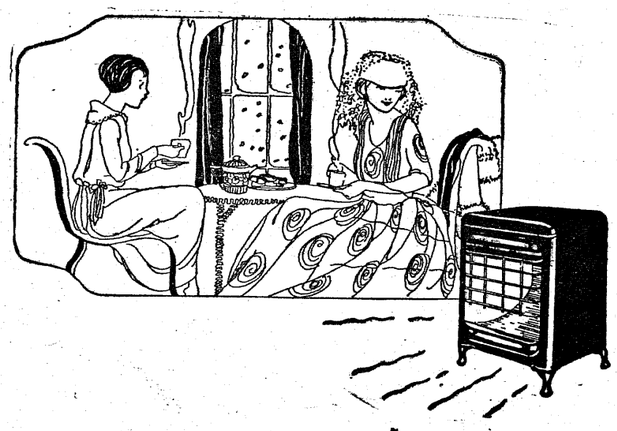
The student body is looking forward to a busy season in athletics this year. Already plans are made to maintain a football, basketball and hockey team and the student body further feels very anxious to be represented by a track team. It is hoped that a field day may be arranged between this school and the other county agricultural schools. In the past, two such events have been held, at which this school made a most enviable record. Enthusiasm among the student body is already running high, and with the return of the older classes in about two weeks field work should be resumed in good earnest. The first football game will be with Pinkerton academy, Derry, N. H.

Exhibitions

The school is making a very large exhibit of livestock and other educational features at the greater Lynn fair this week. We plan to make exhibits at the three other county fairs. The school does not aim to make a competitive display, but hopes to carry an instructive message to some of the citizens in matters which are of vital importance to them in their work or home. The agricultural fairs have always proven to be a very wholesome advertising medium, advertising the scope and purposes of the school.

SCHOOL CONTEST

About 20 children are entered in the school contest now being conducted at the Curtis drug store. The leader at present is John Roche, grade 6, St. John's school, with J. Noonan and C. Deery close behind. Every cent spent in the stationery department of the store entitles the purchaser to one vote, which may be credited to whichever child requested. The contest closes Sept. 30 and the prize is a Brownie No. 2 camera.



Earle Weaver, up at the A C. L. plant, is quite a poultry enthusiast, his specialty being black Minorcas. He is winning honors at all the fall fairs on his birds, his latest winning being the special prize at the greater Lynn fair, this week, for the best bird in the entire show.

Horns Will Signal Fire

In line with the program which he has inaugurated to safeguard the public against accident, City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe announced today that two large claxon horns will be installed in the near future at dangerous corners in the vicinity of Peabody square, to warn the traffic police and citizens of the approach of the fire apparatus.

Since the new fire alarm system was installed at the local fire headquarters, the response of the apparatus to alarms has been speeded up to such an extent that traffic in the square has no way of receiving a warning before the apparatus is out of the Central fire station and speeding through the square.

The two mechanical devices will be installed to safeguard traffic in the square. One claxon will be installed on a post at the corner of Foster street and the other at Walnut street. The devices will be so arranged as to give the warning to traffic and policemen on duty at that point before the apparatus has left the Central fire station.

The claxon at the corner of Foster street will be sounded when the apparatus is responding to an alarm which necessitates its passing that corner, and the same warning will be given at the corner of Walnut street when the apparatus is proceeding in that direction. The detail of the equipment has been worked out by City Electrician O'Keefe and will be installed just as soon as his department has completed the rush work already ahead.

LEO GUILD LADIES WILL GIVE PLAY

In order to carry on its worthy work of relieving distress in needy homes in Peabody through the coming winter season, the Leo Guild will present a musical comedy in City Hall on the evenings of October 6 and 7, and it is expected that the affair will attract audiences which will fill the large auditorium on both evenings.

The first rehearsal will be held next Monday evening in K. of C. hall and the personnel of the cast includes such well-known entertainers as Joseph Lawlor, William Toomey, Samuel Boyle, Mrs. Theresa Roy, Miss Anna Hooks of Salem, Mrs. John Meagher and Miss Mary L. McCarthy of this city.

The show is entitled "All Aboard," and is quite appropriate, for the event marks the launching of another long season in the work of the Guild. The treasury is badly depleted, largely because of the conditions precipitated by the recent long drawn out strike in the leather trade, and the proceeds from the affair will be used entirely in promoting the work of the organization.

The chairmen of the various committees are: Tickets, Mrs. D. J. Conroy; advertising, James McLaughlin; talent, Miss Elene Masterson; finance, Mrs. J. J. Doody; general chairman, Miss Mary L. McCarthy.

When Smoking Was Under Ban.

To crush the increasing love of pleasure the Connecticut law of 1647 sternly decreed that only the solitary smoke should be permitted. Only once a day, at dinner or otherwise, might tobacco be used, "and then not in company with any other." No one might use tobacco in any other house than his own in the town where he lived "with and in company of more than one who useth and drinketh the same weed, with him at that time." For violating any item of the law the penalty was sixpence, and only one witness was required.—From "Ye Olden Blue Laws," by Gustavus Myers.

Crying Need of Boy Scouts Is For Capable Men as Leaders

Peabody Boy Scouts, Troop 2, made its fifth annual camping trip last month. The last two trips have been more unusual because, on account of the shortage of adult leaders, the troop has been forced to produce Scout Masters from within their own ranks. Stephen H. Cross and Roger B. Trask, tenderfoot scouts away back in 1916, have each given their services for a year, and conducted the troop successfully thru a camping trip.

The summer of 1917 found Troop 2, under Lloyd G. Davies, camping at King's Camp, in West Pebaody. He was assisted by Henry Osborn. The troop began to secure permanent camping material. A tick cart which is still in service was given by H. V. Hunt. The troop itself purchased a large sleeping tent. Some scouts who were in this camp, and whose names were not to appear on the records of the troop thereafter are: Perley Lovelace, Calvin Kennard, Donald MacCharles, William Holden, and Raymond Trask.

While this group of boys were at West Peabody, Troop 3, under T. R. Jeffers, was in camp at Baker's Island. Richard E. Smith, a civil war veteran, accompanied the boys. The camp was scheduled to last for a week, but no sooner had the tents been pitched, than a terrific thunderstorm drenched the boys and the camp. The sky did not clear for three days, and the troop with their spirits and personal effects much dampened, returned home on the fourth morning, only to enjoy fine weather for the rest of the week.

During the winter of 1917-1918, conditions led to the amalgamation of troops two and three, and the new troop was under the leadership of Lloyd G. Davies and Theodore R. Jeffers. Thru the efforts of Rev. Jason G. Miller, a troop committeeman, the first big campaign trip was planned for the summer of 1918, when 39 scouts, the largest number journeyed to Deerfield, N. H., and camped for two weeks.

The country was ideal for camping. There were woods, hills, lakes, and every boy had all that nature could offer. Rupert D. Graves, now a student at West Point, was an assistant leader. At "Camp Miller" were the following who failed to answer the roll call at the next year's camp: George Watts, James Walsh, Carroll Miller, Howard Quint, George Fellows, Howard Beechey, Merwin Tucker.

For the summer of 1919, a new site was desired. An advance "searching" party was forced to spend a night at Wells Beach, Maine. The land was favorable, and the troop has had the last three of its camping sites at this beach. On the first trip to Wells, the cook failed to appear, and the boys were thrust upon their own resources until another could be rushed to scene. It wis also upon this trip that Newell Bodge fractured his right elbow, the only accident which ever happened on any trip.

The camp master was ably assisted by Thomas G. Reid, William C. Munroe, and Arthur Glackin. The latter injected many novel features into the camp life, and was immensely popular with the boys. The following dropped out during the winter and did not return to camp with the troop in 1920: John Johansen, Samuel Upton, George Morrison, Harlan Stone, Addison Sillars, Frank Pitman, Edwin Van Dyke, William Ratcliff, Ralph MacCraken, Raymond Punchard, and Bertram Pitman.

After a very successful winter under Stephen Cross, the troop journeyed to Wells again in August of 1920. With the help of three years of camping experience, the troop enjoyed a banner year in camp. An innovation into the camping system of that year was a bank. The scouts' money was held by the treasurer, and they were allowed daily a limited sum. By this method the scouts were prevented from losing or spending their money all at once.

The trips have been individual in as much as the boys raised every cent of their camping money, and, moreover, have raised their own leaders. In the five yers of camping, there has not been a single case of sickness, and but one accident of a serious nature. The troop has been gradually equipping itself, and at present has an outfit capable of caring for 30 boys in camp.

It is an interesting fact to note that of the original 45 boys who formed troops two and three when they joined, attended the fifth annual camp. They are: Elmer Wiley, Francis Blaney, Stephen Cross, Roger Trask, William Glencross, Wendell Wiley, Malcolm Stone, Kendall Hanson, Daniel Wiggin, Percy Watkins, Wilbur Jackman, Raymond Viles, Newell Bodge, Jack Munroe, Stuart Quint, Willis Moore. It is thru the last few named that the troop has existed until today, and the future progress of the troop depends largely upon the interest of this group of veterans.

Fine Tribute For Teachers

A signal honor was paid to two teachers in the local public schools by Mayor William A. Shea at the recent reception to new teachers, when he presented bouquets to Miss Laura Whitney and Miss Carrie Upton in recognition of their long and faithful service in the Peabody schools.

Both teachers have been on the payroll of the school department for 42 years. Miss Whitney is a teacher in the sixth grade at the Center school, in which school she has been a teacher ever since she joined the local teaching staff. Miss Upton is well known at the Bowditch school.

Miss Whitney taught school under the late Principal Jefferson K. Cole at the Center school for 34 years. When she first took up her work she was assigned to the first grade, and in the period that has elapsed she has been advanced.

Many prominent men and women in the city have been her pupils in former years. Miss Whitney is a native of Lawrence and a graduate of the Lawrence high school. Just before her graduation from the Lawrence high her family moved to Peabody, and a short time later Miss Whitney was appointed a substitute teacher in the local schools. She was a substitute but a short time when she was assigned to a regular position.

K. OF C. LEADER TO TAKE BRIDE

The marriage of Miss Anna J. Gallagher and William E. Tracey of this city will be solemnized at St. John's church on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, at 6.30. Miss Gallagher is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Gallagher of Clement avenue, and a graduate of St. John's high school, class of 1910. Mr. Tracey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Tracey of Pierpont street, and is grand knight of Leo Council, K. of C. Both young people have a host of friends who will wish them happiness and success in their married life.

H. S. Football Sees 60 Men In Line For Gridiron Honors

Sixty students at the Peabody high reported at Emerson Park on Tuesday, in answer to the call for recruits for the 1921 football team sent out by Coach Marty Donovan. The uniforms for the season were given out under the supervision of Faculty Manager Henry A. King at the same time.

The large group of recruits was divided into squads and put through a program of signal practice, throwing and kicking. The heavy practice will not start until the coming week, and by that time it is expected that selections to fill vacancies on the team will have been completed.

Coach Donovan is delaying strenuous practice as late as possible to avoid working out during warm weather. He is also desirous of getting his men in condition before undertaking any football.

Appointment of the team manager will also be made sometime next week, just as soon as Faculty Manager King has had an opportunity to size up the field candidates for that honor.

Team officials are very optimistic regarding the outcome of the present

THE LATE JUDGE HALL

Judge Benjamin G. Hall, whose death occurred on Sunday, Sept. 11, following an illness of five months, left a record in his exalted office which will long endure in the hearts of Peabody citizens whose respect for him was universal. Endowed with the happy faculty of a judicial mind, his decisions in the district court were impartial and extremely fair. He tempered his rulings with mercy always and the rights of the defendant were utmost in his deliberations. He was a companionable citizen, delighting in the company of his fellow citizens, and through a practice of his profession for the past 35 years in Peabody had endeared himself to a large clientele. His integrity was unquestioned and his unusual qualifications made him an ideal judge. Judge Hall was the highest type of an American citizen.

AUTO LAW HERE

There is frequent comment that automobile drivers operating in Peabody fail to slow down when overtaking an electric car that is letting off passengers. In Lynn and other cities the auto drivers are being hauled to court for infraction of the state highway regulation which compels an auto to come to a dead stop when passengers are leaving the electric car which the auto has overtaken. A fine of $25 is being imposed which attests how serious the court views this error of omission. Why is not the same regulation being rigidly enforced in Peabody, particularly in Peabody Square where violation of this regulation is most frequently witnessed? There is no need of a city ordinance. The state highway commission makes ample laws for observance in every City and town and the matter is entirely up to the local police. Speed maniacs who tear through Peabody Square more than 12 miles an hour are a menace to public travel.

UNEMPLOYMENT EXAGGERATED

Many people have become unnecessarily alarmed over the statement that 5,000,000 are out of work in the United States today. Careful thought on the subject will take one back a few years when it was very uncommon for more than one member of the average family to be employed. The abnormal business of 1917-1920, however, called into employment many people who would have had difficulty in being placed in normal times, and young folks left school and college to pull down the big pay that was in their immediate grasp rather than prepare for the years to come. Many women were called upon to take the places of men who were needed in Europe to carry on the war. If the figures on unemployment could be sifted down to workers previous to 1917 who are out of work, a good sized reduction in the five million figure could be made. There is no doubt that employment at the present time is below normal, but let us not base our figures on the abnormal conditions immediately preceding the depression in business. The condition is not alarming only as far as we misguide ourselves into believing.

DON'T GET HURT

This slogan has been adopted by the Tenth Annual Safety Congress of the National Safety Council for use in its No-Accident Week for New England. The entire week of Sept. 25 has been designated in New England to conduct the biggest safety drive ever undertaken in the United States. The public during this week will hear, see and demonstrate the slogan "don't get hurt" every hour of the day under the plans outlined by the big committee charged with making the week of Sept. 25 the freest from accident since the year one. Among the many stunts to be pulled on the public in order to emphasize the need of safety is that of telephoning every family in New England with the message "Hello, this is No-Accident Week. Don't get hurt." Every street car, railroad crossing, billboard, gas station, truck and garage will blazon forth the same message. Peabody needs the No-Accident Week as much as any community of its size in Massachusetts. A great many fatal accidents have occurred in this city during the past two years. It has been conclusively proven in nine previous no-accident campaigns in different sections of the United States that the publicity gained in the No-Accident Week has cut down accidents to a minimum not only during the stunt week, but for long afterwards. If this holds true in New England, and Peabody does its share in co-operating in the campaign for safety, it will be of immense benefit to this city to have this campaign conducted. The old saying, placed on the shelf and in its place the new one, "don't get hurt—prevent accidents."

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE.

WHEN SHE WALKS.

"A little neglect may breed mischief."—Franklin.

WHEN walking with a woman it is customary for the man to ask to carry any parcels she may be burdened with. It is a woman's privilege to insist on carrying them herself, but remember that it is very embarrassing for a man to walk with a woman who is burdened as, besides feeling regret that he cannot aid her, he is put in a false position by those whom he may meet.

Every well-bred woman should know that it is no longer considered the right thing for a man to take her arm in walking unless she is feeble or the way hazardous. If she happens to be accompanied by a man who is not aware of this fact she should not take offense, but if he takes her arm she should ascribe it to his ignorance of that rule of good breeding and restrain him by simply assuring him that she can manage much better when unaided.

If a woman is overtaken or overtakes a man of her acquaintance she is privileged to ask him to accompany her as far as their ways go together, though needless to say she would say this only to a close acquaintance. She should not do this, however, when he is accompanied by another woman and would not usually wish to when he was accompanied by another man.

When taking a pleasure walk together it is always the woman's privilege to set the pace and make suggestions as to the direction in which the walk should be taken.

If a woman chances to see that a stranger has dropped something, what should she do? This is a question that sometimes comes up. She should not stop to pick it up unless the man is decidely older than she and she is very young. She should courteously attract his attention to the fact that he has dropped the article and leave him to pick it up for himself. However, if she is walking behind the one who has lost the article and not to pick it up for him might mean that it would be trodden upon she may in common sense stoop and get it.

TWO LAPS BEHIND

"Did you follow my advice."
"Why-er-yes, but I didn't quite catch up with it."

SHAWL AS AN EVENING WRAP

Spanish Garment Must Be of Soft Silk and Have Long and Graceful Fringe.

The Spanish shawl as an evening wrap requires no designing or "making." A graceful woman winds the shawl about her lovely figure, declares that it is an admirable evening wrap, and lo, it is launched as a brand new style!

The shawl must be of some soft silk, of course, and have a long, graceful fringe, and it may be gorgeously embroidered if desired. The heavy silk crepe shawl is a thing of beauty; most of the shawls sold as evening wraps are of a crepe weave.

Naturally, a Spanish note must be sounded in the accessories worn with the costume to be finally draped in the graceful shawl, and a high Spanish comb for the hair is all important. Heavy bracelets are also quite in keeping.

Evening shoes or pumps feature the high tongue so much in vogue now, but instead of having it match the fabric of the pump it is a stiffly upstanding frill of lace.

The fan, too, is interesting. It is of black lace beautifully spangled with a deep vivid blue.

Kansas Family Problem.

An Emporia family takes the family dog to church once in a while. Last Sunday the dog was tied to the motor car during the services. Every time the choir sang the dog howled. It was a question whether to take the dog away to keep from disturbing the peace or stop the choir to keep from disturbing the dog.—Emporia Gazette.

In the midst of your worries and frets;

Were it not for the kicks it gets!

ROUND ABOUT

Are the reserve patrolmen in the police department entitled to the regular day off in eight that is given to regular members of the department? The reserve men say they are entitled to a day off, and as proof cite the Lynn police department, where vacation men are accorded the same privileges as regulars, regardless of the period of time they are employed. Why not give Patrolmen McGinn, Kane and Coakley a square deal, and a day off when they are entitled to it? The policeman's job is none too easy at its best these hot, sultry days, and some of these reserve men have worked continuously every day this summer. It's up to the Councilmen.

One of my readers tells me he barely averted an accident by collision with the police ambulance on Oak street last Sunday evening. The municipal wagon was being backed out of a side alley and it had no red light on the back. At least, my informant says the light did not show.

I presume there'll be two captains on the steamer San Blas, sailing out of Boston today for an 18 day's cruise to the Antilles. The second captain may be Frank H. Sanger, president of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, who is taking the sea voyage on his annual fall vacation. He will touch at Havana, Panama Canal and Port Limon, Costa Rica. The Peabody man hopes to visit the Rotary Club in Havana, and carries letters of introduction to several prominent citizens in the Cuban city.

One of my readers sends in a word of praise for the display of asters and dahlias at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tahany, 33 Highland Park, which I gather is attracting much favorable attention from passersby.

Wanted: A good kicker. Apply to Henry A. King, Peabody high school. If there is one man in Massachusetts who can find a candidate fitted for the above job, it is Fred A. Cummings, director public relations of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway. Fred in his position probably meets more "kickers" than any other man in the state outside of perhaps a few musical comedy managers in Boston. But Mr. King' kicker must be especially qualified to kick a football above all other things.

Starting today the law is off gaming for duck, geese and brant. The daily game limit is 15 black ducks or others aggregating 25 of all kinds; eight geese and eight brant. The law will be off until Dec. 31.

Peabody can boast of a nature fakir in a handsome white gobbler that is acting mother to a brood of white ducklings. I observed this Thanksgiving specie strutting about on the Turnpike one evening this week at the head of her strange flock of ducklings.

Amateur farmers who have used city land for their crop of potatoes are bemoaning the appearance of thieves who work by night and take away many hills of their produce. I am told the thieves are bold enough to carry lanterns with them to afford plenty of light while they despoil the garden and cart away the potatoes.

Among the home garden display of dahlias none is worthy of more emulation than that of William Fifield on Caller street. He is exhibiting many varied flowers of this specie.

I have heard numerous expressions of commendation for Mayor Shea who ordered the city flags at half mast and City Hall closed during the funeral of the late Judge Benjamin G. Hall in tribute to this lamented citizen. It was a fitting tribute to the memory of a man who had played such a prominent part in the progress of Peabody during his 35 years' residence here.

SANGER SAILS TODAY

Frank H. Sanger, president of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, sails today from Boston for an 18-day cruise to Cuba, Panama and Costa Rica. He will spend two days in Cuba.

Forest laws in England were instituted by William the Conqueror, and were so severe that they provided death for a man killing a deer.

A HORSE'S EPITAPH

Soft lies the turf on these who find their rest
Beneath our common mother's ample breast.
Unstained by meanness, avarice, or pride,
They never cheated, and they never lied.
They ne'er intrigued a rival to displace,
They ran, but never betted on the race;
Content with harmless sport and simple food,
Boundless in faith and love and gratitude;
Happy the man, if there be any such,
Of whom his epitaph can say as much.

PEABODY ELECTRIC LIGHT DEPT.

season, and are looking forward to bringing the North Shore League championship to Peabody, and hopes are entertained of defeating all teams on the schedule.

The material on the field last Tuesday was fast and heavy. The 1921 squad will have practically the same line-up as last last year, although it will be considerably heavier in one or two positions.

The backfield is lacking, due to the loss of two veterans in the graduating class of 1920, O'Connor and Lynch.

Faculty Manager King and Coach Marty Donovan are looking most of all for a good kicker.

Why shouldn't Peabody carry off the championship in the North Shore League this season with one pair of size 12 shoes on the feet of Bandy Donahue, who is credited with a weight varying from 222 to 212, and a second pair of 11's on the feet of Art Gavigan. And they say Gavigan tips the scales at 190.

—*—

Light practice in preparation for the football season has been in progress among the regular members of the team at Emerson Park for some days past. Faculty Manager King furnished the players with a football and this is used in practice kicking and throwing.

—*—

Football enthusiasts are expecting some big things from Munroe this season. At the close of last season this young athlete was coming along in fine shape. With all of the heavy timber of the Peabody team on the line and a light back field, the managers expect to get some very effective work through Munroe, who is both light and fast. He is said to be a great man for picking holes in the line and he is very hard to hold.

—*—

Capt. Holden, who was the keystone of a baseball line-up the past season, is considered one of the strong linemen of the Peabody's 1921 team.

—*—

Bill Crean is slated for a shift from an end position to quarter back, because of his ability to throw the forward pass.

—*—

The teams of the North Shore League will have hard work outweighing the Peabody team this season, and it will be interesting to total up the combined weights of the aggregation when it is finally completed.

—*—

Charlie Comeau, who played on Peabody's second team last year, will probably be given a chance in the back field this season.

—*—

Frank Hennessey, who has been picked by football experts as the star center of Greater Salem for the past two seasons, will play in the same position this year. Frank plays what is termed a roving center, and makes about as many tackles as any man on the team, besides playing his part at center. As a snappy backer, Hennessey says, Salem and all the rest of the North Shore teams can watch out for Peabody this year.

—*—

Coach Marty Donovan is delaying the call for players to the latest possible date because of the continued warm weather. Coach Donovan does not favor rigorous practice in hot weather, declaring that the players lose ambition and interest at such times.

—*—

Just as soon as the cool days set in there will be lively practice at Emerson Park.

—*—

Charlie Odell of Salem claims he has got a heavy team this year and he has threatened a stiff fight in the match with Peabody. Charlie says he does not understand how Peabody beat Salem so bad last year. And Coach McDevitt's explanation is worth a headline. He says Peabody didn't win because it was a better team, but because Peabody has such a reputation (good or bad) for winning, that the Salem boys were afraid of them from the start.

Boston Herald Pays Peabody Leather Its World Due Praise

(By ENERGY)

In last Sunday's Herald, Peabody was boomed by an article which took up at least a column of space. This article described the condition of the tanning industry in Peabody as to its size, and even went back to the Indians as being the original tanners.

—*—

The claim was set forth that Peabody today leads the world in the production of calf, side and sheep leather, and while they do not refer to any particular statistics, I presume they had been in touch with those issued by the government.

—*—

Peabody has always claimed to be at the head of the tanning industry but this claim has been disputed by other tanning centers, backed up with figures from government reports. We have quit claiming under such evidence, but now we can expand our lungs again, and tell them something.

—*—

We have always been the leaders in sheepskin manufacture. As to side leather, with the large output of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. claims for this kind would be reasonable. Included in the list of side leather would be grain finish to take the place of calf in the cheaper lines of shoes, then would come buck leather made from sides and again imitating calf, then patent leather, which is practically all made from sides. True there is some calf made into this variety, but American tanners have not been so successful in this line as has Cornelius Huyle or Hoyle, it matters not. I will simply say that Germany produces patent calf that is a winner, and from what little I know about it, we of U. S. have not been able to compete.

—*—

In calfskins I have my doubts if Peabody can claim to be the biggest as to amount of production. When the National Calfskin Co., Hunt Rankin Leather Co., are named, it means practically all the calf produced here. We are small producers of kid, and India sheep and goat have in the past been a factor, and there is something doing with them now. The knack of making Indias to compete with other goat has made business for some tanners. The low price this leather can be sold for tells the story.

—*—

So with the idea of keeping in front local tanners will no doubt bend their efforts toward keeping there, for it must mean something more than pride, it must mean that those interested in leather will be drawn here. Thus an influx of tanners must result sooner or later, and the smells for which our city is famous will be added to. Why not, we are used to it.

—*—

There is quite a large movement in patent leather. For two years patent leather has been in the dolldrums. Now another sign that business is returning patent leather is being called for. So down the line, the spots which represent improvement are more and more. They are appearing in a healthful way, slowly but surely.

—*—

Since my prediction last week as to the number of men and women at work in the leather factories, I have had evidence produced which makes my figures appear about right. Then, those loafing can see something ahead, and so I believe we will face winter with employment for most all of us.

—*—

It has been predicted that additions to factories are being planned. N. H. Poor & Co. are erecting a storehiuse three stories high; Hunt Rankin an addition which when completed will be a good sized addition to their capacity. I know of no others who have the courage to build, but the start has been made and the rule is and always has been that others follow.

—*—

The housing plan started by the Chamber of Commerce to my way of thinking has a great bearing on the leather interests of our city. When 500 or more men have to go elsewhere for living accommodations something is wrong, and it handicaps the industry. If tenements could be obtained, the population would be increased at least 2000 for a starter. It will mean inducements for men whose brains and muscle are assets, to come here. Yes, the Chamber of Commerce are now doing something which tops all other ventures they have ever attempted. Go to it, Mr. Sanger, and your associates.

—*—

Samples of sewerage are being taken by the city engineer from the settling basin, also from the sewer, to determine conditions. This sewerage is taken at different times during the day and the experiments show that the basins are doing their work effectively. Salem may have the goods to show that Peabody tanners are responsible for the "terrible" conditions they have claimed, but no figures as to the increase in the death rate has been announced. Hot air keep some steam engines and people going, but finally there is an exploson, and all is over.

I read recently even the pessimists are feeling better as to trade conditions. How they must hate to.

—*—

Henry Ford says he will put prices of his cars lower. Another sign of prosperity, for high priced cars have a lot to do with dull business.

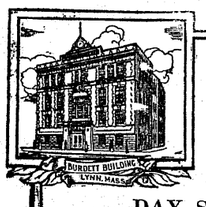
—*—

When carpenters are looking for work, and after pleading poverty, get a job, and come and go in a high priced seven-pasenger car, something is wrong. This is an actual fact in Peabody.

—*—

I often wonder what has become of the million or more piece leather merchants who occupied every available room two years ago. One had to fight to get pieces then, and now a ton of them might bring $1.00.

CENTRAL SWEETS SHOP



Peabody's newest refreshment parlor, the Central Sweets Shop, at the corner of Central and Walnut streets, in the Moose hall building, will open its doors for business on Saturday morning, and with the opening, the people of Peabody are to have one of the finest and most up-to-date places of the kind in the east.

The new emporium, in a location which has for several years been a candy and soda shop, is under entirely new management. The store has been entirely renovated and refurnished; a new tile floor has been laid, there is a new soda fountain, new tables and chairs, mirrors, and everything to give the appearance of a thoroughly metropolitan establishment.

The management, whose announcement appears in another column of this paper, is to give package of mints to every tenth customer on the opening day, and invites the people of this city to visit their new store on the opening day and partake of their hospitality.

FARRINGTONS GO TO PORTLAND, ORE.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Farrington and son Harold left Peabody yesterday for Portland, Oregon, where they expect to make their home. Mr. Farrington spent seven years in the federal government employ at Panama Canal, resigning his position last month. His son Harold enlisted in the war service and was a petty officer on the transport service conveying troops overseas. Later he joined the merchant marine and in his three years as second mate circled the globe.

Railroads Better Off, Says Critic

To the Publisher of the Enterprise:

Dear Sir: In reading the communication in your issue of Sept. 9, I was much interested in an article relating to public ownership of railroads. The writer has practically lived on railroads for the last thirty-five years. I have seen many changes and until the government started to supervise the roads in a small way back in '89 and continued to extend the control, it is evident to those who use the roads for business that we as patrons pay very dearly for this government control.

In the old days, when railroad competition was the life of the business, the roads made money, patrons received courteous treatment and the very rivalry of busines secured good service. Cars were always kept clean, passenger service was all that could be asked for and when you started to go to some place you arrived on time. The president and each administrative official of the company were always in touch with the public.

When the I. C. C. became stronger and took on more authority, the public commenced to suffer. This was finally brought to its climax when the government took over the business of running the railroads during the war. What was the result? If your correspondent had travelled over the country during that time he would have discovered something besides theories. It was almost unbelievable that human nature could change so quickly. Men who had put in all their lives for the betterment of service, backed with courteous treatment which had been drilled into them before they were acepted in the service of the roads, suddenly lost all interest in their work. What was the use? The railroads were turned over to politicians. New rules were put out, so silly that railroad employes were at a loss to understand them. Sixty thousand political nonenities were added to the governing of the largest business in the country. Not one had any training other than political preference. Manufacturers all over the country had to engage trained assistants to travel all over the country to locate cars that were lost. Owing to the rules it was impossible for the agents to locate them. I have seen in the yards of four-track roads as many as 16,000 cars loaded. They were so packed in that it required in some cases two weeks to sort out cars and have them forwarded to their destination. This is not special, but the general case as existing during government ownership.

After the roads were finally returned to the owners, what was the condition of the rolling stock and road bed? No repairs for nearly three years. It was like taking a Packard, turning over to a lot of irresponsible youths and told to go where and whenever they wished for all that time when the car was finally brought back to the owner. This comparison is not overdrawn.

For the first six months after the owners received the roads back they had a big volume of business with nothing to do it with and no money to fix it up with. Then come the slump in business. That was not the fault of the roads. Even now as business is picking up all over the country and the roads are running passenger and freight trains in two sections, brought to this advancement by the trained heads of the different systems, the managers and officials have to fight every inch of the way owing to the control congress has granted the I. C. C. The rates would be voluntarily lowered and in fact have been, not because the I. C. C. ordered it, but because the roads fought to have the right to do so.

As to burning corn in the west, why may I ask can't a man burn corn when it is cheaper to raise it than pay $22 a ton for coal? If there is an overproduction of any commodity, it is up to those who have it on their hands to use it as is best to use. Why a farmer should raise corn in Minnesota when it's a wheat country, and they never can raise good corn, and wheat has been selling around $2, is past me. I should think he would want to burn it. The writer has burned corn two winters in the west and we considered it a benefit, for we had an abundance of corn and no coal.

One word more about carrying letters to San Francisco for two cents. Is that all it costs let me ask? Every year there is a deficit in the post office department. That is as it should be, for it is service we want, not profit. But what about the cost of upkeep? What about the interest on the investment? The government has never kept books in the post office department as a business man keeps his books. Every letter that we mail to San Francisco from the Atlantic coast costs 10 cents to deliver. Every letter we mail from Peabody to Boston does not cost two cents. I receive a magazine from Seattle that costs me 20 cents a month, but the publisher has to pay 24 cents postage, thanks to past efforts of a former administration to make a profit.

We have government railroad administration of roads in Alaska. There is no territory in the world that wants improvements worse than Alaska, yet it is denied because it is in the hands of politicians. Government ownership in England costs 42% more for equal service to ours. Government in Canada is less government ownership than the government control as exercised by the I. C. C. Until the roads were forced to come under the club of this governmental department, they were individual, competitive service rendering roads. When politicians took hold they had to combine to exist. All over the country it is proven that private ownership of electric light, power and waterworks give better service and at a lower rate to ALL than political owned municipal plants. The people as a combination of voters have no reasonable right to go in private busines.

SR. NITRAMS.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Certain members of the department are now under fire on the charge of using a press agent to further their own ends or for some other reason. It seems to be developing into a handsome game of tag.

That challenge issued to Kirby and Yelverton by McCarthy and McDonald is till unanswered, according to latest advices from the fire headquarters. Considering the handsome lump of gold that is offered as stakes, and the very hearty squad of supporters behind them, it doesn't seem possible that the Combination 4 team will pass up this opportunity of tasting sweet revenge. There isn't much doubt but what all Peabody would turn out to witness the hose laying contest, if the managers of the two teams can reach satisfactory terms of agreement.

New laurels were added to the long list of creditable acts registered on the honor roll of the local fire department, last Sunday, when Capt. Dan Hannon, Chet Carlin and Roger Smith figured in the capture of a sensational runaway. A pair of horses attached to a buggy dashed down School street and into Lowell, turning in the direction of Peabody square, but before they could reach the latter point the trio at the fire station brought them to a halt in front of the City Hall. Before the team had been brought to a stop, however, the horses nearly carried Smith and Carlin through the window of Gordon's dry goods store. The team was driven by Ettore Tassinari of Danvers, who was dragged 50 feet along School street, when the horses started on their mad dash.

Tim Roach of Engine 1 enjoyed a trip to Portland, Me., last Friday.

Did you ever wonder why it is that Roger Smith carries around so many cigars in his pocket? We know why, so do the firemen at the Central fire station. He keeps a good supply on hand at all times to pay off bets made with the fire fighters. Roger is a frequent attendant at the sessions of the Bench Crew, and has acquired a habit of betting that the gong will hit for a fire before midnight. So far the firemen are ahead of the game, but Roger never loses courage.

Peabody Teachers Qualified

Peabody School teachers and other citizens completing courses with the state division of university extension have recently received certificates issued by the commonwealth. The annual tabulation of university extension students has been completed and the state records show that over 30,000 Massachusetts men and women have been included on the list of students taking work with the division in class or by correspondence.

The most far-reaching course conducted by the division last year was the one in American citizenship. "Know your government and vote intelligently," was the slogan of these classes in which 4000 prospective voters received practical insruction in civics.

Interest in the study was so great that university extension officials are fully convinced of the necessity of following up this work as a permanent part of the division's program. To this end a short six-lesson lecture course on the fundamentals of citizenship will be offered in the fall. Instruction in this subject will be free. Matter of local city and town government and the services rendered by the various department of government to all the people will be emphasized this year.

Dorothy Gish at Strand Tonight In Film That Produces Thrill

Thrills and laughter are happily combined in Dorothy Gish's latest comedy "The Ghost in the Garret" which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for the last times today Miss Gish, in the story, is a poor girl who goes to the home of her wealthy uncle and aunt, taking her dog and parrot with her. The dog puts a fashionable party to rout and from that moment the action is not permitted to drag for an instant. Then comes the theft of a valuable pearl necklace by a society crook who flees with his booty to a haunted house where his pals are in hiding. Going in pursuit of the thief to protect the sweetheart who has been arrested for the theft, she finally recovers the jewels after a series of thrilling and laughable developments. The last episode but one of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" will be another attraction for today. This is one of the most exciting chapters of the entire serial. Al St. John in his comedy "The Slicker" will be shown in addition to the numbers above. Every lady attending the Strand today will receive free of charge a cake of soap. A short reel showing how soap is manufactured will be presented.

Norma Talmadge, admittedly one of the screen's greatest actresses, will appear Sunday evening in Wilkie Collin's story "She Loves and Lies." Miss Talmadge is supported by Conway Tearle, a star in his own right. Beatrice Joy and Walter McGrail in "The Invisible Divorce" will be the second feature for Sunday evening. This is an exceptionally good program and bears out Manager Chet Bent's promise to secure the best for Peabody at all times.

A novel picture is coming on Monday and Tuesday in "Wet Gold," written by Ernest Williamson and directed by Robert Ince. It is a feature that exploits remarkable photography in the fact that most of the scenes are taken underseas. It is a story of adventure and retribution which involves a search for stolen treasure. Pirates have committed the theft and the treasure is believed to be in a sunken ship. The feature was made at the Bahama Islands and the under water scenes are nothing short of wonderful.

An example of the results that may be obtained through the combination of an unusual story, a brilliant cast, good direction and sterling photography is "Beau Revel," the Thomas Ince-Paramount feature, adapted from Louis Joseph Vance's story, which will be the second attraction on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. The cast includes Florence Vidor, Lloyd Hughes and Lewis Stone. It is a story of the ultra-fashionable, wealthy society leader of New York, whose object in life once his business hours are over, is to cultivate his power over women. He boasts of his conquests. Every thing he does is measured by his desire to please them. Beau Revel is fascinating women. Suffice to state that it is charmingly presented, that it offers tense drama, luxurious scenes and is enacted by a great cast.

Peabody Police Aiding Uncle Sam To Enforce Law of Prohibition

A new record in liquor raids has been established by the local police in the eight and a half months of the present year, according to figures tabulated by Chief of Police Michael H. Grady. When National prohibition went into effect the local police along with other departments everywhere, looked forward to a regime of peace and quiet and little or nothing to do.

But Chief Grady's records tell a very different story from what was expected. Prior to prohibition the number of liquor raids yearly in Peabody averaged about 40. In the 12 months of last year the figure was raised to 124, and according to present indications even this high total will be exceeded during the present year.

The total of liquor raids so far this year was 100 on Sept. 10. These raids have uncovered a total of about 14 stills, ranging in size from two or three gallons to 30 gallons. The amount of so-called liquor seized in these raids will total many hundreds of gallons. Some of it has been real old-fashion "licker" and the rest has ranged from medium to worse, and included quantities of jamaica ginger and other concoctions containing mostly alcohol.

The police under Chief Grady have given an excellent account of their time since prohibition went into effect, and their efforts to keep Peabody clean as far as drunkenness is concerned have been very successful. But these figures tend to indicate that the number of dives, or whatever they may be called, where alcoholic concoctions are obtainable, is on the increase.

Perhaps the good record of the police could be improved even more if a liquor squad was organized with plain clothes men to investigate many places that are held under suspicion.

Policemen declare that it is almost impossible to gather any reliable evidence for the prosecution of such cases, while they walk the streets in the regulation uniform.

At any rate the suggestion is worthy of consideration and no doubt such a squad will be coming into being just as soon as Chief Grady sees his way clear to spare enough men for this work.

William Reagan, P. H. S. '21, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis J. Linehan of Highland Park, has entered St. Anselm's college, Manchester, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of Jacobs street have returned from their summer home at Little Neck, Ipswich.

Mrs. John O'Neil of Highland Park, who sustained painful injuries when she fell over a flight of stairs at her home a week ago, is improving steadily.

THE LABOR CONTROVERSY

When the local labor union accepted the terms of the Manufacturers' Association Wednesday, it went a long way toward settling labor troubles in Peabody. We do not know whether the National Leather Co. will change their views of the stand they have taken, but now that the other manufacturers have paved the way, it is not impossible that they may do likewise. After all that is said and done, there is a certain amount of policy which affects the manufacturers as a whole. There are some matters in common and we hope all will see the light that way, and that the results of the balloting Wednesday will have effect toward a settlement of the present strike. We say this in all fairness toward all concerned, for the vital consequences will be felt for years to come, for good if accepted; if rejected, a scar so deep as to take years to erase. But there is much for congratulation when the Union goes on record as being ready to accept a cut in wages and under the terms offered. This spirit will go a long way toward a settlement of the whole trouble, we believe. It is evident the workers as a whole recognize conditions and are ready to do their bit. So the Enterprise looks into the future of our city with a feeling that the time is not far distant when the leather factories will be running without friction, and whatever grievances there are will be settled as man to man. What appeared to be a calamity is now turned toward prosperity and we believe will continue on that road.

MILK IN SCHOOLS

We believe that parents of school children will applaud the plan of the Peabody health and school authorities to provide a glass of milk to the primary grade children at every morning recess. The plan when exclusively recounted in the Enterprise some weeks ago met with instant favor, and beginning next Monday the milk will be served the children. Parents who can afford to pay 15 cents a week for the milk will gladly do so, and we believe the taxpayers will eagerly pay their share toward the cost of milk to be served to the children whose home finances cannot afford this extra expense. There is no disputing the fact that many children go to school undernourished in their excitement of getting off to school yard and class rooms, and when the morning recess is taken from the studies many are actually hungry. The glass of milk is bound to satisfy, and as a daily practice will make healthier and stronger boys and girls.

PRESIDENT SANGER

When Frank H. Sanger accepted the Presidency of the Chamber of Commerce, it gave this organization new impetus to continue on its road to success. Patrick J. Woods has been a successful President. We fully expect the new President will be, and with new committees, particularly a civic committee, results will be obtained that will carry this body farther toward success. Mr. Sanger is a successful business man. He started at the foot of the ladder, and by an expert knowledge of accounting, he has placed the N. H. Poor Company in the first rank of sheepskin manufacturers. We believe he will give the Chamber of Commerce fresh impetus, and with a new secretary at the helm, all will be well.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

Clean Up Week was a success. Started by the Chamber of Commerce, it lead many people to clear their yards of rubbish, who otherwise would have neglected to do so. It takes a movement of this kind to get results, therefore those who start it, those who give the proper impetus, should get the credit. Doctors tell us that germs contribute toward disease. In rubbish there are germs they say, so Clean Up Week not only gives our city a better appearance, but paves the way for a healthy city.

"Elephant's Ear."

The "elephant's ear" is a Hawaiian or Fijian plant, with very large, bright green leaves, used to give subtropical effect in bedding. The root-stock is planted in good, moist soil out of doors or started in a hotbed or a greenhouse and transplanted. In the fall it is stored where dampness and frost cannot reach it. In the Pacific Islands the rootstock is used for food extensively, the poi of Hawaii being made from it. The plant is called taro.

Perilous "Sport."

What is the world's most dangerous sport? Mountain climbing takes many victims, but descending into the craters of volcanoes beats it. The present activity of Vesuvius calls attention to it. The descent must be made in fireproof clothes and gas mask. The air is full of stifling fumes and there is always the sporting chance that the volcano may start erupting. The floor of an active volcano is usually semi-liquid. Parts are solid enough to stand upon, others are liquified rock.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

LOOKING BACKWARD.

IN A Fifth Reader which I studied in a New Hampshire country school was a selection which began "An aged man was standing at a window." I cannot remember any more of it verbatim, but the story told was of the appeal of the old man to a star to give him back his youth.

As a boy the story had a peculiar effect upon me. I felt a great and sorrowful sympathy for the man who sought what it was impossible for him to attain, and I hoped profoundly that no one that I knew would ever have to seek from his star what he knew in advance could not be granted.

There is one picture that we all paint—rich or poor, successes or failures. It is the portrait of "The Man I Might Have Been."

We look back over our lives and see where we might have planned more wisely, acted more discreetly, builded more substantially.

There never was a man who, if he could have lived his life a second time, would not have varied it in some way. Very likely the second living would not have been so free from regret as the first but we are prone to think it would, because we flatter ourselves that we would have avoided the first's mistakes.

A tiny pebble will change the course of a great stream. There are little things in our youths that have profound effects upon our manhoods.

Who knows what would have happened to Abraham Lincoln if Mary Owens had not told him she could not marry him because he was "deficient in those little links which go to make up the chain of a woman's happiness."

She meant that Lincoln in his awkwardness did not know how to make love after the fashion of the day.

But Lincoln was very fond of her and many times, perhaps, long years after she had refused him, he thought of "The Man I Might Have Been" had she married him.

You can imagine, too, that she must have thought sometimes of what would have been her history had she been the wife of the Great Emancipator.

The man you might have been, which you picture with greater or less regret is only a fanciful being, perhaps less lovable, less capable of good, less fitted for your real tasks, than the man you are.

The man you are is a reality, and realities are the only things worth thinking much about.

Regrets never built much of a success. You have to add right action to get a substantial and worth-while result.

Do not waste your time or worry your mind about "The Man I Might Have Been." Bend all your energies to the shaping of "The Man You Are Going to Be." He is in the making. He will be a reality. He is worth-while worrying about, if we should worry about anything.

Don't say, "It is too late." It is never too late.

There is an excuse for everything but quitting. Just say over to yourself those two splendid lines that Henley was inspired to write:

"I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul."
And put the accent on the "I."

In the Clouds.

"You never indulge in any of those old eloquent references to the American eagle."

"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "A lot of my constituents refuse to be as interested just now in flights of oratory as they are in a good reliable airplane equipment."

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"GRAND."

THE word "grand" has its proper place in English, but it is frequently misused. Used properly, it means "impressive, of imposing character or size, of large proportions." Thus, we may say of St. Peter's in Rome, that it is grand. "The sun rising over the mountaintop presented a grand spectacle" furnishes also an instance of the correct use of the word, as does, "Gladstone is called the 'Grand Old Man' of England."

But we hear frequently such ludicrous uses of the word "grand" as the following: "Did you enjoy your dish of ice cream?" "Yes; it was grand!" "We had a fine sail down the bay; the weather was grand." "We had a grand time at the picnic." In most cases of the incorrect use of the adjective "grand" the word "enjoyable" or "delightful" may be substituted; in other cases it is not difficult to find an adjective that expresses correctly the meaning of the writer or speaker.

ROUND ABOUT

Peabody high school baseball players will miss the late Stephen S. Littlefield for his interest in the local athletics induced him to attend every game, frequently going to the out-of-town games to see the home boys get a square deal. He gave much encouragement to the players, making it his business to get acquainted with each player and urging him to do his best whether in baseball or football.

—*—

Apropos of high school baseball, I understand that the advisory committee is shaping a campaign to raise about $2000 by popular subscription. The arrangement made with Salem for the Armistice day football game proves that it paid Peabody to wait out Salem and it looks as if Dr. Francis J. Marrs showed the keener judgment after all.

—*—

President Frank H. Sanger of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce sent out a stirring letter to the directors of that organization for a meeting this week, and a new record went up for attendance, which shows that he is assured of all support possible. He declares the maxim today for a progressive city is to "Give all you can, help all you can." His announcement of committees for new work this year has evoked much favorable criticism. I understand that the Leather City will have something worth while in its issue next week from the new leader.

One of my readers handed me a copy of the Chicago Tribune printed Feb. 20 last, in Paris, which had been sent first to the Argentine Republic, and in turn remailed there to Peabody, arriving here last week.

Free garden lots in Emerson Park have been quickly taken with many applicants too late to get one, so I am informed. The playground commission offers lots on the land on upper Lowell street near Summit, and also announces it has some excellent ones left in the rear of the Samuel Brown school on Lynn street.

Through the efforts of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce the annual spring paint-up and clean-up campaign has been waged with good results, so I have observed about the city. I am told painters are enjoying an unusually good business. Tomorrow the week's campaign will find many children helping to pick up yards and clear them of waste paper.

Among the conquered rivals who braved their wits against D. Frank Randall's prowess at checkers down in Miami this winter was a Spanish nobleman, who, hearing of the championship games being scored by the Peabody man insisted on getting a match. He was accomodated and quickly defeated. The Peabody man achieved the reputation in the Florida city of being the best checker player in the busy vacation resort.

I understand that Harry F. Whidden, the hardware dealer, who spent several weeks among the West Indies this winter, is to give an illustrated talk before the Peabody Rotary Club in the near future.

The tackers' strike at the National Calfskin Co. which was the start of the present A. C. L. strike, occurred on Feb. 10. On Feb. 25 a general strike was called on the plant, and on March 31 the A. C. L. plant employees joined in the strike.

Arthur E. Fink, awning maker, at 28 Summer street, Lynn, visited the Chamber offices yesterday and requested co-operation in securing a reliable representative in Peabody. Mr. Fink not only makes awnings, but also deals in flags, tents, bags and wagon covers. He will gladly pay a local representative 10% commission on all business which the local representative may personally secure and close, and 5% on all prospective business which Mr. Fink or his Lynn assistants are compelled to close. Anyone desiring further information relative to this possibility of enlarging one's income, may secure same at the offices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce.

"FORBIDDEN FRUIT"

"Forbidden Fruit" deals with a great problem in married life—a conflict between love and duty and convention—and it is solved in a way we believe will prove to be to your satisfaction. We urge that you reserve one afternoon or evening to see this great production.

NOTE—"Forbidden Fruit" is, with the exception of "Passion," which will be shown later, the most costly production the Strand has offered.

Olive in South Africa.

The wild olive is found throughout South Africa, but all attempts to establish a successful industry have failed so far. The principal drawback to the industry is said to be the presence of the "olive fly," an insect well known to the olive-growing countries of Europe.

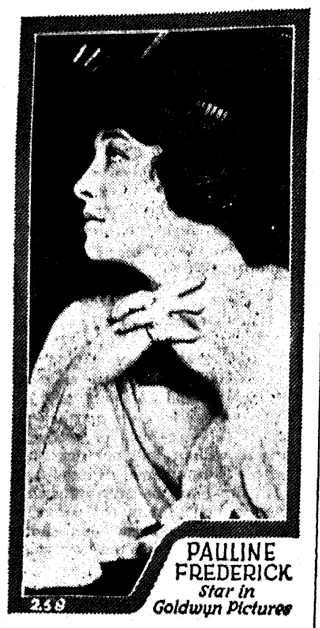
'Forbidden Fruit' Will Be Strand Feature Monday



Douglas MacLean in "The Rookie's Return," a delightful comedy-drama, will be the main attraction at the Strand today and Saturday. In the role of the young soldier who returns to find himself heir to his deceased aunt's millions, and the cares attached to them, Mr. MacLean is offered innumerable comedy situations which he handles with the inimitable humor that made his work in "23½ Hours' Leave' so distinctive. In fact, "The Rookie's Return" is a companion picture to the above mentioned hit.

In "The Rookies Return," Jimmie Lee's aunt leaves her entire fortune to him, but the will provides that if he decides to discharge the servants, each is to receive a bonus of $5000. The nephew is about to let the housing staff go and is just going to present them with their bonus checks when he discovers that they intend to make things uncomfortable for him in order to obtain their release. His fighting blood is aroused and he determines to keep them only in order to prevent them from obtaining the money. The ensuing domestic revolt, how he copes with the situation and finally solves the problem, furnishes one of the most entertaining episodes of the picture. There is also a pleasing thread of romance running thru the story which results in several entanglements before Doris May, who supports MacLean in the role of Alica, decides to take up the duties of the rookie's permanent housekeeper. Wallace Berry and Frank Currier also have prominent role in the story. William Duncan in "Fighting Fate" and a funny Mermaid comedy will be the other attractions for today.

Mary MacLaren in "The Forged Bride" and Taylor Holmes in "Nothing But Lies" will be the double feature bill the Strand will offer for Sunday evening.

One of Cecil B. DeMille's super-specials, "Forbidden Fruit," will be offered on Monday and Tuesday. Mgr. Chet Bent is responsible for the statement that "Forbidden Fruit" is the most expensive picture the local playhouse has brought to Peabody this year. The picture is said to exert a powerful appeal in its exposition of married life and has a genuine all-star cast that includes such well-known and popular favorites as Theodore Roberts, Agnes Ayers, Forrest Stanley and Kathlyn Williams. "Forbidden Fruit" rises to dramatic heights seldom attained in the depiction of the sufferings of a young wife, who, married to a worthless scoundrel, ultimately finds happiness in the love of a real man.

Mr. DeMille shows that marriage laws are detrimental to those who suffer. While the wife may escape through big wounds, the small wounds do not give her the right to have freedom, although a human being may die from a pin-prick. The sponsers have built their subject around the small injuries. The picture develops through scenes of strong dramatic power, scenes which are replete with pathos and thrills. It is elaborately staged and the principals wear striking gowns. The production is in every sense a treat to the eye. One scene in particular represents an expenditure of many thousands of dollars but so beautiful it is that the producers consider the money well spent.

BLEACHERY A. C. HAS CHALLENGES

The Bleachery A. C. is claiming the championship of Peabody among 14 to 16-year-old baseball teams, and already have a record of four straight games. They have defeated the Lowell street team twice, the High street and Crow Village and are out for scalps of any fighting team of their age in Greater Peabody, which now includes Salem. Charlie O'Shea is manager and Allen Lane is the captain of the team and stellar second baseman. Here is the line-up of the team: Elmer Brissette, pitcher; Dan Hannon, catch; Charlie Magavero, 1b; Allen Lane, 2d; Leo Barry, short; George Welch, 3b; Charlie O'Shea, left; James Waldron, center; J. Welch, right field, and Edward Comeau and James Gill, utility players.

50,000 Boys Are In King Arthurs

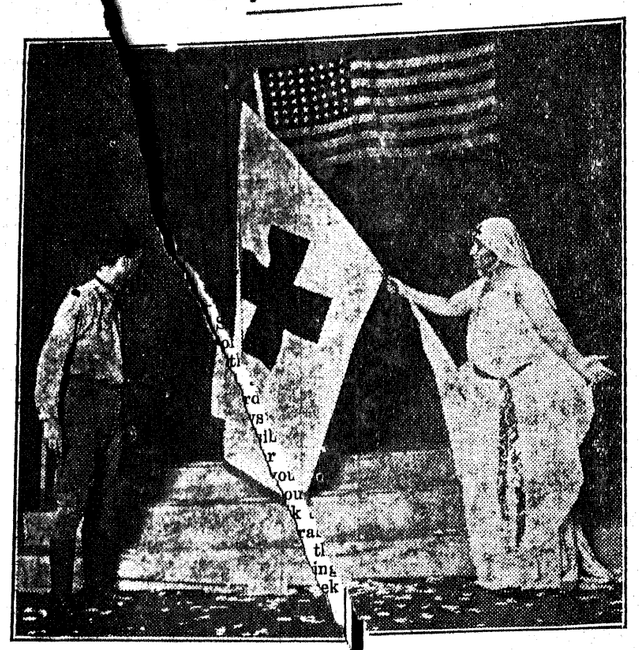
The Knights also exemplify religion in play. It is probably true that many church workers utilize the Boy Scouts not only because of its many admirable features, but because they are afraid of a week-day organization that is religious. In the Knights of King Arthur there is no preaching, but religion though unobtrusive is integral. The Third Degree, that of knighthood, is conferred according to the ancient custom, but. only upon boys who have become church members. The church member, however, has to earn his degree as much as the others, and mere piety is not the sole qualification. In preparing for this degree through vigil, intimate conference with his leader and a stately ceremony in the church itself, the boy is emotionally stirred as he seldom is by the somewhat bare forms used in most non-liturgical churches. The first thing the young knight must do is to go on a "quest," some form of service for others, and one of the most wholesome facts in the history of the movement is that so many of these boys when they have grown to manhood have assumed the leadership of Castles of younger boys.

It is an interesting fact that the Knights of King Arthur has never paid a salary and does not ask the public for funds.



St. Paul's church has a Castle (boys), a Court (girls), and a Commandery (young men) of the Knights of King Arthur. This order is twenty-eight years old, and has 8500 chartered castles, 130,000 boys having taken the vows. More than 250 boys and girls from 25 cities and towns of Eastern Massachusetts attended the annual state conclave held at the First church, Congregational, Garden street, Cambridge. The following provincial officers were elected for the ensuing year: Howell E. Esty of Lynn, regent; E. Gardner Monks of Boston, vice-regent; Miss Anna F. Baley of Roxbury, provincial lady of the lake; Allen Reed of Roxbury, scribe; Curtis Leavitt of Taunton, bursar; and Rev. Dr. Beal of Peabody, dubric. An executive council of five Merlins and five Knights was also elected.

Impressive Pageant To Be Feature Of Red Cross Conference in Boston

Officers and Delegates of Chapters in New England Division To Hold Sessions From May 12th to 14th

THE RED CROSS OF PEACE AND T... HE RETURNED SOLDIER
One of the tableaux in the Red Cross page... nt to be given in Boston on ...onference of Chapters of the ...le will appear in the spectacle

From 400 to 500 men and women from all parts of New England—officers, public health nurses and delegates of the Chapters and Branches of the New England Division, American Red Cross will gather in Boston for the Spring Conference of the Division, which will open on Thursday morning, May 12, and continue through Friday, May 13, and Saturday morning, May 14.

To bring vividly before these leaders the various phases of Red Cross peace activities, which they are carrying on in their own communities, a special performance of the impressive pageant, "The Red Cross in Peace", will be presented in Convention hall on the evening of May 12.

Two Hundred In Pageant

The pageant will be given by the Boston Metropolitan Chapter, of Boston, at the request of the Division headquarters, and there will be some 200 people in the cast, all volunteers and most of them active Red Cross workers. Mrs. Ruth Mougey Worrell, who with her sister, Mrs. Helen Mougey Jordan, wrote the pageant, will direct the performance and will appear in the title role of The Red Cross of Peace.

This pageant was presented last Fall by 45 Red Cross Chapters in the Lake Division and was seen by 100,000 people. It was given recently in Washington, D. C., for Red Cross and Army and Navy leaders. There is practically no expense for the production as no special settings are required and the costumes called for are Red Cross, Army and Navy uniforms, and civilian dress; also, volunteer workers make up the cast.

Pictures the Peace Program

The pageant presents the peace program of the Red Cross in a prologue and three parts. The first part is "The Introduction to the Peace Program", with a prelude, The Spirit of Humanity, and three actions: first, The Red Cross in War; second, Columbia Conferring Her Commission upon the Red Cross of Peace; third, The Red Cross of Peace Presents the Peace Program to the Returned Soldier. The second part discloses "The Activities of the Peace Program", in five actions: Nursing Service, Home Service, Health Center Service, Disaster Service and Junior Red Cross Service. The third part is "The Community's Response to the Red Cross Roll Call Ensemble." Appropriate music accompanies the various actions.

The committee in charge of the pageant is: Henry Copley Greene, Chairman, Seymour H. Stone, Mrs. C. C. Ely, Mrs. Guy Waring, Miss Ruth French, Miss Avis Jackson, Miss Anna C. King and Mrs. James Lawrence, Jr., of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter, and Arthur G. Rotch, Mrs. George S. Derby and William H. Harris, of the Division.

In Hands of the Chapters

The sessions of the Conference will be almost entirely in the hands of the Chapters. A Chapter officer or representative will preside at each of the general sessions, and the addresses, which will be strictly limited to five and seven minutes, will be delivered by Chapter officers and representatives. There will be general discussion from the floor.

There will be two addresses by National officers of the American Red Cross, W. Frank Persons, Vice-chairman in charge of domestic operations, and Miss Clara D. Noyes, Director of Nursing Service, who returned recently from a study of conditions in Central and Eastern Europe. Mr. Pearsons will speak on "The Red Cross of Today", and Miss Noyes on "The Red Cross and Problems Abroad."

A Miniature Exhibition

An unusual feature of the Conference will be a portable exhibition in miniature of the Red Cross activities of today prepared with a great deal of ingen... ility by the personnel of Division ...sion head...quarters.

The top...ics to be discussed at the morning se... ...ssion on the opening day are: 1. Cha... ...pter and Branch Relationship: The ... Red Cross in Four New England C... ...hapters. 2. SAYS WOMEN CAN SAVE THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN

Red Cross Commissioner to Europe Appeals for Garments

Garments that can be provided only by the volunteer effort of the women of America will actually save the lives of thousands of children and babies in Central and Eastern Europe, declares Robert E. Olds, Commissioner for Europe of the American Red Cross, in an appeal sent to this country from his headquarters in Paris for support of the Red Cross Chapter program of garment and layette production.

"We have urgent need of two million garments to aid our work for the children of Europe," says Commissioner Olds in his message, just received at the New England Division headquarters of the Red Cross in Boston. "I therefore appeal to women in Red Cross chapters in America to stimulate production to the utmost of their ability. Never has need been greater than it is today. Paris headquarters receives continual requests from American workers in the field asking for more children's clothing. These workers know the need for they have it always before them.

"The work of restoring the shattered health of thousands of children who are suffering from the world catastrophe must be threefold, namely, food, medical care and clothing. The food need is being largely met through efforts of the American Relief Administration. The need for medical care is being largely met by American Red Cross medical units. The need for clothing can only be met by large production of garments and layettes in American chapters.

"We must answer their appeal. We have the means; they are helpless. We have the will; their spirit is broken. We must continue to givet hem help and encouragement. Our Red Cross chapters can actually save thousands of lives by replenishing our depleted stocks of clothing and layettes. American mothers will need only to realize the distress of their European sisters to answer our appeal in this great humanitarian task."

City to Provide Playgrounds For 100 West Peabody Boys and Girls

West Peabody is to have a public playground following a conference with the Mayor and Playground Commission yesterday. A three-acre tract of land at the junction of West and Lowell streets will be turned into a suitable playlot for the kiddies of the district, and the citizens by a popular subscription will donate the paraphernalia to the playground commission. The city will pay $100 a year rental for the land. The cost of a girl and man instructor will be borne by the West Peabody citizens. It is estimated that more than 100 children will be given the benefit of intensified playground instruction.

Harry W. Rankin, postmaster and leading citizen of West Peabody, and Edward A. Croughwell, prominent leader in the West Peabody Grange, and booster for West Peabody, held the conference yesterday in the Mayor's office. Present was Henry A. King, chairman of the Playground Commission.

Mr. Rankin presented the proposition, which met with instant approval of the Mayor and a lease of the land will be executed and the citizens' committee will start at once to procure $200 in money with which to buy the apparatus. There will be sand boxes, teeters, swings, baseball supplies and other articles for the work of keeping the children of the West Peabody section happy this summer. Chairman King of the Playground Commission will delegate one of his instructors to spend a day occasionally in West Peabody and he himself as supervisor of the playground work this summer will keep close tabs on the progress of the playground work in the upper end of the city.

Mr. Rankin for the committee thanked Mayor Shea for his co-operation and approval of the plan.

Chief Grady Replaces 'Cop' On Lowell St.

Chief Grady of the police department caused a shakeup in his force this week, when he relieved from duty [illegible]ty Reserve Officer Timothy Dullea, who has been patrolling the Lowell street beat for the past two years, and detailed Reserve Officer Clark to that district. The change was made Wednesday night.

It is reported that Officer Dullea, who is a brother of Patrolman Richard Dullea, may ask for a hearing. According to Reserve Officer Dullea, no reason was given him for removing him from his beat. He was appointed to the metropolitan police force, where he served a few months before resigning and returning to the local field.

Report has it that "jake" sellers have been doing too much business on the Lowell street beat and that despite the frequent raids little or no evidence has been secured.

Officer Dullea says he has a book full of evidence for Chief Grady if the latter wants it.

It is said the men "manhandled" an employe who was sweeping and led him off down Railroad avenue. Revere police officers were summoned from the New England Chambers.

Peabody Rotary Club Will Start Work Among Boys

The Peabody Rotary club, which started on its second year last Tuesday, is determined to do something worth while for the boys of Peabody this season. Swimming pools, skating ponds and coasting areas are three subjects which the boys' committee will vigorously deal with, and it is believed that some big results will follow the efforts of the committee.

Sunday the boys' committee will visit Blaney's meadow with a view to making arrangements now whereby the boys may have the use of that area for skating next winter. Last winter the Rotary club paid for the services of a special police officer on Blaney's pond during the brief period of skating.

The boys' committee will also interest itself in the work being done for the boys at the Community House and it is planned to have each member of the Rotary club take under his wing a certain boy, picked from the Community House, St. John's Cadets and the Boy Scouts.

At the meeting of the club next Tuesday noon, C. M. Smith, in charge of the coming campaign for the North Shore Babies' hospital, will be among the speakers. The entertainment committee of which John Meagher is chairman is to provide something new by way of entertainment. The club had an attendance of 35 members out of 39 at its dinner this week.

The following committees have been appointed by President F. W. Penniman:

Membership—George S. Curtis, Dr. L. K. Kelley, F. H. Sanger, H. F. Whidden, Leslie Porter. Entertainment—John Meagher, Roger Smith, Phil O'Rourke, Frank Lummus, Mark Kelley. Fellowship—B. J. Ronan, W. J. Dodge, R. H. Leach, George D. Morse, John Power. Public Affairs—P. J. Woods, Max Korn, A. P. Bodge, W. A. Shea, J. F. Ingraham. Boys' Work—Dr. S. C .Tucker, L. P. P. Osborne, J. E. Fitzgerald, A. P. Ames, Chester Bent, W. H. Fay, E. A. Woelfel, Ray Porter, Dr. G. W. Ewing. International Headquarters—G. A. Blaney, T. F. Mulherin, Joseph Noyes. Education—Albert Robinson, John E. Hayes, R. A. Bakeman.

Apparently the most important mission of the spring styles in wraps is—to be graceful. Long lines, vague and very mobile, and a casual adjustment of the garment to the figure, have a "chic" that cannot be outclassed.

May Festival Nets Big Sum

The annual May festival for the benefit of the Community House held in City Hall on Wedensday attracted large crowds both afternoon and evening, who thoroughly enjoyed the programs presented, and generously patronized the various booths. The committees in charge, of which Mrs. William N. Lambert was chairman, should feel gratified at the result of their work.

The program in the afternoon consisted of the procession of the May Queen and her attendants, crowning of the queen (little Helen Poor), winding of the May pole, and solo dancing by Mary Collins, Dorothy Doyle, Irma Goodwin, Marjorie Messer, Beatrice Carter and Evelyn Grant, all of whom were a delight to the audience.

In the evening Miss Ethelwyn Meagher was crowned queen, and the winding of the May pole was participated in by twenty girls and boys from the high school. Ballet dancing was a feature of the evening's program, too, and the children who danced were unusually proficient in the art. Little Marjorie Messer opened the program with a "Butterfly dance" and for such a little tot, gave a remarkable exhibition. The dancing of Ruth Bresnahan, Evelyn Grant, Josephine Cology, Florence Goodwin and Dorothy Stanley added greatly to the attractiveness of the program.

Beatrice Leary of Beverly in "Steps and Stunts" was distinctively clever, and some of the "stunts" enacted by the young lady were worthy of a professional contortionist. Miss Alice Duffee of Salem, whose name appeared on the program, was confined to her home by illness and in her place Miss Marguerite Goodwin of Swampscott gave a delightful exhibition. Little Bessie Hickey as "Peggy from Paris" and Gertrude Haskell in "Vivacity" were exceptionally good and proved them to be queens of ballet. Following the program, general dancing was enjoyed.

It is believed the receipts of the festival will total close to $1000.

SOUTH CHURCH NOTES

At the morning service Sunday the Rev. George A. Gordon of the Anti-Saloon league will be the speaker.

In the evening the pastor will speak on the subject of "What Is Absolute in Religion." This will be the last of a series of talks on the place of the Bible in the church.

It is understood that there will be a Sunday school social at the church next week. Full announcement will be made on Sunday.

Wedded by Eating Out of Bowl.

Marriage is not a religious ceremony among the Burmese. There is a ceremony, of course, but the only necessary and binding part of it is that the couple should, in the presence of witnesses called together for the purpose, eat out of the same bowl.

Rev. Cady Flays Stay-at-Home Church Men

Rev. George L. Cady, one of the most noted clergymen in the country, made a stirring address to over 200 Peabody men last night at the South church at a meeting of the Men's Federation of the several Protestant churches of this city. He called on his audience to stimulate the principles of American citizenship and urged an active organization in the field for the preservation of the sanctity of the Sabbath.

He scored the "Sunday headache" that keeps Protestants from attending church, but which generally passes with the end of religious services and makes the sufferer ready to devour a chicken dinner and then go to the golf links and while the afternoon away.

He said he had hoped that the world war awaken a better Christian spirit among the men of America, but he gave it his opinion that America was becoming decadent by loose morals. He arraigned the movie films which he said were responsible in measure for the decadent spirit now abroad in this country. He called on his audience to join hands in a national movement for the purification of home, political and religious activities, declaring that the great American people had gone crazy with new fads since the world war.

He paid his respects to the Catholic church for its great organization and called on his audience to emulate the same spirit that would make for a stronger organization of the evangelical churches of this country.

Rev. Mr. Cady is a former New York divine who because of his speaking ability was induced to enter the American Missionary field, in which service he has been touring the length and breadth of the nation. He proved an interesting speaker, injecting considerable mirth into his discourse.

An informal business meeting was held at the close of the address and it was voted to have each church send two laymen delegates to a meeting at which time steps will be taken for a permanent organization of Men's clubs in Peabody.

A roast beef supper was served by the Woman's association of the South church previous to the evening address.

Peabody Leather Dealers May Lose Shoe Business Unless Able To Produce

(By ENERGY)

For several weeks in my letter, I have dwelt on the fact that the shoe business was growing fast in the middle west. This subject is a serious one for New England and what the outcome will be eventually is, shoes will be made west and our shoe business of New England will wane.

I presume these facts have been taken seriously by local manufacturers, and as many of them have established factories other than in Lynn, goes to prove cheaper output is aimed at so as to compete with similar conditions in the west. There are many successful shoemakers in Lynn. They have a faculty of staying there and make profits. Perhaps this is due to the kind of shoe they make, specialties perhaps, and let us hope they will continue in Lynn. To locate a factory in cities or towns where the help must be imported or taught the business is a large handicap, and in some cases has made disaster.

A concern like the International Shoe Co. with more than $100,000,000 capital has the ways and means to do most anything they start. By a system of schools with experts to teach the green help, in a few months are making shoes that please the public. Then again they reach out to all the lines of the business, boys, girls, growing girls, misses, then to men and women's shoes. Their office force would make an Mexican army, in fact, they are a shoe world in themselves. They have forty or more factories distributed among the cities and towns of Missouri, so one can see at a glance, competition with them is as rough as a football game.

Perhaps I am pessimistic about this affair. Some tell me the shoes are sold in Boston, and the leather cut from Peabody production to a considerable extent. Fine, but that does not alter the fact that the labor on these shoes is being lost here. It is not my intention to criticise the labor unions, but it seems to me a fair question, that if labor prices range higher here than west, the answer must be loss of production for us. I believe this difference will eventually be adjusted, the sooner the better.

There is a finish, yes a personality to shoes which most anyone can detect. Skilled workmen do this trick, and this fact is one reason why many manufacturers stick to Lynn. But as the westerners improve, will they not acquire the same skill? There is little use to sit back and try and make ourselves believe everything will come back when there is no reason for it. Cold facts seldom cold without ice, so let us look at it as it is and not as we would like it to be.

The leather business is somewhat different. A factory cannot be packed up over night and moved elsewhere. Water has as much to do with the tanning industry as to make or break those who do not heed its value. One might be fortunate enough to strike pure water, but the odds are far the other way. A certain tanner here has several times visited outside tanneries, called there because of troubles the owners could not locate. Water has been the answer in many cases, and horse sense the remainder. There are many men who can tan leather in Peabody with everything about them familiar. Send those men to new fields and they flounder about as a fish in water. I had an inquiry recently as to whether I knew of a competent tanner of white sheep. I turned the inquiry over to one whom I consider one of the best in that line. He would not recommend any one for the reason he knew of no one whom he had confidence could take up the burden under strange conditions. I have known scores of would-be tanners who have failed in such ventures.

I have thought this week or in a short time, the strike would be settled, or many would return to their jobs. I have heard so much talk of this kind that it seemed as though something would happen. The manufacturers' schedule has been met by the National Co., but what the next move will be must be left to imagination. The union claims to be holding tight, while the company claim to be on the right road. Meanwhile, thousands of dollars in wages are being lost daily, and lost by those who can ill afford to lose the money.

Looking over the store windows of the prominent retail shoe men here shows a large variety of kinds and shapes to choose from. There is no need of anyone purchasing shoes in other cities. If you want style, the Stetson shoe can be bought here some dollars cheaper than in Boston.

All other prominent makes are shown, and when the maker's name is stamped on the sole there can be no answer. McElwain, Douglas, the Emerson are standards which the public can choose from and make no mistake that they get their money's worth. When one can purchase a calf shoe with rubber heel, made by these people for $6.00, there is little cause for a kick. No, dear reader, if you are interested in your city, if you want the stores stocked with the best variety, trade here and it will give the retailer incentive to carry the stock. Patronage will make the stores and it is up to all of us who want Peabody to grow to buy our shoes, yes, and everything in our city. If a strict accounting is made of your purchases elsewhere, counting fares, sodas, ice creams and chocolates, you lose money out of town. What helps Peabody, helps you, for Peabody is you and others.

The best informed tell us the leather business is to be better this summer and fall. These fellows are guessing, with signs on their side.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

LOIS

LOIS is really a masculine name. It means "famous war" and comes from the Teutonic nomenclature through the Karling romances. Lois or Loiz, as it is sometimes spelled, is really Louis.

The French king whom the French knew as Louis de Debonnaire was originally called Lludwigs. The Provencal promptly softened the name to Aloys, but so popular did Louis become that no member of the French royal family was christened without it. Finally the soft Aloys gained favor throughout France, and the "a" was dropped, producing the musical Loys. The Bretons were already using the name of Loiz, so the "Y" in Loys disappeared and Lois appeared and remained permanent.

Loys was the only form of the innumerable versions of Louis that became applied as a feminine name. Spain's Loiz has never wavered from its masculine interpretation, nor has the Luiz of Portugal. France formed an Heloise from Lois and Louise might possibly be called an equivalent for Lois if it were not for that strain of Provencal.

Lois has been given in baptism generally as a name of sentiment. It is a trifle difficult to pronounce but is undoubtedly beautiful and extraordinarily popular in this country.

The talismanic gem assigned to Lois is the onyx. It should be worn with care as it is inclined to cool affection, provoke discord and separate lovers, but worn by Lois it prevents these very misfortunes. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

WHILE the "counting of the people" is mentioned in the records of the Hebrews and the Romans, this counting was for military or fiduciary purposes only. PEABODY WAR VETERANS

Action by the Peabody Chamber of Commerce will doubtless be taken to lay before the government officials at Washington the fact that Peabody physicians and our hospital is being ignored in the care of disabled and sick veterans of the World war. By the present arrangement Peabody war veterans are now forced to go to Salem or Boston for medical care. Several Peabody men are receiving treatment in Salem. The arrangement savors of politics with a political pull that aims a blow at the local doctors and inflicts a hardship on the war veterans that very properly ought to be overcome. Four Peabody doctors entered the war service and every doctor in Peabody stood ready to throw aside his practice and go where the country called him. Peabody citizens did their part in every war drive for funds and this city furnished many volunteers and supplied its full quota of men at every call. To Peabody's credit, it is probably true, that not a single instance of draft dodging was recorded from this city. We have competent physicians and surgeons and we have a hospital so superior that even Salem physicians prefer to send their patients here. Why should not the officials at Washington issue an order removing the ground for present complaint and direct that all disabled or sick war veterans in Peabody be treated by Peabody physicians? It would be a nice way for the government to recognize the local profession and the ruling would do away with the hardship and expense of Peabody war veterans going to nearby cities for treatment. It ought not to be a difficult thing for the Chamber of Commerce to convince Secretary of War Weeks that an injustice is being done to Peabody war veterans, to Peabody physicians and to the local hospital. We should not expect to see Salem war veterans being ordered to Peabody for treatment by Peabody physicians.

BOYS FIRST!

What's a boy worth to the community? Chicago, beehive of nearly 3,000,000 people, will find out. It sets aside a whole week, beginning May 6, in honor of Boyville.

No funds solicited. No tag days. Merely a chance to arrest thought and concentrate attention on the boy and his problems and how to make him grow up into a crackerjack citizen.

There's a drive worth while. Chicago thinks it's needed.

The Chicago Rotary Club, for instance, considers a survey of the city's boy life. The survey shows that out of 3,000 boys between the ages of 10 and 16, only a sixth are being reached by agencies engaged in specific work for boys—constructive agencies. Plenty of destructive agencies are working on the six-sixths.

The Chicago Union League Foundation has a boys' club in one of the most congested wards. It finds that juvenile delinquency has increased in that ward 47 per cent in the last year.

These facts have roused Chicago business men. They have organized to furnish supervised club work for local boys. This means that business men, in studying the importance of the human factor, are reaching the conclusion that the adult problems which disturb society are in large degree the ripened fruit of neglected boyhood.

Developing the boy as a potential social asset is wiser business and sounder economy than paying for the criminal, the drifter and the parasite as community liabilities.

Man, by congesting in cities, has robbed boyhood of its rightful heritage—the Great Outdoors for wholesome sport and development. Virtually imprisoned, many follow the wrong road.

If cities had given boys better attention a decade or two ago, there would now be less crime—and better public spirit.—Lynn Telegram.

Revolutionary Army Uniform.

At the close of the Revolutionary war the uniforms of the American troops retained in service closely followed the French, that of the infantry being blue faced with white, and the artillery blue faced with red. At that time these were the only two arms in the composition of the army. Later cavalry was added, wearing green coats with white facings, which soon after changed to black. Since that time the uniforms of the army can be divided into periods, each of which dates back to the close of one of the wars.

Let a Child Choose.

Children should never be forced into a line of work for which they show no aptitude, according to Dr. Edward J. [illegible], a New York psycho-pathologist and author, in an article in the New York Sun. "Many parents unwittingly ruin their children's whole lives because they fail to realize the vital importance of letting the child develop its own nature," says Doctor [illegible]. "and they sacrifice of by deeds and taboos to the his personality."

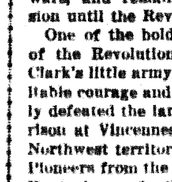
XIX—INDIANA

IT WAS the French flag which first floated over Indiana. In the middle of the seventeenth century La Salle's explorations brought him through the wooded wilderness of Indiana. Shortly there followed Jesuit missionaries from Quebec and in their trail came adventurous rangers and fur traders. French forts and trading posts were soon established. In 1763 the British took possession of this territory after the French and Indian wars, and remained in possession until the Revolution.

One of the boldest campaigns of the Revolution was that of Clark's little army, whose indomitable courage and audacity finally defeated the large British garrison at Vincennes and won the Northwest territory for Virginia. Pioneers from the East and from Kentucky made their way into this new territory, and among these was Abraham Lincoln's family. It was in 1816, the year that Indiana became the nineteenth state, that Lincoln attained citizenship in Indiana. With the increase in population by 1800 Indiana Territory was formed, extending from the Ohio border west to the Mississippi and north to Canada. Vincennes was selected as the first capital. In 1804, when the Louisiana Purchase was made, the government of Louisiana was placed in the hands of the Indiana Territory officials, so that for one year the capital of Louisiana was also at Vincennes in Indiana.



Although nicknamed the Hoosier State, from the old southern slang for rough backwoodsmen, Indiana, with its 36,-254 square miles, its fifteen Presidential electors, and containing as it does the center of population, is considered of utmost importance politically.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XX—MISSISSIPPI

THE State of Mississippi derives its name from the river which forms its western boundary. The word itself comes from the Algonquin mis-si-sepe which means "great river." It is popularly supposed to mean "Father of the Waters" but this interpretation is incorrect. The state is also known as the Bayou State from the many bayous which are formed by the shifting river. In this connection it is interesting to note the uneven course of the Mississippi river. Though the extreme length of the state from the Gulf to Tennessee is 360 miles, the western border, due to the winding of the Mississippi river, extends for nearly 340 miles.

The rivers play an important part in this state. They are so numerous and the country so subject to flood that the river bottoms cover nearly one fifth of the area of the entire state.

The early history of Mississippi is yoked up with that of Louisiana of which it originally formed a part. Discovered by De Soto in 1539, it was not until La Salle sailed down the river and claimed this territory, which he named in honor of his French king, Louis XIV, that a permanent settlement was established.

In 1763 the territory east of the Mississippi was ceded by the French to the English. For a while the lower portion of the present state was called West Florida. After being captured by the Spanish and later returned to the United States, the Territory of Mississippi was extended to its present size of 46,-865 square miles and in 1817 it was admitted as the twentieth state of the Union. At the time of the Mexican war, although called upon to supply one regiment of volunteers, Mississippi responded with enough men for two. One of these regiments was commanded by Jefferson Davis, who later was the president of the Confederate states. Since its readmittance to the Union in 1870 Mississippi in national elections has been a Democratic state except in 1872, when it voted for Grant.

Heat in City.

In the city the sun's rays hit the sidewalk and bound back in your face. If there are no trees or grass around to absorb some of the heat, the temperature is several degrees higher than in the country.

ROUND ABOUT

There's a little Peabody lad mourning a pet rabbit that got into a neighbor's yard. The rabbit so angered the neighbor that it was given a heavy blow and killed. Then the bunny was thrown back into its own yard. It was a woman who struck the blow, so I am informed. It appears that the parents of the little lad bought him two rabbits and for days they were housed securely. One day one of the pets got out of his cage and that was the end.

Mayor Tuttle of Beverly, who is well known in the leather trade, being identified with the Hathorn Thompson Leather Co, is to be the speaker before the Peabody Rotary club next Tuesday. He is a former president of the Salem Rotary club and largely responsible for the fact that Beverly this week received its charter. He isn't going to talk leather, but has a social message to every Rotarian in the local club.

The trotting season for wild birds is at hand, and from the middle of May to the middle of August is the time of great destruction to bird life, the mother birds being confined to the nest, and the fledglings are not able to care for themselves. While some of the mortality is due to ignorant birds and animals and exposure to unfavorable weather conditions, the greatest single living agency in the destruction is the roaming, unrestrained house cat.

The "Rotary Spoke," official organ of the Witch City disciples of one of the best organizations in the world today said in its issue this week: "Do nor says that Dan Manning can play the piano just as well as he can sing." The only thing wrong about the statement is the minor part of it, as all of his brother Rotarians in Peabody can testify. Peabody's former Assistant District Attorney and ex Representative has recently joined the Salem Rotary club. He was fined this week for being tardy at the Tuesday lunch.

Despite the troubled labor conditions which the city has experienced the past several weeks, out of the turmoil and conferences comes the statement of a prominent leader in the strike situation that the A. C. L. former employes have long looked upon Supt. Charles E. Kelley as a big brother, if not father. It is probably true that Mr. Kelley knows most the former A. C. L. men by their first names.

Oliver Wendell Smith of Salem, well-known author, in a recent pamphlet makes this suggestion: "Let schools and churches promote a one hundred per cent Americanism, so before the day when a hundred per cent of American families will own their homes and be there also labor to hasten the day when in all homes love will reign supreme. This may be promoted by cultivating a taste for fine literature, much of it in verse that shows the far greater beauty of golden weddings than trips to Reno to obtain divorces."

Albert N. Gardner, a Peabody man, has added fresh laurels recently to the amateur stage in Springfield Vt., where he is president-superintendent of the Community club. He took a leading role in "Under Cover" and according to the papers of that town acquitted himself with true credit. He is a graduate of Peabody high and expects to complete his final year at Harvard Medical next June. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Gardner of Central street.

Change of Trade.

Some years ago a cotton man talked at a large bank regarding his note, which the bank held for a sizable amount. "Yes," remarked the banker, "it falls due tomorrow, and we expect it will be paid." The cotton man made no reply for a moment, then asked abruptly, "What is your business?" "Why, I am a banker," was the surprised response. "Well," mused the cotton man, "tomorrow you are going to be a cotton merchant."—New York Times.

Doctrine of Pre-existence.

The doctrine of previous existence being made use of by individual is very old. Certain sects, especially in the Far East, believe that past experiences, incarnations, man experiences, incarnations, carrying the memory in a greater or less degree from incarnation to the other. Theosophical writers have taken up this strande of feeling as an evidence that mentality had an existence in our present bodily life—souls hereated from the beginning.

'Fatty' Arbuckle To Get Ovation At Strand Theatre Tonight

Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle has graduated from two-reel slapstick classics to full length comedy drama. He will make his debut as a feature star at the Strand today and is fortunate in having a vehicle as packed with fun-making possibilities as Dorothy Dalton's "The Life of the Party." Arbuckle is just as delightful in the story, and, moreover, shows in the serious scenes considerable skill as a straight dramatic actor. The fatty story ran in the Saturday Evening Post recently and concerned a young society lawyer, Algernon Jones, who, to the utter horror of pretty Polly Baldwin, undertook to prosecute the high grafters and thereby land in a host of trouble for himself. For Judge Watts, scared to an inch with the mob hell, not only threw the case out of court, but framed Jones by having a fair-sized lump fall from a cornice just when only a moment more difficult for him to dodge proved fatal. Jones, to escape his wife, only to encounter more difficulties, disguises himself as a female and attends a "ladies only" dancing class as a child of fate, the fun begins down in the Little Italian. But to briefly relate only after the reels of comedy humor and excitement. Will Louis Bennett, in "Holding Hands" and one of the Imperials Trained Nurse dancing act will be shown today.

Charles Ray, one of the screen's most likable youths, will appear at the Strand Sunday evening in "His Wife's Money." Doris Peters in "Six Hundred and Odd Wives" will be the other attraction on Sunday's double bill.

Anna Sewall's classic "Black Beauty" will be the big feature for Monday and Tuesday. A masterpiece of fiction made into a unique film is "Black Beauty." It is what might be termed an extraordinary production in that it contains two stories interwoven in such a manner that they are always separated, and yet the action blends so nicely the whole makes but one narrative. This is the work of Lillian and George Randolph Chester. They left the story written by Anna Sewall just as they found it, preserving its masterly style and added to it an inside story concerning the human beings, friends of "Black Beauty." This is the story that "Black Beauty" could not see and had no means of knowing. It explains the reason for going to town on the rainy day in which the bridge was swept away. It emphasizes the importance of the family being at the inn when the stable is burned and adds a thrilling race between horse and locomotive. "Black Beauty" was filmed at a cost of over half a million dollars and is filled with spectacular scenes, picturesque locations and enacted by an all star cast headed by Jean Page and James Morrison.

"The Bait," a Maurice Tourneur Paramount production, starring Hope Hampton, will divide the headline honors on the bill for Wednesday and Thursday with "The Fire Cat," starring Edith Roberts. Ruth Roland in "The Avenging Arrow" will also be shown on the mid-week change of pictures.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America)

SCOUT LEADERS ASSEMBLE

The eleventh annual meeting of the national council, Boys Scouts of America, took place at the Hotel Commodore, New York city, recently, with scout men to the number of 341 present, from 46 states, representing the enormous volunteer leadership of the country. These men come together every year to review the work of the past 12 months and to make plans for the future.

The spirit of the whole meeting was admirably expressed in the forceful phraseology of the Chief Scout Executive James E. West, as follows:

"It must be ever borne in mind that the basis of strength and power of the boy scout movement will not be measured alone by the number of scouts and scout officials, the records of activity of the national council, or number of local councils organized; these are but a means to an end. The value of the scout movement will be judged by the individual boy scout, his conduct, appearance, the way he puts in to practice the scout oath and law and reveals that he is actually prepared to do things worth while because of the program of activities of the Boy Scouts of America."

Resolutions were passed endorsing the work of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs in giving scouting and other boy programs generous support and sympathy and greetings were ordered sent to the Boy Scouts of Great Britain, France and Belgium, in particular, and to boy scouts everywhere throughout the world. It was also voted to continue the cooperation with the American committee for devastated France by asking leading Boy Scout Dr. Bayley, director of the department of education of the national council for a period of six months to the work of the committee in France, looking forward to the development of scouting in France and particularly to assist in bringing about unification of the various branches of the scout movements in that country.

HONORS FOR BRAVE SCOUTS.

During the year 1920 the national court of honor of the Boy Scouts of America issued medals as follows to scouts for conspicuous service in life saving and first aid:

Two gold medals, 13 silver medals, 17 bronze medals. The gold medal cases were particularly striking, involving the heroic rescue of two children from a burning building by a young assistant scoutmaster, Gratze Noble of Chariton, Ia., and another remarkably self-forgetful and fine attempt on the part of a scout, Joseph Mandis of Troop No. 1, East Liverpool, to save his grandmother from a fallen live wire at the imminent risk of his own life. Nine of the silver medal cases were water accidents, and in each case the rescuer showed exceptional courage and clearheaded ness. The other silver medal cases were a fire where rescue of children from a burning building and three automobile and truck accidents.

The third scout law requires that a scout shall be prepared at any time to save life and help injured persons, and the records of the court of honor abundantly prove that the boys are living up to this obligation in full measure. In addition to these 32 medals already mentioned, 57 letters of commendation were sent by the court of honor to boys who performed deeds of exceptional excellence in life saving and first aid, without risk to their own lives.

NEW JAMAICA STAMPS.

"Jamaica, in issuing a new pictorial series, has adopted the peculiar idea of calling it a set commemorative of the island's exhibit 30 years ago," writes Kent B. Stiles, the stamp editor, in Boys' Life. "The inscription includes 'Jamaica Exhibition, 1891,' and the design on the various denominations consist of the exhibition buildings of that period. The situation smacks of a desire to obtain pennies from collectors in order that Jamaica may help finance her postal administration!"

condition of the roads who met last evening. Councillor Ryan advocated allowing the disabled library to be taken and Washington streets.

The Council suspended part of the hearing on the Mayor's 1921 budget last night, principally for the fixing of police department, unpaid bills of 1920, increase in salaries, city farm, school gas, new department and others. It turned down the $40 proposed for the benefit of the workers in mines. Councillor Ryan also urged that the Council take the money, provided fewer men and required the expenses. Assessors Peirce and the office were cited.

Councillor Bell moved notice to a legal that he would oppose every increase in salary for city employes and he was recorded on the several appropriation which contained added amounts for salaries. Councillor Ryan and Bell said that Peabody city employes had earned their increases and they were entitled to more money for several years.

Four drinking fountains were voted to install and four new applications were referred to the Council on petition of Councillor Hamilton to have one placed at the corner of Main and Foster streets. Councillor Bell moved that the Council go on record as favoring the placing of one fountain in front of the Court House this year. Councillor Ryan said that Peabody was entitled to more than one fountain this year. Councillor Bell said that Peabody had enough fountains and that the city could not afford to spend money for them.

CITY HALL

Councillor Frank McKeen of Ward One can't be accused of playing a sharp game of politics, as shown by his opposition to all salary increases, included in the budget this year. There is no more independent man in Peabody's City Council than McKeen. He is a poor politician and largely alone when it comes to speaking his one's mind.

Removal of the trees in front of Roger H. Smith's property on Lowell street improves the business aspect just 87 per cent.

With the speedy improvement of the Eastend playground, Mayor Shea is determined that a due regard for the upkeep of the place will be exacted from the visitors and from property owners adjacent, some of whom now throw tin cans and other refuse onto the city lot. The police and health departments have been ordered to co-operate and the police will be directed to make arrests where nuisances are committed. The baseball diamond will be put into shape within a week, it is announced, following the official inspection made of the playground Wednesday afternoon. The Park Commission is to have running water service on the grounds and boys who tamper with the fixtures will be hailed into the juvenile court. The hollow near the Carroll school is to be filled by the ash collector and the big concrete blocks which now mar the scenery are to be buried in the bottom.

Appointment of Horace A. Wilson as registrar of voters brings to the board a man who is well quaified to serve because of his long experience as an election warden. He is familiar with the whole city, possesses a wide acquaintance and by mature judgment will lend both weight and dignity to the office.

It is believed that the report of the state auditors who recently completed the probe of the city departments will be received by Mayor Shea this coming week.

Mayor Shea has made permanent the temporary appointment of Henry D. Duggan, assistant janitor in City Hall. He was given the temporary appointment under Ex-Mayor Donnell. Duggan's name was confirmed by the civil service board this week. He has proved a very capable man in his position and is held in high esteem by the attaches of City Hall. He is the father of President Henry F. Duggan of the City Council.

Salem friends of former Councillor Michael McGrath of Salem and Swampscott are booming him for Democratic candidate for congressman in the sixth district. Mr. McGrath has proved to be a good vote getter and as a business man of ability, being president of McGrath Bros. LEATHER PRODUCTION 50 PER CENT NORMAL

(By ENERGY)

Fifty per cent. normal business is the answer to conditions of leather today. This does not apply to all kinds and everybody I admit, but comes from one of the concerns whom I consider a barometer of conditions. This same concern two months ago was doing 33 per cent. of capacity. So you can see the business is climbing slowly.

When getting this information a long face went with it, and it made me remark that war times had served to spoil manufacturers, for then money was rolling in as does the tide. It also is the same with labor. All must take their medicine, and to bring back normal conditions, such as will bring prosperity, all must do their bit. In war times, the cry of doing your bit was taken seriously by all Americans. I say Americans, for those who did not do it should not be placed in that class. Conditions today warrant more to do their bits, for the economic side of the question is just as serious as the war side.

We are confronted with foreign trade. Particularly the Germans are manning the guns of industry as they did those of the war. This nation so hated during the war has now turned to civil pursuits and are producing and selling goods in South America and elsewhere, including our own United States. Why? Because they can make them cheaper than we can. They are working longer hours and enough said.

—*—

Far be it for me to want long hours, but when we are confronted with them, and the other fellow is taking away our business, we have always been ready to meet conditions, and that is what we must do now or lose. Some of us think the U. S. is capable of taking care of itself and the rest of the world can do likewise. If we did not manufacture more shoes than we consume it would be so, more or less. But we must sell a large per cent. of them to other countries and therefore must hobnob with countries to get the business. Do not fool yourself into thinking that world affairs can be taken care of without our help. Nothing doing.

So as with leather, so with all manufactures. We will see next week a photo-play at the Strand made in Germany. Such plays cost far less than do our own, and we must think of these things and wake up to the fact that cost of production is the medicine that cures dull business and must and will be taken seriously, if we swim and not sink.

The strike situation remains the same with both sides claiming results. The strikers are holding together and claim by so doing the company must eventually yield to their demands. On the other hand, the company say they are putting on men daily and the end is in sight when they will have all that they require. I cannot comment on conditions more than I have in previous letters, only to say it is regretable to think that so many men with families are loafing in a cause which does not seem bright to me, so far as the ending is to be. I do not say they are not justified in their stand, but right and wrong does not enter into cold facts, and that is the only way the situation can be looked at squarely.

We are at the end of the summer business. June first, shoe manufacturers commence to plan their fall business, which means heavy boots and shoes, and no doubt new shades with quite a sprinkling of black leather. Many tanners are looking for better business because of this fall trade, and here's hoping they get it, although the material for "here's hoping" does not carry the weight of former days. It may be as effective, however, with far less yellow in the morning.

A SOLEMN OBLIGATION

By John H. Quinlan

There is one day in the year that a real quality of Americanism may well be displayed, and that day is on Memorial Day, May 30. To neglect the remembrance of the departed heroes of our great country on the one day designated for the impressive and solemn obligation to them would indeed be a most ungrateful display of indifference and neglect. Ex-service men still possessing the real red blood of true Americanism will on that day be found performing a grateful and noble duty in assisting in the service provided for by the institutions who strive to perpetuate the spirit and great achievements of the fighting armies that have preserved America in times of danger. Speaking more frankly, it may be said that if the heroic dead of our nation are to be forgotten by their living comrades, it will indeed be an omission that cannot be supported by any lofty reason. Brave men laid down their lives that America might live; a greater sacrifice could not be made. We owe them at least one day's remembrance. We must stand by the only real heroes of the war. Be loyal by assisting in a solemn duty. America's dead must not be forgotten.

PARENT TEACHERS' ASSN.

An active organization of parents-teachers would prove of inestimable value to the 3200 school children and the public schools of Peabody. Such organizations in other cities are a positive agency for good, because the chief concern is in the welfare of the school children. No mother will deny the duty she owes to herself and her children to know at first hand how the pupils are handled in the class rooms. The failure of any child to progress with his class is not only a concern of the parent, both mother and father, but it is a primary duty of the parent to ascertain just what the reason is for the failure and in the minds of educators generally it is an accepted truth that this neglect of pupils to progress is a criticism of the home influence or lack of home training. Frequently it is agreed a slight defect remedied by co-operation on the part of the parent with the teacher would put the pupil in the way of improving his work in the class room, making the efforts of the faithful teacher result in a far happier child. Where parent-teachers' associations function school welfare and all that belongs flourishes and a much higher degree of school tuition is recorded. The parents' duty does not end with bidding the child goodbye on his way to school and it is a pity that more parents in this city do not acquaint themselves with class room work of their children. There is excellent reason for a parent teachers' association to exist in Peabody.

EASTEND PLAYGROUND

Announcement this week by Mayor Shea that he is to direct work on the Eastend playground that will make it both presentable and free from unwholesome aspects that have abounded ought to be a cause of real jubilation among the hundreds of homesteaders in that district. It is evident that Mayor Shea is determined to enforce proper restrictions on the city playlot, by warning the youths, and even grownups, who resort to acts of vandalism, that this sort of depredation must cease. The Mayor means business, for he has ordered the police department to enforce the provisions that will make for public safety and turn a valuable play area into a recreation center that will appeal to the mothers as well as to the boys and girls. The "jakey" fiend is to be driven from his lair and the dressing house which he has in large measure been responsible for wrecking, is to be conserved and if necessary by police protection, preserved for its proper purpose. The possibilities of a great community center taking shape on this playground are immense. With a well defined program the playground can be made an alluring place during the outdoor seasons. It is up to the parents of the boys and girls to help make the Eastend playground be inviting and a safe place for the kiddies.

No Advocate but Itself.

Do not waste a minute, not a second, in trying to demonstrate to others the merit of your own performance. If your work does not vindicate itself, you cannot vindicate it, but you can labor steadily on to the something which needs no advocate but itself.—Thomas Wentworth Higginson, "A Letter to a Young Contributor."

Fine Place to Explore.

Arabia contains possibly the greatest tract of unexplored territory now existing in the world. According to one authority, no European traveler has penetrated more than a hundred miles from the coast, except at one or two points, in the vast southern half of the peninsula, where about 750,000 miles of territory (largely desert) remain unexplored.—Outlook.

XXI.—ILLINOIS

KASKASKIA, the oldest town in Illinois, is on the site of an Indian village and it was here that Father Marquette, after his first discovery of the Illinois river, established a Jesuit mission in 1675. Four years later La Salle, the French explorer, passed through the Great Lakes, landed at the Chicago river and pushed on to the Illinois river, which he named after the Indian tribes living in that region. Here he built a fort and sent his boat back to Montreal for further supplies. When his vessel did not return he started home on foot and succeeded in finding his way to Montreal through a thousand miles of tangled wilderness. He gathered together another expedition and returned to the fort, which he had left in charge of his companion Tonty. The fort he found in ruins, but finally succeeded in locating and rescuing Tonty, who had been driven out by the Iroquois Indians.

This riverway to the Mississippi became one of the leading avenues of communication between the French in the North and Louisiana. French settlers soon located here and established the most friendly relations with the Indians. In fact, though the Illinois country was ceded by France to England in 1763, the sentiment of the Indians and French together was so hostile that it was several years before the territory could be occupied.

During the Revolution it was George Rogers Clark and his expedition into the territory north of the Ohio which captured Kaskaskia and drove the English from this province. Various states claimed rights to parts of this territory, but these were finally ceded to the federal government and in 1787 it was formed into the Northwest Territory. This tract extended from Pennsylvania to the Mississippi and was eventually divided into Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

In 1818 Illinois was admitted as the twenty-first state with an area of 56,665 square miles. The state is one of the most level in the country and is often called the Prairie State. Politically Illinois is the most important state in the Union next to New York and Pennsylvania as it has twenty-nine electoral votes for president.

XXII.—ALABAMA

THE discovery of Alabama is credited to De Soto in 1540. The English also laid claim to this territory and included it in the grant to North Carolina. But it was the French who first settled here erecting in 1702 Fort St. Louis on Mobile Bay and founding the town of Mobile nine years later. Mobile was for many years the capital of Louisiana. France in 1763 ceded the territory east of the Mississippi to England and the northern part of the present State of Alabama was joined to the Illinois territory. The southern portion was known as West Florida. Serious conflict with the Indians was kept up for many years. In fact, even as late as 1812, there was an uprising of the Creeks which resulted in terrible atrocities and massacres.

During the Revolution West Florida remained loyal to England, but was seized by Spain only to be turned over to the United States in 1813. This Mobile section was then added to the northern district and the State of Alabama was formed and became the twenty-second state of the Union in 1819.

The meaning of the name Alabama is variously interpreted. It was the name of an Indian tribe which inhabited this territory at the time of De Soto's first visit. After this tribe the river was named and the state was called Alabama after the river. The Indian word was supposed to mean "Here we rest," and these words are used on the state's coat of arms, but this interpretation is doubtful and its real meaning is uncertain. Alabama is sometimes called the Plantation State. Its area is 51,998 square miles.

ROUND ABOUT

The leather trade is interested this week in the announcement of a new Peabody blacking concern. William J. Dodge, the well-known manufacturer of greases, has formed partnership with C. P. Brackett and W. B. Mason, both of whom are experts in their line and have a wide acquaintance in the shoe and leather trade here and abroad. The concern will operate its new plant at the Dodge factory on Foster street.

* * * *

One of the field assessors tells me that he didn't notice it required much effort for Peabody women to tell their ages when their names were taken for the street list of polls. Much interest will probably center in the woman's poll list to be issued this coming month. The women are exempt from the poll tax this year.

* * * *

I understand that West Peabody call firemen are much elated over the extra $25 voted them in salary for the coming year. They have been paid $50. They will respond to all forest fires in their district in the future. Apropos of call firemen, it is reported that some call men have been in the habit of drawing full pay allowance even though they did not attend every bell alarm.

Mark E. Kelley, the w.k. contractor, celebrated his birthday last Tuesday, sharing the honors with his sister, Mrs. Marvin Young of Hampton, N. H., who with her husband were guests for the fete day at the Kelley home on Sutton street. May 17 happened to be the natal day of Mr. Kelley and his sister, although some years apart.

Dennis J. O'Connor, foreman at the L. B. Southwick Leather Co., was given a warm welcome back to his duties this week, following a week's illness. He is one of the oldest employes of this concern in point of service and is held in high regard by the firm members and plant employes.

I understand that new Peabody faces are being recorded at Homestead Golf Club links in Danvers this season, with several long-time members following their "shots" over the course. Among the men are George S. Curtis, druggist; Dr. S. Chase Tucker, surgeon; George A. Blaney, insurance; and Thomas Hayes, factory hardware. Each of the four will tell you his appetite has improved as a result.

Donald G. Roby, the new secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is a graduate of Colby college in Waterville, Me. He and Supt. of Schools Albert Robinson have recently been talking over their days at their alma mater.

* * * *

I understand that Benjamin W. Brownell, manager of the Parke Snow Co., woman's store in the O'Shea building, is the new chairman of the retail bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Brownell has both the pep and the punch to benefit the craft and under his regime it is believed that a real constructive program will be followed that should prove of great benefit to the local storekeepers. In the short year that Mr. Brownell has been in Peabody, he has made many friends among the hundreds of patrons of his busy store.

* * * *

"There's a fire on Lake street," came in the warning to fire headquarters last Tuesday afternoon, and the voice that sounded the alarm ceased speaking. The receiver was banged into the holder. So the combination motor started out for a fast spin to Lake street. Most of us know Lake street is nearly two miles long. The West Peabody fire company got into action and the two pieces of fire kit rumbled over the length of Lake street before the place of fire was discovered at Fred Oelcher's farm, where a blaze was causing havoc to his hen houses.

Walter L. Williams, John O. Power and William Hill, three prominent members of the Peabody Club, the former being president, partook of a venison dinner up in Henniker, N. H., last Sunday, served to them by their host, Ernest W. Coombs, a former Peabody resident ,who has a farm in that New Hampshire township. The venison was "put down" by the cold pack process that sprang into vogue during the war conservation teaching. The venison was "packed" last fall by Mrs. Coombs. A feature incident of the week-end party at the Coombs homestead was the bridge whist party Saturday evening, that saw Messrs. Williams and Hill the victors over their rivals.

LET'S BE "PASHENT"

House Peters and Jane Novack Strand Feature For Monday

"The Kentuckians" is the name of the feature picture the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. This is an adaptation of John Fox's stirring story of the same name and presents a cast of notable players among whom are Monte Blue, Wilfred Lytell and Diana Allen. It is a story of a mountain man, and of the governor's daughter. With the avowed intention of obtaining emancipation for his people in the mountains of Kentucky, Boone Stallard goes to the Kentucky legislature. He discovers that the aristocrats of the Blue Grass region are in conflict with him, but he triumphs in the end through his honesty of purpose. The action presents a deal of clever incidents which always interests. And the acting is of high calibre. "Buster" Keaton in his latest comedy knockout, "The High Sign," is another big attraction for today. Keaton has become one of the most popular of the screen comedians during the past year. Perhaps the main reason why his pictures are so funny is that he never cracks a smile before the camera. William Duncan in "Fighting Fate' will also be shown today.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran will appear at the local playhouse Sunday evening in their laughing hit entitled "A Shocking Night." Ora Carewe in "Love's Protege" will be the second attraction for Sunday evening.

Many of James Oliver Curwood's famous novels have reached the screen; many of them have been the most successful photodrama of their time. But none of them has reached the silver sheet with the breadth of human appeal, heart interest and suspense which characterizes "Isobel; or The Trail's End," which feature will be offered on Monday and Tuesday, featuring two of the screens best liked stars, Jane Novak and House Peters. House Peters has never had a role better suited to his typical ruggedness and natural talent. Jane Novak, likewise, is cast in a character which her charm of manner and beauty make a thing alive. Peters is a member of the Northwestern mounted police—a strong likable character, while Miss Novak is cast as the beautiful and faithful wife of the man the officer has sworn to capture dead or alive. It is inevitable, of course, in a Curwood story, for the officer to fall in love with the woman—but it is a sort of spiritual love which both the woman and her husband understand.

There springs up a wonderful friendship between the three before he discovers the man's identity. From this point on the action is highly dramatic with a climax that lifts the spectator from his seat. It has been repeatedly called one of the best pictures of the year. It is, without a shadow of doubt, the greatest picture of the Northland we have had.

Beginning Monday, Manager Chet Bent of the Strand announces a cut in the Monday and Tuesday price. In the future all of the special productions will be shown at regular prices. This cut will in no way affect the quality of the Monday and Tuesday programs and it will be the policy of the theatre to continue to show the big productions on this change.

PRESIDENT OF BOSTON UNIVERSITY WILL PREACH HERE SUNDAY A. M.

Rev. Dr. Murlin, President of Boston University.

Rev. L. H. Murlin, D. D., LL. D., president of Boston University, who is to preach in the Methodist church Sunday morning at 10.30, is not only one of the foremost educators, but takes first rank among the notable college presidents in America. During his incumbency as president, Boston University has passed from a student membership of less than a thousand to an enrollment of some six thousand.

Dr. Murlin was in Petrograd at the breaking out of the World War, and was an eye witness to much of the dramatic enactments of that period, all along the line that stretched from that distant city to New York harbor. Since the close of the war he has made a tour of inspection through all the war ravaged countries, having been commissioned in the interest of the Centenary activities of the Methodist church.

He is a real leader in the christian movements of the present day. Dr. Murlin is a native of the state of Indiana. He and Rev. I. F. Lusk, pastor of the Peabody Methodist church, united with the Indiana conference of the Methodist church near the same time, and spent their early ministry working in the same field.

After spending a very successful pastorate in Vincenns, Indiana, Dr. Murlin was called to the presidency of Baker University, located at Baldwin, Kansas, where he spent a number of years in signal achievements. From there he came to Boston University about eleven years ago, and has succeeded in making that educational institution one of the very largest in the country. Dr. Murlin is in much demand as a preacher and popular speaker, not only among Methodist but by all religious and secular assemblies. His real charm as a public speaker is in his eloquent simplicity, being able to present the profoundest thought in terms that can be easily understood by all. The Methodist church of Peabody will be highly favored with his presence, and extends a most cordial invitation to all to hear him.

W. Peabody To Plan Playlot This Evening

Friday evening Mayor Shea and the playground commission have been invited to attend an entertainment and meeting of the West Peabody Grange to be held for the purpose of securing information in regard to the objects of the playground and suggestions as to a definite plan of action in their particular district.

Much interest has been manifested by the leading citizens of the west end of the city, and with the concerted action of the grange organization, good results are expected. A Citizens' Playground Association has been formed with Everett E. White as president and chairman of the executive committee, which consists of representatives from all public welfare associations in West Peabody, the Grange being favored with the largest membership in this active body.

The playground commission heartily approves of this community organization, a representative body of all citizens. The commissioners feel that the playground is purely a community proposition, and if any separate organization of citizens is necessary for its support, the same should consist not only of the members of one organization originally formed for a divers purpose, but citizens chosen from the various welfare organizations brought together for the one object of establishing a place for healthful, entertaining and constructive play and work.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUTING AND CITIZENSHIP

In general human beings may be roughly classified into two divisions, the kind who throw banana peels and waste paper on the sidewalk and the kind who not only refrain from such acts of selfish irresponsibility themselves, but pick up banana peels and waste paper from the sidewalk and deposit them in the proper receptacle. It is the difference between the spirits of good citizenship and bad citizenship.

It is the glory of the scout movement that it is inculcating all over the country the spirit of responsible citizenship in its growing boys. Out in Ogden City, last winter, a boy scout quietly posted himself at a dangerously slippery point on the street where a great many persons had been falling to the huge amusement of a guffawing crowd of by-standers, warned people of the danger, and helped women across. Nobody told him to do it. He just did it because it was somebody's job and he made it his, as a responsible citizen.

Another significant little story is told of a group of scouts who had for weeks been taking care of a dangerous street crossing near a school building, guiding smaller children across in safety, day in and day out. Nobody knew they were doing it, nobody asked them to do it. They were not looking for praise from anyone for doing it. It was a job to be done by somebody and they were glad to take it on because they were scouts and therefore responsible citizens.—Scouting.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"LIKELY" AND "LIABLE."

"WILL you disobey the law?" "It is not likely that I shall do so." "Well, if you do, you will be liable to arrest."

The foregoing sentences may be used to illustrate the distinction that is made by careful writers and speakers between the words "likely" and "liable." The former word is used properly of an event that is regarded as very probable, and usually, but not always favorable. "Liable" is not used properly in the sense of "likely" except to indicate an undesirable or injurious event which may befall a person or thing.

An eminent lecturer was asked, at the conclusion of an address on "The Moral Tendencies of the Times," whether he did not consider it probable that all men, being trained properly in youth, would pursue the paths of honesty. He replied, "Yes, it is likely that they will do so, but all men are liable to err."

FOLLOWED HER ADVICE

Dutchy: Say Floto! How did you ever come to be an elephant trainer?

Floto: Well yuh see, my mother always told me to try and master the big things in life.

—o—

Quite So.

They met by chance in the waiting room at a railway station. "My friend," began the man with the bag full of tracts, persuasively, "have you ever reflected on the shortness of life and the fact that death is inevitable?"

"Have I?" replied the man in the big overcoat, cheerfully. "Well, I should say so. I'm an insurance agent."

The establishment is a credit to Peabody and its success is assured.

FAMOUS TROUPE OF PERFORMING PONIES WITH THE LINCOLN BROTHERS' CIRCUS, WHICH WILL EXHIBIT IN PEABODY, JUNE 7.

Lincoln Bros. Circus Shows In Peabody Tuesday, June 7

The Famous Lincoln Brothers' Circus and Trained Animal Shows combined, which will exhibit here Tuesday, June 7, has some of the finest trained ponies and horses ever exhibited by any show, according to C. P. Farrington, the general agent of the shows, who was in town with the advance men this week.

While men, women and children are always much interested in the animal acts. it is a well known fact that the majority of the circus goers prefer the acts where the performers lives seem to hang by a mere thread. In the Lincoln Brothers' Circus the patrons will see many acts that will excite the apprehension of the beholders lest the performers shall be killed. The daring feats of the aerialists high up in the dome of the big top without a bit of netting beneath; the slides for life; the daring acrobats, turning one and two complete revolutions in mid-air, all abound in hairbreadth escapes of one form or another. Aside from the marvelous feats of strength and skill of the performers the incredible stunts performed by the famous Lincoln Brothers' ponies, horses, bears and mules will bring forth limitless praise and admiration.

The grand free street parade will move over the principal streets at noon and two performances will be given at 2 and 8 o'clock. The doors will be open one hour earlier to permit the patrons to view the menagerie and listen to the concert given by the Lincoln Brothers' famous circus band.

Boys' Band Tribute To Edw. Spence

"Service before self," the motto of Rotary clubs, has been well exemplified at the Peabody Community House by several Peabody musicians who have given freely of their time for the past four months teaching young boys and girls how to master band instruments. How well the work of these men has been performed was shown last Wednesday evening, when the final rehearsal of the present season was held.

Those who have given their time to promote the musical instruction and perhaps start some one of the young players on the road to fame are Edward E. Spence, the violin and orchestra and band leader, who is the father of the movement; W. E. Weld, bass; Frank Blarcom, clarinet; Edward Pierce, drums; and Edward Carbrey, cornetist. Miss Agnes Jordan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John F. Jordan, who is a talented violinist, has also contributed her time to help along the band, and Gustave Larrabee, piano player, is deserving of real praise for his services.

In the band which handled Sousa's marches to near perfection last Wednesday night were the following: Wilma Mathieson, mandolin player; Arthur O'Keefe, violin; Bertram Pitman, Henry Puska and Clayton Pierce, cornetists; Larry Caddire, trombone; and Stephen Sideris, flute.

The whole expense involved for the four months' band rehearsals was $7.50, which paid for sheet music. The band will resume its work in the fall and a series of concerts are likely to be added features of the civic house next winter.

STARLIGHT REBEKAH

A well attended Scotch entertainment under the auspices of Starlight Rebekah Lodge was held last Monday evening. The readings of Mrs. Ella Phillips of Marblehead were much enjoyed. Vocal solos were rendered by Albert Balnaves, illustrated by tableaux in charge of Edward Reid. Scotch skirt dancing was very well done. Special mention should be made of the dancing of Highland fling and the sword dance by Norman Reid, and the bag pipe playing of George Reid and his third son, Douglas, all recently of Dundee, Scotland.

Accident Statistics.

An American physician who has collected a mass of statistics regarding serious accidents on railways, in mines and factories, has put it on record that the dangerous period of the month is from the twentieth to the twenty-sixth. He declares that nearly half the bad accidents of the whole month occur during those seven days.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

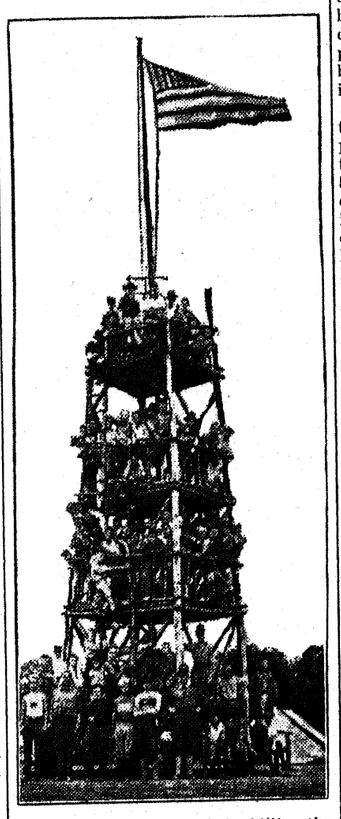
GOLDEN BOOK OF BOY SCOUTS

Boy scouts of Philadelphia are to have a unique record of their achievements. The local council, at the suggestion of Dr. Charles D. Hart, have had a book made of golden parchment, in which are to be recorded the names and deeds of boy scouts who have done particularly heroic service. The book contains first of all, the names of the 19 of the 407 Philadelphia scouts, who paid the supreme sacrifice for their country in the World war. Next follows a permanent record of the names and deeds of all those boy scouts of Philadelphia who, having risked their lives for others, have earned the medals of honor granted by the National court of honor. So far, there are six names in this second group, as follows:

Bronze medal—Scout Lex Newman, who on June, 1916, saved a comrade from drowning in a stone quarry.

Bronze medal—Scout Fred Lange, who, in February, 1920, saved a four-year-old child from burning to death.

Bronze medal—Scout William J. Cassells, who, in June, 1919, saved a fellow scout from death by drowning.



Bronze medal—Scout Thomas Murray, June, 1920, for striking water rescue at scout camp.

Silver medal—Scout Walter Friek, June, 1920, for saving another boy from drowning.

Silver medal—Scout Albert Grow, June, 1920, for rescuing another boy from drowning in the Manayunk canal, the second feat of the kind performed by him in the same canal.

An impressive service of investiture took place in connection with the dedication of the Golden Book, in which the six living young heroes participated. All scouts present stood at attention while the names of the recipients of the honor were read off, with the official recital of the deed of courage, for which each was to receive recognition. Each scout, so honored was summoned by bugle blast and stood while his name was being enrolled in the Book of Heroes, and received his medal from the chairman of the council. After this ceremony was completed, each scout, in turn, after three blasts of the bugle, retraced his steps through the archway of colors. The ceremonial followed is similar to that of the bestowal of the Victoria Cross or the Croix de Guerre.

A TOWER OF SCOUTS.

To Show Strength and Stability, the Tower Is Carrying Approximately 12,500 Pounds.

REMEMBER TO PLANT TREES.

"The scout is a lover of the out-of-doors," says A. C. Wessel, writing of "Forestry for Scouts," in Boys' Life. "Trees, singly or in large groups, offer him many attractions and pleasures. He must not lose sight of the fact that to help plant and conserve our trees and to rate the forest which yields him fruit, fuel and timber for shelter, as a living perpetual resource is a patriotic service and duty."

NEW WAY TO RAISE WRECKS.

Still another method is being tried for raising wrecks from great depths. The latest thing in this work is hypodermic salvage. It is found that in vessels loaded with bags of rice, grain and malt it is possible to give them, so to speak, a hypodermic injection of compressed air. A sufficient quantity of this air is retained in the mass to make it buoyant. It is then possible to shift the grain from one part to another without its losing its quality.—Boys' Life.

Help for Budding Songsters.

A device that records the vibrations of the voice on a phonographic film has been invented by a Frenchman to aid students of singing.

Fair Warning.

If and when the coming comet collides with the earth, people falling through space are kindly requested to keep to the right.—London Punch.

Names Derived From Cities.

A milliner meant originally one from Milan—a Milaner; just as a "cordwainer" or shoemaker was a worker of leather from Cordova.

Americans, Living and Dead

Memorial day brings deeper and richer memories every year, as the roll of honor grows longer with the names of Americans who have died for their flag at home, overseas and on islands of the seas. An hour can be spent profitably by every American today, glancing back over the record of the United States and making an estimate of the present and the future of the country. What did the dead accomplish by giving the last full measure of devotion? Are the living impressed by what they did, and do they more than ever highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain?

Every one of the American dead—every soldier, every sailor—gave all of himself to his country. If that is not a reminder that every American owes at least some of himself to his country, then, indeed, the dead died in vain and the living live in vain.

The dead gave honor and glory and perpetuity to the flag. What are the living Americans giving to it? Is it honor, glory and perpetuity? Is each citizen sifting out the pure from the dross in his heart, and giving to his country only the choicest portions of his spirit, as the dead gave before they were taken away? Or is the living American carefully selecting and hoarding the best of himself for his own use, and palming off upon his country a sham patriotism, a niggardly pretext of devotion, a shoddy adherence to ideals and a counterfeit of honor? It is not for others to pass judgment; they cannot do so justly. It is for each citizen to search his own heart and pass judgment upon himself.

THE NICKEL FARE

A contemporary offered the suggestion this week that the present rate of fare between Peabody and Salem should be cut in half, thus restoring the old nickel fare between the two neighboring cities. We doubt very much that the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co. would listen to a proposal for the restoration of the old nickel fare at this time, but it seems logical that a proposition asking for a five-cent fare within the city limits might be considered. The number of people would pay a "jitney" to ride a short distance, but would walk rather than pay a dime, is considerable. The income from this class of trade would be practically "velvet," as no additional equipment would be required to handle the increased patronage. It is true that a punch on a ticket will do the trick at a cost of about seven cents, but this means tying up a dollar in advance, which the public is not very much in favor of doing. A five-cent fare within city zones, with a seven-cent ticket fare to Salem, would meet with a great deal of favor in Peabody. The same proposition would hold good in Salem and Lynn. The best time of the year for trolley traffic is right ahead of us, and it would seem as though there might be merit in trying the nickel fare to this extent this summer.

BOOST FOR PLAYGROUND

The daily use of Meadow park as a playground is growing, and some day it will be one of the finest of the kind in the country. The foresight of those who dedicated this large area to the children of the city is being demonstrated daily by the ball games, tennis, running matches and other sports indulged in by healthy, growing youngsters of both sexes. It is really worth one's while to watch the children at play there on a pleasant afternoon, and it is a justification for all money expended in filling in the ground. Nor is the spot limited to children. The baseball diamonds are large enough and numerous enough to attract the older lovers of the national game to the park, and they take full advantage of the opportunities offered.

Some day in the near future there will be enclosed grounds for some of the major games, and if the present plans are adhered to, the Olmstead plan, which is comprehensive in scope and treatment, will be developed by the park commissioners. They are only park commissioners. They are only waiting for the proper time of financing the proposition.

The city is obtaining good returns from its investment in public playgrounds.—Lynn Item.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XXIII.—MAINE

OBSCURED in the haze of antiquity the old Icelandic sagas record a voyage in 1000 by Leif, son of Eric the Red, who sailed from Greenland to Labrador and down the coast of Maine. The next probable voyage to this coast was by John Cabot in 1497 and later by his son Sebastian. It was, however, Capt. John Smith, the leading spirit of the settlement at Jamestown, who sailed as far north as the Penobscot and first drew a rough chart of it.

In the grant by James I to the Plymouth Colony Maine was included in their territory. Opposition to the Plymouth Colony arose among the king's courtiers and Sir Ferdinando Gorges and Captain Mason succeeded in obtaining for themselves rights to the country between the Merrimac and Kennebec rivers. This they divided, Gorges taking the northern section. Meanwhile Gorges had sent over a small colony to the mouth of the Kennebec, but this settlement was soon abandoned. The first permanent settlement was made in 1625 at what is now York. Massachusetts objected to Gorges' claim and finally annexed all the territory up to Casco Bay and called this northern section the District of Maine. Maine was dissatisfied with the rule of the mother state and by 1820 succeeded in being admitted to the Union as the twenty-third state.

Maine was the first state to adopt prohibition. In the beginning Maine was strongly Democratic. It was largely for this reason that she objected to being ruled by Massachusetts which was Federalist. Since 1856, however, Maine has been decidedly Republican. It has six electoral votes for president.

The name Maine was so designated in the charter of 1639 in which Charles I granted this land to Gorges. It had already been commonly used by the sailors as distinguishing the mainland from the many islands along the shore. The nickname for the state is the Pine Tree State. Its area is 33,040 square miles, which is practically as large as the combined area of the other five New England States.

XXIV.—MISSOURI

WHETHER Missouri was actually visited by De Soto at the time of his discovery of the Mississippi is not definitely known. The first authentic exploration of this territory was by the French, Joliet and Father Marquette in 1673. French settlers gradually located in Missouri, in 1764 St. Louis being settled. This was one year after Spain acquired from France the Louisiana Territory of which Missouri was a part.

Colonization greatly increased after the ordinance of 1787, which excluded slavery from the Northwest territory, as this naturally deflected many to the territory west of the Mississippi who otherwise would have settled in the north. The slavery question continued to hold the stage in Missouri history. After the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 added this vast western area to the United States, emigration increased to such an extent that in 1829 Missouri formed a state government and applied for admission to the Union. Bitter antagonism immediately arose in congress against the addition of another slave state. On the other hand the slavery adherents pointed out that Maine had just been taken into the Union as a free state and one state would therefore balance the other. A final settlement was made by the famous Missouri compromise, which accepted Missouri as a slave state but prohibited slavery in the rest of the territory north of a line extending from the southern boundary of Missouri to the Rocky Mountains. Indeed, it was this agitation which, temporarily smothered at that time, burst forth in the Civil war.

Missouri is in the forefront of the important states in national politics as it has eighteen electoral votes for president. Its area is 69,420 square miles.

ROUND ABOUT

An astonishing thing disclosed in the annual report of Thomas W. Sheehan, director of the Continuation school in Salem, is the fact that very few of the 375 boys or girls who came under his charge had ever been inside of a public library or had been in the habit of securing books for home study. Director Sheehan is a Peabody man by birth and formerly was a school principal in Revere. He declares he has encouraged pupils in the Continuation school to make use of library books. Mr. Sheehan is a brother of the late Attorney James J. Sheehan.

Among the coming June weddings of interest to Peabody will be that of Miss Clara Risteen and J. Howard Tedford, whose nuptials are scheduled for June 25. Mr. Tedford is an overseas veteran with a record of real service in Red Cross work. Undersized and so denied admittance to the ranks of fighting men, he went overseas with a Red Cross detachment When Uncle Sam got into the fray "to save the United States and not so much to help the Allies," according to Ambassador George Harvey, Tedford tried in vain to join an American regiment in France, but his size was again a barrier. Then he went to Italy, where the Red Cross commissioned him, and he rendered distinguished service in the Italian trenches, being under fire so frequently that he got used to shot and shell. Miss Risteen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Risteen of Pierpont street, and is a graduate of Peabody high school.

Charles C. Hills, dean of Peabody newspapermen, observed his 59th birthday last Wednesday, May 24. He has seen a lot of cub reporters take up their work in Peabody, and he has seen several newspapers come and go, but he has kept on his even way, rarely missing a day in his more than 40 years a correspondent. He has a record for long service that is probably unequalled in all Essex County, and here's hoping that his Ponce De Leon formula will never desert him. The Enterprise trusts that his birthday anniversary was very pleasant.

* * *

Mrs. Winifred Kirane has a handsome English bush on her estate on Park street that is thought to be the only one of its kind in Peabody. It has a yellow flower that resembles the wisteria in formation. Another tree of its kind is said to thrive in Cambridge. The bush was brought to Peabody by the Pevear family, who formerly owned the Kirane estate.

* * *

Some say it is a stork and others insist it is a crane that attracts much attention in the spacious lawn of Judge William H. Fay on Gardner street. It doesn't cackle, squeak or even ruffle at the approach of human footsteps, for dear reader, it is made of iron and can perform none of these bird feats. But the judge is being kept busy explaining the exhibit, so I am informed.

They are laying the Florida temperature of last Saturday and Sunday to Henry Thomas, who arrived home from his winter visit in Miami on the eve of the mid-summer heat, and whether he is to blame or not the coincidence is now a matter of record. The east wind that quickly banished the tropical heat has been quite as uncomforting to the Peabody traveler as to us natives, and I understand that some of his club friends are asking him if he wouldn't prefer to be down there in the south for a spell longer.

I understand that although clothing prices have dropped about 1-3 over a year ago, that even more substantial reduction could have been made were it not for crippled production due to labor troubles. The public as usual is paying the cost of the battle between employer and employed.

In spite of the peculiar season this spring, two favorite decorations for Memorial Day, the lilac and bridal wreath, or spirea, are right at their best this year for the occasion. Owing to the combined interest that most every family has in members of the Grand Army and American Legion, a big turnout of people is looked for at the Nation's Memorial Day exercises this year.

Prominent in the campaign being waged for a new home for the North Shore Babies' Hospital is Dr. S. Chase Tucker, who has been active in the behalf of this worthy institution from its inception. Dr. Tucker is boosting hard for a real hospital for the babies of the North Shore.

"MACARONI."

MACARONI, as we know it at present, was first made in Sicily and tradition has it that it was invented by a chef in the establishment maintained by a wealthy resident of Palermo. Despite the genius of his cook, the nobleman grew weary of the same round of high-flavored, highly-seasoned dishes and sent word to the kitchen that he desired something less pungent—a dish which savored of plain cooking and which was not as trying to the digestive apparatus.

At first incensed, the chef determined to try his hand at a mixture of wheat flour and water, rolling the paste into tubes and serving them with grated parmesan cheese which his culinary instinct told him was the proper accompaniment for a dish of this nature. Hardly had he tasted the new delicacy than the nobleman exclaimed "Carl!"—the usual Italian ejaculation signifying delight, which may be freely translated as meaning "The darlings!" "Ma Carl!"—"What darlings!"—he repeated a moment later and followed this with "Ma Caroni!"—or, literally, "What dearest darlings!" The chef, who was lurking in the background anxiously awaiting the verdict upon his new dish, then came forward and explained how he had made it, adding "Since you have named it, master, so shall it be—macaroni."

Women More Extravagant In Purchasing of Shoes

The latest census figures show that women are the more extravagant in the wearing of shoes. The men wore several million fewer pairs in 1919 than in 1914 despite the natural increase in population. In women's shoes the consumption was twenty-three and a half million pairs greater in 1919 than in 1914. It is evident that pater-familias had to have his old shoes cobbled several times while the wife and daughters were flashing new pairs of ties and oxfords to match each costume. In view of these statistics, there is little wonder that manufacturers of men's shoes are casting about for style features, new shades and finishes of leather and novel ideas in lasts.

The style craze has played havoc with staples in women's shoes, and it is predicted that several seasons must elapse before the trade returns to normal in this particular. On the other hand we have combinations forming in the jobbing-manufacturers field. The shoe industry is in a state of flux and those best able to guess what the outcome will be should ultimately reap the reward of their foresight. Are we to have a constant succession of novelties treading upon each others' heels or will there be a return to the steady trade in staples? Will it be possible for manufacturers to make three hundred pairs of shoes a year on a basis of rapilly changing styles with retailers holding off until the last minute before placing orders?

Congressman Longworth has proposed a resolution which would make the tariff duties immediately effective when the measure is reported. This is designed to prevent the importation of large quantities of goods in anticipation of the new duties. It does not appear possible that any law can be made effective in any particular before it has become a law and been signed by the President.

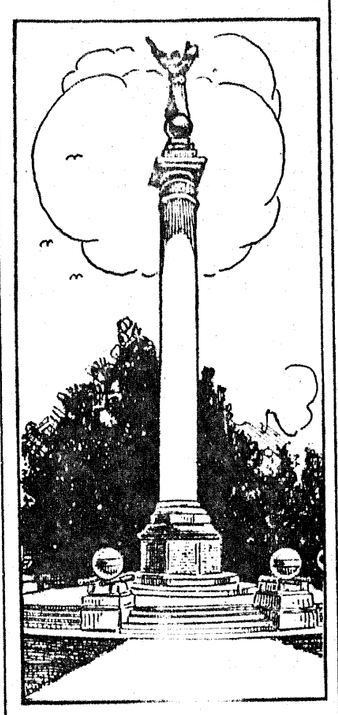
Leather Markets for Nine Cities

Sole leather markets are more active. Western manufacturers have been buying in the Chicago market. Eastern makers of children's footwear have been buying oak sides in a liberal manner in Boston. The sensation of the week was a sale of approximately 200,000 backs in the west to one of the largest shoe manufacturers. The estimated value of this one sale runs up to one million dollars. Sole leather prices are somewhat unsettled with a tendency toward higher levels. Offal transactions are more numerous with prices strengthening. Innersole and counter manufacturers are more active in the belly market. Rough double shoulders strengthening. Philadelphia tanners reporting car load lot sales at 37-38c. Side upper leather showing slight improvement, but the demand is still far from normal. Buyers in some instances are inclined to buy for the future. Calfskins are in good demand with prices firm. Kid selling in good volume, particularly small skins. Tanners find business improving on all grades.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Peabody O. K's T. B. Hospital



Peabody was well represented at the opening of the new Essex County Tuberculosis hospital in Danvers last Wednesday afternoon, and it is the verdict of the local guests that the County Commissioners have delivered an excellent institution. The guests were shown through the big hospital which occupies a pleasing location. No expense has been spared, as the citizens of some cities and towns of the county will later realize, to make this hospital the most complete of its kind in this part of the country and the equal of any for its particular work.

An ice making plant which furnishes ice for the whole institution is included in the equipment of the new hospital and cold pipes freeze the hospital garbage to prevent any odor escaping to annoy the patients. A dental clinic is an added appointment.

Mayor William A. Shea headed the Peabody visitors to inspect the hospital. The Peabody guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Tucker, Dr. and Mrs. George W. Ewing, Dr. and Mrs. L. K. Kelley, Dr. and Mrs. John Shanahan, Dr. Foster, Health Commissioners Hall, Dr. Foss and Percy Murray, City Almoner J. J. Ray, Miss Gertrude Bresnahan, Miss Ethel Boyle, City Councillors Brown, Ryan, Hogan, Jones, Barry, Sullivan, McKeen and Eagan, City Clerk Edward J. Dowd, Edward Sexton and Frank W. Penniman of the Peabody Enterprise. Dinner was served from 12.30 to 2.30 and over 600 plates were served.

Capt. Hart and a detail of the Salem police were on duty during the reception.

ERECTED BY COMRADES

Here is the design of a monument erected in Washington, D. C., in memory of the 4,899 men of the First division, A. E. F., who died in France. Every living private and officer of the First division contributed to the fund for the monument.

Many Under Twenty-two Years Old.

A short time ago a man discussing the matter of the youth of the Union soldiers during the Civil war, wrote that "In that struggle there were 2,700,000 enlistments in the Union army. Of this number more than 2,000,000 were under twenty-two years of age —2,159,798, to be exact." He wrote that "We had more than 800,000 of these children in our war between the states, more than 100,000 of them being under fifteen years of age, and they determined the result of the struggle. It was not the 16,000 men of forty-five who enlisted that did so nor the 40,000 between the ages of twenty-six and forty-five that found their way into the service."

Mayor Shea Lauds Babies' Hospital's Plea For Funds

Peabody began this week the organization of a body of workers to lay before the public next month the organized appeal of the North Shore Babies' Hospital for $250,000 to broaden the scope of its work and become an all-year institution. Three women captains were named at a meeting held Wednesday in the council chamber of the City Hall. Other workers will be selected at an organization meeting to be held soon.

THREE LIVES WORTH SAVING.

Mayor W. A. Shea addressed the gathering here Wednesday, calling the enlarged hospital a vital necessity from an economic standpoint. "Apart from the humane side of the question, which itself is important," said the Mayor, "I look upon this enlargement project of the North Shore Babies' Hospital as a matter of insurance—the hospital will insure us strong citizens tomorrow through the babies of today. It is much cheaper to build such an institution now than to support out of the productive efforts of sound citizens tomorrow a group of helpless individuals who are unable to do their share of the world's work because of lack of proper hospital treatment as infants."

Further impetus was given the project by the exhibition at the meeting of a moving picture showing the hospital's work, even in the few summer months it is open. The institution has reduced infant mortality in the North Shore by about one-half in the sixteen years of its existence, physicians assert. This work will show even better results when the hospital is put in a position to guard infant health every day in the year, they add. The enlarged hospital will be able to treat 100 babies at a time.

Besides the fact that Peabody, from which scores of babies have been restored to health through the hospital's efforts, was the birthplace of the institution sixteen years ago, particular interest is felt in the undertaking here because Helen Z. Gill, the superintendent, is a Peabody girl.

Miss Gill is a graduate of the Children's Hospital Training School in Boston. She served in the Infants' Hospital in Boston, and went overseas with the Red Cross Children's Unit in 1917. For her present position, to which she was appointed in the spring of 1920, she was further prepared by work with the Child's Welfare Association, Leominster.

Miss Gill is a granddaughter of Peter Roger Gill, who was one of Peabody's best known citizens. Mr. Gill was a prominent leather manufacturer, and always was active in public work. Among his services was included a term of several years as trustee of the Peabody Hospital. Miss Gill's father was Denis Gill, at one time a member of the board of selectmen.

How It Started

THE PENCIL.

IN THE earliest days draftsmen used simply bits of colored chalk or clay to mark with; a little later metallic lead was used. The modern plumbago or graphite is not lead; there has come to be a confusion of names owing to the ancient use of the metal. The first graphite pencils were manufactured in England in 1564. From there the industry spread to the United States, which now leads in the manufacture.

"We have no such classification as lumpers in the above departments.

"All other day work and piece work at rates fully equal to those now effective in local and nearby shops, character of stock and nature of work considered.

"Some of our recent rates effective in our plants from January 1 to April 30, 1921, inclusive, are higher than new rates now established in Peabody and vicinity, and in these cases our rates will not be reduced."

In addition, we will now state the following: In the event that the men decide to return to work, we will register former employes who apply within five days thereafter, and will put such applicants to work as rapidly as possible in the order of their seniority in their respective departments.

In the event and from the time that the men decide to return to work, we will not take on new men for any position for which old men have applied and are available. And in case the department where the applicant formerly worked is full, he will be given preference for work in other departments for which there are no former employes available.

We will take back 1200 former employes within thirty days, 300 of whom will be taken back at the National Calfskin Co. plant, and 900 at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. plant.

We will at all times treat with our employes on all differences or adjustments of wages or working conditions with a representative or representatives selected from among themselves by our employes. The representatives so chosen may or may not be members of a union, and no such representatives will be discriminated against by the Companies. We will not interpose any objection to the membership of any one of our employes in a union. In the event that old employes decide to return to work, all housing of employes will be discontinued as soon as practicable.

McKEEN OPPOSES CITY INSURANCE

tion was taken. McKeen declared he had the subject on his mind for the past two years.

A petition signed by 150 citizens came before the Council last night asking for some report on the deliberations of the citizens committee of ten appointed to bring about a settlement of the leather strike. The petition was referred to the Mayor without debate.

On recommendation of Chairman Barry of the claims committee the city will pay $100 to Mrs. Rose Rosenfelt in settlement of her suit for damages due to an alleged defect in the crossing on Central street. The Boston & Maine road will pay her $100 also.

Junk dealers petitioned for a reduction in the license fee from $15 to $5. The petition was sent to the committee on ordinances for action. It is possible a ten dollar fee may result.

Councillor Ryan believed the city could save money by using city teams to haul ashes from all public buildings.

President Duggan announced last night that the school committee would ask for $80,000 more in the supplementary budget. He also stated the finance committee had cut items in all departments in the hope that the appropriations would be sufficient.

Councillor Barry and Ryan argued for a water meter service to include every user in the city but the Council held the appropriation to $1500, as reported by the finance committee.

The Council confirmed Horace A. Wilson as registrar of voters. A poll had been taken with a view to blocking the appointment, it is understood, as an echo of the big leather strike, Mr. Wilson being employment manager for the A. C. L. The poll failed to get enough votes, so Mr. Wilson was confirmed without dissent.

The Mayor's veto of the ordinance creating the office of police lieutenant was sustained and the Council voted to have another ordinance prepared which may meet the Mayor's approval.

Six jurors were drawn for the criminal court, Lawrence, June 3. The men drawn were James J. Yelverton, Raymond H. Bacherman, John J. Frame, John H. Thomas, Joseph T. O'Connor and John F. Carlin.

The condition of City Councillor Francis L. Poor is much improved. He has been ill with pneumonia for the past several weeks.

Park Dept. To Name Its Aids

The Playground Commission met Wednesday evening and besides the routine business, considered plans for starting a playground in the Samuel Brown school district.

William Linehan of Highland Park was appointed caretaker of the East End playground, his work to begin Tuesday next.

It was voted to place signs at the East End, a warning to those who would destroy property and otherwise contrive to make this playground an unsighty and filthy place.

The West Peabody Grange has agreed to combine its efforts with the citizens' committee of the west end to produce a successful playground.

The instructors of the various playgrounds for the coming summer season will be announced in the Enterprise next week.

The commission voted to require a permit for the use of the baseball grounds at Emerson Park on Sunday afternoons, to avoid a monopoly of the grounds and to insure an uninterrupted game to those who plan a Sunday game.

Permits for the grounds may be secured from the chairman, Henry A. King.

WEST PEABODY PLAYGROUND

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Citizens' Playground Association was held in the West school, with representatives from all the welfare organizations working in full accord.

Postmaster Harry W. Rankin was elected treasurer and Miss Mabelle Leach-secretary of the organization.

It was voted to raise $200 and employ two instructors for the playgrounds.

A big lawn party is being planned to help raise money for this community project. President White is certainly a live wire and has shown initiative in organizing the West Peabody citizens.

JUDGE HILL HAS TRIBUTE FOR STRIKERS

Mayor Frank Tuttle of Beverly got a pleasing reception at the Peabody Rotary Club last Tuesday noon, when he was the principal speaker. He is a former president of the Salem Rotary Club. Smith of the North Shore Babies' hospital told of the progress of the campaign to raise funds. The boys' committee of the club is arranging details for furnishing poor boys with free vacations this summer.

War Dept. May Favor Peabody

President Frank H. Sanger of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce recently wrote to the War Department asking that Peabody disabled or sick war veterans be given the privilege of having their own physician and to receive treatment at the J. B. Thomas hosptial instead of having to go to Salem hospital and be attended by Salem doctors. He received yesterday a reply which holds out the hope that some favorable action will be taken on the Chamber's request. Here are the letters returned by the War Department:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Washington
May 31, 1921.

Mr. Frank H. Sanger, President,
Peabody Chamber of Commerce,
Peabody, Massachusetts.
My Dear Sir:

I am in receipt, by reference from the Secretary of War, of your letter of May 17th in which you state that Peabody soldiers of the World War are compelled to go out of their own city to a Salem physician, and request that a designated examiner be appointed to take care of the needs of this locality.

I took this case up with the authorities handling such matters and am inclosing herewith for your information a letter just received from the Director, Bureau of War Risk Insurance. From this you will see that the Supervisor of the First District has been requested to investigate the matter and make report. I trust things may work out to your satisfaction and to the best interests of the ex-service men.

Any further advices in this case will be promptly forwarded to you

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dodge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. MacDonald, spent the recent three days' vacation in touring through New Hampshire and Vermont, and returning over the Mohawk Trail from Williamstown, Mass.

The fire alarm evidently missed the guiding hand of the city electrician Thursday morning when two full rounds of box 217 sounded on the tapper of Hose 2 before the whistle on the Central Station emitted a single blast.

It was unfortunate to say the least that while every city, town and hamlet in the land should be selling the dailty litte hand-made symbols on poppy day, our contributors should be asked to wear a tag the size of a postal card.

The resignation of Wilbur Merrill from the Board of Registrars would seem to indicate that the Mayor will be compelled to replace one of the present Democratic members with a Republican.

Mrs. George Clark and daughter Helen, with Miss Eliza Osgood, spent the week-end motoring over the Mohawk Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schultz spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Albert Roome.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Crane and Mr. and Mrs. Philips Osborn motored to Kingfield, Maine, for the week-end and holiday.

During the absence of Miss Marion R. Nichols of the Center school teaching force at the Annapolis commencement, her place is being filled by Mrs. Philip Doherty, a former Peabody teacher.

James Gagnon has purchased for occupancy the Perkins house on Franklin street, and George Morgan of the fire department has been forced to vacate and has moved with his family to Waters street.

The King's Daughters of the South church will go by automobile tomorrow to Wrentham, Mass., where they will be entertained by Rev. and Mrs. Jason G. Miller, the former a recent pastor of the church.

The new requirement that nurses shall train for three years instead of two and one-half years, as at present, before being awarded diplomas, is causing some little uneasiness at the local hospital. With the shorter term in force the applications for positions as student nurses were insufficient to properly operate the hospital and the doors were thrown open to local girls, whom had previously been denied admission. This shortage of applicants is rather very serious, in view of the fact that graduate nurses are in ever increasing demand and are well paid for the service rendered. Certainly the J. B. Thomas hospital stands high in the community for efficiency and should appeal strongly to local girls as the ideal place to receive the training for a lucrative profession.

Frank T. Arnold and family are removing today to their summer home at Hampton Beach for the season.

Mrs. Mary L. Basford and family motored to Townsend, Mass., on the holiday.

Miss Grace Harlow's Sunday school class met at the home of Miss Dorothy Wiggins Wednesday evening.

James Grenato has purchased through the agency of Charles Petraska the Spence house on Lowell street.

Oil of Apples.

Chemists have newly succeeded in extracting from apple parings, by means of ether, an essential oil, yellowish, and of a somewhat gummy consistency, which possesses in high degree the characteristic and delicious odor of fresh apples. Crabapple parings yield more of this oil than those of ordinary apples. It is likely to be turned to useful account for flavoring purposes and conceivably for perfumes.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUT SERVICE

In a report to the national council headquarters, a scoutmaster fills in the blank asking for comment upon his troop's community good turns as follows: "Did everything they could, anywhere," which seems to be typical of the spirit of scouts throughout the country. The jobs aren't always the pleasantest sort either, or the easiest, but when a scout tackles the thing he does it "for all he's worth," with brain and brawn and a right good will. Here are a few little things scouts in Birmingham did, in their "leisure hours." It looks as if these boys were not only going to be good citizens in the future, but are good citizens, here and now.

One scout repaired a bridge, cleaned mud out of two curbs and drained a ditch; half-hour time.

Five scouts removed a large pile of brush where trees had oeen trimmed up; 15 minutes each.

Five scouts repaired a street where it had washed out by piling rocks and brush and then dirt on top; one hour's time.

Two scouts buried a dead hen, that the city health department would not remove; 30 minutes' time.

Four scouts dug a drainway to let standing water out of the street, and opened up ten sewers and 23 gutters.

Two scouts repaired a bridge and opened four sewers and 20 gutters; ten hours.

One scout cut a dead tree which stood close by the passageway and was very dangerous to those passing; one hour.

Eleven scouts worked two hours getting water out of basement of a church, then built a fire and dried out the place.

Three scouts repaired four sewers, also raked up a lot of leaves from around a house and burned them, as they were dangerous to the community; one and one-half hours.

CHIEF SEA SCOUT REPORTS.

At the last national council meeting the chief sea scout, James A. Wilder, made this report:

"We have found our sea legs. After some backing and filling as to the best methods, we have, with the advice of some 400 executives, and others, settled on the course to be steered. This decision has steadied the seacoast program and the taffrail log begins to register more speed. November, 1920, was our banner month, followed by the record breakers, December and January, 1920 and 1921. As we go to press, February, 1921, has already broken the record again. We have registered more ships in the last five months than in the previous three years. This is at the rate of 110 per cent increase annually.

"We have the assurance that the seacoast program is being pushed as the official older boy program, in 87 cities. Ship's papers or preliminary steps have already been taken by 104 scout centers. In some cities, notably San Francisco, Honolulu and others, the program has been under way for several years without the registry of a single ship, because of a vote to thoroughly train leadership before admitting boys to membership. The seascouts, at the rate we are growing at present, will be 200 "ships" in 1922. If the last four months' increase in our number is maintained we will be, in six months, the largest seamanship training course or 'nautical school' in the United States. Swift increase is not expected in the face of such slogans as 'You must know it all the time,' 'Don't start anything you can't finish,' 'Practice makes perfect,' 'No frauds,' 'The ship is what you make her,' 'Don't give up the ship.' Nevertheless, we're already half the size of Annapolis, and as far as plain sailing goes, we are giving the same boat-seamanship program.

"Fifty navy boats have been loaned to bona-fide seascouts, according to regulations, and to certain seacoast training bases. Five hundred are still available for really determined seacoasts of schooner (or second) grade.

"The slogan is now, 'run your troop like a ship,' and in a seamanlike manner. Seacoast centers are asked to avoid foolhardy practices, slack seamanship and frauds, and the local shipping committees are required to take a pledge that no boatwork or small boat sailing shall take place until the ship's company have qualified as lifesavers. This waiting game may not spell numbers, but spells quality."

TO KEEP TROOPS GOING.

"I have a question, too, Mr. Cave Scout. This seems about the hardest time in the whole year to keep things going in our troop. There is little doing besides regular meetings." Can anybody help out in this case? "I believe I can, Cave Scout. We had the same trouble in our troop until last winter, when we arranged a scout dinner and invited our dads and mothers. That gave our folks a pretty good idea about what we do in scouting.—Cave Scout in Boys' Life.

Sole Leather More Active

Sole leather markets are more active. Sales of hemlock, union and oak sole are more numerous. Generally prices are stronger. Most western tanners of hemlock are curtailing production. They are reported bleaching their stocks. Offal in better demand, prices stronger. In Philadelphia tanners have refused 35c. bids for car load lots of rough double shoulders. Bids represent an advance of 6c. over buyers' views a month ago. Upper leather demand with exception of kid leather in the smaller skins slowing up somewhat. In the west Scotch grain sides are in good demand. Buyers there are willing to pay premiums for HM and M weights of those finishes. Western calf leather tanners note an increased demand for black leather. Makers of women's footwear are purchasing darker shades of light weight calf in western markets. Kid continues in good call. Boston tanners note an increase in sales of black leather. This is particularly true of three to five foot skins. Philadelphia notes a falling off in kid demand. British business has been turned down, partly because of low bids as well as lack of grades wanted.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

ONLY FAIR PLAY

Following an editorial in the Enterprise of a few weeks ago, the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, through its President, Frank H .Sanger, called attention to Secretary Weeks of the War Department that Peabody world war veterans were forced to receive medical and surgical treatment outside of their city. The War Department has acknowledged the letter sent by the Peabody Chamber and will investigate the matter, presumably to seeing if a change in the present methods may not be made. The The Chamber of Commerce has for its first concern Peabody men and Peabody institutions, and it rightfully feels that discrimination against Peabody physicians is not the intent of the war department. To compel war veterans to go to Salem hospital when the J. B. Thomas hospital is just as well equipped to give the veteran care doesn't seem to be quite logical. If we were a small town there would not be the same ground for criticism of the present methods employed to handle Peabody patients still requiring medical attention following their war service. Peabody physicians volunteered to a man to enter the war service and four were actually in uniform. Peabody has just as good surgeons and doctors as has Salem, and we have a hospital just as capable of giving service as the Salem hospital or any other in this locality. President Sanger of the Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for his initiative in this matter. Now let us see results which will please even more.

PEABODY LODGE OF ELKS

Institution of a lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Peabody should hold particular interest to the citizenship because of the great work this lodge performs in every city where it is organized. Distinctly American and open only to American citizens, it stands as a bulwark in the teaching of patriotism. Its deeds of charity, a helping hand that knows no race, color or creed, are long since monuments to the zeal and fidelity of the great order of Elks. It is a non-sectarian fraternity, which exacts of its members absolute adherence to law and order and the constant effort to promote good citizenship. These are some of its cardinal virtues. Peabody is to be congratulated on soon being able to number an Elks' lodge in this city and it is safe to predict that as the years roll on the oranization will be found serving a high purpose and by its acts reflect credit on the lodge and our fine city. The Elks who have been responsible for the instituting of the new lodge have performed a real service for Peabody.

BABIES' HOSPITAL

Peabody citizens may be depended on to assist in the campaign, proceeds of which are to enlarge the present North Shore Babies' Hospital located at the foot of Dearborn street, Salem. The Enterprise feels very confident of its ground when it says that the full measure of support for the hospital project will be given by people of Peabody because the hospital is a child of Peabody citizens by its inception. Sixteen years ago a handful of Peabody men and women hit on the plan of rescuing sick babies from death's clutches by giving the infants fresh air. That was the start of the present North Shore Babies' Hospital. Today some of these same men and women are actively interested and Peabody babies in common with precious infants of other Essex County towns and cities find their way to the hospital. The appeal to aid this worthy project will find responsive chord in the heart of every mother and father. Peabody will do her part, of this we are very sanguine.

The "Green Mountain Boys."

The "Green Mountain Boys" was a name assumed by a body of soldiers from Vermont in the Revolutionary war. They captured Fort Ticonderoga at the battle of Bennington. They were organized originally by Ethan Allen to oppose the claims of New York to the territory of Vermont. The Green Mountain Boys were the first to ask that Vermont be regarded as a state. This was not granted until 1791, when Vermont was admitted as the fourteenth state.

"Be Sure You Are Right—"

"Be sure you are right, then go ahead." The foregoing was the maxim of David Crockett, a scout of pioneer days in America, also a soldier and politician, unlearned but shrewd and skillful. He was born in Limestone, Tenn., in 1786. His training was that of the wild frontier, typical of the early Nineteenth century. At the Alamo in 1836 he was one of the six survivors of the siege who, upon their surrender to General Santa Anna, were massacred by the Mexicans.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

FAITH

A YOUNG woman, at least her handwriting evidences youth, writes as follows: "I have lost faith in everything. Write something to help me to regain it."

You are mistaken my dear young woman. You have not lost faith. You only think you have.

You could not live for a day without faith.

Faith is the twin sister of hope, and both are absolutely necessary to human existence.

Stop for a moment and see how much you depend upon faith.

You open your eyes in the morning and the first thought is of the day and its duties, and you have faith that you will be able to perform them.

You have faith that you will live through the day; that you will have food to sustain you, shelter to protect you.

You start for your place of work and you have faith in the man who operates the conveyance that takes you there that he will see that you arrive safely.

As you go up in the elevator you have faith in the machinery that hauls you from the ground up into the air else you could not risk your life on the strength of those slender cables.

You go to work and for six days you labor with faith that at the end of the week your employer will pay you the money you have earned.

All through the day's work you have faith; faith that your fellow laborers will treat you honestly and kindly; faith that you will be able to fairly accomplish your task and go home to well-earned rest.

You have faith in nature, in tomorrow's sunrise and tonight's fair stars; in the coming of the springtime and the springing grass and flowers. You have faith that the planted seed will bring forth fruit and that all logical results will follow right causes.

How could you go to sleep without faith that you will awaken or eat without faith that the food will nourish and strengthen you?

Older and wiser people than you have thought that they have lost faith and then found that it was not faith but judgment that had fled from them.

Voltaire, a wise man in many things, said and wrote much that was foolish. He said that "Faith consists in believing things because they are impossible."

Of course there is not an atom of truth in that statement. His daily life and your daily life proves its falsehood.

The apostle Paul, writing to the Hebrews, set down this truth, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for." Some translators of the original have put the word "assurance" in the place of the word "substance."

"Substance" seems to me the better word because from its derivation it means literally "to stand under," and that means foundation. In other words, Faith is the foundation of things hoped for.

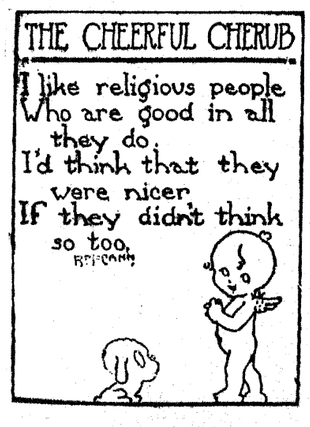
Since the present moment is all we have and all that we are assured of the future must be altogether a matter of hope, and hope depends entirely on faith.

Faith is not credulity.

The man who hopes for the impossible cannot have faith in his hopes. Genuine faith is based on truth which is unchangeable and everlasting.

So long as there is life there is faith as well as hope. Perhaps sometimes our faith may lessen because experience shows it to have been wrongly placed. But lose faith we cannot, and our effort always should be to strengthen and sustain it.



Faith and hope are our mental crutches and the lamer we are the more we need them.

How foolish it would be for us, who are at best, in ourselves, so feeble and helpless, to throw away the things which serve best to support and sustain us.

You have not lost faith. You have only turned away for a moment from the light which God has mercifully given to all of us and the darkness frightens and overwhelms you.

Turn back. Your faith will return.

ROUND ABOUT

Peabody stablemen will still continue to supply hacks with horses for funerals as announced in these columns last week. McCarthy Bros. and Blackburn's stables will supply the horses which many Peabody people still prefer for funeral work. The horse drawn vehicles cut the cost of funerals while the motor service makes the cost excessive with the lowering of the H. C. L.

Horace G. Upton, former member of the Democratic town committee, reached his 82d birthday anniversary on May 20. He recently entered the Haven Home for Aged Men on Lowell street. He is a daily visitor to Peabody Square and still manifests deep interest in affairs politic. Mr. Upton has a wide circle of friends. He was for many years crossing tender on Church street.

Fred Wyman, the w. k. traveller, has recently presented the South church with a costly library, including several rare volumes. Mr. Wyman had planned another trip to Europe this summer, visiting Germany, but owing to poor health has postponed his trip.

Peabody Post 153, American Legion, did not turn out in as large numbers as their commander, Joseph T. Sweeney had hoped the world war veterans would on Memorial Day. It was a disappointment and an active campaign of education will probably follow to insure a larger attendance of the veterans another year. It is a duty every living world war veteran owes his deceased comrades and an obligation he owes to the Grand Army men who saved the union in 1861.

A Peabody business man was held up by a policeman in Lexington about 12.30 midnight Monday and requested to convey a young girl to the nearest trolley car. The girl had lost her pocketbook and had walked from a town above Lexington in her desire to get home to Cambridge. The Peabody man not only gave the unfortunate girl a ride to Arlington, but also induced her to take some change for carfare. When the policeman first hailed the Peabody man he suspected he was being held up for fast speeding and was quite relieved, so I am informed, when the nature of the policeman's errand was made known.

Members of the Peabody Rotary Club are to take action next Tuesday on the number of boys the club will send on a week's vacation this summer. The boys' committee, headed by Dr. S. Chase Tucker, will present a list of names of boys and full details as to the cost. Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn, member of the Lynn Rotary Cub, will give a short talk on what Rotary can do to help any city in which it is an organized unit. The Lynn Mayor has many friends in Peabody and is intimately known to many of the local Rotarians.

THE WOODS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE WANDERERS.

A LITTLE church through dusty trees
Raised up its wooden spire,
One of religion's purities
Amid our mortal mire,
And one there came to open door
Made timid by his sin,
Made timid by the mark he wore,
And dared not enter in.

The while he paused he heard a whir—
Beside him trembled down
Another outcast wanderer,
The swallow of the town.
It fluttered through the open place,
It mounted to the choir,
Within the simple house of grace
Poured forth its notes of fire.

And he who lonely lingered heard
And something fell away;
He followed after singing bird
Where sinners kneel to pray.
Yea, there the old remembrance died
And there the new began;
For soon they worshiped side by side—
The swallow and the man.

Remarkable Family.

A woman with six young "hopefuls" n assorted sizes entered the day coach. She selected a double seat and occupied one-half herself. The oldest child lay down on the opposite seat and the other five sat on his prostrate body. By and by the conductor appeared, and upon being handed one full-fare ticket he sized up the little group and said: "You'll have to pay for some of these children. What is the age of the oldest?" To which the lady answered tartly: "Go on with ye; the oldest one is under five"

"Potter's Field."

The term which is applied to a place where the penniless and unknown are buried, had its origin in Matthew 27:7, when the chief priests "took counsel and bought with them (the thirty pieces of silver for which Judas betrayed the Master) the potter's field to bury strangers in." The name has clung to such plots ever since.

Wesley Barry, Famous 'Dinty' Stars In Strand Film Monday

Harry Carey, characterized as the "he's human" star, will be the feature attraction at the Strand today and Saturday in his latest photoplay, "If Only Jim," which has been adapted from the story, "Bruvver Jim's Baby." The picture presents the star in a highly colorful role—a role from which he extracts the utmost in sympathy and appeal. "If Only Jim" is a story rich in the elements of heart interest, pathos, juvenile appeal and local color. The star and his capable company sound all of these elements and carry the story along with keen action and good suspense. The characters seem to be a part of the West and do excellent work. Carol Halloway plays opposite Mr. Carey. The first of the Clyde Cook comedies and the last episode but one of "Fighting Fate" will be the other attractions for today.

Shirley Mason in "Her Elephant Man" and Peggy O'Neil in "The Penny Philanthropist" will be the doufeature bill for Sunday evening.

"Bob Hampton of Placer," heralded as the spreme motion picture achievement of Marshall Neilan, the man who produced "Dinty" and "Go and Get It," will be the attraction on Monday and Tuesday. An exceptional cast of players headed by Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced kid who made a nation wide hit in "Dinty." Others to be seen in the leading roles are James Kirkwood, Marjorie Daw, Pat O'Malley and Charles West.

Marion Fairfax wrote the scenario for "Bob Hampton of Placer," which is taken from Randall Parrish's story of the same name. It is a story of love, intrigue and and adventure, with one of the most thrilling and picturesque pages of American history as a background. Marshall Neilan took his entire company to Glacier Park, Montana and later to Arizona to get the proper atmosphere. The script called for many night scenes in the filming the reproduction of the historical "Custer's Last Fight" against the Indians headed by "Sitting Bull." Two thousand Indians and a regiment of U. S. regulars were used in these pictures. All in all "Bob Hampton of Placer" is one of the really big things of the screen and proves conclusively that Marshall Neilan is one of the greatest directors of the day.

Frank Mayo in the well-known stage play "Colorado" and Eva Novak in "The Smart Sex" will be the double feature bill for Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Novak will be remembered for her fine work in "Society Secrets" which was played at the Strand a few weeks ago.

carrying the cameraman over the heads of the actors. The "blimp" proved especially advantageous in mountains, and in order to get best results, Mr. Neilan transported two immense ten-ton generators to Montana to supply "Juice" for these scenes. Other unusual effects were obtained through the use of a dirigible "blimp"

Maple Is Much Used.

Makers of croquet sets use more maple than any other wood; but the mallet heads of fine sets may be lignum-vitae or teak; and the mallet handles may be of beech and birch as well as of maple, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. The balls wear out sooner than the other parts of the outfit. They gradually go to pieces by splitting, chips at a time.

Do the Himalayas Creep?

Geodetic studies in the Himalayas and the Tibetan mountains seem to show an apparent creeping of these mountain ranges, sidewise toward the south. Surveys may eventually disclose the real facts.

The Story of Our States

XXV.—ARKANSAS

ARKANSAS was named after the river which flows diagonally through this state and is one of the chief tributaries of the Mississippi. It is said that the early settlers found in this territory, an Indian tribe named Arkansas, but the actual meaning of the word is not known. It probably has some relation to the word Kansas. There has been much confusion as to the correct pronunciation of Arkansas. To remove this as far as possible a resolution was passed by the state senate in 1881 which specified that the true pronunciation was "Ar-kan-saw."

Originally Arkansas was a part of the Louisiana Purchase. Its first settlement was made by the French about 1685. Except for the few years during which by secret treaty it was ceded to Spain, it remained under French rule, until purchased by the United States in 1803. For nearly ten years after this, it was a part of Louisiana territory. With the admission of the State of Louisiana in 1812 this northern section was formed into the Missouri territory. In 1819 there was another partition and Arkansas territory was created, which included the present state and what later was called Indian territory.

Due to the reports of an early explorer named Pike, who visited this region in 1806, the incorrect idea was generally accepted that most of the expanse of plains east of the Rockies was a vast desert. This idea persisted to such an extent that as late as 1850 the western plains were called in the school geographies "The Great American Desert." Adventurous settlers, especially from the South, found conditions in Arkansas quite otherwise, however, and by 1838 Arkansas was admitted as the twenty-fifth state of the Union with an area of 58,885 square miles.

The natural resources of the state are considerable. There are the mineral springs of medicinal value, which have been placed under governmental control at Hot Springs.

XXVI.—MICHIGAN

THE French missionaries and fur traders were the first whites to penetrate into Michigan. Their first visits to this region date back to 1610. It was not until 1668 however, that the first actual settlement was made. This was the mission at Sault Sainte Marie, founded by Father Marquette. Mackinac was established a few years later, and Detroit's growth was slow. After the French and Indian wars the English took over this territory, and in 1774 it was formally declared a part of Canada. Detroit rapidly grew in importance and during the Revolution was the base of operations for many raids by the British and Indians against the Americans.

By the terms of the treaty of Paris in 1783 this region became a part of the United States. What is now Michigan, Wisconsin, a part of Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio was known as the Northwest territory. After Ohio was set off as a separate state the Lower Peninsula of Michigan was joined to Indiana territory. In 1805 Michigan became a separate territory with about its present boundaries. There was, however, a great dispute over a small strip of land in the extreme southern portion which was claimed by Ohio. This almost led to bloodshed, but was finally settled by Michigan releasing her claim to the disputed area and receiving as compensation an addition to the Upper Peninsula. On this basis Michigan was admitted to the Union in 1837 and became the twenty-sixth state.

Michigan has a unique situation, as it is bounded by the three largest of the Great Lakes, and divided into two peninsulas. This gives it a coast line larger in proportion to its area than any of the other states. It is named after Lake Michigan, which is the Algonquin word, "Michi-gan," meaning "great sea." It is entitled to 15 votes in the electoral college.

Names Leaders Who Will Aid Babies' Hospital

ernly-equipped institution will reduce this figure even further, these same doctors predict.

The new hospital will have a complete orthopedic department, a facility the present institution lacks and needs. Dr. Maurice Briggs, baby specialist of Lynn, in speaking to a meeting of workers in Salem recently, said the new hospital was a necessity to the North Shore.

"A properly equipped babies' hospital is the only place where infants can get the best medical, surgical and orthopedic treatment," said the specialist. "The science of saving infant lives has made such great progress in recent years that we now are able to preserve for the community many babies who only a few years ago would have died.

Facilities Necessary

"But to save these lives, we must have the proper facilities, and these are found only in institutions designed especially for infants. Any operation on a baby is a delicate undertaking. We must have a special operating table, properly heated, a nurse trained especially for this work—because it does not come within the province of the nurse for adults to know what must be done in caring for an infant patient—and an especially equipped and heated room for the little fellow after he leaves the table.

"Then, to obtain the best results from an operation, the baby must be where he can receive the after-care that is so important, and this is possible only in a babies' institution. Citizens of the North Shore cannot realize what a protection this hospital will be to infant life in this district and what strides it makes toward insuring the community a sound body of citizens for future years.

"Babies of the North Shore will receive in the enlarged hospital medical, surgical and orthopedic attention they could not otherwise obtain, for the infants' institutions in Boston certainly cannot stand further strain, being taxed now far beyond their capacity."

INDUSTRY HEADS HONORS DOCTORS IN HUB BANQUET

The Associated Industries will hold a joint meeting with the Employment Managers' Association in honor of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons on Monday, June 6, at the Copley-Plaza. Dinner will be served at 6.15 at $3.50 per plate. Charles A. Andrews, president of the Associated Industries, will preside.

Following the dinner, there will be a symposium on the subject of "Industrial Medicine and Its Relation to Workers and Production." The medical point of view will be presented by Dr. Otto P. Geier, president of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, who is in charge of the medical work at the Cincinnati Milling Machine Company; Dr. John F. Moorehead, chairman of the National Industrial Conference Board Physicians, and Dr. Wade Wright, in charge of the Industrial Clinic at the Massachusetts General Hospital and Consultant to the Department of Labor and Industries.—(Industry.)

Peabody Elks Lodge Will Entertain 1500 Visitors

is believed will prove a heathy and progressive fraternal order in Peabody.

There is no greater American order than the lodge of Elks and the personnel of the membership which makes up the charter list shows the eagerness of Peabody members belonging to other lodges outside the city, to have a lodge of Elks in this city.

Moose hall and Odd Fellows banquet hall have been engaged for the big day and the 1500 guests who will come from all over the state to attend the ceremony of instituting the new lodge will be well entertained. A buffet lunch will be served in both halls.

An Elks' orchestra will furnish music for the lodge institution in City Hall, every member of the orchestra being a member of the order.

Joseph A. Ryan, member of the City Council, is to be the first Exalted Ruler of the Peabody Lodge. The chair officers as prepared for the election by the members of the lodge are in order: Esteemed Leading Knight, Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley; Esteemed Loyal Knight, Thomas F. Barrett Esteemed Lecturing Knight, Frank W. Penniman; Secretary, Dr. Henry I. Yale; Treasurer, Frank H. Sanger; Trustees, John L. McManus, John E. Hayes and George S. Curtis; Inside Sentinel, Philip C. O'Rourke; Tyler, Howard K. MacCharles.

With the election of officers followed by installation, Exalted Ruler Ryan will announce his offical appointments of other officers in the lodge.

The new lodge has 92 names on its charter list with a waiting list of nearly 40 citizens, whose applications for membership will come regularly before the lodge at its subsequent meeting.

City Hall will be tastefully decorated for the big day and a large deer head will be erected on City Hall over the front entrance, with large American flags draped on either side.

The committees have worked long and late to perfect the many details for the day and everything points to a gala event being recorded in the interests of Elkdom.

Officers of the State Association of Elks among the invited guests are Edward G. Davis, Pres. Emeritus of Boston; Frederick L. Hayes, President of Brookline; John F. Brennan, Vice President of Cambridge; Bernard E. Carbin of Boston, Treasurer, John J. Horan, Secretary, of Framingham; Dr. William F. McPhee of Haverhill, Harry Hoyt of Somerville and Henry Clark of Boston, all three Trustees.

The credit of organizing an Elks lodge in Peabody belongs primarily to Dr. Henry I. Yale, who is a member of Salem lodge. He got the signatures of the Peabody Elks who belonged to Salem, Lynn and other lodges and within a few weeks had a list large enough to secure a dispensation for the new lodge. Messrs. Ryan, Dr. Kelley, Frank Sanger. John L. McManus and Thomas F. Barrett have been very active in the work of getting the new lodge established.

Salem lodge will lose some 30 members by the new lodge in Peabody, but the Elks of Salem have endorsed the lodge for Peabody and extends its best wishes.

To District Deputy S. John Connolly of Beverly belongs much credit for the institution of the new Elks lodge in Peabody. From the first he took an active interest and his recommendation was instrumental in getting the dispensation. He has spent much time with the local leaders arranging the details for the organizing of the lodge.

At his personal invitation nearly 40 Grand Lodge officers, past Exalted Rulers and members of the State Association will be here on his suite. Among the notables in Elkdom who will officiate will be James R. Nicholson, Past Grand Exalted Ruler of the American order of Elks, who will have charge of the installation of the Peabody officers. Col. Edward Gihon P. E. R. of Wakefield lodge will be among the suite members and Gen. William Stopford of Salem will be Grand Tyler. John F. Maley, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue, is to be Esteemed Lecturing Knight. District Deputy Connolly will be Grand Exalted Ruler at the institution of the lodge.

There will be a meeting Monday night at 7.45, in Masonic banquet hall, at which every charter member must appear and sign the constitution and receive final instructions for his attention on the day of the institution of the new lodge.

SHOULD BREAK BOYS OF HABIT

A very bad habit which is noticeable among small boys of Peabody lately is that of begging outside the moving picture theatres. There is hardly a performance at the local or surrounding theatres which does not bring out these groups of boys who usually appear night after night, asking a penny or two of each patron. Aside from being a source of annoyance to the public, this practice is bound to become a detriment to the character of these children. It does seem as though some steps should be taken to put a stop to this nuisance, and also to see that these youngsters are at home at night instead of loitering about the streets, in search of stray coins, which are often used to no good purpose. It is plainly a matter for the police.

COULDN'T BLAME HER

Hubby: It seems to me that you come to the office a good deal more than there is any occasion for.

Wifey: I cannot help it dear. Your manners in the office are so much nicer than they are at home that I really enjoy the contrast.

Trustie Saves Auto Crash

A near collision of two automobiles at Wilson Square early yesterday afternoon resulted in costly damages to Bagley's store, wrecked a Ford touring car and sent Ludger Wright, a Lynn restaurant man, to the J. B. Thomas hospital with a fractured right knee cap. A big Reo car, operated by a trustie of Lawrence jail, and having as occupants, Deputy Sheriff Bunton, keeper of the Lawrence jail and a prisoner enroute to Salem court house, escaped injuries, largely due to the presence of mind of the chauffeur, who swerved his car onto the sidewalk to avoid striking the Ford car amidship.

Wright, the injured man, was alone in his car, and was making Wilson Square from Liberty street. The Reo car had the right of way, coming from Andover street.

A big glass window in the Bagley store was smashed by the Lynn man's car and his machine badly put out of commission. Wright received cuts about the face from the flying glass. He was removed to the hospital in the police ambulance, where Mr. S. C. Tucker operated on his knee. He will be laid up for several weeks. Wright is 46 years old and married, with a family. His home is on Essex street, Salem.

Her Heartless Conduct.

We read in the World Outlook that Bishop Thoburn was once dictating a letter to a native Indian stenographer. "I am sore over the matter and chagrined," he said. When the stenographer brought back the letter to be signed the bishop was astonished to read: "I am sore over the matter, and she grinned."—Youth's Companion.

SOCIETY AIDING MANY CHILDREN

Very few people of our vicinity realize the many good things being done by our Mass. Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Among their purposes are: First, to prevent physical neglect in extreme cases, removing children from their harmful surroundings and finding homes for them.

Second—To rescue children from immoral homes and shield them from contamination.

Third—To protect wives and dependent children from non-support and desertion by the bread winners, and to secure suitable homes and guardians for the children.

The following may illustrate one of the many cases:

A Mrs. Blank neglected by her husband, supported niggardly, as he dared, spent very little time at home. The wife, a good housekeeper, and gave good care to her children, but craved pleasure and soon went to dances. Of course a quarrel soon followed and he beat her. Following this she was found later with a divorced man.

Our agent talked to the mother, showing the plight of her children, one of them fourteen. A conference with husband and wife resulted in uniting the pair, and the report later was good conditions, and with our continued interest we hope it will continue.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Smith will be week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poor at the latter's summer home at Lake Sunapee.

Lynn Mayor Says Groups Are Harmful

Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn, member of the Lynn Rotary Club, called upon the American people to pool their individual efforts to bringing about a better understanding of this country's needs in combatting post-war influences which he declares hold dire results for the future.

He was the speaker before the Peabody Rotary Club at its dinner this week, and his brief address was an appeal to the members of the club to sow the propaganda of fellowship and to help do away with numerous group elements in society.

Too many people are willing to take and not to give, was one of the Lynn Mayor's epigrams. There are too many groups in the field, each concerned with its own welfare, and not giving any attention to the needs of the community in which it exists. To offset the influences which have assumed dimension since the war as a natural result of the world strife, Mayor Creamer pleaded for unselfish action, the sacrificing of personal comfort, for the purpose of greater contentment among the whole people.

In proof of common apathy on public affairs, the Lynn Mayor cited the fact that out of 34,000 registered voters in the city of Lynn, only 13,000 bothered to go to the polls and register their choice for City Councillors and members of the School Committee last election.

The Rotary Club will decide the number of boys it will send to vacation camps at its next meeting Tuesday. It is planned to send 20 boys to the Salem Fraternity camp in Rowley the first week in July. Several club members will address the boys of the graduating class at the high school next Wednesday morning.

Miss Marion Colby of Hillsboro, N. H., a graduate of Jackson College, is attending the commencement exercises at Medford and making her headquarters with Mrs. Edith C. Holman.

Miss Mary Donovan, who completed her studies at the Castle school at Tarrytown last week, has returned to her home for the summer.

The Donnell "luck" persists in following close upon the heels of our district attorney, who hoped it would be a girl and had two of them presented to him at the hospital Tuesday.

The condition of Councillor Francis L. Poor continues to cause alarm to his many friends through the fact that he fails to convalesce as rapidly as hoped for.

Misses Louise King, Ruth Farrington and Rachael Foster, alumni of Abbot Academy, Andover, attended the commencement exercises of that institution last week.

Mrs. William Flynn, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the J. B. Thomas hospital two weeks ago, has returned to her home on Franklin street much improved in health.

Mary and her little lamb has nothing on the little girl who had her pet cat follow her to the Centre school, enter her class room and proceed to make itself comfortable on a sunny window sill, only to be rudely disturbed and ejected for causing a diversion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dodge are occupying their North Bevery home for the summer months.

Dr. S. C. Tucker delivered an address last Wednesday evening before the Middleton Grange at Middleton.

Group photographs were taken this week of each class of pupils at the Center school as well as one of the teaching staff, and a large picture of the building, showing the fire escape on the easterly side crowded with scholars.

The annual summer outing of the Peabody Club will be held at Ipswich Bluffs on Sunday, June 26. Automobiles leaving Peabody square at 8 o'clock on that morning will convey the members to Ipswich, where steamers will be boarded for the delightful sail of an hour to the Bluffs. The usual sports and shore dinner will be enjoyed and the return will be a reversal of the downward trip. A large attendance is anticipated.

Unbeknown to her better half, Mrs. Frank H .Sanger bought a Ford Sedan, learned to operate it, received her license and gave "Deac" his first ride Sunday.

The Enterprise for two years has advocated a motor cycle for the police department, and now the residents of South Peabody ask for one and those of West Peabody will do the same when the Newburyport turnpike is completed. Some other machines in the department seem to be of little use, why not swap for motorcycles?

The assessors will be in a position to announce the tax rate just as soon as the budget is completed. A new law was passed by the legislature in May of this year, which allows the assessors to figure receipts from the corporation tax with other receipts as a basis for the tax rate.

The poll tax list will be several hundred less this year because of dull business and the strike, when many men left town for work. The poll list for men and women will be ready this month, as it is now in the printer's hands.

Those visiting policemen who have departed for their homes gave a good exhibition of their singing qualities before they left, with Sweet Adaline, Farewell, My Own and several other old time melodies. They had a whiskey tenor who equalled some of the boys before prohibition got that strangle hold.

Little is heard of any changes in the garage, health and assessor's departments, as was said would be the case. A report is circulated that the Mayor had some words with a former city official recently about a certain paper which has written up some of the unwritten secrets of City Hall.

Chief Grady has been the recipient of several gifts from the visiting cops which shows the esteem he is held by the police in general. As it turned out, these policemen had an easy assignment during the strike, which we are glad to relate. The disturbances were minor after all that is said and done.

The resignation of six teachers this week because of marriage and going to other positions weakens the personnel, for while new ones come, experience counts.

Ward 2 school is nearly completed and will be available for use this fall. We presume the high school will be also. The city should take over the water in the fire room at the high school for local purposes.

WELCOME TO ELKS

The Peabody Enterprise congratulates the Peabody lodge, No. 1409, B. P. O. E. on its highly successful institution held in City Hall on Wednesday. The local lodge has reason to feel elated at the presence of many Grand Lodge officers, who came here to start the baby lodge of the State on its way to wield a power for good in the community. There were over 500 visiting Elks in the city in attendance at the ceremonies, and it was generally commented that Peabody lodge had gathered together a very creditable organization of representative men. The Enterprise congratulates Exalted Ruler Joseph A. Ryan on his elevation to the highest office in the lodge, and wishes for him a successful tenure in the first chair. Under his guidance the lodge should prosper and will best, by the individual support of each member who now wears the proud antler, the signet of this great American order. We firmly believe the formation of an Elks lodge in this city will prove of distinct benefit to Peabody.

HOUSING

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce appears determined to start the machinery whereby new homes may be built in Peabody. With this object in view, President Sanger, who is proving himself alert to the needs of the organization, has called a meeting of members and directors for next Monday afternoon, when plans for a building association will be discussed. A preliminary meeting this week found much favorable comment expressed by members of the Chamber and it is highly probable that a definite announcement of a constructive program will be made in the near future. The need of homes in Peabody is even more acute than in many cities and if the Chamber of Commerce is able to make a start which will yield new homes for Peabody, then the organization will merit generous praise. It is apparent that President Sanger, who is getting the support of his directors, is intent on accomplishing even greater results for the organization. The housing problem is one of the city's chief concerns and it is desirable that some plan as outlined by the Chamber should be adopted.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. Lurie

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

TO EXPECT AND TO THINK.

DO NOT use the word "expect" in the sense of suppose, believe or think. For example, the use of the word "expect" in the following sentence is incorrect: "I expect that your lessons are done." The verb "expect" means "to look forward to as probable or certain; to await, to feel assured of something before it occurs; to anticipate;" as, "I expect to go to church next Sunday, if the weather is fine." Usually we use "expect" when we look forward to an event with interest or desire. "One should not say, 'I expect it is,' still less, 'I expect it was.' We cannot expect the present or the past," says one authority.

"England expects that every man will do his duty," was the signal hoisted by the famous British naval commander, Lord Nelson, at the masthead of his flagship, before engaging the French fleet in the battle off Trafalgar.

THE MINER.

GOD made him? Well, since that's the case
Howe'er he lacks in outer grace,
However he inclines to sin,
There must be something good within.
And that is why in every man
I try to find what good I can,
As miners seek the gold that lies
Beyond the reach of human eyes.

"Pandects."

"Pandects" is derived from the Greek and means "all-containing." The Pandects of Justinian is a collection of Roman civil law, made by the Emperor Justinian in the Sixth century, containing legal decisions of judgments, to which the emperor gave the force and authority of the law. This compilation of 50 books is the most important of the body of the Roman civil law.

Preserving Mine Timbers.

A coating of magnesia cement on the timbers of mines is stated to be an economical and efficient assurance against fire, especially in the arid regions where the timber becomes highly inflammable and is difficult to replace.

ROUND ABOUT

Congressman Robert S. Maloney has sent many Peabody people an illustrated pamphlet this week on poultry management. The subject matter is prepared by the Department of Agriculture.

* * * *

The soldiers monument in Peabody Square should be given a sand blast before another Memorial Day rolls around, for it would improve it greatly in appearance and the expenditure would be appreciated by the Civil War veterans in honor of whose fallen comrades the once handsome shaft was erected. The cost of cleaning the monument by the most improved method would be an investment the taxpayers would approve.

Ensign Philip Nichols, who graduated from Annapolis last week, is the second Peabody man in over 30 years to thus honor his native town. Brigadier General James E. Mahoney was the last Peabody man to graduate from the Naval Academy. Nichols has been assigned to the battleship Florida. He hopes to visit his folks here sometime this summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nichols of Beckett street. He is a war veteran, being stationed off the coast of France during the early part of 1917, and was engaged in deadly combat with the German submarines which were making hospital ships their especial prey. He was called home from his active service to enter the academy from which he has now been graduated with honors to himself and home city.

Apropos of Annapolis, I understand that Henry Osborn, a former Peabody boy and teacher, is one of the instructors at the naval academy. He is held in high regard by the naval students.

Is is noticeable that half hose are no longer the sole comfort of tiny children, for the craze has evidently become quite popular among some of the younger high school girls.

Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church, was a big factor in bringing about a settlement of the recent leather workers' strike in this city. He kept in the background, anxious to avoid the limelight, but his efforts went far to effect an agreement whereby the labor dispute was ended.

The Enterprise received an anonymous letter last week which advocated preference for Peabody workmen in Peabody manufacturing plants. The letter had some merit and had it been signed might have been printed.

The intimate love Story of a Strong man and Wilful Woman. The true story of the little French Milliner whom the whole world came to know as Madame Du Barry.

THRILLING BEYOND WORDS

What You Will See in This Wonderful Masterpiece:

You'll see Pola Negri, the toast of Europe's gay capitals and now famous throughout America.

You'll feel her strange personal magnetism, which in woman opens all doors, levels all class distinctions, makes all men vie for her smiles.

You'll see her first as little Jeanne, a friendless waif from the country, who finds work in gay Paris as a Milliner's apprentice.

You'll see her radiant beauty and audacity carry her past the barriers of poverty, jealousy and greed to the pinnacle of place and power.

This Is the Intimate Romance of a Wonder Woman,
You'll see men fight and die for her,
You'll laugh, and thrill and cry with her.
Surely You'll NEVER, NEVER, NEVER Forget Her.

As you live through the intimate scenes—as you gaze breathless upon the mighty cataclysmic panoramas in which thousands pass on the stage of life, you never for a moment forget the miracle woman into whom Pola Negri, artiste incomparable, has breathed the breath of passionate life.

Kindling the Fire.

Cheap candles cut into small bits and placed in the kindling in the kitchen stove, make an even better method of quickly starting the fire in the morning than using kerosene. And it is just as economical.

Big 'Passion Film' To Be Shown At Strand Theatre On Monday

"Going Some," the Rex Beach story and play, and the final chapter of William Duncan's serial play, "Fighting Fate," will be the main attractions at the Strand today and Saturday. "Going Some" is the story of a college graduate who posed as a runner in order to convince a very charming young lady that he was considerable of an athlete. Later he is forced to make good his boast and run against the A. E. F. champ. The wager of a cattle ranch against a sheep ranch is what causes the excitement in the picture. Most of the action centers around the two runners and the owners of the ranches. The runners hold the destiny of many people in their power to win or lose the eventful race. Before the time arrives for the athletes to try out their physical prowress, oil is discovered on one of the wagered ranches, thereby enhancing its value a great deal. The possibility of such a discovery was not taken into consideration when the wager was made; hence arises the question of whether it would be fair to carry out the original terms on which the bet was based. Obviating the necessity of legal assistance, nature allows things to take their normal course. It it the solving of intricate puzzle which makes a story of absorbing interest. "Going Some" gives all the thrills and excitement to be derived from a picture, in addition to an excellent cast headed by such popular favorites as Cullen Landis, Kenneth Harlan and Walter Hiers.

Bessie Barriscale in "All of a Sudden Norma" and Peggy Hyland in "Faith" will be the double feature bill the local playhouse will offer for Sunday evening.

The widely advertised European picture, "Passion,' based upon the famous courtezean of Louis XV, Countess Du Barry, will be the extraordinary attraction Manager Chet Bent will offer for a three-day run, starting Monday. This offering should interest every theatre-goer because every critic of importance in the country has given it a hearty endorsement. Its historical and educational value cannot be estimated. But aside from these qualities, it offers a spectacular and inspiring entertainment. Poli Negri, who interprets Du Barry, is the most famous actress of Europe. The star is surrounded by a most artistic group of players and assistants to the number of 5000. The story revolves around episodes in her life from the time that she is a milliner's apprentice down through her passionate life with Count Du Barry and the years she spent as the mistress of Louis XV. The French Revolution is shown at its tragic height, and the entire production is marked for its painstaking detail, every touch being correct. In its report on this picture the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures made the following comment: "'Passion' is by far the finest portrayal of the life and tragedy of Madame Du Barry yet placed upon the screen. As a picture of the times, in its fidelity to the spirit of history, it must be regarded as a masterpiece. It is a screen spectacle of the first magnitude, and a work of true dramatic art."

For Thursday only the Strand will offer Gladys Walton in "Rich Girl, Poor Girl," Breezy Eason in "The Great Adventure" and the "Avenging Arrow."

EILEEN SEDGWICK

Pretty Eileen Sedgwick is a Texas girl. She was born and educated in Galveston. She has been on the stage since childhood. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, has blond hair and dark blue eyes.

"THE O'BRIEN GIRL"

Of the memorable musical comedy successes that have marked the career of the Tremont Theatre, Boston, there has been none which have approached in extent of great popularity that which is enjoyed by "The O'Brien Girl," played by the George M. Cohan's comedians. There is no one who goes to the theatre who does not treasure the pleasantest of memories arising from the engagement of "Mary" at the same theatre last season. It was from the magical hand of George M. Cohan that the public received this record-breaking musical comedy.

The characteristics of "The O'Brien Girl" are of the usual Cohan brand with its liveliness, tunefulness, good cheer and delightful fun. Moreover, it follows this producer genius' infallible rule of absolute cleanliness in every line and situation with the result that "The O'Brien Girl" is the most wholesome lovable and charming "girl" ever seen in musical comedy. In every particular it is the most perfect of summer shows breathing the spirit of warm loveliness and brilliancy.

Mr. Cohan has given the production an opulent mounting and has provided a cast unsurpassed in distinction. The company of George M. Cohan's comedians includes such artists as Fritzi Scheff, Ada Mae Weeks, Andrew Tombes, Elizabeth Hines, James Marlowe, Georgia Caine and Stanley Forde. An extra matinee will be given Friday, June 17.

WAS PLEASANTLY SURPRISED

Miss Mary McGrath was pleasantly surprised last Saturday evening, when thirty-five of her friends gathered at the home of Mrs. T. Willard Burke and tendered her a shower. She received many beautiful gifts of linen, silver and cut glass. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, and a musical program was given by Miss Marion McBride, Mrs. Alice Caskin and Miss Margaret Griffin. Miss McGrath is to become the bride of John Newbury, Jr.

Chamber To Tackle Housing

The Board of Directors have for some time past been considering the housing situation for Peabody, and the Chamber of Commerce, not being a corporation cannot legally handle this proposition, but it seemed to be the opinion of the Directors that they would be willing to form a Building Association, incorporated under our State laws in order that they might carry out the policy of the Chamber and increase the housing facilities of the city. It is not proposed to make this corporation a money-making scheme, but simply to benefit the community so far as it is able.

Nothing definite along these lines has been settled, but the Directors will hold a meeting subject to the call of the President, probably within a week, in order that final plans may be completed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Directors of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce was held Monday afternoon, June 6, in the Board room of the Chamber. Among several matters of importance that came to the Directors' attention was the North Shore Babies' Hospital. It was the unanimous vote of the Directors that the Peabody Chamber of Commerce go on record as heartily in favor of the North Shore Babies' Hospital, and that the Chamber assist as far as possible in the campaign which is now being conducted to make this hospital a permanent institution.

To the Citizens of Peabody:

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce, through the Board of Directors, heartily endorses and supports the campaign now being conducted for the permanent extension and expansion of the North Shore Babies' Hospital. As president of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, I am pleased to give the North Shore Babies' Hospital the official recognition, approval and support which this worthy and humane project so justly merits.

(Signed) F. H. SANGER,
President.

Haiti's Forest Wealth.

Large forests of pines are to be found in the mountains in the interior of Haiti, but lack of transportation makes it impossible to utilize this timber even for domestic needs. Large quantities of pine are imported from the United States. A few small sawmills are located in various sections of the island, but these cannot begin to supply the local markets. Dyewoods are plentiful.

GOLDEN JUBILEE FOR ST. JOHNS

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH TO OBSERVE GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Williams, archbishop of Boston, officiated, and Rev. Father Hecker, superior of the Paulist Missionaries, preached an eloquent sermon on the progress of the Catholic church in America.

On Christmas day, 1871, Rev. J. J. Gray celebrated the first mass in the basement and delivered an interesting discourse in which he congratulated the Catholics of Peabody on being able to worship for the first time in an edifice which was worthy of their efforts, and one on which was raised the emblem of their religion. The church was not opened again for public worship until September, 1872, when the basement was completed and the pews put in.

From that time on two masses were celebrated each Sunday and in December, 1874, Rev. Father Gray preached his farewell sermon and introduced the late Rev. Michael J. Masterson, who was appointed first resident pastor of St. John's church on December 10, 1874.

The interior of the church was completed in 1879 and on November 30 of that year it was dedicated with a pontifical high mass, celebrated by Right Rev. Bishop Lawrence McMahon of Hartford, Ct. After the completion of the church, Rev. Father Masterson felt the need of a parish school and in 1891 the erection of St. John's school was begun. It was completed and opened in September, 1893, in charge of the Sisters of Notre Dame.

This school, which was a three-story brick structure, was destroyed by fire on October 28, 1915. The present school, which was built on the site of the first school, is a model building in every respect, and stands a monument to the work of Rev. N. J. Murphy, who was pastor of the church at the time of the fire.

St. John's church has had three pastors. Rev. Father Masterson, Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy and the present pastor, Rev. Thomas P. McGinn.

Citizens Pledge Aid To Babies

Peabody citizens are volunteering in large numbers for the division of public spirited men and women to represent this community in the organized appeal to be launched late this month for $250,000 to enlarge the North Shore Babies' Hospital into a permanent, all-year haven for frail infants.

The ladies of Leo Guild this week saw the moving picture of the hospital's routine. They indorsed the movement to give North Shore infants this much-needed medical and surgical protection, and announced their intention of lending the movement strong support.

Although the hospital opened only last week for its brief summer season, 21 babies are already under its care. Practically every community in the North Shore is represented among the patients. A particularly striking case is that of a frail, premature baby weighing only three pounds, five ounces. This delicate little mite who has been in the world only 18 days is receiving constant attention.

Mayor Shea sent in a communication together with an ordinance which if adopted by the City Council will place the Municipal Garage under the supervision of the City Engineer's department, and install a bookkeeper in the garage to keep a set of books. The proposed ordinance was ordered advertised.

In his letter Mayor Shea said:

"I am submitting an ordinance establishing the Municipal Garage Department of the City Engineer's Department. The municipal garage was never established by ordinance and therefore in my opinion its origin and maintenance is illegal. Furthermore, no such department is authorized by the laws of the Commonwealth or by the charter of the City of Peabody.

"The municipal garage should therefore be placed by ordinance under some duly constituted department of the city. After considering the matter I am convinced that the City Engineer's Department is the proper partment to have charge of the municipal garage.

"I have provided in the budget for a clerk for the municipal garage, whose duties shall be to keep the books and have charge of all the supplies and keep an accurate record of all repairs done and supplies issued and charge the same to each department.

"With the help of the City Council, I feel that I will be able to place the municipal garage on a sound basis.

"Respectfully yours,
"WILLIAM A. SHEA, Mayor."

The Mayor's veto of the housing ordinance which was aimed at the leather manufacturers was sustained when only six of the ten Councillors voted to over-ride.

The appropriation for the municipal garage is $18,000, which was voted by the Council. The item of $4000 for an addition to the garage was turned down.

Councillor Ryan objected to some of the field assessors being paid $200 on the grounds of inefficient work. He called on Chairman Quirk, who happened to come in while he was speaking, to corroborate him in his criticism, and the chairman did so in a few words, saying that some of the field assessors had fairly earned the increased pay and others had not. He did not specify.

Councillor Jones got through a motion requesting the Mayor to tell the Council why the Peabody Electric Light plant did not advertise for bids for supply coal. The Council so voted.

Councillor Hogan had referred to the claims committee a petition from Patrolman Fred Wiggin for a flag which he loaned to the city for the welcome home celebration to the World War veterans and which was destroyed.

The Eastend Councillor also took a jog at the absence of the ladder truck from the fire department. The truck is in the repair shop. President Duggan announced that Mayor Shea was trying to include an item to purchase a new motor ladder truck for the department.

A claim for $240 was settled for $50 last night on a claim from Max Rosenfelt of Chelsea, who alleged injuries by falling on a grating near Hose 2 fire station.

By a special order $5000 not borrowed on a loan order of last October was added to the city treasury.

The salary boosts for city employes will add about 75 cents to the tax rate, according to information given by President Duggan to Councillor McKeen in the Council meeting.

Leather Prices In East Must Meet Those of West

How is business? If you want to get the glassy stare and liable to physical violence, put this question to a tanner. Just at this time the leather trade is as flat as two pancakes. It is the beginning of the fall season, but this season has not begun with many tanners. They will tell you the world might as well come to an end now as any time and it would end it. Salesmen who are out scouting for business in this vicinity tell me it is tough picking. There is still a little out of the gloom, and stills are popular with many people but not with the government.

But let us think a bit. Let us endeavor to find out if local shoe factories are really idle and if such factories in other parts of the country are in the same position. You know I have preached the doctrine that the fellow who can under sell the other fellow will get the business. I have been fortunate to get in touch with several salesmen who have made trips through the middle west. All tell me that business in that section is far better than in New England. There are mammoth corporations springing up in that section who are bidding for New England trade and are offering shoes for $1.00 a pair less than our New England shoe manufacturers can make them. Such being the case, what is the matter? Are we of the East going to let this difference take our living away without trying to remedy it? It matters not what we want, it is what we can get, and we are facing the most serious proposition, a proposition which goes to the very foundation of our existence, our bread and butter.

It is evident that the middle west has settled down to prices which are considerable higher than before the war, but much lower than during the war. It is evident the laboring man out west accepts the conditions and has decided that it is the better. I am talking shoe manufacturing remember, and I regret that such is the case, but that has nothing to do with results. We can wish our finger nails were diamonds but no one ever heard of their turning. It is common turkey talk without the fixings. When we get through with the west, then comes foreign goods made by cheap labor, another knock out blow, one of Dempsey's. So instead of groping in the dark, let us take a flashlight picture of leather and shoe conditions, get our bearings and set sale for the land of promise.

—*—

Perhaps I may be misunderstood as to the prices of the tanner. I have not found that workmen in the tanneries are being paid more than elsewhere. But the spice of my argument is that should local shoe manufacturers have to pay high wages the thousands of dozens of skins shipped from Peabody will meet competition in the west they do not have locally. We will sell leather in the west, but the big fellows will have the call, and the small tanner will have his troubles.

—*—

So the object lesson must be heeded sooner or later. If sooner so much the better, if later it may be too late. Labor unions should heed the hand writing on the wall. They should seek to educate the men to present conditions, for there are but a few men who think of such things. It is get paid each week and let the other fellow do the worrying.

—*—

So after this long drool of calamity, let us find some cloud with a silver lining, and there are some left of this kind, and look forward to better business that I predict is coming this fall. If the market is glutted with cheap shoes, let us hope by that time the people of Europe will be able to purchase our shoes, thus taking away the surplus. We of New England have always met conditions in the past and conquered them. I am not of the opinion that we have changed to the extent we cannot do it over again. If the other fellows are going to practice thrift, we can do so, for there is no place on God's footstool that ever practiced it more faithfully. What we have done we will again do I believe. The unrest of war is wearing away, slowly to be sure, but surely. No men with radical ideas will attempt to stop us. We will make leather and shoes as always, and when Mr. Competition comes to us we will meet him with the smile that knows no offing, and make good.

They tell that black leather is coming back. All tanners have had some call for this staple color, and it means much. One of the largest here is about to start one of their factories on blacks, and it gives me the impression that such business is the beginning of stability. When we recall that the business the last few months has been of the foolish variety, with every tanner trembling for fear each order is the last, and we thought that what skins in process must be placed into something else even if he did not know how it was to be done, some idea can be had of that kind of business. To be sure it was better than none at all, and was a life saver. But when blacks are selling in quantity, and colored leather in 50 different shades are so prominent, it seems to me better business.

—*—

Prices of hides, calf and sheep are low, and I am told that certain sheepskins can be purchased in New York cheaper than they can be imported. Such being contrary to all laws of business and nature, the end of it will come when those fellows who must have money have turned such skins into cash. To the tanner who has waited for the end, it has seemed it would never come. But Job had patience, rat trap and all.

It would appear that the quest for the export trade has led us into the obsession that it will not be possible to prosper without large increases in our foreign shipments. Perhaps it was just as well that we did think thus when there seemed a chance for unlimited extension, but we should not cherish this delusion today to the encouragement of pessimism and the detriment of our domestic commerce.

According to the U. S .Census figures just published 829,332,000 pairs of shoes and slippers were made in the United States in 1919, but the exports of shoes during the same year were only 21,354,579 pairs. It thus appears that the exports were only 6.48 per cent. of the total production.

It has been estimated that the manufacturing establishments of all kinds in the United States are equipped to produce 25 per cent. more merchandise than the domestic market can consume. It may be that this is too low an estimate as far as shoes are concerned. From this premise the conclusion is drawn that it is not possible to operate our plants to capacity without a wider export outlet.

Without desiring to minimize the desirability of exporting more of our leather and shoes we do not agree that the prosperity of the leather making and consuming industries depend upon exports to anything like the extent popularly supposed.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper Wedded 10 Years

Mr. and Mrs. George Draper will observe the tenth anniversary of their marriage next Tuesday. In the evening an informal reception will be held at their home, 58 Washington street, and an invitation is extended to their many friends to call and assist in celebrating the happy event. Mr. and Mrs. Draper were married in this city June 21, 1911, by the Rev. W. Delos Smith, pastor of the First Unitarian church at that time. Two children blessed the union, both of whom died in infancy.

"Salad" Really "Salted."

Salad literally means salted and is a direct descendant of the Latin word sal, or salt. The use of salad to mean the greens from which or on which a salad mixture is placed is one of only recent origin. The Italian insalata and the Spanish salada, meaning salad in those languages, actually mean salted.

Elks Lodge Celebrates Flag Day

Flag Day which is observed by every Elks lodge in America, was celebrated in Peabody last Tuesday night by the Peabody lodge, No. 1409, which was instituted only last week. Judge William H. Fay delivered the address tracing the history of "Old Glory" in a very entertaining and instructive manner.

The new lodge met in Knights of Columbus hall in the O'Shea building, with a very pleasing attendance. Ex-

Judge William H. Fay
Flag Day Orator

alted Ruler Joseph A. Ryan presided. The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is the only American fraternal organization which conducts Flag Day exercises by decree of the Grand lodge. The local lodge will plan a big celebration of the day next year in which the school children will take part.

Humble Beginning of the Elks.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, with a membership today of approximately 550,000, whose subordinate lodges span the country from coast to coast and reach from Skagway, Alaska, to Honolulu and Manila, had a very humble beginning in an attic of a cheap boarding house in New York City about the close of the year 1867. The moving spirit in the gathering of a half dozen actors who got together on a few Sunday afternoons for purely social purposes, was a young English music hall singer named Vivian—Charles Algernon Sidney Vivian, as he was christened. He landed in this country on Friday, November 15, 1867, coming on an English trading vessel from Southampton.

The leaders of the Elks are among the leaders of the country in commercial, political and patriotic work. They have placed the Order in the front rank among those institutions that stand for genuine Americanism, and especially those which stand, not upon the order of their doing, but upon the cardinal principle of doing immediately whatever is to be done either for the country or for the individual in distress.

It was back in 1868 that the Eleven O'Clock Toast of the Elks was started by George F. McDonald, who launched the "To Our Absent Brothers" that has since ripened into tender significance with all members of the order.

Elks Home in Virginia.

The order of Elks has established a beautiful home for aged and indigent members at the base of the famous Peaks of Otter at Bedford City, Va. On this site of 100 acres has been erected a home costing $1,000,000, all operating expenses of which are borne by the grand lodge. An Elk in good standing, upon proper certification of his lodge that he is infirm or indigent, and consequently unable to care for himself, is entitled to the home, is admitted to it with the minimum of red tape, and is made heartily and humanly comfortable for his remaining days.

Charity a Cardinal Principle.

As illustrating a spirit that has always actuated the Elks, on October 26, 1871, a great benefit was staged by New York Lodge, No. 1, to aid the sufferers from the great Chicago fire. And in 1906 at the time of the San Francisco disaster Grand Exalted Ruler "Bob" Brown rushed out to the Pacific coast metropolis where the banks were closed and money was needed, and planked down $5000 in cash as a starter on what the Elks proposed to do. Afterwards Brown had so much Elks money at San Francisco that he could not spend it all and the Elks in addition sent out 400 carloads of food to the stricken city.

ST. JOHN HIGH GRADUATION

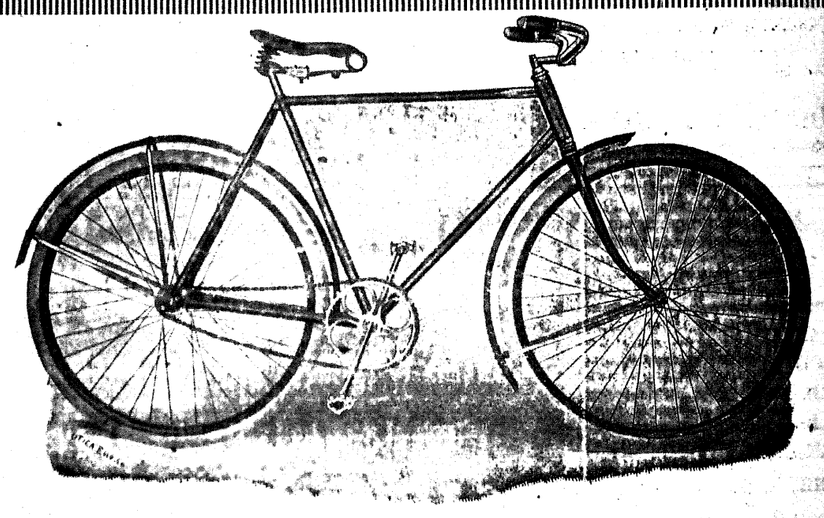
The graduation exercises of the parochial high school will take place on Sunday morning at St. John's church. Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 11 A. M., after which the pastor, Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, will award diplomas to the following young ladies: Helen Elizabeth Armstrong, Esther Marie Cunningham, Elizabeth Florine Curtin, Ellen Catherine Driscoll, Beatrice Frances Gelineau, Esther Lynn Johnson, Anna Mary Keefe, Helen Traverse Kehoe, Winnifred Agnes McGivern, Genevieve Frances McGrath, Bridget Teresa Murray, Catherine Mary Neenan, Evelyn Grace Scollin, Jane Gertrude Waters.

On Monday evening in K. of C. hall the annual banquet and reunion of St. John's Alumnae, complimentary to this year's graduating class, will be held. Miss Helen M. O'Rourke, president of the alumnae, will preside, and Miss Helen H. Wallahan will be toastmistress. Toasts will be given by Mrs. T. Willard Burke, Miss Genevieve Phillips, Miss Mary Murray and Miss Beatrice Gelineau. Mrs. Alicia McNiff and Mrs. William J. Mullen will render vocal selections, and the address of the evening will be given by Hon. Thomas A. Mullen of Boston.

ENJOYABLE WHIST PARTY

An enjoyable whist party was held at the home of Mrs. T. A. Sweeney, Tremont street, last evening, the proceeds of which will be given to the East End table of the St. John's field day to be held July 16 in celebration of the golden jubilee of the parish. A splendid musical program was given by Ollie Quirk, tenor, Miss Mary L. McCarthy, soprano, and Daniel Keegan, violinist. Refreshments were served.

Now that the Council has made the appropriation for cleaning out the various brooks which run through the center of the city, it is expected that a crew of workmen will soon be put to work. It remains for the City Engineer to order this work done.



Energy in Various Lamps.

According to an English scientist, candles and oil and gas lamps transform only 2 per cent of energy into light, incandescent electric lamps 4 per cent, are lights 10 per cent and the magnesium light, 15 per cent.

CHEAPER TROLLEY SERVICE

The majority of the citizens of Peabody feel that this city should be entitled to cheaper trolley service than it is getting at present. The only moderate priced fare that Peabody has now is that from Peabody Square to Town House Square, Salem, a ride costing but seven cents provided a 15-ride ticket is purchased. The passengers living beyond Peabody Square, however, are obliged to pay another fare if they board a car before it reaches the square. This feature of the trolley service is complained of daily by the hundreds of patrons who live on Central street, Lowell street and other points beyond the fare zone. Central street patrons are particularly inconvenienced in that they are forced to change cars at the square in addition to paying another fare of either 10 cents cash or nine cents on a ticket. These bad features of local trolley transportation could be remedied by (1) running a through car from Central street to Salem once an hour, thus conveniencing the patrons of the Eastern Mass. Ry. Co. living north of the square, and (2) by eliminating the Peabody Square fare zone, thus permitting a Peabody resident to ride to Salem for one fare. It would not be expected that such a privilege would be given for a ticket fare, but the 10-cent cash fare should entitle a passenger to ride from any point in Peabody to Town House Square for 10 cents. The Central street people have a just protest in asking for a through car to Salem hourly, as it is a great inconvenience to them to have to break a usually short ride by changing at Peabody Square, whereby several minutes are usually lost. If these two points could be remedied, Peabody would have little to ask from Manager Hardy for some time.

EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS

While unemployment in the United States increased approximately one-half of one per cent. during May, according to the Department of Labor, the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries reports a gain of 2.6 per cent. in the employment record of eight cities in this state during the period from April 30 to May 27.

The national survey covers 1428 firms employing 501 or more persons in 65 principal industrial centres. The Massachusetts survey, which was made in co-operation with the United States Employment Service and covers 192 representative manufacturing establishments in eight cities, says in part:

"A comparison of the returns for May 27 with those for April 30 shows that in the representative establishments covered there were net increases during May in each of the eight cities except Boston and Worcester. The increases in Brockton (19.4 per cent.), New Bedford (8.6 per cent.), and Fall River (5.1 per cent.), were very encouraging.

"As compared with the number employed on February 28 (the first date on which the returns for these identical establishments were secured) the returns for May 27 shows increases in New Bedford (16.7 per cent.), Brockton (12.8 per cent.) and Lawrence (4.0 per cent.). In each of the other five cities the aggregate number employed in the representative establishments was less on May 27 than on February 28, but in three of these five cities (Springfield, Fall River and Worcester), conditions since April 30, as indicated by these returns, were found to have improved."

It is the home spot for me.

My city has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I must support it.

My city wants my citizenship—not partisanship; friendliness—not offishness; co-operation—not dissention; sympathy—not criticism; my intelligent support—not indifference.

My city supplies me with law and order, trade, friends, edcuation, recreation and the rights of a free-born American. I should believe in my city and work for it.

And I will.

Fraternity the Great Need.

It was Victor Hugo who conceived this thought: "The true resistance of man against catastrophes is an augmentation of humanity. Love one another, aid one another. Solidarity of men is the retort to complicity of mysterious facts. It is thus that is established on earth the third term of the grand human formula, fraternity. Governments put obstacles in the way of liberty and equality, they will come in their time, in spite of the monarchy; equality in spite of the aristocracy. But fraternity is the opening door, the emptying purse, the helping hand."

XXVII.—FLORIDA

FLORIDA was considered America's first health resort. It was the search for a mythical Fountain of Perpetual Youth that led Ponce de Leon, the Spanish explorer, to land near the present site of St. Augustine. His rediscovery of Florida in 1513 was on Easter Sunday, hence the name, which is from Pascua Florida or Flowery Passover, which is the Spanish for Easter Sunday.

The French were the next settlers, founding a colony on the St. John's river. Spain promptly took action to maintain her ownership of this region and sent over an expedition which erected a fort under the leadership of Menendez at St. Augustine in 1565 and exterminated the Huguenot colony. St. Augustine is the oldest city in the United States. There followed a period of hostility between the English colonists in the Carolinas and the Spanish in Florida. By the treaty of 1763 Spain ceded Florida to England in exchange for Havana, which England had captured a few years previous. It remained an English colony until the last years of the Revolution when Spain recaptured it.

There were two provinces, East and West Florida. As the Spanish ruled Florida with a very loose form of government, this region became the refuge of pirates, smugglers and lawless characters. Such an element together with the unruly Seminole Indians naturally caused a great deal of trouble. To overcome this, President Monroe purchased Florida from Spain in 1819 for $5,000,000 or about eleven cents an acre. It was organized into a territory and in 1845 was admitted to the Union.

Florida is sometimes called the Everglade State on account of the vast swamp-land in its southern part. It is also known as the Peninsula State and is the southernmost State of the Union. Its area is 58,666 square miles.

XXVIII.—TEXAS

THE ill-fated expedition of Navarez was responsible for the first interest in Texas. This large expediton was wrecked at the mouth of the Mississippi in 1528. Four members including Cabeza de Vaca were captured by the Indians and spent eight years wandering through the country eventually reaching the Gulf of California. It was their accounts of rich Indian villages which led the Mexican governor to send Coronada to explore this country. He returned after a two-years' trip without discovering the reputed riches which he was seeking.

To counteract the aggressions of the French settlements in Louisiana, the Spanish established many missions throughout Texas, the most important being at San Antonio. When the United States negotiated the Louisiana Purchase from France they considered that Texas was a part of this territory. Over this question war was nearly precipitated but finally the United States withdrew their claims in exchange for Spain's withdrawal of claims to the Oregon region.

Many Americans began to settle in Texas, among them General Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin. Mexico became alarmed at this rapid increase of American pioneers which threatened to crowd out the Mexican population. Oppressive measures were adopted and caused the Americans to rise in rebellion in 1836. During this uprising occurred the gallant defense of the Alamo by a handful of Americans and their slaughter by the vastly superior numbers of the Mexicans. "Remember the Alamo," became the Texans' slogan. General Houston decisively defeated the Mexican forces at the battle of San Jacinto and the Republic of Texas was launched with Houston as president. The flag contained one star, and from this has come the name the Lone Star State. After considerable opposition from the North, Texas was annexed to the Union and became the twenty-eighth state.

ROUND ABOUT

I understand that the Gentlemen's Driving Club, composed of Peabody and Lynn members, is anticipating a successful racing season this summer at Rockdale Park, South Peabody. Among the zealous members of the club is Murray F. Gourley, local contractor, whose chief hobby is horses. He is frequently seen in the racing sulky and is generally up there among the first horses.

Congressman Maloney who is a member of the Lawrence lodge of Elks came in for much pleasing commendation last week when on the eve of the instituting of Peabody lodge No. 1409 he mailed to every Peabody Elk a patriotic card bearing a tribute to "Our Flag and Country."

I observe that Gen. Francis H. Appleton has posted signs on Prospect street fronting his estate asking the drivers to proceed slowly as they make the incline going toward Proctor's Crossing. When the incline has been negotiated another sign, "Thank you," greets the autoist. I understand the signs are doing a real service with the auto drivers heeding them faithfully.

Several Peabody auto parties made the journey to Wrentham some days ago where they spent the day as guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Miller, formerly of this city. It was an outing for the King's Daughters, of which Mrs. Miller was a zealous member during her residence here when Rev. Mr .Miller was pastor of the South church. The former Peabody pastor removed to Wrentham to give his time to agriculture. His estate is on the main highway between Providence and Boston, and auto travel is very heavy. This caused Rev. Mr. Miller to set up a refreshment stand which this year has been increased to a small pavilion being erected and his sons are handling the business. Farm products are also sold. In addition to his farm labors, Rev. Mr. Miller supplies a pulpit in Attleboro. Both he and his wife are enjoying excellent health.

Stuart N. Gardner was a caller at the Enterprise office yesterday, having returned from Springfield, Vt., where he has been assistant superintendent of the Boys' Community Club for the past year. He will spend the summer at a fashionable hotel in Magnolia, where he will have charge of part of the hotel service again this season. In the fall he expects to return to Harvard Medical school for his last year.

Several Peabody citizens are now qualified to say that Ipswich river has some very excellent pickerel, for a trio of Peabody men who paddled up stream from Ipswich last Sunday collected more than two dozen of the delectable fish. The trio of sportsmen were Kenneth Hill, Ralph Basford and Ralph Goodwin.

Peabody professional golfers are in demand at the summer country links. The latest local exponent of the golf course to renew a contract is Wilbur J. Hutchinson, who leaves this week for Watch Hill, R. I., where he will join the staff at the Misquamicut Golf Club. Many Washington, D. C. residents are summer guests at the club. Hutchinson spends his winters at Palm Beach as a professional golfer.

Fireman Daniel Hannon and William Costello rescued a small kitten from a tree near the Andover street bridge last Monday afternoon in response to an appeal from one of the residents in that district. The kitten was perched high in the tree.

I observed that many Peabody World war veterans turned out Tuesday to attend the funeral of the late Col. Frank S. Perkins of Salem, hero of the 101st F. A. in France. Col. Perkins numbered many close friends in Peabody who knew him for the splendid American citizen he was. He helped Peabody to put over the Victory Liberty loan.

I understand that Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem, who has been occupying the bench in the Peabody district court, expects to conclude his duties here this week after a service of several months in the absence of Judge Hall, who is still confined to his home on Lowell street. Associate Judges William H. Fay and Horace P. Farnham will alternate on the bench pending the recovery of Judge Hall. Judge Hill has endeared himself to the members of the bar during his period of service in the local court. His rulings have been held eminently fair.

Civil war veteran Richard E. Smith recently retired as commissioner of state and military aid, refuses to grow old. I observed him changing the trolley wire on the Danvers car last Tuesday evening while a large number of passengers were filing into the car. With careful precision he raised the trolley wheel to the overhead wire and it required but the single effort to place it. His assistance helped the patrons of the car to get home quicker.

Children of School street were given a wee fright yesterday when a fair sized turtle made its appearance in their play area. It is supposed that some mischievous boy of the Center school brought the turtle to school.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF COAL MINES BEST SOLUTION OF FUEL SITUATION DECLARES J. H. FINN, NOTED WRITER

Editor of Enterprise:—Merely because a thing existed since the beginning of time does not prove that it is to endure forever, notwithstanding the claims of some newspaper writers.

The steamship took the place of the rowboat the same as the locomotive supplanted the emigrant wagon. The electric light has displaced the candle and the whole system of wealth production has been so revolutionized that machines have taken the place of hand labor, which was universal the world over down to the discovery of steam power.

Now the writer has been claiming all along that the last word has not been uttered on progress. There is to be still greater advances in the future and these are to come in a field that has been overlooked up to the present time.

In all the years that have gone the American people have devoted their energies to the problem of the production of wealth. They have given no consideration whatever to the distribution of wealth. At the present time it is every man for himself and the devil catch the hindmost.

We have now reached that position where we are able to produce goods without end. Please understand what I say in this connection. I say, and repeat, that we can produce all the things we stand in need of, and can produce any single article of wealth in far greater abundance than we are producing it now, and that too, without lessening the production of anything else.

Let he who can disprove this statement step forth. If it cannot be disproved then the poverty of the people has no basis in reason. That poverty is ours because we chose to have it so.

On the other hand if this statement can be disproved then the claim of the Socialist falls to the ground and Socialists, as well as all reformers, must accept the present system as the best that can be devised for mankind in general.

The writer believes that the machine was intended to lift the burden from the back of labor and bring plenty to the poor. Without machinery there could never he hope for a better civilization. This being the fact it is for the interests of the workers to welcome all invention. It is the intention of the inventors to continue till the time comes when labor will be emancipated and the whole world will be free in the sense of having enough of those things which make life worth while.

And there is only one way that progress can be made to this end. This is through the ballot. As for strikes and unions they can never settle anything, so it will remain settled. This is a truth that should come home to the workers after all the struggles of the past. These struggles have left the workers just where they were, with nothing settled in a permanent fashion.

I would urge the thinking laboring men to study the possibilities of the ballot. The law has done much for all classes that have made use of it. And those who have made use of the law-making power, to better their condition, are the so-called intellectuals. They are the lawyers, doctors, dentists, and others, who have made themselves secure by passing laws in their own interests, a thing which others can do and will do in the course of time.

The educated classes do not strike when they want to raise their wages or fees. They simply go to the Legislature and pass laws which say that no one shall tell another how to cure a wart or a headache, except duly authorized diploma holders. That no one shall be allowed to speak in court or collect and pocket debts, except a regular member of the profession. That no one shall use a strink to pull teeth, except a dentist with a shingle and who knows how to use his wisdom tooth.

Once such laws are placed on the statute books the fees are raised and hours of labor fixed. There are no strikes. There is no competition. There are no outsiders to do the work at a lower rate. In each city there is a price list and woe to the member who does not live up to it, to the limit.

Here we see how the law can be made use of to protect some of the people at the expense of the rest. It is true that these laws do not actually hold us down while these parties go through our pockets, but they mean the same thing.

Even the corn doctors have passed a law in the Legislature that recognizes the "profession" and which law will prevent people from treating corns, bunions, or other ailments of the foot. No one is allowed to cure a foot now, except the high brow chiropodists, who are loud in their claims that it is altogether impossible to make a shoe to fit the foot.

Engineers, plumbers and others are helped in getting higher wages by law. These are licensed. This restricts the number who can follow these trades and in that way it makes an artificial shortage of workers.

I should like to ask those who say that nothing can be done to tell just how the coal question is to be settled. In America and in England there is a situation that would make a Hottentot blush for his ignorance, if he did not know more about a solution than do the American and English peoples.

There is a seven mile battle front in West Virginia and intermittent battles and skirmishes have been fought for the past two years. The union is helpless there the same as it is in England. In both countries the strike has proved a failure and even though they could patch up some form of settlement it would be only for a short time. Sooner or later the old trouble would break out again.

Public ownership of the coal mines, and of the distribution of coal, is the solution and this proposition would win at the polls today if it could be put to the people. There is no other possible solution and the sooner the people understand this the better for all. In any event they must come to it, as the present system will force the issue so that it cannot be side-tracked longer.

Fifty years ago the fathers of the present generation bought coal for six dollars a ton. Today it costs sixteen, notwithstanding that 500 miners can dig and send to the surface 20,000 tons of coal daily, with the new machines that are now in use in coal mining.

The writer has been among the coal miners in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania and knows what he is talking about. There is plenty of coal but the profiteers have conditions fixed so that each of them must have so much profit from every ton. There are men sitting in Boston offices, who are agents or wholesalers, and who never saw a ton of coal being mined, but who draw enormous salaries or profits from the people. They are of no earthly use to the coal business or to the people whom they fatten on.

I would call the attention of the women of Peabody to these questions. The women have the ballot now, and if they do not show a greater degree of intelligence than their men folks then they had better not put their name on the voting list at all. But it is likely that the women, coming fresh into the movement, and not having their ideas twisted and warped, as the men have, will take up these great questions from a scientific standpoint. If they will do this they will be in a position to show the men that strikes are obsolete and the device of those who vainly imagine that force is stronger than reason and brains, in the solution of our great and growing social questions.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your names; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

ALBERTA

ALBERTA, meaning nobly bright, has its origin in the Teutonic language. It is one of the names coming from the nobility of which Aethel is the root.

Aethelbryht was its first form, though it was a masculine name and was given to the first Christian king of England. The famous bishop of Prague, who was martyred near Dantzig while preaching to the heathen Prussians in 997, was called Adelbrecht and his fame spread the use of the name throughout a great part of Europe.

Italy received it and straightway changed it to Alberto. It is from this latter that the feminine forms, Alberta and Albertine, were formed. The husband of the late Queen Victoria, who bore the name of Albert, brought both the masculine and feminine into great vogue in England. Indeed, it has since been accepted as a national name.

But, like all names which have a masculine and feminine equivalent, Alberta has no really individual existence. After all, she is merely a masculine name with a feminine termination. But unlike many of her contemporaries, such as Edwina and Roberta, she is almost frivolously feminine and is not regarded as a substitute name for the hoped-for son and heir who was to have been called Albert.

Jade is Alberta's talismanic stone. It has the power to assure its wearer great prosperity, and freedom from danger and disease. But it should never be removed from the finger, arm, or throat on which it is worn. Monday is Alberta's lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

How It Started

"NEWS."

IN THE earlier journals, before they were called "newspapers," it was the custom to print at the head the figure of a compass, symbolizing that the journal covered events in all directions. An enterprising publisher hit on the idea of printing the cardinal points, N-E-W-S, and in a short time every journal adopted the idea.

Four Tragic Deaths In Row

The death by drowning this week of William Walsh, a well known Eastend citizen, in Hartford, Conn., was the fourth tragic death in his family. Some years ago his older brother was drowned while swimming near high bridge at the Danvers river. His mother died of burns received in a fire at her home and his brother Thomas was killed in action overseas in the world war. William Walsh, the latest of the family to meet death, was drowned while bathing last Sunday in Hartford. His body was shipped here for burial.

SALEM LAUNDRY

Gladys Walton At The Strand Friday Eve

Gladys Walton in "Rich Girl, Poor Girl" will top the Strand's program for today. Miss Walton has already established herself as a local favorite because of her excellent work in "All Dolled Up" and "Risky Business." The story of "Rich Girl, Poor Girl" concerns two young girls, one raised in the slums, the other in the lap of luxury, who change identities for a few hours. Miss Walton gives a charming performance of the dual role. "Breezy" Eason in "Big Adventure" and Ruth Rolland in "The Avenging Arrow" will be the other attractions for today only.

For Friday and Saturday the management of the Strand has arranged one of the best programs in months, with Priscilla Dean and Larry Semon dividing the headline honors. What has been termed the greatest screen melodrama of all time, "Outside the Law," with Priscilla Dean, Lon Chaney and Wheeler Oakman, is the main attraction for the holiday bill. The locale of the story is in San Francisco's China town with Miss Dean as a criminal, who finally finds that the straight road is best. The drama is provided by the machinations of Lon Chaney and another crook, who plans to "frame" the girl, and scenes showing how a jewel robbery was "pulled off." "Outside the Law" has a fight that surpasses even that long remembered battle of "The Spoilers." It has all the other things too that go to make up an especially great picture—action, suspense, heart interest and a theme—a theme that never grows old, the love of a woman for a child and the wonders it performs in changing her character. Larry Semon in his newest comedy "The Rent Collector" will be the second number on the program. Semon is the screen's greatest stunt comedian, who has just recovered from the injuries received in making a picture. "The Rent Collector" is one long laugh from beginning to end. Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders" will be the other attraction for Friday and Saturday.

Shirley Mason in "Molly and I" and "A Trip To Mars" will be the pictures for Sunday evening. Shirley Mason is the sister of Viola Dana.

An adaption of David Belasco's memorable stage play "The Heart of Maryland," a play which has achieved wide popularity for many, many years, will be offered by the Strand next Monday and Tuesday. Vitagraph has given a wonderful production of the play. In the cast are such popular and talented artists as Catherine Calvert, Crane Wilbur and William Collier, Jr. It is a play wherein father is turned against son, and brother against sister. It brings the conflict right down to the moment. You become thrilled to see Maryland Calvert save her lover despite the fact that he is associated with the enemy.

Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays" and Tom Mix in "The Road Demon" will be the program for next Wednesday and Thursday.

Rotarians Send Boys On Vacation

The Peabody Rotary Club voted to finance a week's vacation for 20 boys, at its meeting Tuesday. The boys are being picked by members of the club together with Supt. Killam of the Community House. The boys will go to the Salem Fraternity Camp in Rowley the first week in July.

The Rotary Club is to make a direct appeal to every eighth grade grammar school boy in both the public and parochial schools to continue their studies next September by entering high schools or preparatory colleges. The movement is endorsed by the International Rotary Clubs and the program being carried out by the local club is merely in keeping with the nation wide plan of education fostered by Rotary.

A letter will be given to every eighth grade boy with a splendid argument why he should pursue his education still farther. The boys will be urged to take home the letter to their parents. The boy who gets a high school education stands a far better chance to get ahead in the world than does the lad who gives up his school work before attaining this education. The circular letter offers excellent proof of the wisdom of getting all the schooling possible.

Mayor William A. Shea, Supt. of Schools Albert Robinson, former President of the Peabody Rotary Club and President F. W. Penniman spoke before the boys of the graduating class P. H. S., Wednesday morning, counselling them to continue studies next fall.

The Rotary Club will hold another ladies' night next Tuesday evening with a dinner served at 7 o'clock. An effort is being made to secure Lieut. Gov. Fuller to be the speaker. There will be dancing.

TWIN SISTERS HONOR 'GRADS'

will give the valedictory address and her sister the salutatory. Both girls are to enter Sargent's school, Boston, to become physical instructors. It is believed no other school in the state or country has ever had twin sisters lead the graduation class.

WE ALL MUST HELP

During the summers of sixteen years, hundreds of babies have been restored to health by the North Shore Babies' Hospital. This humanitarian service has won the abiding gratitude of the mothers of these little children, many of whom could not have obtained the skilled hospital treatment that saved their frail little lives, had it not been for this institution. Yet in all these years this life-giving service has been available to the little sick and ailing infants of this community only for a few months in the summer.

An all-year institution of healing has now become a vital necessity. Because the people of the North Shore are sure to respond generously to the appeal for the building fund which is to erect the new, modern, all-year hospital plant on the site of the old, this life-conserving and health-building work will in the future be conducted the year round.

The hospital site has been chosen for its healthful and attractive location, on high ground, in the path of the sea breezes. The new institution will stand ready, night and day, the year round, to serve 100 babies with all the facilities and skill that modern hospital practice can devise.

The North Shore Babies' Hospital is to be a citadel of baby health for all the communities of the North Shore. It will perform a service for babies which no other institution in this vicinity is equipped to give.

"Infant patients need a type of treatment and care that can be given only in a babies' hospital, or in an especially equipped ward of an adult institution. As none of the hospitals of the North Shore have wards exclusively for babies, I feel that the superintendents and the medical staffs of these institutions regard the new, all-year-round North Shore Babies' Hospital as a public necessity"—thus Miss Helen Thom Nivison, superintendent of the Josiah B. Thomas Hospital of Peabody, expresses the sentiment prevailing among hospital authorities of this district.

"In Peabody there are frequent instances of the need on the North Shore of a hospital for infants," says Miss Nivison. Peabody babies have had 2521 days of hospital care at the North Shore Babies' Hospital in the last ten years. "The fact that the new hospital will accommodate 100 babies and treat them as long as their condition requires means that on its completion the North Shore will be a community that provides the most advanced protection for the lives of its babies. And these are the citizens of tomorrow."

SQUARE DEAL FOR MAYOR

make good. It is the usual thing for certain outside newspapers to "knock" Peabody, but it ill becomes any Peabody man to applaud any such action.

Who gave out the text of the state auditor's report regarding financial records at City Hall? This is a question that Mayor Shea would like to have answered. In an interview last night the Mayor declared no information had been given out from his office and that none would be given until the report was submitted to the City Council. He believed the report should first be laid before the Council. Nothing of a sensational nature is included in the report which covers 40 type written sheets.

CITY HALL NOTES

Col. James J. Ray will be named the new agent of the Board of Health to succeed himself, it is stated today.

Mayor Shea attended the wedding reception of Vincent P. O'Keefe, City Electrician, last evening.

The baseball diamond on the East-end playground stands out as a testimonial to Supt. Wyman of the highway department, under whose personal supervision the diamond was rebuilt. The improvement is marked and baseball will now become a renewed art in the district.

Some friend of the street laborers has asked the Enterprise why City Hall clerks get a half holiday on June 17 and the laborers do not?

Driver John J. Costello of Combination 4 paid his comrades a nice tribute on Firemen's Memorial Sunday as they passed the engine house. When the column came down Tremont street from the cemetery the driver had his hitch standing in the doorway, the horses with their heads up and ears standing straight as the band played. The flag on the house was at full mast with the driver standing at salute in full uniform, and every man in line returned the salute of the veteran driver who has stood there on all such occasions for the past 25 years.

ROSE FESTIVAL

A fine musical program is arranged for the Rose Festival at the South church vestry this (Thursday) evening, June 16th. Soloists are Mrs. Margaret Millea Henry of Salem and Ashley Eddy of Boston. Refreshments will be served.

The proceeds go to the support of the church orchestra.

Peabody Must Defeat Lynn For Pennant

Peabody high and Lynn English play the deciding game of the season at Emerson Park, June 17 and the result of this game will determine if Peabody high is to be acclaimed the champions of the Essex County School league. Both teams are tied in first place.

A record breaking crowd will undoubtedly attend the big game and Lynn will send a delegation of rooters who will cheer the Shoe City aggregation on to a possible victory.

Coach Donovan of Peabody high is not sure which of his string of pitchers he will send to the mound, but it is generally expected that Leo Buckley will be his choice. Buckley held Marblehead to five hits and was master all the way. Behind him the Tanners appear to be steadier.

The Men's Style Shop (Bennie Levin) is offering prizes for Peabody players for the first single base hit, first man to score, and also a prize for drivers of home run clouts.

Faculty Manager Henry A. King will have a rousing section for cheering the locals on to the championship. With the closing of Lynn and Peabody stores, as well as those in Salem, a crowd of over 5000 ought to be recorded. It is the biggest baseball attraction in Essex County for the holiday.

ST. JOHN'S ALUMNI

St. John's Alumni was represented at the third annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Notre Dame Alumnae held last Sunday at Roxbury academy by the president, Miss Helen M. O'Rourke, Misses Catherine Gilroy, Margaret Sullivan, Teresa McGrath, Catherine McBride, Mary Murray, Mrs. Thomas Mulherin, Mrs. T. W. Burke and Mrs. J. J. Hickey. Miss Mary B. Murray of this city was elected corresponding secretary of the Federation for the year 1921-1923.

West Peabody Young Men's Club baseball team took the Middleton Red Men's baseball team into camp Saturday, June 11, at Community field, West Peabody, and defeated that fast nine by the score of 10 to 4, in a very fast game of ball. J. Dempsey pitched a wonderful game for West Peabody, with a total of 14 strike outs and only nine hits, and H. Levin caught a good game.

Weighing the Earth.

The naval observatory says the mass of the earth has been determined by means of the Torsion balance, an instrument for measuring very minute forces. By means of this instrument the attractive force of a large metal ball is accurately measured, and by comparing this force with the earth's attraction the mass of the earth may be ascertained.

"Miss Nancy."

This term is generally supposed to have originated in connection with Anna Oldfield, an actress of the Eighteenth century. Her vanity was so colossal that on her deathbed she requested that her remains be laid in state dressed in "very fine Brussels lace headdress, a Holland skirt, with tucker and double ruffles, new kid gloves, etc."

OUR GRADUATES

From pulpit and platform go pleas to the school and college graduates, but the one which commends itself the highest is the plea that these graduates enter upon a life of service and the broadest kind of relationship possible in the community. The boy and girl graduates of today are the coming generation, the men and women of tomorrow, upon whose shoulders rests the destiny of Peabody, the State and the Nation. The plea of service, the giving together with the taking from the life of the community is far and beyond the greatest possible plea for these graduates to take home to guide them in their future lives. The welfare of Peabody, its progress and prosperity all that makes for a satisfied people will soon depend on these same boys and girls who this week are to receive their diplomas of graduation. On how unselfish their motives, how zealously they propose to enter into whatever pursuit of industry or profession they elect, only hard work, unswerving devotion to high ideals, honesty and square dealing with men and women in a life of service are worth while. Peabody is proud of its school graduates and may our pride in these boys and girls only increase with their future endeavors in whatever noble undertaking they choose.

PROMOTOR WANTED

Lynn has its Johnnie Morrissey, Salem its Frank Donovan and Marblehead its Mike Grady, all of whom put high grade baseball teams in the field year after year and give the residents of their communities their money's worth in good sport. Peabody is hungry for such a man at the present time. The crowd that turned out to witness the play-off on the holiday between the leading high school teams in the North Shore League spoke volumes for the desire on the part of Peabody citizens for representation in baseball this summer. Such a proposition could be made to pay well in this city, provided the calibre of sport provided were on a plane with that offered by Salem, Lynn and Marblehead in the past few years. Good grounds are available, better, in fact, than possessed by either Salem or Lynn. A policy of mostly home games, to be broken only when journeying to local points, would be the proper stunt. The best attractions in the state could be secured to come to Peabody, and the games with local teams should prove real money makers. All that seems to be lacking is someone with the baseball knowledge of Johnnie Morrissey, the grit persistence of Frank Donovan and the financial genius of genial Mike Grady. Here's hoping that such a man takes the initiative and wins out.

A WISE MOVE

The appointment by the school board of a full time director of Americanization in Peabody is the logical step in Peabody's Americanization program. There is work a-plenty for an energetic person in co-ordinating and supervising the teaching of English to our hundreds of foreign born residents. The law requires the city to provide facilities for the illiterate within its gates, and the old evening school arrangement was never able to adequately cover the situation. In order to reach the illiterate foreign born, the teaching must be placed in spots convenient to him, as classes at his home or near his work. In taking this step, the school board is falling in line with other communities having the same problem, all of whom have accepted the offer of the State Board of Education to pay half of the expenses of teaching and supervision. In Miss Katherine Logan the school board have chosen a woman who has been dealing with the teaching of English to the foreign born for several years and knows what is required of her. It will be her duty to so organze the work in Peabody that the greatest number of people may be interested to attend classes and to see that classroom facilities are provided at convenient spots throughout the city. She has a good foundation to build on in the work already under way at the leather factories, Chamber of Commerce and Community House. She will need the active support of other agencies that should assist in this work to the extent of offering room for classes. It is a big proposition that Miss Logan has been appointed to supervise. We wish her the success that such a forward looking program deserves and plead for the co-operation of everyone in the city in making her work productive of genuine results for the lasting benefit of our community.

The Girl Scout Council, the local advisory body of the Peabody troops, held their second annual meeting last Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce, when officers for the next year were elected as follows: Commissioner, Mrs. George H. Howes; vice commissioner, Mrs. Daniel Lord; secretary, Miss Amy Merrill; treasurer, Archibald McKinnon. Each member of the Scouts able to attend the summer camp at Dunstable, Mass., will have her expenses paid for two weeks and those unable to attend owing to lack of accommodations or otherwise will be taken care of free of expense at the camp in Middleton, donated through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Black Sheep Have Call In Hub Market

Sole leather prices are firmly maintained in the Eastern markets. Trading is spotty. New England manufacturers of heavy work shoes have been purchasing hemlock sole of late. Eastern manufacturers cutting their own union soles are anticipating fall needs in some instances. At Philadelphia union sole business has fallen off. In the West, sales of union leather are smaller and less frequent. Prices are firm, however, as sellers have kept stocks well sold up. Less demand is generally noted for offal in the Western markets. Business booked still runs to heavy leather. Western tanners are offering concessions on branded oak sole leather for quantity business. Side upper leather trading at Boston is confined to firms moving leather at prices favorable to the buyer. In the West more interest is being shown in heavy weight full grain as well as boarded chrome sides. Lighter shades of side leather suitable for men's shoes continues to improve in that section. New calf leather business fails to develop in volume in the Eastern markets. Large producers of footwear are interested in table run leather at low prices. In the West, calf tanners are willing to shade prices on black leather for quantity business. Patent leather demand, both domestic as well as foreign, is improving. Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago kid markets are well cleaned up on the better grades of kid. Prices have stiffened. Additional export business was booked in Philadelphia. Better call for blacks at Boston.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

City Hall Notes

It pays to advertise, and Jerry Quirk is now gaining fame and perhaps fortune by his name appearing in the Boston papers. It is somewhat difficult to keep a good man down, especially Jerry, as history has proven.

—*—

The next holiday is the glorious Fourth, and all will get a vacation, including the street gang. Meanwhile all are plugging, particularly the Assessors, which is their busy season. Everybody will welcome the tax bills, for even with a tax rate under $26, this amount is far less than our sister cities. Newark, N. J., has a rate of $38 a thousand, but they call it $3.80 a hundred, which sounds better.

—*—

I met Mayor Shea recently and inquiring his health, he said never better, with a smile that meant it. While there are constant rumblings among the polls which appear to mean trouble, the Mayor continues on his way doing what he believes is for the best interests of the city. Time will tell. It always does.

—*—

If there have been leaks in the State Auditor's report someone has been indiscreet giving it out. The Council should have the first peek at the document, as the Mayor rightly says. But all that can be learned of this report makes it plain that City Hall officials are not altogether lax in their duties, and that the public might go farther and fare worse.

—*—

There is cider, moonshine and its relatives in plenty at the cell room in the basement. The odor emitted would sure be a menace to the feelings of the jakey drunks who are landed there. "Sucking cider through a straw" could be a reality if one had the straw and a ticket of admittance to this attractive place.

—*—

The municipal garage is in the air so to speak, whether it is legally on earth or must be changed to be so. A jonah from the start, it looks as though the tax payers were not getting their money's worth, but what is everybody's business is nobody's, as true a saying as ever was said.

—*—

It has been said that Joe Kelely would be attached to the Poor department soon and again they tell us Jim Ray will hold down the position. Jim has the weight to hold it down, so name your bets. We take Jim.

We do not hear more of the candidacy of Roger Smith for councillor in Ward 6. Walter Brown still claims 6 as his residence, so one of these good fellows better run as an alternate. Politics to some is as attractive as movie pictures, which is some attractive.

Much complaint is heard of the hoodlums who congregate on the South Reading tracks late into the night keeping the neighborhood awake. Something is wrong or it would have been stopped long ago.

—*—

The grounds about City Hall never looked better. Constant attention by John Russell and his assistant does the trick. The work of these janitors keep them busy seven days in the week.

—*—

That ball nine to represent City Hall has gone by default. Buster Childs is the logical man to start something, and Buster was the best short stop who has represented the high school, which is saying something, for there has been many good ones.

—*—

Lowering the price of soft coal has enabled the electric light department to keep down rates to consumers. Let us all appreciate the fact that our lighting bills have been low in these times of high costs of everything. Gas has been reduced a fraction of a cent, but it was raised cents. It seems corporations of this kind appear to figure the public are mentally unsound and blind besides. Sometimes we think they are just that.

—*—

The Council at its next meeting should be able to clean up the budget so that the assessors can announce the tax rate. Tax bills can then be ready for delivery in August and the city can benefit from the money received. The longer it is postponed the more interest money it costs the city.

Police Should Put Stop To This Practice

Children of Franklin and School streets have found a new and dangerous pastime in climbing the fire escape at the Center school. The doors leading from the iron fire escapes should be kept locked when the school is not in session. Residents of School street are much exercised over the spectacle of little boys and girls playing on the fire escape.

West Peabody Suggests Some Civic Improvements For City

(1) How would you like to see an automatic starter on schoolhouse pump? (2) A porch on front of schoolhouse, suitable for high school pupils when waiting for bus. (3) All city officials and would-be's show as much interest in West Peabody between elections, as they pretend to then. (4) A city counil consistent enough to refuse to approve unreasonable salary increases, or approve appointment to any office, any one not qualified, and who is lookng for the salary more than service. (5) A reliable fire alarm system the present hot-air outfit being too much like some politicians, run once a year. (6) The city council meet at least once a year in each ward to learn first hand its needs. (7) The best person in each ward elected to represent the people, instead of the politicians. (8) A real live deputy fire warden on the job once in a while. (9) An effort made to locate an industry in West Peabody to give the young women and men employment near home. (10) More unselfish and thoughtful boosters, interested in the welfare of others, here and hereafter. (11) The Newburyport Turnpike finished before the present generation are all dead. (12) The streets now used as detours repaired by the state. (13) Light motor trains, run on two or three hour time, on our steam lines, by same management. (14) Heavier tax on idle land, and lighter on small homes. (15) Work for all, and all working, preference to the sober and deserving. (16) More brotherly love instead of neighborly clubs.

Yours for a square deal,

GILBERT E. LAME.

West Peabody, June 14, 1921.

Old Tanners Held Council On Boston St.

Old time leather manufacturers of Peabody are practically extinct, but there are many of the craft of today who will be interested in the following story of the earlier days of leather making in Peabody and Salem. The article taken from the Shoe and Leather Reporter of Sept. 5, 1907, is as follows:

"Old Time Senate"

"There is probably no single industry in the way of tanning and finishing upper leather where so many changes have taken place both in the kinds of leather made, and in the personnel of those engaged in the leather business thirty years ago. In 1880 there were 66 tanners and curriers of heavy wax, kip and split leather in Salem, Mass. In Peabody there were 40 and 16 morocco tanners. In Woburn there were 21, 8 in Winchester and 4 in Stoneham. There are comparatively few leather merchants and shoe manufacturers who can recall the name of Austin, Braden, Culliton, Dalton, Dugan, Osgood, Frye, Gibney, Harrington, Haskell, Walden, Lord, Poor, Riley, Varney, Weston, Brown, Caller, Osborn, Pinder Winchester, Proctor, Wilson, Tidd, Maxwell ,Moseley and many other tanners, most of whom, have passed away.

Nearly all of them made the heavy upper leather which was principally taken by boot, brogan and plow manufacturers in Hopkinton, Holliston, Natick, Cochituate, Brookfield, Medway and Worcester. All these old time tanners worked out a long apprenticeship in the tan yards and currying shops and eventually became tanners and curriers on their own account. They were honorable merchants in all their dealings, and simple in their taste and method of living. The old building of Joshua B. Grant on Boston street, where curriers' tools were sold, was the resort of a large number of the old Salem tanners, and it was named the "Senate." Here they congregated every morning and talked over matters of vital interest, and many knotty problems were brought up for discussion and settlement.

The first tanner to arrive in the morning opened the store and built the fire in the winter, and the last to leave locked up the store. The old tanners of Peabody, Winchester and Woburn were of the same class of merchants, who were brought up in the hard school of privation, but they were full of energy, thrift and ambition and during their career many of them achieved success and an ample competence. Many of them lived to a good old age. They did not, however, readily adapt themselves to the change of conditions. They looked upon everything new as an innovation on time honored customs. They had made heavy leather all their lives and knew and cared for no other. The introduction of buff, satin, glove grain and kindred leather did not appeal to them and gradually their business declined and was diverted into other channels and younger hands.

The last of these Salem and Peabody tanners of 40 years ago has passed away, but new enterprises have succeeded them and more value in leather is made in Peabody and of greater variety than ever before.

New Methods Introduced

New methods have been introduced and the business has been simplified by the installation of every modern device known to the trade. This has been made possible by the inventive genius and skill of inventors and artisans who have given much thought and study to the requirements of the times, and machinery is doing the hard and laborious work once done by hand labor. The tannery workmen are thoroughly skilled in their respective calling and the product of the factories challenges the admiration of the world."

SOUTH SCHOOL PRESENTS REAL INDIAN DRAMA

The "Law of the Tribe," presented on Wednesday evening by the seventh and eighth grade pupils of the South school was most enjoyable and the children deserve a great deal of credit for the splendid way in which the various character parts were given. A large audience was present and as a result a good sum will be added to the school fund for athletics. Following is a list of those who participated:

Players—Lena Osgood, Julia Arpin, Rose Duchene, Dorothy LaCombe, Gladys LeCain, Thelma McGregor, Mary McKeen, Catherine McMahon, Sadie Rosen, Elinor Hobbs, Weenonah, Doris Knights, Talutah, Alice Coombs, Minnewawa; Mary Collins, Indian dancer; Crooked Horn, an old Indian, James Dee; Withered Elm, squaw of Crooked Horn, Edith Hames; Mineola, their granddaughter, Pauline Bakeman; Brown Deer, a young brave, Lawrence Reed; White Eagle, chief of the tribe, George Hodgdon; councilmen of the tribe—Owls Head, Arnold Gilmour; Grey Wing, Raymond Doyle; Running Fox, Howard Gregson; Broken Beak, Bernard DeLap; runners of the tribe—Fleet Foot, Herman Raddin; Stepping Stone, Sylvia Labrie; Spotted Elk, George Stewart; medicine man—Bitter Root, Wilbur Perkins; executioners—Black Crow, George Stewart; Big Snake, Herman Raddin; Indian children, William Begg and Ethel Howard.

PEABODY GIRL IS JUNE BRIDE OF SALEM MAN

The marriage of Miss Marion Doyle of this city and J. Frank McLaughlin of Salem was solemnized at 7 o'clock, Wednesday evening, at St. John's Church, Rev. P. J. Sullivan officiating. The bride was becomingly gowned in ecru georgette with hat of ecru lace straw and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Louise Doyle, who wore old rose georgette and carried pink roses. The best man was Richard O'Keefe of Salem.

The bridal party left the church to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Margaret Griffin. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Doyle, 6 King street, which was attended by about 75 relatives and friends. During the evening the guests were entertained by musical selections reendered by Gove's orchestra and were served with refreshments by Schlehuber of Lynn. The house was prettily decorated with palms and cut flowers, and the gift room, where the many beautiful and useful presents were displayed was in charge of Miss Mae Carney of Salem. Mrs. Arthur W. Doyle of Salem was in charge of the punch bowl.

A DELIGHTFUL OUTING

The members of St. John's high school class of '21 were given a delightful outing on Wednesday, when as guests of the pastor, Rev. T. P. McGinn, they went to Plymouth and visited its many places of historic interest. The trip was made in autos and dinner was enjoyed at Plymouth Inn.

Good Advice.

"When some one heaves a rock at you," said Uncle Eben, "don't was'e time heavin' it back. Keep climbin' an' use it for a steppin' stone."

Battleship Nine At Union Picnic

A ball team from the Battleship Utah will play a picked team of Peabody men at the Union church picnic tomorrow at Idlewood Lake. In the local team will be Ernie and Roy Gourley, Chester Allen, Mel Hallowell and other stars who formerly graced the baseball diamond. The picnic will see a big crowd in attendance.

Automobiles will leave Peabody Square at 8.30 sharp for the run down to Idlewood and Chairman George Abbott has arranged for a special truck to leave Peabody at 12.30 to accommodate the men and women who cannot get down earlier.

A list of sports is arranged for the day. The baseball game will be at 2 o'clock and should prove highly interesting. The Old Timers are brushing up on the hit and run game, and promise to surprise the fans.

IN GOD'S NAME

Peabody is called on to pledge $30,000 as its quota for the North Shore Babies' Hospital campaign which opened in this district yesterday for a period of 10 days. This city ranks third in the number of days' treatment accorded to babies. The hospital is the child of a group of Peabody men and women some years ago, and these same noble men and women together with Peabody physicians are still promoting the hospital service. It is true that local business conditions might be better, but the method of paying the installments in subscriptions covering two and a half years certainly helps to offset the influence of present business and permits all friends of the babies to help this worthy project. It cost $10,000 to run the hospital last year, and mothers whose sick babies were clutched from death at his hospital were able to pay $97 toward this $10,000. No mother is required to pay who cannot afford to pay a single cent. The hospital recognizes no class, creed or color in its humanitarian effort to succor little babies. No other hospital in Essex county can handle babies, and the demands on the present hospital at Ropes Point, Salem, is such that the plan of building an addition to keep the hospital open the year around is deemed necessary. Peabody men and women will undoubtedly get squarely behind the local campaign and do their big part to insure the success of this institution. In God's name, let us help these sick babies and give them a chance to live.

OUR DEBT TO OUR SOLDIERS

(Contributed)

Can we ever repay the debt we owe our heroes, living and dead, of past wars and of the World War? No, a thousand times, no! Their service to us was not for the "duration of the war," but for all time. I fear that many forget what our boys gave up for us, some forever, and of those who are left many are crippled, some even worse, insane, with little hope of recovery! Can we ever pay with money such a debt? And yet there are those who are opposed to such bills as the Soldiers' Bonus measure and others. Many of those are doubtless people who had not boys of their own fighting for their country, homes, and dear ones. Yet each boy was sacrificing his life for each and every one of us, even if we were not related by ties of blood. Each boy who left home did not know whether he would ever see his dear ones again, yet he went willingly, gladly. Even though some returned, their lives were changed, and it will be years before many will be able to regain much that was lost to them by going away. How readily many heap flowers on the biers of dead heroes, yet it were more to our credit to do honor to the noble dead by helping the needy living heroes. We can do that in many ways, and above all, let each soldier feel that we do not forget the debt we still owe him, even though the actual fighting has ceased. What sacrifices we have made for them in the past, and may be now, sink into significance, when we think of the terrible sacrifices they made to preserve our nation, our homes and our honor. All honor should be accorded those who wear medals of bravery, yet there are many who wear no medals, who are heroes, too. The boys who did not go across should not be made to feel that they did less than the others, for they were giving of their best here, and were ready and willing to go across the seas when the orders came. The fact that they were here, gave courage to the boys across, knowing that there were others back home to help if worst came to worst. Therefore, it behooves all of us to help the boys' cause along with money, and giving of ourselves in order to make them feel that their sacrifices were not in vain. Those who have little of the world's wealth can help in many ways. They may be misunderstood, but if their hearts are right, our boys will accept their loyalty in the true spirit it is given.

PEABODY FIRST

Peabody is no different as regards shopping at home than any other community. Out of town people journey to Peabody to shop, Peabody people pass by their own shops on the way to Salem, Lynn and Boston to trade, while Salem and Lynn people crowd into Boston stores to buy their necessaries of life. A great many Boston people are glad to shop in any of the smaller cities, claiming that they receive better service and prices than at home. Shopping away from home, therefore, seems to be a state of mind rather than being based on real reasoning. This is a plea for Peabody first in the matter of buying household goods and the necessities and luxuries of life. The out-of-town shopper receives absolutely nothing in return for his trip outside the city than what he pays for. He goes to the time and expense of his trip, which, if added to the cost of his purchase, often makes considerable difference in the price of the articles bought. When he trades in the city, he makes it possible for the local merchant to turn over his stock more quickly, enables him to carry larger and more varied lines, brings down the margin of profit required for the merchant to do business on, all of which goes to return part of the mone paid the local storekeepers back to the citizens of Peabody later on. The haphazard method of buying is expensive to any family. Strict economy was never more necessary than it is in the troublesome times of today, when work is scarce and prices on many things are still among the clouds. If every family would form the habit of "Peabody first" when buying, thousands of dollars would be saved annually to Peabody people. This week the merchants are holding a "Boost Peabody" sale. It is a good time to start forming the habit of trading at home.

Herald O'Ks Enterprise

By ENERGY

The following editorial in the Boston Herald this week bears out what I have been preaching for many weeks back, and this article shows conclusively what will happen, and gives the story in such a clear manner as to bear being published by the Enterprise.

Our Shoe Industry Threatened

Has Massachusetts lost its leadership in the shoe industry? Is it to lose this industry?

These questions disturb every shoe manufacturer in the State. They particularly disturb the manufacturers in Lynn, where the problem has come to a crisis.

The trend of this industry has been away from Massachusetts during the last year. In the specific case of Lynn, maker of women's shoes, this trend has now become sharply accelerated by the refusal of the leaders in the United Shoe Trades and the Allied Shoe Trades' locals to surrender the war bonus which has been operative in Lynn factories since 1918.

Note the figures for the last five years, as tabulated by the Lynn Chamber of Commerce. It states that from 1914 to 1919 the number of shoe manufacturing firms in Massachusetts increased only from 474 to 488. During the same period the increase in New York was from 235 to 336.

During that period the increase in the country's shoe output was large. The increase in value of that output increased enormously. The total output for the country in 1914 was 292,666,500 pairs; in 1919 it was 329,528,900 pairs—an increase of about 10 per cent. The value of the output increased from $501,707,900 in 1914 to $1,152,016,000 in 1919—an increase of about 100 per cent.

Massachusetts' position in this industry has been important. In 1919 we had 488 shoemaking establishments out of the country's total of 1441. The value of the Lynn shoe output for 1920 was $75,000,000. There are about 135 factories now in that city. There are around 15,000 persons directly employed in the Lynn shoe shops. About as many more are employed in allied industries. Many more do business because of the presence and activity of these factories.

In 1918 an agreement was reached by the Manufacturers' Association, the United Shoe Trades and the Allied Shoe Trades, by which employes in the shoe factories were to receive a bonus amounting to from 17 to 20 per cent. of their earnings. This agreement originally included 60 out of the 135 or so Lynn shops; but these 60 manufactured 80 per cent. of the total Lynn shoe output. Of course, the rest of the factories fell into line. The bonus, established to stimulate watrime production, became fixed. It was at first profitable to employes and manufacturers alike.

When the war stimulation departed, Lynn shoemakers were perplexed for profits. Novelty shoes—called in the trade "millinery shoes"—were offered; and in the era of free spending there was a brisk market for these. Business hummed. The bonus did not prevent profits.

The Lynn shoe manufacturers have run smash against this obstacle: The shoe unions refuse to surrender the bonus. There exists an agreement between the unions and the manufacturers which can be altered only by mutual agreement; this agreement runs until June, 1922. As the unions insist on retaining the 20 per cent. bonus, it must remain until that date.

This means that the great shoe industry of Lynn is handicapped by an excess of 20 per cent. in production cost in competition with other shoe manufacturing centres.

Thus Lynn is facing the most calamity in its history, not excepting the big fire. It would seem to me that common sense should form a part of the labor unions vocabulary, and if the facts as presented, are found to be true after digging into the matter thoroughly, something should be done and done darn quick, for when the cow gets out of the pasture, it takes some time to get her back, and there have been cases when she never came back.

Nests in the Dark.

Prairie-owls select the deserted burrows of the prairie-dogs; Chimney swifts construct their nests far down in dark sooty chimneys, says the American Forestry Magazine, while woodpeckers constitute other familiar examples of this, as do a vast host of other species of birds all over the world.

The first steamer to reach Labrador this month after the dong cold winter months of the North will bring added pleasures to Philip Hunt, war veteran of France, and son of H. V. Hunt of this city. The former Peabody boy has been in the far north country for nearly a year engaged in the export business and his letters home, which have been carried by dog sleds over miles of ice and snow, have told of his enjoying the below zero weather.

* * * *

I observed that the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. trucks were carrying banners, "Promote Peabody, Trade at Home" this week, calling attention to the three days' sale of the Peabody merchants which opened yesterday and close tomorrow night. It was another proof that the big leather concern stands ready to help advance the interests of Peabody. The A. H. Whidden & Son, Roger H. Smith, A. P. Sillars and others also displayed the banners on their motor trucks.

Many Peabody Enterprise readers will rejoice with Harry S. Pyne and wife on their silver wedding anniversary, which occurs tomorrow, and will wish them many happy years to come. Mr. Pyne, senior member of the firm, Pyne & Smith, is well known throughout the city. He served as a member of the school board and the teachers found him to be their friend. He has recently become a resident of South Peabody, where he has a pretty home on Beacon Boulevard.

* * * *

I have heard numerous compliments for President Frank H. Sanger of the Chamber of Commerce for his initiative which resulted in the War Department promising the local Chamber that it would appoint a medical examiner in Peabody for the benefit of sick and disabled war veterans. The Chamber was not asked by the American Legion boys or any local physician to take up the matter, but did so feeling that an injustice was being done first to our local war veterans and secondly a slight made against Peabody doctors and the Thomas hospital. Pres. Sanger is deserving of credit for the Chamber's part in this affair.

* * * *

I heard of a well-known Peabody war veteran this week who took his turn in the draft and went overseas, returning home with a record of much fighting. He appeared before the draft board and the following conversation ensued: "I have a father who requires my financial support, owing to his infirmity. I don't want to claim exemption on that ground, nor will I if I can be assured my father will be taken care of in my absence." Judge Fay, a member of the Draft Board, assured this Peabody man that the father would not be forgotten. I wish I could use the name of this war veteran, for he was a real patriot. Suffice it to say, he is a well-known man in the employ of the A .C. Lawrence Leather Co., which firm is probably not blind to the kind of man he is. Some day the identity of this man may become known.

John Meagher, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Peabody Rotary Club, is responsible for the best entertainment the club has ever had. Tuesday evening he secured the services of Miss Gertrude Crosby, a Boston professional, who gave the guests of the dinner a high class Keith circuit program.

NATION'S BIRTHDAY
by
Duncan M. Smith

All hail the day we celebrate
From early in the morning
Until when dark has closed around
The midnight bell gives warning.
We celebrate till we are worn
In body, mind and pocket,
The firecracker gaily shoot
And send aloft the rocket.

The day on which our fathers signed
The thrilling Declaration
And gave unto the waiting world
A pretty, brand-new nation.
The day we notified John Bull,
That stamp and tea-tax grafter,
That we would run our little show
Without his aid hereafter.

The day we launched the ship of state
With noisy speechifying
The forces of the mother land
In stringent tones defying,
And told ourselves we were grown up
And fully one and twenty
And what we'd do to anyone
Objecting, would be plenty.

Then let the voice we lift be not
Enfeebled or half hearted,
Show we appreciate the men
Who got this business started
And let us raise aloft the flag
With starry emblem clustered
For this is one of those rare days
That cuts a lot of mustard.

ASKS INDEPENDENCE WITH OR WITHOUT PROTECTION

Manuel L. Quezon
President Philippine Senate

Manila, P. I. — The people of the Philippines want independence in whatever form they can get it, Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, declared in an address before that body.

"Let the Americans in the Philippines and those in the United States know that the people of the Philippines covet their freedom, liberty and political emancipation so much that they will not hesitate to receive from the Congress of the United States complete and absolute independence without protection," Quezon said.

"If the United States, dictated by its own interests, decides to extend protection to the Philippines, well and good. We would accept that as a solution of our problems. If not, let us have absolute independence in whatever form we can get it."

President Quezon declared that if the question were put before the Filipinos for a vote, 98 per cent would favor absolute independence.

A TEST OF FAITH

(Chattanooga News.)

We have frequent occasion to protest against the efforts of Japan to impose her dominion upon unwilling peoples, yet we have thus far failed to exemplify the ideals which we recommend to Japan. If we should withdraw our sovereignty from the Philippines, in accordance with our repeated promises, we could the more consistently ask Japan to follow a similar course toward Shantung, Manchuria and Siberia. Our plea would have a great deal more force if we could make it with clean hands. To say that the Philippines are not ready for independence is merely to express an arbitrary, gratuitous opinion. It is perfectly easy to create conditions—in one's own mind—that no people ever could comply with. Our delay about respecting our own pledge is a reflection on our national good faith and a constant invitation to international complications in the far east.

INDEPENDENCE OF PHILIPPINES

(Atascadero (Cal.) News.)

The Philippines should be given absolute independence, which is their natural right, even if we are well aware that they have not yet reached the full stature of Americanism. We ourselves have not reached it so long as we insist upon governing other peoples against their will.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

John G. Emery, the new national commander of the American Legion, hails from Grand Rapids, Mich. He was born on the Fourth of July 40 years ago. His election, which was by acclamation of the National executive committee, took place at the National headquarters at Indianapolis. At the same time Thomas J. Bannigan of Hartford, Conn., was elected vice commander, succeeding Mr. Emery, who now fills the vacancy caused by the death of F. W. Galbraith, Jr.

Mr. Emery is a real estate operator. He has served as president of the Grand Rapids Real Estate Board and as one of the commissioners of that city. He is president of the First Division Club. His military record dates from his entrance to the Second Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., August 27, 1917. He attended various schools in France and was assigned to the 18th Infantry of the First Division. He commanded F Company of this regiment in the Montdidier-Noyon and Ainse-Marne offensives and became a major September 1, 1918, following the St. Mihiel and Argonne offensives. He was severely wounded by shell fire October 9, and was immediately sent to the United States. He was discharged from the hospital and from the army March 31, 1919. He has been active in the American Legion affairs ever since.

Mr. Bannigan, the new vice-commander, has served as adjutant of the Connecticut department of the American Legion three years. During the war he served as a captain. He is a member of the Legion's national committee on war risk insurance and compensation.

George K. Manos, proprietor of the Greek Candy Kitchen at Jasper, Ind., a member of the American Legion, humiliated Peter Sturgis, a professional wrestler, known as the "masked marvel," at Jasper recently. The "masked marvel" came to town with the boast that no wrestler could "stay with him five minutes without getting pinned." Manos, who had been coached by members of his Legion post, accepted the challenge and not only remained with the "marvel" five minutes, but hurled his opponent over his head and floored him squarely. After the victory the "masked marvel" sent his wrestling partner to meet Manos. The Legionnaire threw him with even less difficulty.

Refusal to admit a one-legged overseas veteran to the swimming tank at a New Jersey amusement place recently aroused the indignation of a crowd of amusement seekers, who demanded the veteran's admission. Commander E. H. DeLany, a retired naval officer, was present when the crippled soldier gruffly turned away by the ticket seller. DeLany appealed to the manager of the park and the latter explained that a clause the insurance contract against accidents made it impossible to admit any legless or armless person to the tank. LeLany believes the insurance contracts of amusement parks should be changed to give crippeld soldiers free access.

Rev. John W. Inzer, national chaplain of the American Legion, has begun a six weeks' speaking tour on which he will speak chiefly upon the subjects of Americanization and citizenship. The following cities are included in his itinerary: Nashville, Memphis and Jackson, Tenn. ;Little Rock and Pine Bluff, Ark.; San Antonio, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abeline, Texas; Oklahoma City; Los Angeles; San Diego; San Francisco; Portland, Ore.; Salt Lake City; Denver; Topeka; Kansas City, Mo.; and Paducah, Ky.

General Pershing, in a recent address at a banquet in his honor at Lincoln, Neb., said that "no plan for future preparedness can be carried out without the support of the American Legion." The general subject of the toasts was "National Preparedness." Among the speakers were: Chancellor Avery of the University of Nebraska; Earl Cline, past state commander of the American Legion; Gen. Omar Bundy, commander of the Seventh Army Corps, and Robert G. Simmons, department commander of the American Legion.

The American Legion Employment Bureau at Los Angeles obtained employmtnt for 1562 former soldiers and sailors during the month of May. This number is about 500 less than the jobs obtained for former service men in April, but the reduction is ascribed to the continued bad weather in May and the marine strike.

The banquet and reunion of St. John's Alumnae held in K. of C. hall last Monday was voted the "best ever" by the members. Guests of the evening were Rev. T. P. McGinn, Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy, Rev. C .D. McInnis, His Honor Mayor Shea and Hon. Thomas A. Mullen of Boston, who delivered an eloquent address. The guests of honor were the 14 young ladies who were graduated from St. John's high school on Sunday. The general round of "toasts" were given, community singing was enjoyed and solos by Mrs. W. J. Mullen and Mrs. Alicia McNiff were greatly appreciated. The president, Miss Helen M. O'Rourke, presided, and Miss Helen H. Wollahan proved a clever toastmistress.

WHY ADVERTISING PAYS

If people did not move away and some die—
If new generations did not grow up—
If competitors did not compete—
If people were not receptive to new ideas—
Then—
And only then—
Would there be no need for advertising.
Because of changing business conditions—
Fluctuations in wages—
And the natural aggressiveness and progressiveness of the normal man—
He is your prospective buyer today who could not use or afford your product yesterday.

These were the reasons pointed out recently by a well known sales manager of a large corporation on why it is imperative that advertising be CONSISTENT AND REGULAR.—Exchange.

Objectors in the Bleachery district are hereby notified that the playground commission is plannng to tear down the grand stand located on that playground and use the material for building seats. George F. Gill will be pleased to meet anyone interested in the grand stand before July 1st.

Notice has been sent to the commanding officer of the Artillery at Salem requesting him to put a stop to the riding of horses on the grass ground at Emerson Park.

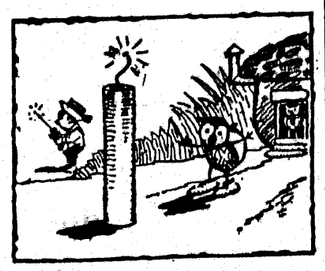
State house at Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was adopted, now known as Independence Hall.—From a Contemporary Print.

FOURTH OF JULY, 1776, REAL DATE OF DECLARATION

Dispute has arisen at times as to whether July 2 or July 4 should be observed as Independence day. It will be seen by the following quotation from "The American Revolution," written by John Fiske and published by Houghton, Mifflin company, that the Declaration of Independence was resolved upon July 2, but was not put into form and finally adopted until the evening of July 4.



On the 1st of July, 1776, congress resolved itself into a committee of the whole, to "take into consideration the resolution respecting independency." As Richard Henry Lee was absent, John Adams, who had seconded the motion, was called upon to defend it, which he did in a powerful speech. He was ably opposed by John Dickinson, who urged that the country ought not to be rashly committed to a position, to recede from which would be infamous, while to persist in it might entail certain ruin. A declaration of independence would not strengthen the resources of the country by a single regiment or a single cask of powder, while it would shut the door upon all hope of accommodation with Great Britain.

That there was weight in these considerations was shown only too plainly by subsequent events. But the argument as a whole was open to the fatal objection that if the American people were to wait for these questions to be settled before taking a decisive step, they would never be able to take a decisive step at all. Independent action on the part of all the colonies except New York had now become an accomplished fact. All were really in rebellion, and their cause could not fail to gain in dignity and strength by announcing itself to the world in its true character. Such was now the general feeling of the committee. When the question was put to vote, the New York delegates were excused, as they had not sufficient instructions. Of the three delegates from Delaware, one was absent, one voted yea, and one nay, so that the vote of the colony was lost. Pennsylvania declared in the negative by four votes against three. South Carolina also declared in the negative, but with the intimation from Edward Rutledge that it might not unlikely reverse its vote, in deference to the majority. The other nine colonies all voted in the affirmative, and the resolution was reported as agreed to by a two-thirds vote. On the next day, when the vote was formally taken in regular session of congress, the Delaware members were all present, and the affirmative vote of that colony was secured; Dickinson and Morris stayed away, thus reversing the vote of Pennsylvania; and the South Carolina members changed for the sake of unanimity.

Thus was the Declaration of Independence at last resolved upon, by the unanimous vote of twelve colonies, on the 2nd of July, 1776; and this work having been done, congress at once went into committee of the whole, to consider the form of declaration which should be adopted. Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert Livingston were the members of a committee to draw up the declaration, and Jefferson, as representing the colony which had introduced the resolution of independence, was chosen to be the author of the declaration.

On the evening of the 4th of July, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was unanimously adopted by twelve colonies, the delegation from New York still remaining unable to act. But the acquiescence of that colony was so generally counted upon that there was no drawback to the exultation of the people. All over the country the declaration was received with bonfires, with the ringing of bells and the firing of guns, and with torchlight processions.

'Energy' Gives Early History Of Leather Art

was said that Marblehead derived his name because of the hardness of his head, and no doubt boneheaded, solid ivory, was handed down to our generation because of this beginning.

—*—

After getting the bark, the problem of grinding it seemed difficult. But Marblehead had a large mouth, and his teeth had been manicured before his departure from the fatherland. So through that marble dome eminated the brilliant idea that he could chew the bark and with the warm saliva and frequent expectorating, he was able to produce a cord of bark a day prepared just right for spreading on the hides. The Indians being expert with the bow and arrow shot the kernels of bark on the hides spreading them evenly which made a hit with Danvers.

—*—

The market for his finished product was a problem. He could ship the leather to England but freight rates were even higher than at the present time. He must find a market in America and so he bartered with the Indians by exchanging leather for scalps, navajo blankets and baskets. He could ship these even at a high cost to England and being something different than his people had ever seen the demand was extraordinary. This tempted the Englishmen to build ocean liners, another point in history.

—*—

Danvers fell in love. History does not tell us how far he fell, but during his married life Mrs. Danvers, whose maiden name was Swampscott, gave him 23 boys which was a small family in those days and created a suspicion he was not doing his duty. Those sons with the smell of the beam house on their persons attracted the Indian maidens and a special parson was imported to do the tieing and became immensely wealthy on the tips received. Tracing the descendents today, it has been discovered that the wildness of many youths can be attributed to the Indian blood of the Danvers family.

—*—

But we of Danvers, South Danvers and Peabody, must be thankful for what South Danvers did for us. His discovery of Spring Pond, the dumping of the hair from the hides near Craig Pond, also hide pieces, made it possible for the American Glue Co., Densten Hair Co. and Tanner's Product to be with us. While he did not make the 57 varieties of today, his natural grain finish and bear skin copied from the Indians made a hit with his countrymen.

—*—

No wonder our city was named after this man. No wonder we have a Marblehead and Salem, for, but for these hardy voyagers we would still be in England without coal and working for minus a day. All hail South Danvers, now Peabody.

75-Foot Barrel Stack Will Usher In Peabody's Big Fourth

75-FOOT STACK TO USHER IN FOURTH OF JULY

Peabody will usher in the nation's anniversary of Independence Day with two bonfires at the stroke of 12 on Sunday night. The biggest bonfire in the entire district will be at the East-end playground and West Peabody citizens will have a big bonfire near Martin's field facing the West school. Bands will play patriotic music at both places.

The city will appropriate $1300 for the proper observance of July Fourth and Mayor William A. Shea has provided for all sections of the city to the satisfaction of all promoters of the day's observance in this city. Mayor Shea and members of the City Council will parade from City Hall at 8 o'clock Sunday evening to the East-end playground where a band concert will be given until midnight.

The Bleachery Improvement Club is to fittingly dedicate Quinlan Square, named in honor of William Quinlan, former resident of Dane street who died in service. This ceremony will take place on the holiday.

South Peabody citizens will have two baseball games during the morning of the Fourth and a program of field sports in the afternoon.

West Peabody citizens, following the bonfire, will open a midway which will keep the citizens furnished with refreshments, and at 10 o'clock there will be field sports with a baseball game in the afternoon and dancing free in West hall during the evening. An entertainment will be staged outdoors early in the evening before the dancing begins. T. Hadley Sawyer has charge of the sports for the West Peabody celebration. The executive committee is composed of Charles Whitehouse, chairman, Ralph Barr, Walter Southwick, Grafton Therrault,

SHAKE-UP IN NIGHT POLICE

The biggest shake-up in Peabody police circles for many eyars is announced by Chief Michael H. Grady today with most all of his night officers going onto new beats this evening.

Chief Grady declares he is determined to put a stop to the practice of his night men presiding over conventions at street corners when they ought to be watching for malefactors and speed maniacs who tear through their districts in automobiles. The shake-up is entirely the doing of Chief Gady in his desire to increase the efficiency of his night force.

The only night officers not switched from their present beats are John McBride and P. Joseph McHugh, who are stationed in Peabody Square and Main street, doing a good job, and Thomas Doyle, custodian of the Walnut street district.

Patrolman William Hingston is to cover the Quinlan Square (Bleachery) beat, which has long been covered by Patrolman Thomas Masterson. Patrolman Martin Quinlan will go from Lowell street to lower Main street. His beat will be covered by Patrolman Patrick Noonan, who has been stationed in Wilson Square territory. Patrolman Richard Dullea will relinquish his beat on lower Main street and make the acquaintances of the good folk who reside in the vicinity

PEABODY WOMEN WORKING HARD TO HELP BABIES HOSPITAL FUND

The championship banner for the largest amount of subscriptions submitted in a single report by any team of women workers outside of Salem in the appeal for the North Shore Babies' Hospital fund was wrested from the women of Danvers at Wednesday night's meeting of the campaign organization in Salem, by the group of workers headed by Mrs. J. B. Palmer, who reported subscriptions totaling $1018.

The total report of all Peabody workers at this meeting was $3868, credited to five teams, the Peabody executive committee reporting $1200.

With the knowledge that their work is known to and endorsed by President Warren G. Harding, members of the building fund committee are pushing the campaign with vigor in al sections of the North Shore. Almost the full membership of the committee is at work presenting the appeal, and a substantial gain in the fund to give the North Shore a strong body of men and women for its citizens of tomorrow is predicted when the workers gather in Salem tonight to report subscriptions obtained.

The campaign got its real beginning with the reading of President Harding's letter of endorsement at Wednesday's rally in Salem. This was coincident with the report of the subscription of $21,819 to the fund by 1401 North Shore citizens. This addi-

BRICK CONCERN WILL ERECT BIG PLANT NEAR FOX HILL

The Adamantex Brick Co. of New York City is closing a deal for the purchase of land on Fox Hill in the rear of Summit street where it will erect a manufacturing plant to turn out concrete bricks for the building trade. The land is now owned by Warren D. King, manager of the Electric Light plant. The proposed plant will bring a new industry to Peabody, due in a measure to the activity of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce.

The parent concern has taken out corporation papers in Massachusetts and plans to begin work on its proposed plant in the near future.

Capt. Osborn Palmer has been named engineer for the new concern and will have charge of the erection of the plant. He will spend a few weeks at the main plant of the concern in Brooklyn, studying the construction of the concern's plant in that city.

CAPT. OSBORN PALMER

Mr. Palmer, recognizing the inevitable appearance and future possibilities of concrete applied to brick form, on his own initiative, has carried out extensive experiments within the last few years. The advent of the Adamantex brick fulfills his predicted expectations and he undertakes his work with enthusiastic confidence.

It is through the activities of Walter N. Stiles of Swampscott that the Adamantex brick comes to Peabody. Mr. Stiles, as vice president of the company, is building the organization and acquainting the business men of this city of the advantages of this new building material, which will be manufactured at their doors and delivered directly to their building jobs.

TEDFORD—RISTEEN

The marriage of Miss Clara B. Risteen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Risteen of 51 Pierpont street, and J. Howard Tedford, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tedford, 151 Lynnfield street, was solemnized on Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. C. N. Bartlett, pastor of the First Baptist church. The reception immediately followed the ceremony and the couple received under a shower bell suspended from the arch of roses.

Mrs. Howard A. James, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. The groom was attended by Elden H. Risteen, brother of the bride. The ushers were Wilfred R. Risteen, brother of the bride, and Ernest and Arthur Tedford, brothers of the groom. The guest book was in charge of Miss Helen E. MacKinnon, cousin of the bride. The gift room was in charge of Mrs. Wilfred Risteen, and the punch bowl was in charge of Mrs. Elden Risteen. Miss Isabel MacKinnon, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. Misses Florence and Mae MacKinnon, cousins of the bride, and Miss Bernice Watson, cousin of the groom, served. There were many presents.

Gilmore Weds Miss Doyle of Manchester

Joseph M. Gilmore, principal of the South school, and Miss Mary A. Doyle, secretary of the Manchester, N. H., Chamber of Commerce, were married at St. Anne's church, in the latter city, last Monday, in the presence of their many friends. Rev. John J. Lyons, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude L. Doyle, sister of the bride, and the best man was James E. Gilmore, brother of the groom. The double ring service was used. A reception which followed the wedding ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. Peabody people to attend the nuptials were Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Doyle, Mrs. M. J. Gilmore, mother of the groom, Miss Cecilia Gilmore, Thomas Gilmore, James E. Gilmore, Philip C. O'Rourke, Richard J. O'Rourke, Harold G. Dunney, M. W. Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Doherty.

The Manchester Leader, which carried a picture of the pretty bride, said in part:

"Displayed at the family home was a large array of wedding presents of exclusive taste and value. They included many rare gifts of silver, cut glass and exquisite furniture. Among them were personal gifts, which will be highly prized by the bride, from officials and other members of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, whose interests she has faithfully and efficiently served for the past two years as clerk and stenographer."

Mr. Gilmore is playground superintendent at Peterboro, N. H., where he and his bride will spend the summer before their return to Peabody in September.

Patents Have Biggest Call

A decline in new sole leather orders for immediate delivery is noted in the Eastern markets. This is especially true of women's weight leather. Sales of heavy leather for men's shoes are fair, following increased activity in these factories at Boston and Chicago, hemlock and union offal trading is limited. Philadelphia and Chicago report more interest in union shoulders. New oak sole business at Philadelphia and Boston is slow. Tanners are delivering stock against back orders. Prices are therefore steady. Philadelphia and Boston tanners note an improved demand for rough double shoulders and oak bellies. Rough double shoulders have stiffened in price. Welting prices have advanced slightly, following the stronger shoulder market. Side upper leather is still slow in the East. Makers of medium and low grade footwear are picking up bargain lots. There is an increased demand in Chicago for medium and light shades of side upper stock. Slight advances in some selections have been noted. New calf business is slow in Boston. Cherry red shades are in some cases over sold. A number of tanners are experimenting on this shade. Patent leather demand continues good. Domestic as well as export buyers want the better grades which are in short supply. In Philadelphia export business has been lost because of lack of stock. Better grades of glazed kid are in demand. Prices are strengthening. In Philadelphia buyers are making purchases for August and September delivery. Tanners are doing a good business with St. Louis buyers.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Camp Devens Training Tour

Peabody is likely to be represented by its young men at the citizens' military training camp at Camp Devens during the month of August. Several interesting courses are prescribed for aspirants from 16 to 35 years old, 19 to 35 and 21 to 35 years. Full particulars for enrollment may be obtained by addressing the Procurement Officer, 99 Chauncey St., Boston. Only boys and men of good moral character will be enrolled for the training.

India's Fighting Sports.

In no other country has so much attention been given to the preparing and training of beasts and birds for fighting as in India. Rams, buffaloes, elephants, rhinoceroses, camels, stallions and even the gazelle, which, although famed for its gentle nature, is a pretty pugnacious little chap when aroused, have been matched against one another for the entertainment of rajahs and their subjects. And as novelties a crocodile would be matched against a tiger and a serpent against a boar.

"Jointed Snake" Really Lizard.

The glass, or so-called jointed snake, is really a lizard. When handled roughly the tail portion will break into two or three pieces. Contrary to superstition, these pieces will not unite with the body again, though a rudimentary tail is sometimes developed after the first one is lost.

MUCH CREDIT DUE MISS BERRY'S AID

The awarding of so many prizes to Peabody boys and girls for posters submitted in the North Shore Babies' Hospital campaign is largely to the credit of Miss Alice H. Berry, supervisor of drawing in the grammar schools of this city. There were 40 posters submitted by boys and girls who had been taught drawing by Miss Berry. Eight posters were drawn by High school students, three being awarded prizes, two being first prizes. Miss Berry has taught drawing here for the past five years, and the posters which were chosen by the judges, constitute a pleasing testimonial to her ability as an instrucor. Miss Grace Loud is drawing instructor in the High school, and she, too, has reason to feel elated at the success which was won by three of the students under her direction. Peabody is fortunate in having two such capable teachers.

TOPSFIELD FAIR

The annual fair of the Essex Agricultural Society will be held at Topsfield on Sept. 23 and 24, and preparations are being made to make this the 100th anniversary of the society, a banner affair. Walter H. Brown of this city is one of executive committee. The only thing against project being a great success, is its location. Topsfield train accommodations are practically nil, and auto travel doesn't yield the attendance a more central location would.

Leather Dealers Should Study Shoe Business

Editor Peabody Enterprise:

Since Peabody is a leather town, it depends upon the shoe industry to the largest possible extent. And because of this it may be well to look into the development of shoemaking, with a view to discover just what change is taking place in that industry.

The first thing a business man needs is information. He cannot get too much of it and especially when this information pertains to his business. If he is making leather he wants to know what is happening in the shoe trade, and if he is a shoe manufacturer he also wants to know what is taking place in the industry.

The tanner wants to sell leather and therefore he requires to know where shoes are being made, while the shoe man who makes shoes should have a good idea of where shoes are being produced and the systems that are followed in other places. He needs this information so that he may be in a better position to meet the competition that is sure to come with a spreading and growing shoe business.

Now the writer feels that there are many in both trades, shoes and leather, who do not take the interest in their industry that they should take. This is true of shoemaking at least. It may be true of leather making, too, because other communities are forging to the front while most of our old time leather centers of the east are relying upon their past record and reputation.

It can be stated as a fact that the shoe business is leaving New England and especially Essex county. Some may say that this is not so, and they will point to the many factories that are still with us. They will point to the shoes that are being made and say that there is a lot of business here as yet. They may even go so far as to claim that cities like Lynn and Haverhill are making more shoes than ever and that these are the finest shoes ever produced in this region.

Yes, all that may be true, but how do we account for the fact that one firm alone is making more shoes, or producing shoes of greater value, than the hundred factories of Lynn. Take the big concern of Endicott-Johnson, and their output is figured around a hundred thousand pairs of shoes per day. That is more shoes than is made in all Lynn, as the writer figures it. The value of the Endicott-Johnson output is around $75,000,000 per year, which is a greater output, in point of value, than Lynn has ever been credited with. It is a greater value than Haverhill has claimed and it is growing every year at a healthy and rapid rate.

It may be said that Lynn and Haverhill are now confined to the finer lines of women's goods. Here is where they are making their last stand, and it is upon this line that their future depends. The writer hopes that they will find plenty of business in the future, and it is very likely that they will, for they are both specialty cities. They are great on novelties in footwear and new and fancy designs are sure to be in demand more than ever because the women of the country are going in for that class of goods.

New England was the original home of all kinds of shoes in the days that have gone. The industry started here and every kind of shoe was produced here. Today hardly anything is left of the working shoe lines, the school lines, the infants', the misses' and children's and the heavier types of women's, such as the McKay shoes, which are now the low cost shoes of the trade.

Of course the writer does not assert that all these lines have gone

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BUMPER."

USED in the sense of a "bumper" of wine—and therefore belonging to the malt, vinous and dead languages—this word harks back to the days of the Restoration when the drinking was deep and the shouting long and when, as penance for any slip of the tongue or forgetfulness of manners, the culprit was sentenced to drink a "bumper" without spilling a drop.

As this feat did not depend so much upon the liquid capacity of the drinker as upon the steadiness of his nerves, it was no light task—particularly well along toward morning. A large goblet or a small bowl was filled to the brim with wine and then a few additional drops were carefully added, so that the liquid would not overflow but would actually rise a fraction of an inch over the top of the containing vessel. The surface, being convex, was said to be "bumped up" and it was then accepted as a true "bumper." It is in this sense of "more than full" that we still refer to a "bumper crop" or a "bumper audience."

New Even to Teacher.

James had been out of school several days and his teacher wrote his mother a note asking what was wrong with him. Back came this answer:

"Miss Teacher—James is very sick and I had to have the doctor for him. He says to keep James home for several weeks, for he has information on the stomach and bowels."

South Peabody

South Peabody is to have a celebration the Fourth this year, as the city council appropriated the sum of $200 which is to be used for prizes and refreshments. Bushby's field has been secured for Monday and the committee have made plans to give every one a good time.

Councillor Frank McKeen is at the head of the committee and has for his assistants, Rev. Robert Bakeman, Frank Tucker, William Walsh, Wright Greggson and Eugene Beaulieu. They have been having meetings this week to plan for the event.

Monday morning there will be a ball game by the boys, to be followed by an afternoon game by married men against the single ones. They are also arranging running races, potato races and a novel hay stack race, where a handful of pennies are thrown into a hay stack and at a signal every one is entitled to look for the pennies.

These sports are for the girls of the community as well as the boys, and prizes will be awarded in the form of an order on some local store.

A marathon race will be another feature and ice cream and tonic will be furnished free of charge.

It is hoped that a large number of the residents will attend this celebration and thus show their appreciation of the efforts of the committee.

The Gentlemen's Driving Club have arranged an atractive program at Rockdale Park for the holiday. Spence's band will be an added feature.

Rev. Harry Hill and wife entertained about 50 ministers and wives at their home on Lynn street last week. Tables were set on the lawn where refreshments were served and sports enjoyed by all.

Hubert Chandler of Lynnfield street and Dorothy Kountz of Rockdale avenue were married Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Robert Bakeman officiating.

Residents are wondering if the much needed motor cycle policeman is to be appointed to take care of the traffic on Lynn and Lynnfield street. After witnessing a few narrow escapes on this thoroughfare, it seems most essential to have some protection.

Mrs. Lawrence Putnam and Mrs. Edgar Fogg of County street attended the convention of the American Home Economics Association which is being held at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

Miss Elizabeth Fogg of the South school and Charles Kennedy of the Samuel Brown school received honorary mention in their work for the baby hospital posters.

Mrs. W. E. Hetherington of Lynn street entertained the following ladies Wednesday afternoon: Mrs. Fred Shute and Miss Laura Spencer of Lynn, Mrs. Alma Allen of Danvers, Mrs. Agnes Smith of Peabody. They were all classmates at school and the reunion was enjoyed by all.

Friends of Richard Jermyn of Lynn street will be pleased to hear of his arrival home from Cleveland, O.

James Taylor of Wyoma will preach at Lake Shore Park church Sunday morning and evening.

The campers at Bartholomew grove will follow their custom of celebrating the Fourth and a full day has been planned. Carl Schaab is general chairman and the following men are to assist: Harvey Court, Mr. Ayottee, Clarence Cummings, Robert Long and Mr. Samuelson. The day's program starts at 2 o'clock Monday morning with a horrible and costume parade. A ball game is scheduled for 10 o'clock between the married and single men. Sports for the young and old start at 2 o'clock, also a costume parade for children with prizes awarded for all events. Dancing, with a victrola as music, can be enjoyed in the afternoon.

Monday evening will close the celebration by dancing in the pavilion, with Belmont orchestra and fireworks at 10 o'clock. Prizes have also been offered for the best decorated camp.

Mrs. Joseph Annis of Bartholomew street is convalescing from her recent illness.

Several of the South Peabody boosters who are trying to look out for the welfare of the children have been talking with the city authorities about the purchase of the Bushby field for a permanent playground. This would make an ideal spot, and it is hoped that the city will see that South Peabody will be provided for.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burnham of Bartholomew grove and Mrs. Helen Bousineau and two children have moved to their farm in Danvers. Mrs. Burnham, better known as Mrs. Boyer, has lived in the grove for about 25 years.

Rev. Robert Bakeman will hold a Sunday evening service in Peabody square at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "Independence and Interdependence." Wright Greggson, cornetist, will assist in the services.

The Tuesday Night Whist Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of Dexter street.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Giles and family of Lynn street took an auto trip to Springfield over the week-end.

Mrs. Kate Francis of Portsmouth, N. H., is spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Parker of Tucker's court.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Legrow and family, who have been living in Dover, N. H., for the past year, have moved back to South Peabody. Mr. Legrow has been transferred to the Salem office of the Boston & Maine railroad.

George Full, Jr., who is a brother to Mrs. Reginald Leach of Brown street is at Salem hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. John Q. Adams of Lynnfield street started for Wells, Me., Wednesday, to attend a family reunion.

J. Murphy of Brown street, who has been at the J. B. Thomas hospital for the past two weeks, returned to his home Tuesday.

PEABODY LEATHER PLANTS ARE TAKING ACCOUNT OF ASSETS

(By ENERGY)

Many times of late I have written of the danger of the shoe industry centering in the middle West. I think conclusive proofs have been shown that such a move is within possibility, if not probability. Such a process is naturally a slow one. Perhaps the fact it is slow makes one unable to comprehend its progress until it has been accomplished.

—*—

But we of New England will not witness that accomplishment without at least trying to ward it off, and the world knows New England grit written in history. So I am watching to see the time when the tanners and shoemakers will meet all competition here.

—*—

Perhaps many will say that while shoemaking will go elsewhere, why contend the tanning of the leather will follow? A natural question, surely. The big consumer of leather such as all the large corporations, purchase carloads of leather at a time, therefore it matters little to them outside of freight rates. But how about the thousands of small shoe factories who buy from 10 to 100 dozen skins at a time, and buy from hand to mouth, because of limited credit? Such concerns with a small overhead and superintending the business personally can make shoes cheaply. These fellows take thousands of dozens of Peabody skins each week when business is brisk, and strange to say it is easier to get those skins to Lynn and Haverhill than to St. Louis. We of Peabody will sell our output in the West if we have to, but it will mean competition with the tanners who will spring up like mushrooms where the shoe factories are located.

—*—

Well, it seems to me I have consumed enough space on this subject even if it is vital. I am just wise enough to know that what I say about this matter will have as little effect as my breath against a wind storm. So let us go on making leather and dig out to sell it, even if it wears out our patience and clothing. There is as little news of the real variety in the leather trade as comes from the South sea islands. In fact, there is less, for the daily papers and the movies show us something of those people, in fact, considerable, when clothing is taken into consideration.

—*—

The Turner Tanning Machinery Co. shut down last night for the week of the Fourth for the purpose of taking inventory.

—*—

This week of all others in the year is a dull one in the shoe factories. Stocktaking at this time is a yearly event, and the fact that sample shoes have been made for weeks back to catch the fall business, and that after the Fourth of July these samples will or will not bring the desired results, makes at this time, serious food for thought. The pessimist will tell you that people will not purchase more shoes, preferring to go barefooted as a fad. They will tell you this world has ceased to function, and we all had

In the fall they will reside in Waterbury, Conn., as Mr. Griffin is head of the English department in the Wilby High school in that city.

The Air We Breathe.

A cubic foot of air weighs about one and three-tenths ounces. Thus it is reckoned that a single human individual breathes in 12 months six and one-fifth tons of air. To keep him alive for threescore and ten years will require 430 tons of air. The population of the United States breathes annually 658,000,000 tons of air. The requirement for the entire population of the world is in the neighborhood of 10,500,000 tons.

Mrs. John O. Ballentine, daughter Mabel and son Ralph of Emerson street are at their summer home in Jackson, N. H., at the foot of Carter Notch, one of the highest mountains in the state.

Mrs. Ray Macdonald entertained the bridge whist club at her home last Wednesday afternoon.

The unfortunate accident last Tuesday that resulted in sniffing out a young life is hardly more than has been expected by residents of this section, who have seen lower Lowell street used as a general play ground by the children of the vicinity. As much as the fatality is to be regretted, it is to be hoped that it will serve as a solemn warning to thoughtless or indifferent parents that a busy thoroughfare is hardly the place for their offspring to amuse themselves.

Ray E. Porter and Fred Wiley, professionals at Homestead Golf Club, made a good showing in the amateur pro-tournament at Nashua, N. H., last Monday, where they finished but six strokes behind the winners. If they had but played all the holes as they did the last nine in the morning round, when they used but 33 strokes, they would have run away from the entire field.

Miss Margaret Batchelder will spend July and August at Tall Pines Camp at Bennington, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. William Durland, who have recently returned from Santo Domingo, leave tomorrow for New York city, where the former has accepted a position with the Texas Oil Co.

Mrs. Norman Crane was hostess for the Sewing club last Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Poor and family will spend the month of July at their summer home at Lake Sunapee, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Whidden have closed their Lowell street residence and are located at their summer home at Conomo Point.

William Lambert has recently purchased a new Ford car.

Willard Woodman, connected with the Ford distributors, Boston, met with a painful accident a few days ago when a "Henry" that he was driving skidded in some loose ground and connected with a telegraph pole, damaging the car and injuring Mr. Woodman's knee so seriously that he has been compelled to suspend work temporarily. Pending his recovery, he is spending a short vacation in Portland, Me.

Councillor David R. Barry has disposed of the Ford Sedan which he has driven but a few hundred miles and has ordered a new Dodge car to take its place.

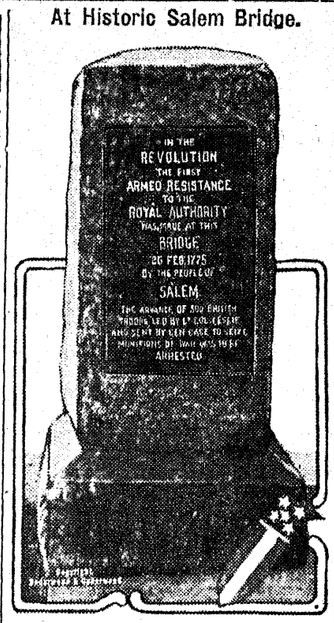
Miss Judith Barnes, who celebrated her thirteenth birthday this week, entertained three of her friends, Helen Tucker, Nathalie Lane and Leslie Gardner at a luncheon and tennis party at the Homestead Golf Club last Tuesday.

Mrs. Albert T. Roome entertained her mother, Mrs. George Schultz, and her sister, Mrs. E. E. Murray of Foxboro, during the Peabody high school commencement period.

Miss Helen Tucker, youngest daughter of Dr. S. C. Tucker, left the city last Wednesday to spend two months at the Alaha summer camp at Farley, Vt.

Mrs. Fannie Levin of 73 Franklin street is spending the summer with her daughter Augusta at Niagara Falls.

Miss Elsie Strauss of 73 Franklin street and Mrs. Barney Sogoloff are spending a few weeks in Canada with relatives.



Mrs. Edith C. Holman and Miss Mercedes H. Torr have been attending the 14th convention of the American Home Economics Association at the New Ocean House at Swampscott the past four days.

Leonard F. Hunt will spend the summer vacation roughing it in the far west with headquarters at Cody, Wyo. He left Peabody Tuesday for New York City, where he will join other young men for the journey west, where all will live the life of the original 49ers with a few added comforts. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt accompanied him to New York City.

Dr. S. C. Tucker is such an enthusiast over the campaign being waged for funds for the enlargement to the present inadequate babies' hospital at Ropes Point that he quite forgot that last Friday was his birthday anniversary and so neglected to report home at his usual dinner hour to meet the merry party that Mrs. Tucker has assembled for the gala occasion, going instead to the meeting in Salem to hear the reports of the team captains and partake of a meal that could hardly be expected to compare with the banquet awaiting him at home.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gertrude M. Hooper, Tufts A. B., University of Ill., A. M., and Dr. Stanley H. Osborn of Hartford, Conn., formerly of this city, a graduate of the Peabody schools. Dr. Osborn is director of the bureau of preventable diseases of the Connecticut state department of health, with which he had been since 1916 as epidemiologist of the department. He was a graduate from Tufts College Medical School in 1914, and later took up post graduate work at Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in tropical disease and public health. He received the degree of public health from each of these institutions. He served with the American Red Cross, fighting typhus fever, malaria and other epidemic diseases in the Balkans, and was with the United States army oversea during the war.

Rochambeau's Splendid Service

A study of parallels serves to establish the fact, seemingly forgotten, that Rochambeau rendered no minor aid, but was the immediate instrument of Providence for the triumph of the sacred cause of freedom, just as Pershing and his army were the final weapons of Foch to smite the oppressor, writes Margaret B. Downing in the Catholic World. From the military standpoint, then, there can be no controversy over the success with which the commander-in-chief of the French allied army executed the benevolent intentions of his king. Rochambeau, however, too often figures in the American mind solely as a symbol of the friendship of France, gained through painful, weary efforts of Franklin, Jefferson and other great fathers of the republic. It is full time that he should be known for the splendid, virile, unusual traits of character which his contemporaries have ever accorded him. He was ever an upright, religious man. He is a figure to fill the canvas, no matter who takes up the brush to paint him. Washington shows him as the honest colleague and dependable ally from the moment he set foot on American soil. In his greeting to the commander of the Colonial forces, the French general wrote: "I send you a copy of my instructions as well, for I feel that if we are to co-operate usefully I must have no secrets from my general." In the late days of February, 1784, when Washington, another Cincinnatus, was busy with the cares of husbandry about Mount Vernon, and Rochambeau, honored by his king, also for the nonce rested on his sword, he wrote that immortal eulogy to his former associate which may be found graven on the statue of the French hero in Jackson square, Washington, "We have been contemporaries and friends in the cause of Liberty and we have lived together as brothers should, in harmonious friendship."

There is one splendid saying handed down by the loyal Closen. When France danced madly in the red stream, after she had executed her Bourbon king and his Hapsburg consort, Rochambeau, last marshal of France under the dynasty, gathered his bewildered army and offered his services to the awful tribunal. His old friends and aristocratic kindred reproached him for making peace with the enemy, and hinted at unworthy motives. Then the hero of Yorktown and of a half-century of wars, drew himself up haughtily and flinging his sword on high, he exclaimed: "France! whoever rules her, my best and my all."

Occupations of the Signers.

Among the signers of the Declaration the physicians were Josiah Bartlett of New Hampshire, Lyman Hall of Georgia, Benjamin Rush of Pennsylvania, Matthew Thornton of New Hampshire and Oliver Wolcott of Connecticut.

The Connecticut delegation was one of varied occupations, embracing a physician, a sailor, a shoemaker and a "statesman." It also contained a lawyer, Samuel Huntington.

BLEACHERY DANCE

At the dancing party to be held at the Salem Willows Casino next Wednesday evening, July 6, under the auspices of the Bleachery Table of St. John's Field Day, one of the features will be the championship dance which will decide "who's who in Peabody" on the latest dances. Rev. Father McInnis has procured three judges from Boston who will make the final decision and it is anticipated that a number of couples will compete.

Many Do.

One way to "relieve congestion in the post office" is to let your correspondents' letters answer themselves—a method which has much to recommend it.

"Gone to the Dogs."

The ancient Romans called the ace in dice "canis," the Latin word for dog. To them three aces was to lose the pot in their gaming, whence came the saying "gone to the dogs" as a synonym for ruin or bad luck. The expression "dirty dog" means one morally filthy; one defiled with mere skin dirt is called a "dirty pig." Our literature is sprinkled with reference to the dog, many of them highly complimentary.

Babies' Hospital Needs More Room If Infants Are To Live

tion carried the total for the campaign up to last Wednesday nearly to the $50,000 mark. The aggregate after this report, which even yet does not include the preliminary result of the campaign in a number of towns participating in the organized effort to protect infant life in the North shore, to $47,205.

The campaign auditors announce that North Shore Baby Bonds are retaining their "strength" on the North Shore financial market. Investors continue to create the anomalous financial situation of quoting "bid" figures higher than the "asked." Bonds of all denominations are being disposed of by the "salesmen." Bond subscriptions aggregate more than 80 per cent. of the total investment in healthy babies.

President Harding, whose letter was warmly applauded, wrote his own endorsement of the undertaking, which has aroused more interest in the saving of baby life than any other civic movement ever participated in by the entire North Shore.

Michael J. Sherry, tax collector of Peabody, made a stirring appeal at the rally Wednesday night for the hospital as a service to the community of the future.

"Unless the hospital is built by the people of the communities it is serving," Mr. Sherry said, "you will never, or at least you will not for a long space of years, have a North Shore Babies' Hospital worthy of the name—the kind of hospital you and I want. We know how difficult it is to get legislative appropriation for any purpose, for the reason that public treasuries already are overburdened with a multitude of obligations. With all the generous deeds that the United States has performed in the last several years, what have we done for our own babies

"American charity has now been extended all over the world," Mr. Sherry went on. "It has reached into the heart of China and into the jungle of Africa. You and I have given our might to help the children of the Near East and of Belgium. Surely we can't do less for our own American babies.

"As lovers of our own babies, we are going to see that this fund is provided. When this vitally needed new hospital is an accomplished fact, the North Shore can look back with the justifiable pride that comes with the knowledge of having done a noble deed."

The present hospital, which opened the first of June for its brief summer season, already is crowded to capacity. As has been the case since its founding 16 years ago, babies are being sent to the institution from adult hospitals, which are not able to give the specialized treatment infants must have. The endorsement by superintendents of adult hospitals of the undertaking to establish the North Shore Babies' Hospital as an all-year institution has brought the need of such an institution clearly to the attention of the public. Miss Helen T. Nivison, superintendent of the Josiah B. Thomas Hospital writes:

"Infant patients need a type of treatment and care that can be given only in a babies' hospital, or in an especially equipped ward of an adult institution. As none of the hospitals of the North Shore have wards exclusively for babies, I regard the new, all-year-round North Shore Babies' Hospital a public necessity . . . .

"The orthopedic department of the new Babies' Hospital will render a service that cannot be obtained elsewhere in the whole district. . . . This feature alone will more than justify the existence of the new hospital.

"The fact that it will accommodate 100 babies, and treat them as long as their condition requires, means that on its completion the North Shore will be a community that provides the most advanced protection for the lives of its babies. And these are the citizens of tomorrow."

Fire Destroys Small Barn

An alarm from Box 14 at 3 o'clock this morning sent the fire apparatus to the Densten Hair Co. on Corwin street off Lynnfield, where a small barn was found aflame too far gone for the firemen to lay a chemical stream. The shack was owned by an alien who has a small farm near Dungeon Rock in the rear of the big hair factory. He discovered the fire and ran to the Densten Hair Co., where the engineer telephoned in the alarm. Hose 2 and 5 responded, together with the hook and ladder.

FIRE ALARM TEST NEXT WEDNESDAY

Peabody's new fire alarm station will be officially tested by the contractors on next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mayor Shea, members of the City Council and other invited citizens will witness the exhibition. City Electrician Vincent P. O'Keefe will assist the contractors in explaining the system.

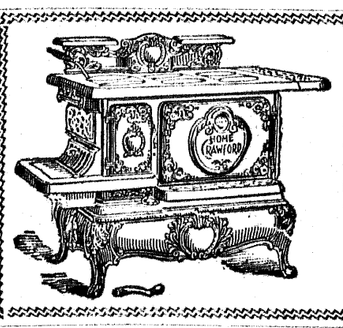
Dental Clinic Appointment Being Delayed

Why is the school committee failing to name a local dentist to have charge of the proposed dental clinic in the public schools? This question is being asked by numerous sponsors for the project who are criticising the delay of the school committee.

The Peabody Enterprise has long championed the openng of a dental clinic in the schools in keeping with the program followed in many other cities. The first Peabody official to to advocate the dental clinic was Councillor James T. Sullivan, formerly Public Health Commissioner, and he had advocated the measure in the City Council. The Board of Health has recommended the clinic and Mayor Shea, it was understood, had included an appropriaton for the work and salary of the dentst in charge.



The Enterprise is not interested in the candidacy of a single dentist for the job. That is the province of the School Board, which some months ago voted by a majority to create the service for the hundreds of Peabody boys and girls in the public schools. If there was need of the dental clinic months ago, it is as urgently needed next September, and many citizens wonder why the School Board does not hasten the appointment of a dentist.

It has been current that there were several candidates seeking the position. But one man is to be appointed, it is understood, instead of following the system in practice in other cities where several dentists are named. Lynn dentists gave their time free of cost to the city to perform the work last year, and the innovation was a great success. It

FUND FOR WIDOW OF OFFICER FULLER

The Peabody Enterprise will open its columns for the next few weeks to raising a subscription fund for the benefit of the widow and children of Special Police Officer William P. Fuller, who met his death last Saturday night when he was thrown from an automobile. Officer Fuller was a well-known leather worker and acted as special police at dances evenings in his commendable effort to provide for his wife and two small children. Another child is expected to arrive in his late home in the near future.

WILLIAM P. FULLER,

Mayor William A. Shea heads the subscription list with $25. Roger H. Smith $10, and the Peabody Enterprise $15. Checks should be made out "Peabody Enterprise, Fuller Fund," and mailed or left at this office. Money subscriptions may be left at this office in any amount and each subscription will be acknowledged in these columns.

Mr. Fuller was a home loving husband and father, and held the respect of many friends who had known him from a small boy. He was secretary of the Peabody Aerie of Eagles and had made an excellent record for himself in that office. In every way he was a good citizen and his untimely death is a severe blow to his family. The Enterprise appeals to its army of readers to help along the fund which will prove a benefit to his widow and children.

Swartz Saves Little Girl's Life

Max Swartz of 10 Sanborn street proved himself a hero last Tuesday when he rushed to the rescue of Mary Seigman, a four-year-old girl of 8 Sherman street and tore her blazing clothing from her body in time to save her from fatal injuries. In doing so he received bad burns to his hand. Both man and girl were treated by Dr. John J. Hickey.

Swartz was more the hero because his right hand was heavily bandaged following an accident of some days previous, and he had only the use of his left hand to help the little girl.

A crowd of little boys and girls had started a bonfire near their homes and the Seigman girl got too near with the result that her clothing caught fire. She ran yelling for help and Swartz, who was at home nursing his injured went to her rescue. To his prompt hand, went to her rescue. To his prompt work does the little girl owe her life.

Owen Moore Bound To Please Peabody Movie Fans At Strand

Owen Moore in "The Chicken in the Case" will be the attraction at the Strand today and Saturday. In this, his latest picture, Mr. Moore has been provided with another of his well-known and exclusive type of screen characters, and it is prophesied that his role of Steve Perkins will be remembered as one of the funniest characters ever introduced to the lovers of screen entertainment.

The story is of a city youth who, in order to come into his inheritance, borrows his best friend's wife. The complications which arise when his well-meaning aunt decides to take a hand in the well-being of the couple, and how the youth finally squirms out of the matrimonial muddle he has gotten himself into, forms one of the most delightful bits of comedy that has reached the screen in many a day. Of course, in the end the hero finds himself a wife, but that is only as all good pictures should end. Playing opposite Mr. Moore is to be seen Katherine Perry, the Ziegfeld Follies beauty, who last year was awarded the golden apple by the Artist's Club of New York for being the prettiest girl in the metropolis. A Sunshine comedy and an exciting chapter of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" will be the other numbers on the program for today.

Olive Thomas in "Darling Mine" and Bessie Barriscale in "Tangled Threads" will be the double feature program for Sunday evening.

Constance Binney in "The Magic Cup" will top the bill for Monday and Tuesday. Miss Binney is cast as Mary Malloy, an orphan, who earns her living as a maid in a New York hotel. She lives with the chief dishwasher in a cheap lodging house nearby. She has one possession left her by her mother, an old silver goblet bearing the coat of arms of the Fitzroys. Whenever Mary needs money, she takes the goblet and gets a loan on it at the nearest pawnshop. On one of her visits to the pawnshop a crook whose specialty is fake pearls notices her rare beauty, questions her about her family and how she came by the cup. After she leaves the shop, he frames a plot with the pawnbroker to get another crook friend to pose as Lord Fitzroy, come to America to seek his long-lost granddaughter, and claim Mary through her ownership of the Fitzroy goblet.

The plot is to take her out of her squalid surroundings, buy her wonderful clothes, then shop for jewels for her, substituting fake jewels for real ones, thereby cleaning up a fortune for themselves before they drop Mary. The plot begins to work out beautifully until Bob Norton, a young newspaper reporter, who is assigned to cover the sensational story of Lord Fitzroy's finding of his granddaughter, gets busy, gets in touch with the real Lord Fitzroy, and then things begin to happen with lightning rapidity and surprising results. The climax is a knock-out for the audience as well as the crooks. Lewis Stone in "Milestones" will be the second feature on the bill for Monday and Tuesday.

LANE WILL BE ACTING MGR.

George W. Lane will be the acting manager at Parke Snow's for the next two weeks during the vacation of Manager Benjamin Brownell, who will visit his old home in Dover, N. H. Mr. Lane is a Salem boy and is now assistant manager at the concern's Somerville store, where he has made many friends. He is well known in Peabody and there are many patrons of the store who will be glad to greet him.

Miss Marie Curtis of Elm street visited friends in Warren over the week-end.

Plymouth Asks Mayor To Be Guest

Mayor William A. Shea has received an invitation over the signature of Governor Cox and the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission in Boston requesting him to represent Peabody officially at the opening performance of the pageant, "The Pilgrim Spirit," in Plymouth on next Wednesday evening, July 13.

The mammoth spectacle, written and produced by Prof. George P. Baker of Harvard University, with 1400 residents of Plymouth and the surrounding country in the cast, is the dramatic climax of a year of public observances commemorating the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers 300 years ago.

Invitations have gone out to 37 mayors of other towns in Massachusetts and to the governors of 47 states. As the premiere of 12 night performances, July 13 has been designated "Governor's Night" to distinguish it from "President's Day," August 1, when President Harding and Mrs. Harding, Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks, foreign ambassadors and other notables will come to Plymouth on the presidential yacht Mayflower under an escort of United States and foreign warships.

She Had Simple Tastes.

A little girl, left in a room with a glass of tall daffodils, was discovered trying to communicate with the queen of the fairies. She was calling down the bell of one flower and listening at the other, a small dimpled hand, with a crease for the wrist, firmly grasping either green stalk. "Please send a cake and a big doll," she said, "to my house, and a new daddy and a taxi so's I can go and spend my pennies."

FR. MATS TEAM LOOKS A WINNER

The newly organized Father Mathew baseball team will give to the local fans the opportunity of seeing the local boys in action and to support the home talent. The team, composed of Eddie O'Connor, Billy Crean, Bill Meade, Tommy Ray, Luke McHugh, Mike Lane, Bill Collins, Leo Buckley and Joe Nangle, is fully capable of meeting the best amateur teams in the county. The opening games will be played on Saturday and Sunday at Emerson Park. On Saturday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock the Woodlawn A. C. of Beverly, the only undefeated team in Essex County, will be met at the park, and on Sunday at 3 o'clock the Maples of Salem, formerly managed by Frank Donovan, will tackle the local boys.

MOOSEHEART LEGION WOMEN BRING HOME BIG LOVING CUP

Women of Mooseheart Legion, Auxiliary to the Peabody Moose lodge, scored a signal victory for themselves on the Fouth by capturing the first prize for the best appearing float in the big Moose convention parade at Lynn. Mrs. Clement Stack dressed as Miss Columbia received much favorable applause all along the line of parade. There were 12 women on the float which was drawn by four handsome grey horses owned by McCarthy Brothers of this city. Mrs. Frank E. Bomer is president of the auxiliary, and to her is due much credit for the success of the float.

Peter LaFreniere, one of the popular members of the Moose lodge, drove the four horses and proved himself an expert stage coach driver, handling the horses with the skill of a circus performer.

The Mooseheart women on the float were Mrs. Charles Bowman, Mrs. Charles Homan, Mrs. William Howell, Mrs. John Young, Mrs. George Emerson, Mrs. Thomas King, Mrs. Frank Duncanson, Mrs. Chester Byron, Mrs. Elmer Johnson, Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Joseph Lendall. Mrs. Stack as "Miss Columbia" was attended by Master John Moore as a sailor, Master Joseph Lendall as a soldier and little Bertha Johnson as a Red Cross nurse.

A handsome silver loving cup was the prize awarded the Peabody women, and this is on exhibition today at the jewelry store of Henry A. Hanson on Main street. It will later be placed in the Moose Lodge hall.

There will be a meeting of Mooseheart Legion on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to consider plans for the outing to be held at Salem Willows on next week Thursday.

MOTHS RAVAGING W. PEABODY TREES

Editor of Peabody Enterprise:

As I was walking on West street this morning, I met an arm of gypsy moths, headed towards Peabody. Most of them looked fat and equal to the long walk.

It occurred to me they might be going after some of that $1200 worth of gypsy medicine prepared by the moth doctor, knowing if they wanted it they must go after it, as the doctor has too much to do (?) down town to be able to get around to visit his patients in this ward. They seem to miss him, in fact, it is a hard job to find him. The prescription for West Peabody must have cost nearly $50, and if there was half as much more done here, there would be little to do next year, as the trees will die for want of a visible doctor. Why the absent treatment?

When is a watering trough not a water trough? When it is dry, like the one at the school house. Many people stop there for a drink, only to go away disgusted. Does that give a favorable impression of our hospitality? Who is to blame?

The fact is, West Peabody is of use to most city officials only for its votes and taxes. Let's bury some of them next fall.

GILBERT E. LAME,
West Peabody.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFER

WHEN YOU DINE

"Practice yourself, for heaven's sake, in little things and thence proceed to greater."—Epictetus.

NEVER take your seat until the lady of the house is seated. Never lounge on the table with your elbows nor tip backwards in your chair.

Never play with your knives, forks or glasses, but cultivate repose at the table. It is an aid to digestion.

Never make diagrams on the tablecloth with your fork or spoon to illustrate what you are talking about.

Never leave the table to get something that you want to show some one else at the table—to find a book to verify a quotation you have made or to settle a disputed point. These things can be attended to after the meal.

Never light cigar or cigarette unless you are asked to by your hostess or unless others are doing so. Never under any circumstances, smoke between courses, but wait until after dessert when coffee is served.

Never tuck your napkin into your vest, yoke or collar. It is unfolded once and laid across the knees without a flourish. After the meal, at a restaurant or formal dinner, lay it folded at your place. If you are a fine guest in the household and stay to remain another meal, you may fold the napkin in its original creases.

Never put the end of a spoon in your mouth, sip everything from the side of the spoon, and do this noiselessly. Never use a spoon when a fork will serve. Forks are now often used for eating ice cream, and salad is folded or cut with the side of the fork, never with the knife. Even such vegetables like peas are eaten with a fork.

Never hold your knife and fork in the air when your host is serving you afresh. Lay them on one side of the plate when you send it to the host by servant or your neighbor at table.

Never leave your spoon in coffee or tea cup. Lay it on the saucer.

Never cool food by blowing upon it. Wait until it becomes cool enough to eat.

Never take a second helping at a large and formal dinner. You will feel yourself eating alone.

Never make yourself conspicuous in any way by aiding the host or hostess in serving, unless especially asked to do so, or in passing dishes when servants are provided for that purpose.

Never push back your plate or finger crumbs at the conclusion of the meal. It indicates undue haste.

South Peabody

South Peabody celebrated the holiday in gala style, under the direction of Rev. Robert Bakeman, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the fund donated by the city. Mayor William A. Shea was an interested spectator and had a chance to see personally how unanimous the sentiment of South Peabody is for the acquiring of the Bushby field for a playground. The celebration started with a baseball game for boys in the forenoon and was won by the Keith team. A prize of three new balls was given the winners. At 10 o'clock the children marched in front of the flag and under the leadership of Wright Greggson listened to the reading of the Declaration of Independence. This was followed by the salute to the flag and patriotic songs.

The sports resulted as follows: 100-yard dash for boys 14-15 years, won by Lawrence Reed; second, Lawrence Osgood; third, Wilbur Perkins.

50-yard dash for girls, 12-13 years, won by Gladys LeCain; second, Mary McKeen; third, Hazel Bryant; 50-yard dash for boys, 12-13 years, won by Arnold Gilmore; second, James Heenan; third, John Noback. Special 50-yard dash for boys, 12-13 years, won by Robert Wolcott; second, Roger LeCain; third, Robert Bakeman, Jr.

Special 50-yard dash for boys, 9-11 years, won by Howard Beaulieu; second, Parker Gilmore; third, A. Mahoney. 50-yard dash for girls, 9-11 years, won by Thelma McGreggor; second, Celia Stillman; third, Florence Kelly.

50-yard dash for boys, 6-8 years, won by William Whitteridge; second, Henry Murphy; third, William Beggs. 50-yard dash for girls, 6-8 years, won by Helen McKeen; second, Mary Murphy; third, tie between Grace Carney and Greta Glencross.

100-yard dash for men won by Eugene Jordan; second, Richard McGreggor; third, Robert McGreggor.

25-yard dash for women won by Alma Curtis; second, Effie McGreggor; third, Rhea Beaulieu.

In the fat men's race, there were no fat men that had the courage to race, on account of the heat, so it was changed to a middle-weight, and this resulted in a tie between Bernard Nangle and Robert Bakeman.

Special 50-yard dash for boys 6-8 years, won by Jacob Stillman; second, Jack Murphy; third, Charles Mathison.

The hay stack race was next and was enjoyed by all the girls and boys.

Boys' shoe race was won by Charles Broughton; second, James Heenan; third, George Hodgdon. Girls' shoe race won by Irene Newhall and Maud Beaulieu tie for first; second, Frances Tucker.

After the sports every one formed in line to the refreshment booth, where 25 gallons of ice cream, 25 cases of tonic and 500 lolly pops were distributed. Following the refreshments, the single men won a game of baseball from the married men.

The marathon race for men was won by Eugene Jordan; second, Richard McGreggor; third, Henry Moore.

The winners of the marathon for boys were Evans Griffin, first; Ralph Innis, second; James Heenan, third.

The prizes were in the form of certificates for merchandise at any of the stores who belong to the Peabody Chamber of Commerce.

New Pigskin Factory Owners Making Competition Hustle--- Newsy Notes of Leather Trade

(By ENERGY)

I have heard so many people who wear shoes complain of the leather drawing their feet to the extent of being uncomfortable, that the thought came through my cranium that perhaps the chrome tanned leather of today is not what the doctor ordered for summer wear at least. Not many seasons ago, most calfskin manufacturers made a line of Russia calf. Now leather men as a matter of fact know what Russia calf is, made in America. To others it is a vegetable tanned leather which is of the sponge variety so far as absorbing water is concerned. Tanned in combination of gambier and alum with salt, it made a leather which was ideal for summer. Of late one can purchase Russia calf made from chrome and until they wear them they are happy in the thought of having a cool shoe, only to find something is the matter even if it is Russia calf made in U. S.

The original Russia calf was a work of art. It took years to find out where that peculiar smell which made that leather famous, came from. The pocketbooks of the original had an odor which was copied by the Yankee tanner only after years of experimenting. Then for shoes this smell did not appeal as for fancy work. And in most cases the smell disappeared and Russia leather was any old leather that had any appearance of the original.

—*—

When the chrome process came to be generally used, vegetable tans went out almost as fast as did Carpentier. As usual, something new was what the public wanted, and they got it in the shape of a leather which is practically air and water proof. People with tender feet complained and are still doing it, and some day when a leather is produced by chemical means, which will do away with that rubber effect, chrome tan will go as did the vegetable process. Particularly in summer, we must have a leather that is cool to the feet.

There are canvas shoes galore. People who have the price for newbuck will not purchase, for they say such leathers are too hot in summer. A great opportunity for some chap to produce an open leather which has the looks of this nubuck without the swetting process. It can't be done? Fuss and feathers, it can and will be produced by some fellow who will make as much money as did Jack Dempsey, but perhaps not as fast. There is a pressing demand for something of this kind, so go to it.

—*—

When the Ingraham property on Main street changed hands recently, it started another chapter in tannery history. The original owners of this property I do not know. But I do know that Pindar & Winchester did a large business there in the 70's and early 80's making brogan leather. This concern was one of the large ones in those days. When they ceased to function, George Winchester, the junior member, tanned leather for other parties. At one time he produced 1000 sides daily, which was finished by Loud & Buxton and others. The Eifel tower was no part of this make-up. Frank Winchester, a son of the tanner, conceived the idea of having a currying shop up in air, which saved land and the drying was far better. So up went this building higher and higher until stiff necks was the result of watching it. When the air became so rare it was impossible to work on, and there being a danger of hitting Mars, it was concluded to call it enough, and this building remains today a monument of what can be and was.

But Budgell-Harrigan Co. are live ones, and taking over this property shows they are there to stay, which is an asset to our city. They may not have such high ideas as did the builders, but staying near terra firmer may be the better way. Any how, this part of the plant has produced sheepskins which attract the shoe manufacturers, and it speaks well for the ability of these young men who have weathered a storm the last two years far worse than they will again encounter.

—*—

Another concern on a part of this plant, the United Finish Co., are coming to the front. Clarence B. Murray, noted for his good nature, and at one time a good golfer, is the head of this concern, and his knowledge of the tanners will serve him well. Making finishes for leather has been a business which has made money in the past, and the future will be the same. Tanners in most cases get better results from finishes made to fit their tannage, which means a chemist's knowledge is needed to do it. Thus the success of finish companies.

—*—

The factories are dull and will be until stock taking by the shoe manufacturers is over. This week salesmen report there is little use to make calls, for they find the doors locked. The coming weeks will tell the story as to whether business will start up to a fair volume the remainder of the summer, or will fall be the starting point? Optimism prevails to a large extent, and the fall business is prophecied to be a good one.

—*—

Fred Carlton is visiting his daughters in this vicnity. He was foreman of the sheepskin department from the beginning of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., and resigned in the time of Walter Budgell as superintendent to go to Gardiner, Me., where he is employed by the U. S. government as rural postman. He reports the shoe factories at Gardiner busy and free from labor troubles.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

THE WOMAN DOCTOR

IT WAS not so long ago that the woman doctor was held more or less in contempt. She was supposed to be a freak, to put it clearly, and it was only freaks who would go to her for treatment.

It is still a surprise when you hear a college girl say that she is studying medicine. It will become less and less so as prejudice fades and as more and more women enter the field. There are nowhere near enough good doctors and in the constantly extending work of preventive medicine women will find the fullest opportunity. It is there, more even than with children and with women, that woman will do her greatest medical labor. Preventive medicine is only in its infancy. Those who know say that it will soon see an immense extension. The lessons of the war have been of tremendous value in teaching what may be expected, and even these are but foreshadowings.

The woman who has a taste for medicine and who can give the necessary time to its study is preparing a fine future for herself. The day is over when the intellectual woman went into teaching as the one most interesting profession open to her. The woman doctor is already on her way. In a few years she will be known as commonly as her brother, and as favorably. No woman who feels drawn to the work should hesitate to follow it, if she can by any means accomplish the training required.

A wartime invention promising permanent usefulness is the throat microphone transmitter. Placed against the side of the throat when a person is talking, it transmits speech clearly, and without being affected by outside sounds. In a late type of the instrument, an ebonite handle presses the microphone against the throat and an ordinary small receiver against the ear, but for long conversations the throat microphone is mounted as an attachment of the head-gear receiver.

SNAP SHOTS SHOWING CAMP BALLENTINE IN JACKSON, N. H., AND VIEWS OF THE MOUNTAIN RANGES IN THE DISTANCE.

John O. Ballentine Will Be Host For Ten Center School Boys

my appetite, for I ate ravenously. Mountain hiking gives one a healthy and vigorous appetite. I feel now qualified to make this assertion. Whether in compassion for my being a novice or perhaps to soothe my tired feelings, my host suggested he and I might linger at the Notch while the rest of the party made the ascent to the Dome. I felt it was a challenge after I had smothered my desire to second his friendly motion and so our party intact started for our final goal.

I had thought the last two miles were some climb, but I was to learn something of the ordeals and heroic measures employed by the Italian gunners in their ascent of the Alps. I venture the glass at the noon hour at Carter Notch on this day was 85, which was appreciably warm in the mountains, but Old Sol had no intention of modifying its portion. It took nearly two hours to make this last mile and a half to the top of the Dome. It hadn't been so difficult as it looked, but I felt quite glad the summit had been reached and that a bit of level ground was beneath my tired and sore feet.

"See America First"

Mt. Washington with is structures greeted us quite handy through the azure space and but for the blue haze which baffled the expert eyes of the forest wardens scanning the forests for fires, we might have looked 60 miles to the Atlantic near Portsmouth. Words beggar description of the wonderful vision that greets the hiker from Carter Dome. You who have experienced mountain travel will understand and my readers who have not, should "see America first."

Below the Ballentine bungalow is a farmer who has lived at his present abode for the past half century. He has a dairy farm, harvests maple syrup in season for sugar-making and farms enough to sell vegetables. The farm is three-quarters of a mile below on the road going back to Jackson. A mile beyond at the end of the well-beaten roadway through sloping pasture land is a summer house higher up among the hills. Neighbors are few and far apart. The fact that the trail to Carter Notch from Jackson is but a few rods beyond the Ballentine bungalow is responsible for frequent travelers passing.

Mountain Hut

Inside the bungalow is a spacious living room, where the host has built from field rocks a mammoth fireplace, and no matter how warm the day the evening fire is a comfort. A dining room is beyond and a kitchen with cook stove next to the dining quarters. On the other side of the living room is a broad piazza screened off which is used as sleeping quarters. Upstairs over the living room is a large and roomy dormitory.

Fifty feet from the bungaloy there is a small summer house where a dozen boys can bunk in army fashion.

It is an excellent camp for boys or for girl scouts. Next week Mr. Ballentine is to have ten boys from Peabody at his camp. The week later their places will be taken by a group of girls. It was his interest in work among boys that led Mr. Ballentine to erect his bungalow up there in the mountains. Last year a large number of boys and later girls enjoyed comforts and inspiring lessons of a week or more at Camp Ballentine. It's a wonderful place for a vacation for anybody who can find enjoyment in the woods and mountains. Mr. Ballentine hopes to see hundreds of Peabody boys enjoy the beauties and comforts of his camp.

American Ships Now Sail Seven Seas

Twin Bed Staterooms, Private Baths and Nurseries for the Children Give Hints of Luxuries Provided on Ships of the New American Merchant Marine

ANYWHERE in the world on an American ship! Americans no longer need go to sea or ship their goods in foreign bottoms. That, to-day, is the proud message from the National Capital to the American people.

From every port in the country now sail stately and luxurious vessels, under the American flag, carrying passengers and cargo to every country in the globe.

The nation, through the United States Shipping Board, is flinging a new Declaration of Independence to the world, independence of foreign vessels, for American travelers and commerce.

With a proud merchant fleet numbering 3,700 vessels of 19,533,390 deadweight tons (not including small ships), according to official figures compiled to May 1, it is now "up to" the people of the United States to keep that fleet on the seven seas. Of this great total the United States Shipping Board owns and controls 1,720 vessels of 11,139,406 deadweight tons.

"We must take the huge corporation, the largest the world has ever known, and make it an institution of which every American will be proud," declares Albert D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board.

"Our Merchant Marine must be sustained if it is to be permanent," declares Rear Admiral W. S. Benson, commissioner of the United States Shipping Board.

Not only in quantity does the American fleet excel, but in quality. Here are some of the features of many American passenger vessels to which the travelling public has been accustomed only on big foreign liners:—public rooms with palatial lounges and music rooms; palm garden verandas and writing rooms; ball rooms, glass enclosed promenades, swimming tanks, twin beds, shower and tub baths.

After forty-six years service in the United States Navy, during which time he saw the American flag, except on ships of war, almost disappear from the ocean, and now chief officer of the greatest single fleet of merchantmen ever constructed, Admiral Benson is asking his countrymen to support their fleet.

"We have the ships," he declares. "The United States Shipping Board is using every endeavor to build up this vast fleet into a profitable enterprise, but we need the cooperation of every American."

Hundreds Will Aid St. John's Big Field Day

Final arrangements for the field day to be held tomorrow on the O'Shea grounds, Washington street, in commemoration of the golden jubilee of St. John's church, have been completed and it is evident from the advance sale of tickets that the affair will eclipse any other field day ever held locally. Several booths, tastefully decorated, have been arranged about the grounds, and will be presided over by a bevy of Peabody's most popular women and young ladies. For the past two months energetic committees have been working under the personal supervision of the three curates: Rev. Fr. Shaughnessey in charge of the Lowell street district, Rev. Fr. Sullivan, East End, and Rev. Fr. McInnis, the Bleachery section, and everything is now in readiness to make tomorrow a red letter day i nthe history of the parish.

The Salem Cadet band (twenty pieces) will give a concert in the evening from 7 to 10 o'clock, and the midway will provide the very newest ideas.

COUNCIL PRUNES BUDGET

There'll be no muincipal desert for Peabody citizens this year, following the action of the City Council last night, which pruned the supplementary budget almost beyond recognition, lobbing off into the discard $87,340.11. By their action it is a pretty fair hunch that the tax rate will not exceed $28.00, a jump of $6.10. Had the budget been passed as introduced by the Mayor. the tax rate might have been nearer $34, according to President Duggan.

New street construction, renewals of water and sewer pipes, more new street lights (which are very badly needed) and even gypsy moth appropriations were obliterated. Sidewalk construction which had been expected this year is also denied by the Council. The Mayor sent in the sum of $5000 for this new work.

An item of $3000 for cleaning sewers was even given the "hook." Even the poor department got the axe for $300 with which to make needed repairs at the City Farm fell by the wayside. President Duggan took the floor on two occasions in his effort to get the Council to appropriate $20,000 for bills already contracted on the new high school and $5000 more for furniture for the building. His plea was in vain, however, for the Council remained obdurate. The pruning axe was used once more with telling effect.

Not only did the Council call a halt on appropriations, but it also voted unanimously to adopt an ordinance introduced by President Duggan making it misconduct for any departmental head to spend more money than is appropriated. On this measure, President Duggan again took the floor and made a strong address. He called Councillor Reed to preside.

Among the items which the Council refused to pass in the budget was one for $900 which included salary of the supervisor of Americanization work in

CITIZENS WILL HONOR FIRST PEABODY SOLDIER KILLED ON BATTLEFIELD

DELMAR J. WARNER,
First Peabody Man Killed in War

All Peabody will pay tribute Sunday to the memory of Delmar J. Warner, medical corps soldier, who was the first Peabody man to be killed in the late war and whose body is the first to be returned from the battlefields of France. It is estimated that more than 1000 men will be in the parade following the funeral services at the South church Sunday afternoon.

Final arrangements were made last night by the special committee of which William F. Carlin, representing the American Legion, is chairman. Commander Joseph T. Sweeney will be chief marshal of the parade. The funeral service at the South church at 3 o'clock will follow the service at City Hall, where the body will be carried at 1 o'clock to lie in state. Mayor Shea will speak for the city and Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, chaplain of the Legion Post, will give the eulogy. A letter will be read from General Edwards of the YD brigade.

It is possible that Chaplain Stackpole of the 102d F. A., of which Warner was a member and in whose tent the Peabody boy was taken following his death wounds, may assist in the funeral service at the South church.

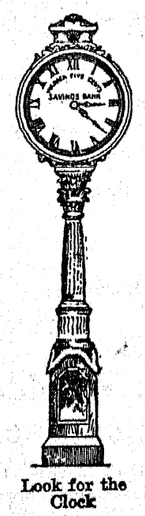
Fuller Fund Total Today Nearly $300

The Peabody Enterprise Fuller Fund, announcement of which was made in last week's paper, is fast approaching $300, with the receipts now in hand, and numerous pledges have been made. The generous manner in which the citizens have responded to our appeal for a subscription fund for the benefit of the dead man's widow and small children is most gratifying. There seems to be plenty of assurance that the total amount will reach several hundreds of dollars.



Miss Gertrude Kiley of 63 Aborn street, one of the best known employes at the Danvers Bleachery, where the deceased police and widow were formerly employed, has performed a great service in collecting more than $160 for the fund, mostly from employes at the Bleachery. Numerous pledges yesterday afternoon and this morning were received by the Enterprise too late for publication today, but these names will be printed next week. The first list of subscribers to the fund is given on page three of this issue:

PROPOSED DENTAL CLINIC BUTT OF QUARREL---SAYS BAKEMAN

Editor of the Enterprise:

The question was raised in last week's issue of your paper as to the reason for the delay of the School Board in arranging details of the "Dental Clinic."

I am not authorized to speak for the School Board, but as one member of it, I want to join forces with you to find out where the Dental Clinic is. I have been trying to find it ever since the original budget went to the Council without it. The School Board put it into its budget with an appropriation of $1600 for equipment and expenses from September till January, 1922.

It was not in the orignal budget and when I inquired why I was told that it slipped out somewhere between the Mayor's office and the Council. I was then told that the City Solicitor had ruled that the Dental Clinic was a matter for the Board of Health. I then consulted the agent of the Board of Health, who told me that they had taken no action.

I was then told that the matters that were omitted from the School Board's budget would be taken care of in the supplementary budget. That has now gone in and contains no appropriation for a Dental Clinic.

I am now told that there has been a dispute among the dentists of the city as to who shall have the job and that the matter has gotten into politics, and that no one wants to touch it.

I wonder, Mr. Editor, how long the people of this community are going to allow the plain interests of the children to be made the football of politics and greed? For I believe that these two forces have been responsible for the killing of this project.

The question of a sound set of teeth for every child in our schools has gotten beyond the stage where it needs to be argued. There are enough natural inequalities and artificial handicaps to the children of the poorer families in any community to make it a crime not to tackle the problem of the children's dental welfare immediately.

I hope an aroused public conscience will sweep away all the hidden forces that are standing in the way of this just piece of legislation.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT A. BAKEMAN.

Mrs. A. C. Davis and family of Bartholomew street have gone to their summer home at Northwood Narrows, N. H.

The home of Charles Hobbs on Lynn street was struck by lightning early Saturday morning. An ell has just been added to the house and was occupied by a daughter, Hilma, as a sleeping room. She went down stairs to let in her brother, who was sleeping in a hammock on the piazza, and as she started to go upstairs the lightning struck the room where she had been sleeping. The whole window casings were thrown on the bed, ceiling damaged and gas globes broken, but no fire was started. It was a narrow escape for Hilma and she does not care to have the experience repeated.

Quite a little excitement was created on County street Tuesday evening when a black horse hitched to a carryall ran away. The horse got frightened at a ball which struck him in the leg and as he started to run a boy and a man in the back seat jumped to the ground, and the horse struck the front steps at Charles Newhall's residence, ripping them off, also two posts of an adjoining fence. The wagon overturned and the horse fell down, throwing out the other occupants, two men. The man who jumped was taken to the Thomas hospital, but was only cut on his ear. They were Polish people who live on Andover street.

So. Peabody Church Folk Give Pageant

Some 300 people witnessed the pageant of "The Rose Queen," Wednesday evening, held on the Bushby field, and there was not a dull moment from the time the queen was heralded by Lincoln Walker until she was carried away to fairy land. A throne was built and trimmed with ropes of green foliage and roses. The queen, Eileen Tucker, was surrounded by about 15 little tots, in light dresses and wearing crowns. The months of the year were represented and appeared before the queen, then taking seats on the grass in a large circle which had been roped off. First was an exhibition of tossing in a blanket and pyramid building by the Boy Scouts, followed by a flag drill by 16 small boys. A jumping rope dance was next by eight girls. Miss Mary Collins gave a solo dance, an Irish jig in pretty costume. Five girls then gave clown antics, dressed in costume, and the leader, Eva Broughton, sang a solo. The Campfire Girls sang a pretty Indian song and they wore their regulation gowns.

A clap and bow exercise followed by eight small girls. Miss Dorothy Doyle gave a pretty nature dance. Next came the snowdrops, eight little girls, dressed in white and they sprinkled the queen with their snow. A very pretty valentine drill was given by eight older girls with heart trimmed dresses. An Irish jig was given by six girls dressed in green crepe paper. A ballet dance was given by four young ladies, which showed that they were artists. Their dresses were yellow, green, blue and purple. A parasol drill was given by small boys and girls which was very cute and ended by the little boys escorting their partners off under huge umbrellas.

The last exhibition was the winding of the May pole by 12 girls, and the vari-colored streamers were wound around the white pole and then unwound, making a pretty closing to the exhibition. The queen was then carried away on the shoulders of two young ladies.

The whole program showing the hard work and time which has been given Miss Ella Reed originated the entertainment and deserves praise for the way she worked to make it a success. No little credit is due Wright Gregson who also put in time and work for the occasion. Altogether it was the best exhibition that has been seen in South Peabody for some time. A prettily decorated booth did a thriving business on cake, candy and aprons, and the ice cream supply could have been doubled.

High Prices For Shoes Will Remain As Long As Public Buy---"Energy"

The shoe style show which recently held forth in Boston gave one ideas of shoes plus pretty feet and ankles. The young women selected for the purpose of giving the shoes pep, so to speak, knew how to show the shoes and the rest. I presume the same placed on other feet would not have given the impression so well, but it goes to show what the public want to attract them. We are in an age of hot air which, if directed properly, gets results.

But shows of this kind get results from a practical standpoint. It pays to advertise is indeed a true saying, and by advertising that means any old way to reach the public. Many innovations have been attempted by daring shoe manufacturers of late, to try and catch business. Under conditions it undoubtedly pays to make something new when ordinarily it would not be necessary. For instance, a low cut shoe reinforced with extra leather in stripes has had a big run. There is nothing particularly attractive about this shoe only it is different. With the extra leather and rubber heels, brogan boots had nothing on this shoe for weight. For summer it appeared to me to be as far from a summer shoe as are snow balls in that hot country we are told to go to, by our friends. But it matters little. If some of those high-priced stores in Boston told some people that rubber boots were to be the style this year, they would purchase four pairs for fear the supply would give out.

—*—

The Hunt-Rankin Leather Co., A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., Thayer, Foss Co. and the H. S. and M. W. Snyder Co. have booths at the National Shoe and Leather fair in Boston this week. The Peabody Chamber of Commerce furnished placards "Made in Peabody" for all of the local exhibits, so Peabody is getting some good advertising out of the fair.

—*—

Retailers are still applying the high price tag to their shoes. This week a friend purchases two pairs of a high rental shoe in Boston for $18 a pair. The same is sold by others for $10, and there are some stores who will sell them to you for $8, rather than have you go out without purchasing, Just so long as there are people whose money exceed their economy, just so long will high prices in shoes prevail, and after all that is said and done, no one blames the retailer for this soft picking. But the boob or the man who prefers to spend his money this way has that perfect right, only he does not figure the results to the public in general, and no doubt cares less. The everybody for himself idea has been deep rooted in the last few years, and it does not mean good to U. S. as a whole.

—*—

Is business rotten? Ask most any leather man and let him expatiate naturally and fluently, and if you do not get a dose of the English which would rival Shakespeare, I will sit down. Still, here is a point that shows the difference between tanners. One fellow is making the same line as another shop, one is busy, the other playing golf. It goes to prove there is some business stirring. It proves that strict attention to business makes more money than strict attention to keeping your eye on the ball.

Asking one tanner here what is doing, he tells me blacks are having the attention of one-half his business. This is something new and it shows a different trend to leather affairs. For winter wear it seems that the dark shades and blacks are to be popular. This condition may be only a feeler. It may mean that later new colors will come in which will take the eye of those who follow styles. But the wave of economy which is to come, for without it we will be high and dry on the rocks of business disaster, will want dark colored shoes for winter. Germany is leading the way, her sons and daughters are applying themselves to produce goods that will sell anywhere if price is considered. We are to get a taste of these prices soon, and it must wake us to the fact that five o'clock teas plus cabarets are nice in their line, but the line becomes crooked with so many hangers on. In other words, get busy.

—*—

Sole leather has always been sold by weight, but George C. Vaughn deals out his leather by the foot. To measure such leather requires a machine that is not built. Stiff as forty pokers, the Sawyer type is not built for the job, and so a special machine is being constructed. He formerly measured by hand, which appears to be the best method for his stock.

—*—

The Hood pin measuring machine is on its last legs. There is no one who repairs this machine, and its passing is to be regretted. This machine was sanctioned at Washington as being perfect and when Mr. Hood lived he kept it in the limelight. I insist that with some improvements this machine would be a winner today. The Korrect for some work is no doubt the best, but there are many kinds of leather which the pin machine would measure far better. In other words there is room for both types, and it is up to some one to bring the pin machine to that state of perfection which would wararnt it being built.

—*—

I note many $4.00 shoes displayed in the local store windows. Such as I have seen do not compare favorably with $6 ones. One who has any idea of leather would place these cheap shoes in a class by themselves. True it is one cannot expect these times much for $4, but the job lots of leather used show in their countenance, as compared with better grades. The efforts of some stores to bring these shoes before the public was justified and has brought good business. But I am looking for a better shoe for this money in the near future.

—*—

The Ryan Shoe Co. on Peabody square are doing a rushing business. They make a child's shoe and the fact they are busy, the first time for years, shows us something is doing, and the best is yet to come.

THE O'BRIEN GIRL

George M. Cohan's Comedians in the musical comedy, "The O'Brien Girl," has for the past eleven weeks been establishing records for popularity that have never before been approached. The show has proved to be of the quality that provides perfect entertainment always of the cleanest and cheerful kind. There is always present the evidence of the magic of George M. Cohan's art in staging, an art that reveals itself in a bubbling swiftness of action and breezy fun.

Next Monday night will be especially observed by the bestowal upon the girl with the prettiest smile of the Cohan diamond ring, and Mr. Cohan will be present to give it to the winner on that evening, the presentation taking place between the first and second acts. It will also be observed as "O'Brien Night," for on that evening a great number of Boston O'Briens will attend in a body.

There never was a musical comedy with such a brilliant array of star players to enact the roles as this attraction can boast. The protagonists of music, fun and dance in "The O'Brien Girl" are of first eminence, and thus the performance is marked with an infectious liveliness and cheerful humor so that the auditor obtains the maximum pleasure from attendance. Out of town theatre-goers may be assured of perfect attention to mail orders. The matinees are on Wednesday and Saturdays and are popular priced.

The many friends in West Peabody of Miss Hazel Whitehouse of Moultonboro, N. H., will be very sorry to hear she has been operated on for appendicitis at the Laconia City hospital.

Miss Cora Whitehouse of Pine street is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Sarah Sweet, in South Peabody.

THE LITTLE GODS.

IS MAN all error, God all truth?
I sometimes wonder. Why does God
Put noble hearts in coats uncouth
And silken raiment on a clod?
Rags for the innocent to wear
And for the jade the satin shawl—
I see such error everywhere
I sometimes wonder, after all.

And yet I do not wonder long:
This topsy-turvy is not His—
The world of right, the world of wrong,
The same today and ever is.
If sin wears satin, virtue rags,
'Tis not God's fault—it is because
We sit upon our money-bags
And dare to change God's very laws.

Our little time we play the lord,
Forgetting God, ourselves are gods,
And virtue punish, sin reward,
While judgment slumbers, justice nods.
And then some day a mighty hand
Shall sweep us from our stolen throne—
No little gods shall rule the land,
But God shall rule, and men atone.

The little gods are many—lust,
Extravagance and idleness,
And greed that bathes itself in dust,
And flippant speech, immodest dress;
The little gods shall rule awhile
Their little women, little men—
And then the Only God will smile
And set the world to rights again!

LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS ARE PROVING REAL ATTRACTION FOR KIDDIES

Last Saturday and Monday of this week most of the playgrounds were closed for the day on account of rain and wet grounds. With the exception of the rainy days the playgrounds have had a better attendance than in former years.

Wednesday afternoon about 300 children from all of the playgrounds and their instructors gathered at the park to enjoy games and to obtain suggestions on their handicraft work by comparing notes. The Emerson Park playground was certainly the coolest place in the city, and its appearance was a credit to the work of Mr .Roach, the caretaker.

Friday afternoon at 2.30 Miss Woodman, assistant supervisor, will meet the lady instructors from all of the playgrounds at the Community House gymnasium and demonstrate the physical training work to be carried out with the girls.

"Billy' 'Crean's baseball team from the High school playground whitewashed MacDonald's team from the Wallis school Wednesday afternoon at Emerson Park. Batteries: High school—Viles p, Wiggin c. Wallis school—Eager p, Flaherty c. Score—11-0.

Emerson Park: Arthur Fennessey's baseball team is coming along fast, although there are only four men from last year's team playing, Edward Donovan, Bernard Coyle, John Lane and Dan Donovan. Miss Woodman has eleven girls started on sewing projects and three girls who are knitting sweaters. The afternoon scene about the sand box and in the shade of the beautiful elm trees reminds one of a day nursery with so many mothers and three-year-olds.

East End—The attendance at these grounds has been unusually large, averaging one hundred on pleasant days. Miss McElroy reports that she has twelve girls on crochet work, all doing fine. The sand box is oversupplied with sand due to the kindness of the National Calfskin Co. in dumping two loads beside that which the playgrouid commission furnished. A day nursery was also reported at this playground.

Miss O'Keefe at the Bleachery has developed something new in the line of handiwork with which all of the children are pleased. She does not wish to announce at this time the nature of the work.

Miss Coyle has the several sewing projects staretd and at the same time is developing a girls' baseball team, naming Frieda Goodfader as one of the stars.

"Joe" Kirane's ball team is going to play a number of games with the playground team at Gallows Hill, Salem. "Joe" claims to have the makings of a fine girls' basketball team, heralding Mary Long as his star pitcher.

Miss Madison at Sutton Park and Miss Andrews at the Wallis school report a large number of sewing projects started.

Miss Reed at the South school and Miss Lynch at the Samuel Brown school have a number of basketry projects planned. It was the children from the South school who took away the prizes for basketry last year.

Allan Munroe and Miss Carten at the West Peabody grounds, which opened this week, report a good attendance and a lively interes.t

Hospital Has Thanks For Enterprise

July 13, 1921.

Mr. Frank W. Penniman,
Peabody Enterprise
Peabody, Mass.
Dear Mr. Penniman:

The raising of more than $100,000 as a building fund for the new hospital was greatly assisted by the generous co-operation of the press of the North Shore. For the liberal space given in your valuable columns to the news of this undertaking in behalf of the sick babies of the district, the officers of the hospital desire to express their sincere appreciation.

With the building fund assured, the hospital now enters into a more extended effort to obtain the endowment and your continued interest and support of this cause will help materially in providing this much needed institution for the North Shore.

Yours sincerely,
MARGARET L. ROPES,
For the Executive Committee, North Shore Babies' Hospital.

P. S. This note cannot begin to express our thanks for your help in every way.

Famous Poem Founded on Fact

Mrs. Hemans' poem "Casablanca" is founded on the death of Louis Casablanca, a French naval officer. As captain of the flagship Orient, he commanded the fleet, which transported Napoleon to Egypt. In the battle of Abukir, Admiral Brueyes was killed and Casablanca was put in command. He was wounded and the ship caught fire, but still he remained at his post. His 10-year-old son would not leave his father and both were killed when the ship was blown up.

City Hall Notes

The rumor is abroad that an attempt was made by a minority of the school board to demote a popular Lowell street girl holding a high position in our public schools in order to make room for an applicant who has so far failed of appointment, in our school system. The young lady has a record that is unimpeachable, is backed by years of experience in our own city, and it would seem that the latest campaign in the aspirant's behalf is doomed to the repeated failure.

—*—

The tax rate has been prophesied from $25 to rising $30. Let us guess again and make it $28.50. The real rate should be known next week. A jump of $8 is some jump, but new schoolhouses cost double of normal times, but we must have them, so say the school committee. How many of them pay more than a poll tax?

—*—

The bringing back the body of Delmar Warner is an aftermath of the war and its frightfulness back again. Those of us who lost loved ones in those dark days may believe the sacrifice well worth while, but it has turned the lives of many a loving father and mother into a channel where life will be different.

—*—

William F. Goggin started on his vacation in a heavy rain which did not dampen his spirits, however. City Hall hopes for his safe return with his health improved. One vacation in four years ought to be enjoyed.

—*—

The new auditor protem is there on the job, and everything going smoothly. This job of auditor is a busy one and has not been appreciated by many in the past. No dogan can handle it successfully.

—*—

The gathering in of stills by the police keeps them busy. But we think there are many still not unearthed, but our business does not warrant us scouting for them. It used to be "where there is life there is hope." Let us substitute stills for hope.

—*—

Let us hope there will not be a fire in City Hall, but should one come, the records of 50 years will be a sorry mess. The Enterprise has touched on this subject several times without results. There should be fireproof vaults large enough for each department to have their books to look up the many records they are called upon to do. They are now sprinkled around where there is room and every vault is over crowded. This proposition is a necessity, Mr. Mayor.

—*—

The tablet in the entrance of City Hall is appropriately draped with crepe in memory of Hero Warner. A sad rite.

—*—

The traffic cop on Peabody square has become a fixture and could be more useful by keeping one there longer. This corner is a dangerous place for autos and pedestrians.

—*—

There has been some complaint of ages in the list of polls. Wait until you get the woman's list, and you will find they are growing younger each year. The age matter is a joke, as there is no penalty by giving any old age. It may seem tough to grow old, but let us see you help it.

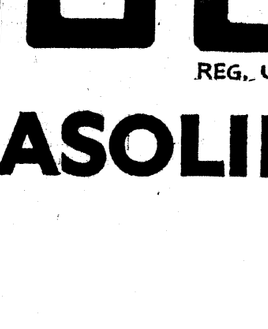
—*—

The Salem Board of Assessors visited Peabody this week and told of the many improvements they have made in that department the last two years. They are enthusiastic in their work, and from what they told the Peabody Board, tax payers have not been given a square deal in years past. Will they be appreciated, or will the next Mayor fire them for political friends?

—*—

The sewer department tell us there is much foreign matter taken out in their rounds this year. As usual, South Peabody is claimed to furnish much of this matter, even if Frank Emerson has applied the law vigorously. Salem is making several moves to stop the nuisance in their section, and as usual claim the whole trouble is Peabody. If so, why do they not file law suits?

—*—



Meanwhile the city garage and health department go their ways without a ripple. The Mayor asked for a clerk at the garage, for some one said the records were kept on their sleeves.

School Board Play Politics, Says Barry

Election of a commercial teacher for Peabody high school is the big business before the Peabody school board tomorrow. There are three candidates. Among the three are two local aspirants and an out-of-town teacher. The vote last week was three, two and one.

The first candidate was a local girl, graduate of Peabody high and with one training at a commercial school. Another local girl was a graduate of Peabody high, two years' schooling at Burdett's and two years part time actual teaching. The third candidate was a graduate of Newburyport high, an academy in Hartford and a holder of an A. B. degree from Wellesley college and other qualifications being equal was naturally the best choice. She received two votes, those of William R. Barry and Rev. Robert A. Bakeman. It is hinted that this last candidate has enough votes to be elected tomorrow. Only inside politics can defeat that end.

In a statement to the Enterprise today, Committeeman Barry says he will coninue to vote for the out-of-town teacher because of her vastly superior qualifications. He says:

"When they are equally well or better qualified than other contestants, let us elect local applicants as school teachers. Nevertheless, we must bear in mind that the prime consideration for any school board is the mutual welfare and protection of its school children. Members of a school board

FIND BURNED TIMBER IN WOODMAN'S OFFICE DUE TO FAULTY WIRING

Removal of the partitions in the former office of Principal Woodman at the high school has disclosed charred timbers and cleats caused from faulty wire installation. The discovery proves beyond argument the wisdom of City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe who argued that modern installation should be made with the present changing over of the high school. A reporter for the Enterprise inspected the burned timbers this week.

Why a fire had not occurred with possible serious results in the building is a question. The structural conditions of the old school were found such as to make the building a fire trap in several places.

Some comment is being passed that the architects have wasted room in making the corridors so large. The attempt was made to have the new addition corridors match the ones in the old building.

Janitor Michael Collins is disturbed over the fact that only about four feet is given him at the end of the engine room to clean out the three big boilers which are being put in position this week. A concrete wall will obstruct his play and it is held that the wall might have been moved back a few feet.

PARABLES of TRAVEL

A traveler journeying in a lonesome way was set upon by a highwayman, who took his wallet, but the traveler only laughed. Then said the highwayman unto himself, "How is it that this man makes merry when I take away his money?" and he opened the wallet, and behold, it contained "A. B. A." Cheques. The robber was exceedingly wroth, for he saw that the Cheques were not countersigned and were of use only to the rightful owner, and he cast them at the traveler and departed. But the traveler went on his way in safety.

"A. B. A." Cheques, not countersigned, are of use only to the original owner, and if lost or stolen may be replaced. Hotels, railroads and merchants accept them, and 50,000 banks cash them.

Report Crops In Good Shape

Crops are in splendid condition throughout New England. In the manufacture of cotton goods, mills making ginghams, percales and bleached muslins are working at capacity and practically all woolen mills are operating at near capacity. There is a very appreciable increase in activity in hides, leather and shoes. Retail reports show that in volume more goods are being sold than in 1920, although prices are materially reduced. The credit situation is much better.

Many concerns which were believed a few months ago to be hopelessly involved, have braved the storm and their inventories having been liquidated, they are in a position to take advantage of all favorable market conditions.

'Daddy of All" Is Sam Watts Letter Carrier

The Enterprise begins today a series of stories which will introduce in an intimate manner the Peabody letter carriers and postal clerks. One sketch will appear each week with a photograph of the subject.

Samuel Watts, the "Daddy of 'em all," is today the ranking letter carrier in point of service on the local force. He will have been 31 years on his present job when November comes, for he was appointed a substitute carrier in November, 1890, and two weeks later, on the resignation of William Smith, was made a regular carrier. Thomas Jackman was postmaster at the time. Mr. Watts was appointed a substitute carrier with the first appointments of letter carriers for the Peabody postoffice. Arthur Elliott, Joseph Wiggin, William Beckett and William Smith were the first four regular carriers. Messrs. Wiggin and Smith have passed beyond. Mr. Beckett resigned from the force and is now in Maine, and Mr. Elliott retired on a pension last year, is still a resident of this city.

Mr. Watts has covered every section of Peabody in the delivery of mail except "Crow Village." His longest route used to be thru Gardner Park and Margin street back to Wilson Square, thence to Forest street and back down Franklin street. This route he covered twice a day, a distance of close to 10 miles.

There have been three postmasters since Mr. Watts joined the force. William F. Wiley followed Postmaster Jackman and in 1912 Dennis J. Dullea, the present postmaster, took charge.

Letter Carrier Watts has made many friends by his long service, and his name is a by-word in hosts of Peabody homes. He is affable, careful and keeps well to his schedule. His service has been of the highest quality and still is.

He was born June 22, 1864 in Philadelphia, but removed to Peabody when he was 16 and entered the leather trade. He married Julia A. Bagley,

FUNDS FOR INVALID SOLDIERS

Congress has just made available a special fund of $500,000 to meet the temporary needs of disabled veterans of the World War, who are receiving federal vocational training. Until the act of congress providing this fund, former service men have had to borrow funds from the Red Cross, or from other sources, to carry them until their training was completed. During the past year the Red Cross gave financial assistance to over 4000 disabled ex-service men.

Peabody Leather Men Protest Tariff on Hides

(By ENERGY)

Because the leather industry has not enough to cope with, congress is inclined to place a duty on imported hides and at first none on the imported leather. We all know that a duty on hides means a higher priced article for both the foreign and imported ones. It gives the large producers of hides in this country millions yearly, and again the public pays the bills.

Calfskins I presume are included in the dutiable list and if so it means a punch, for the best skins for leather making come from Europe. Hides perhaps do not enter this quality as much, although the same countries that produce these best skins, naturally have the same quality in hides. Holland, Belgium and France take off the best skins, while in quantity Russia was the biggest producer, before Bolshevism took the reins. Now what hides we get from Russia are few. It must be they are going somewhere if saved, and no doubt a large percentage are spoiled for want of attention.

But what seems to be the most part of a duty, is the protection of the shoe and leather industry. Leather made in Germany will undersell any we can manufacture. Labor there is cheaper, and with the help of the government in shipping their goods at low rates, such leather which in quality is equal to any we make, where do we fit? Again shoes made there and in other countries of Europe are sure to reach our shores unless protection is applied in the shape of duty. The situation appears to me to be serious, and should congress elect to protect this industry, then we can sell shoes here, but what about abroad?

It has always been conceded in years past the U. S. workmen produced more than did European labor. It was said that men there did not go over 50 per cent. as much as our workmen produce. That was before the war. It is plain today that conditions are far different. It may be that time will bring us back, but the attitude of many labor unions is to hold to prices and amount done. It is simply a cose of addition, and we lose.

But I have confidence in the judgment of the U. S. people to believe when pressed too hard by foreign competition they will tackle it with the same spirit as of yore, or in other words produce the goods. Meanwhile the lesson must be brought home so clearly as experience will bring it.

I am informed that Endicott Johnson are making 95,000 pairs of shoes daily. One day's work will shoe Salem, Beverly, Ipswich, Peabody and the small towns hereabouts. What an octopus this concern has got to be. What a power they must be in the shoe world, brushing aside competition if necessary. Is it for the best interests of the country to have such concerns? Bird Sews Leaves With Silk.

The winter is a good time to find birds' nests, as the hedges are leafless, and nests may be found in places which have been carefully searched in vain in summer. The kingfisher's nest is a wonderful thing, being composed of fishbones. It is possible that these bones are the remains of feasts the bird going to the same hole year after year when nesting. Still more wonderful is the craftsmanship of the noisy tailor birds of India, which with their bills thread leaves together with the silk of caterpillar cocoons.

Ancient Egyptian Homes.

The walls of the courts and rooms in ancient Egyptian homes were painted with brilliant colors and the floors were covered with woven mats and skins of wild animals. As for household furniture, the inmates of Egyptian homes slept upon the floors, others reposed upon straight couches richly inlaid, which often were lion-shaped, the head, back and tail of the animal forming the body of the couch and its legs the supports.

Animals Fond of Fish.

The assertion by White of Selborne that all quadrupeds which feed on fish are amphibious is erroneous. No one would regard the dog as an amphibious animal, while as for the cat it is well known to be the one quadruped above all others that hates even wetting its feet. Yet few, if any, quadrupeds are fonder of fish, though one that actually engages in fishing is no doubt a rarity among the feline tribe.—Exchange.

BALLOON ASCENSION FOR LEATHER UNION FIELD DAY, AUGUST 6

The Leather Workers' Union of Peabody is to conduct its big field day at Emerson Park on Saturday, August 6. Something doing every minute has been the motto of the committee. The athletic events consist of open events, 100-yard dash, running broad jump, hop step and jump; closed events for union members, 100-yard dash, running broad jump, hop step and jump, shot-put, discus throw and 14-pound stone throwing contest for Greeks only. There will be a two-mile marathon for boys under 16 years of age. Playground sports will be under the supervision of Henry King of the Peabody Playground Commission. Balloon ascension, band concert and dancing, tug of war between Div. 11, A. O. H., of Peabody and Div. 5, A. O. H., of Salem, are added features.

HOWARD DULLO
Turkish Wrestler

Athletic entries must be sent to Box 391 before August 3.

One of the banner attractions will be a wrestling match between Eddie Anderson, the amateur middleweight champion of New England, and Howard Dullo, the Turkish middleweight champion of New England. These wrestlers have been wrestling at carnivals held in this district for the past two or three years, but nobody has been successful in bringing these two middle-weights together. However, the Leather Workers' Union has finally succeeded in matching them, and both are very confident of a win. High enthusiasm is being shown throughout the district, especially among the foreign speaking people, who no doubt feel sure that their favorite will win the laurels.

POPULAR WILLIAM FARNUM AT STRAND THEATRE TONIGHT

William Farnum, admittedly one of the most popular stars in filmdom, will appear at the Strand today and Saturday in "His Greatest Sacrifice." Few stars have enjoyed and held their popularity as William Farnum has. Starting his career in the early days of the screen, he has won thousands of admirers and continues to win more with every new picture. The story of "His Greatest Sacrifice" is a thoroughly human one, filled with dramatic incident from beginning to end. The star is cast as a successful author, whose wife is lured away from her home life to follow an operatic career. Her husband makes a desperate effort to convince her that happiness is found in the home. His efforts to keep her at home simply spur the wife on in her determination to sacrifice love and happiness for a career. Farnum shows his great versatility in this picture, as the torsy covers a period of twenty years. Another exciting chapter of Joe Ryan's serial play, "The Purple Riders," and a Sunshine comedy entitled "His Noisy Still" will be the other attractive numbers on the bill for today and Saturday.

William Desmond in "Life's a Funny Proposition" and Billie Rhodes in "Hoopla" will be the double feature bill for Sunday.

Probably nearly every patron of the Strand remembers Thomas H. Ince's picture "Lying Lips" and recalls also that it was one of the most satisfying productions ever offered at the local playhouse. Starting Monday another of Mr. Ince's special features entitled "Mother of Mine" will be presented. It is saying a whole lot to make the statement that "Mother of Mine" is even better than "Lying Lips," but this assertion is borne out by film critics and film fans all over the country. Aside from its wonderful story, which is based upon mother love, Mr. Ince's latest production boasts of an all-star cast that includes Betty Blythe, Joseph Kilgour, Lloyd Hughes, Betty Ross Clarke and Claire MacDowell. "Mother of Mine" is an adaption of the story "The Octopus" by C. Gardner Sullivan.

The story concerns the efforts of a mother to save her son who is falsely accused of murder. The plot has been developed in a highly original way and some of the most thrilling moments ever recorded before the camera make it irresistable in its human appeal. It is a genuine, sure fire hit that will appeal to young and old alike.

Eugene O'Brien in "Broadway and Home" and Jane Novak in "Wolves of the North" will be the bill for next Wednesday and Thursday. In addition to the two features mentioned above Ruth Roland in "The Avenging Arrow" will be presented.

Mother's Cook Book

Of all the earthly music that reaches farthest into heaven, is the beating of a truly loving heart.—H. W. Beecher.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY.

GIVE the children carrots; the young tender carrot is rich in iron and other minerals needed in the blood. Serve them once or twice a week in different ways so that the family will not tire of them. Cooked in as little water as possible and served with butter in their own sauce, with perhaps a dash of lemon juice and a grating of nutmeg, no vegetable is more wholesome or appetizing.

Orangeade.

Take two cupfuls of orange juice, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of strained cranberry juice and two quarts of water. Boil the sugar and water together five minutes, then cool and add the strained juices. Garnish each glass with a slice of orange hung on the edge of the glass.

Simple Dessert.

Break crustless bread into a bowl and pour over it enough canned fruit juice to thoroughly soak the bread. Set away to chill and serve with cream and sugar. Such a dessert is especially good for the little folks.

String Beans and Tomatoes.

Take freshly cooked string beans and put into a baking dish with some olive oil, chopped onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Cook slowly. As the beans dry out add the strained juice of tomatoes.

Cheese With Tomatoes.

Take one cupful of stewed tomatoes, one-half slice of onion chopped, and one cupful of cheese cut in bits; cook until soft and then add a teaspoonful of salt and the same amount of paprika. Serve on toast or hot crackers.

Orange Sherbet.

Use a pint of orange juice, a quarter of a cup of lemon juice, sugar to sweeten and add one pint of cream. Freeze and serve with a garnish of candied peel or orange marmalade.

Lemon Raisin Pie.

Take a cupful of large raisins, add a cupful of sugar, one large lemon, part of the grated rind, a tablespoonful of flour and a cupful of water. Bake with two crusts.

For a Friday meal serve boiled fish, lemon sauce, baked potatoes and a steamed pudding with an egg sauce.

Peabody Boys Climb Trails In Mountains

(By Stephen A. Stickney)

On Saturday, July 9, a group of 11 boys gathered at the corner of School and Franklin streets loaded with bags, suitcases and everything necessary to carry on a week's vacation in the mountains. The boys were carrying these as they were to be the guests of John O. Ballentine for that length of time at his ideal camp in Jackson, N. H.

Soon after 12.30 the automobiles that were to carry them up, arrived and after arranging the load the party set out on the long and enjoyable trip of 153 miles to the White Mountains. They went by the way of Newburyport, Dover, Rochester, Ossipee and Conway to Jackson and arrived a short while after dark.

We received a cordial welcome at the camp and realized from the first mmute that it was going to be a week of new and fascinating experiences.

The camp is beautifully located in the heart of the mountains and abounds with extraordinary scenery. From the camp one can see on the north, Wildcat Mountain and Carter Dome separated by Carter Notch. On the east lies the Black mountains running parallel to the Spruce mountains on the west, while looking to the south between these two ranges one can see a most beautiful valley laden with all the picturesqueness that an artist could dream of. Beyond the valley on a clear day Mount Chocorna rises to complete the effect of a mammoth amphi-theatre with Jackson village the stage.

The boys showed their ability at climbing mountains by ascending Carter Notch and hence to the Dome which rises 4880 feet above sea level. Soon after breakfast on Tuesday the boys set out carrying knapsacks of food and canteens of water and after a long and arduous struggle reached the Notch, but they had only started climbing thus far. The real test came in going up to Carter Dome, the trail to which at times approached the perpendicular. However, the boys were equal to the undertaking and in duo time we reached the Dome, tired but triumphant. We had quite a chat with the fire warden who has a lookout there, gathered some souvenir rocks, emptied the knap-sacks to advantage and as the saying goes, "everything that goes up must come down," we obeyed the law of placement and found that the return to camp was much easier. Luckily it was, as our regular supper-time had passed before we reached home.

The camp is fitted out in detail. The livingroom with its fireplace proved an excellent retreat for games of checkers, flinch, etc., and while gathered about the room the boys heard tales of pirates and ghosts as related by Mr. Morrill, the chef, who proved himself expert in story-telling as well as in cooking. The dining-room is fitted out on a screened-in piazza, and speaking of diningrooms, Mr. Ballentine proved to be as good a provider in the food line as in others.

I heard him tell the cook that he wanted the boys fed to the limit and his orders were carried out. At the close of every meal there was half as much food left as the boys consumed, and such appetites as we all had. We ate heartily every day, slept restfully every night, and enjoyed ourselves strenuously at all times. If I should describe it more I would only prove one point, and that is, that "Camp Ballentine is ideally placed, arranged and slperintended."

We also climbed Black mountain which was not so difficult a feat as ascending Carter Dome. However, from the top we viewed Mt. Washington, Baldface, Doublehead and Chocorna and several others, the names of which we could not ascertain. We also ran the rapids in Wildcat river, jumping from rock to rock and escaped with wet feet as our only casualties.

The boys who received the royal treat due to Mr. Ballentine's generosity are: Leo Clark, Fay avenue; Timothy Dynan, Chestnut street; Joseph Gleason, Franklin street; Lawrence Halleran, Franklin hill; Artemus Makela, Augustus street; Ambrose McDonald, Franklin hill; John Mahoney, Franklin street; Malcolm Morrison, Kosciusko street; Sammy Rosentein, Lowell street, and Henry Thompson, Ellsworth road.

Whether the boys enjoyed every mnute of the week is best told in an answer one boy made which was encored by all. Mr. Ballentine on the eve of breaking camp said, "Well, boys, when are you coming up again?" He received the quick and sincere answer from one of the boys, "That all depends on you, Mr. Ballentine."

The boys showed their appreciation by cheering Mr. Ballentine, Camp Ballentine, Mr. Morrill, the chef, and then a general cheer was given all who helped to make the week so successful and enjoyable.

Master Jack Jeffers of Washington, D. C., is visiting Mrs. M. B. Sullivan of Wallis street.

WEDDING ETIQUETTE

Etiquette with all its littlenesses and niceties is founded on a central idea of right and wrong.—Dr. J. Brown.

GOOD form starts many a couple smoothly sailing on the sea of matrimony. Family dissensions and misunderstandings, which have their origin at the very wedding feast, often end in serious trouble between the bride and groom or their newly acquired relatives.

Remember then that invitations should be sent out two weeks before the date of the wedding. They should be engraved and mailed in sealed envelopes with two-cent stamps. The plainest dead white paper is used, absolutely void of any decorations save the necessary lettering.

As soon as the invitations have been sent out the prospective bride should lay in a store of nice note paper on which to acknowledge her gifts. She should not write lengthy newsy letters to each friend who sends a gift, but a brief cordial note of thanks. Each day notes should be sent out in thanks for the presents received, this saving that rush that is apt to come if it is put off from time to time. Gifts are sent to the girl while she is Miss Smith and should, if possible, be acknowledged under that name.

At a church wedding the groom with his best man awaits the bride at the altar. The bridal party on entering the church usually is made up as follows: The ushers, two abreast, come first, followed by the bridesmaids, also two abreast, then the maid of honor and finally the bride on the arm of her father or some male relative. On leaving the church after the ceremony, the bride and groom come first, the maid of honor with the best man, then the bridesmaids and lastly the ushers. The father joins the family in leaving the church after the bridal party. One side of the church near the altar is reserved for the bride's family and the other for friends and family of the groom.

Guests follow the bridal party to the house where the reception is held. They greet the bride first, wishing her much happiness. Do not congratulate a bride, but the groom.

The bride introduces to her husband any persons whom he does not know, and he performs a like service for her.

If a buffet supper is served, guests drop into the dining room as they would for an afternoon tea. If a formal supper is served at tables, the bride and groom, with their attendants, are seated at one table in the center of the room. The guests are seated about them at small tables.

When a bride and groom return from their trip, friends and relatives call upon them as soon as they are settled, or as soon as the couple announce their first day at home.

OPTOMISM

Theodore H. Price of New York gives the following ten reasons for his optimistic view of the business outlook:

1—The growing ease of money and the increasing bank reserves.

2—The tone of the stock market, which registering as it does the collective opinion of acute and trained observers, is distinctly firmer and substantially higher.

3—The advance in bonds, which shows that investors are recovering confidence and indicates that hoarded capital will shortly be seeking employment.

4—The government report on the cotton crop, which puts the reduction n acreage at 28 per cent., and connotes a hitherto unattainable degree of cooperation among the southern farmers, by virtue of which they will in the future be able to control the price of cotton, thereby assuring reasonable prosperity to the south.

5—The manifest improvement in the railroad situation evidenced by a very substantial increase in net earnings for May.

6—The remarkable increase in savings bank deposits in New York and Chicago during the past six months.

7—The generally improved position of the public utility companies in the United States as a result of the general advance in street car fares and public service charges that has been authorized.

8—The increase in building activity that is reported from all over the country and the general belief that there is a large potential demand for steel that will make itself felt when prices are reduced.

9—The good distributive trade that is reported in most wholesale staple markets and a retail trade in essentials whose volume as indicated by its money value is as large as last year.

10—The manifest better feeling in England that has followed the settlement of the coal strike and the pourparlers now being held in Dublin and London from which a permanent solution of the troublesome Irish question is expected.

Playground Children At Beach In Series of Summer Outings

This week several of the playgrounds have enjoyed a picnic at the beach. Tuesday the children of the East End and the Bleachery playgrounds, accompanied by their instructors, enjoyed a picnic at Dane Street beach, Beverly. Thursday the children of the Wallis, Sutton Park, High school and Emerson Park playgrounds held a basket lunch at the same beach. A large number of the boys and girls enjoyed a dip in the water and races on the sand.

The baseball team of the High school playgrounds suffered two defeats during the past week. Last Saturday the Emerson Park nine defeated the High school team, 6 to 4. The feature of the game was Puska's smash in the seventh inning, bringing in the winning runs. The Bleachery and the High school played a fast game Wednesday afternoon at Emerson Park. Both teams played well, the game being a scoreless tie up to the last inning, when the Bleachery team put over the winning run. Hammond and Barry played well for the winners and Viles for the High school. Score: Bleachery 1, High school 0. Umpire MacDonald.

Miss Woodman has been making a tour of the playgrounds this week for the purpose of determining the kind and amount of hand work being done by the girls and to take the names of the girls who wish to join the classes in physical training and folk dancing.

Six of the instructors met at the Community House and went through the exercises selected by Miss Woodman as being the best for the development of the children. The girls are anxious to take up this work and already a large number have signified their desire to be in one of the classes which will be held at the Community House gymnasium until the work has progressed sufficiently to warrant success in individual work on the various playgrounds.

Trials for the events for playground children on the Leather Workers' field day, Saturday, August 6, will be held next Wednesday at Emerson Park. Suitable prizes will be offered by the field day committee for the four short races at the park and the marathon race for boys not over sixteen. All entries should be made to the playground instructors before next Wednesday. Events: (1) 100-yard dash for boys fourteen years or over who have not reached their sixteenth birthday; (2) 100-yard dash for boys under fourteen years; (3) 100-yard dash for girls fourteen years or over who have not reached their sixteenth birthday; (4) 100-yard dash for girls under 14 years; (5) Marathon race for boys not over sixteen years of age. Trials next Wednesday will be for first four events only. Following the trials several races will be run for prizes donated by the playground commissioners.

Wednesday afternoon the playgrounds near the center of the city are closed with the exception of Emerson Park, where all the children congregate with their instructors. Children who go to a playground which is closed on that afternoon are not under supervision of an instructor. The playgrounds which are closed on Wednesday afternoons are as follows: East End, Bleachery, Wallis School, High School and Sutton Park.

Instructor Kirane at the Bleachery reports a cricket team at his playground and wishes to issue a challenge to any of the other playgrounds for a game Wednesday afternoon.

At the High School in a recent volley ball contest, Principal W. W. Woodman was reported as a participant and a referee. The smaller boys at the High School grounds defeated the girls' baseball team coached by Miss Coyle, on Monday of this week.

Friday at 2.30 P. M. the girls from the Emerson Park and the Sutton Park playgrounds will meet at the Community House gymnasium for physical training.

C. A buffet lunch was served.

Fuller Fund Total $468

Nearly another hundred dollars was contributed this week to the Peabody Enterprise Fuller Fund in aid of the widow of the late Policeman William P. Fuller, who met a tragic death some weeks ago in a fall from an automobile, making the total up to yesterday noon $468.75.

The Strand theatre employes chipped in and raised ten dollars for the fund this week. Maurice J. Hallinan donated the sum of ten dollars also. The Father Mathew C. T. A. S. members, who cherished the friendship of their late brother "Billy" Fuller, are raising a sum to be acknowledged through the Enterprise, and former shopmates of the deceased officer at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. are passing around a subscription list.

Mrs. Fuller, a young mother, is left a widow with two small children, a boy and girl, and the stork is to pay another visit to her home in the not distant future.

There are numerous other pledges made which will probably be paid in soon. The Enterprise will keep its columns open for the fund for the next few weeks, as a number of friends of the deceased policeman have signified their desire to contrib-

CITY COUNCIL KILLS HEALTH ORDINANCES

Jersey "skeeters" waged battle with the Board of Health last night at the meeting of the City Council, and in the end the summer pests came out victorious, for the Council voted by a majority to indefinitely postpone action on proposed ordinances introduced by Mayor Shea calculating to legalize the creation of the health and poor departments. The "mosquitos" were thick and ferocious even as Councillor McKeen, who led in the attack from the floor on the Mayor's aforesaid ordinances.

The South Peabody Councillor is avowedly the leading Nemesis of His Honor, the Mayor, and the butt of his argument against adoption of the proposed ordinances, now placed in cold storage, is that Mayor Shea has a desire to hand somebody yet a job as agent of the Health department.

After leading in the attack against the proposed measures and not being satisfied then with his efforts, Councillor McKeen tried to get the Council on record as opposed to any change in the Health or Poor department, with particular view of killing off any new job. It was overdoing the effort, apparently, because the Council, by a vote of 6 to 4, refused to so record the august body, President Duggan casting the deciding vote.

Councillor McKeen quoted the statutes which he claimed proved the Board of Health department was automatically established as a department of the city when Peabody started under its present charter. Hence, he argued, proposed ordinances re-establishing the department were superfluous.

This contention was evidently good enough for the majority of the Council, for the measures, one after the other, including one to establish a Board of Overseers of the Poor, fell by the wayside, the vote to indefinitely postpone carrying.

Court Refuses Injunctions

Judge James L. Sisk of the superior court yesterday refused to issue an injunction restraining the Chain Leather Co. and the W. J. Budgell & Sons factories from polluting the North river. Expert testimony was given by Engineer Norman Crane. The court ruled that the evidence did not warrant the injunction issuing. District Attorney Donnell represented the Chain Leather Co. and Judge William H. Fay the Budgell concern.

Fennessey In Clever Rescue

Arthur Fennessey, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Fennessey of Lowell street, rescued Ralph McCarthy, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. McCarthy of Lowell street, from probable death by drowning last Friday, while the children of the Emerson Park playgrounds, of which Fennessey is the popular instructor, were enjoying an outing at Dane street beach, Beverly. The McCarthy boy went beyond his depth in six feet of water and had gone down twice when Instructor Fennessey rushed into the water with all his clothes on and brought him safely to land. Fennessey was loathe to give any particulars about the affair when questioned, but eye witnesses declare it was an heroic rescue and worthy of recognition.

HARRY CAREY AT STRAND TONIGHT IN HIS LATEST COWBOY THRILLER

Harry Carey, the "he's human" star, will appear at the Strand today and Saturday in one of the best Westerns in which he has ever starred—a picture entitled "The Wallop." It is an offering well balanced with humor, primitive action, romance, gun-play, thrills and human interest, and permits the star to risk his life in the role of a lovable character—much after the fashion of his memorable Cheyenne Harry. As John Wesley Pringle, he plays a rough and ready cowboy who finds that his personality lacks something to invite romance. When he finds that the girl he loves cannot see him in the same light, he steps aside and encourages her in her search for romance.

A time comes when he is instrumental in saving his rivals life—a deed that is highly appreciated by the latter. The youth is being sought for a crime of murder—a crime of which he is innocent. When he flees to the mountains, John Wesley goes to protect him. Then in a fight that wins the proverbial jack knife for real action, he clears his rivals name and collects his reward. The picture compels the attention of the spectator every moment that it is on the screen, because of its vigirous action and the rugged acting by the star and his supporting company. A Torchy comedy entitled "Torchy's Nighthood" and Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders," will be the other numbers on the program for today and Saturday.

Bessie Barriscale in "The Woman who Understood" and Florence Vidor in "Poor Relations," will be the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Zasu Pitts heads the supporting cast in "Poor Relations."

The feature attraction for next Monday and Tuesday will be "The Passionate Pilgrim," adapted from a story by Samuel Merwin and which will be presented with an all-star cast that includes among others, Matt Moore, Ruby De Remer, Mary Newcomb, Julia Swane Gordon and Arthur Donaldson. The passionate pilgrim is a newspaper man, one Henry Cavalry, who journeys through life as an unfortunate victim of circumstances. He is a very interesting figure as drawn by Samuel Merwin and humanized upon the screen by Matt Moore, is made doubly so.

Cavalry is a truthful reporter and he details his articles just as he sees life. The consequence is, he is discharged. However, he is rewarded eventually. The picture is wonderfully true to life, the scenes in the newspaper office being genuine.

Elaine Hammerstein in a photoplay version of Kathleen Norris' popular novel, "Poor Dear Margaret Kirby," will be the second feature for Monday. The showing of this picture along with "The Passionate Pilgrim," inaugurates a new policy at the Strand, which will be a double feature bill each week on Monday and Tuesday. Miss Hammerstein made a hit in her picture "The Pleasure Seekers," which was shown at the Strand a few weeks ago, and many inquiries as to when she would appear again have been received by Manager Chet Bent.

John Jackman will spend the weekend at Bretton Woods.

Bradley Loses Life In River; 4 Years In War

News of the death by drowning of George Bradley, Canadian overseas war veteran, and brother-in-law of Archibald A. Mackinnon and Mrs. Harvey J. Risteen of this city, was received this week. A letter giving details of the fatal accident is expected within a few days.

Bradley, the victim, enlisted in the war in 1914 at the call for Canadian volunteers, and he and another soldier were the only two men in the 112th Canadian Infantry who were not killed on the field of battle. Bradley served four and a half years, being a battery sergeant in the signal corps at the end of the conflict. He was slightly wounded and suffered from gas to some extent.

He married Miss Isabelle Mackinnon, sister of Mr. Mackinnon and Mrs. Risteen, who, during the war service of her husband, made her home in Peabody with her sister on Pierpont street.

When Sergt. Bradley returned from overseas he came to Peabody. The lure of the far northwest soon called him and he and his wife, who had married him as a war bride, went back to Alberta, where they had wed. There Sergt. Bradley was given charge of a large district in the government forestry department and it was while in that work that he met his death by drowning last Saturday.

The dead man was born in Sheffield, England. He came to America when a young man and graduated from a high school in Wisconsin. Later he attended a military academy. He was about 42 years of age.

Leather Trade Bit Slow But Leaders Optimistic

(By ENERGY)

The leather business continues slow, but there are many bright spots here and there, principally there. For instance, the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. are doing business in spots. As one said, before the war, there were some departments slack, while others were busy. Today, the same story might be told, with the possible exception that the busy ones are not rushed. Still the fact remains that leather is moving for both foreign and domestic trade. Patent leather which has been out of sight for moons, is in demand, while calf is having the call over all other kinds for vamps. Kid which would be popular if the price was near that of calf is dull, for prices are high in that class of leather.

Is it not queer why prices vary so in kinds of leather? Conditions changing as they are frequently, make calf leather in better demand than ever in its history. I take into account condition of business, but figuring percentage calf is the big cutter. Skins of this kind in the hair have been selling low, yes, lower than in years. This may not mean fresh takeoffs, but this and that fellow had skins he must dispose of for the banks called their loans. Therefore many a carload was shipped to tanners, with the word that he, the tanner, could make the price. Even a tanner has a conscience though it has been pricked many a time. He would allow a price which while low, was money, and I am of the opinion big money was made on such stock. With the shoe manufacturers buying calfskins good and bad at prices which seemed attractive and which would produce a shoe at a dollar or more under former prices who would not do business?

Everything points to a steady business this fall. Fundamental conditions whatever they are, are much better, and banks have liquidated many accounts, in fact all that were shaky in the least. I do not know why I should not predict something as well as the fellows who know it all. Therefore, our city will look far better in the fall with all doing business at the old stands. A welcome as cordial as the homecoming conquering hero. It is a great game and few have weakened. Meanwhile we sit tight even if it is warm.

—*—

With the two large concerns, Endicott-Johnson Co. and the International Shoe Co., delving into the tanning end of the game, and evidently making a success of same, it appears that the Swift interests might be tempted to do likewise. I have written of this thing before, and as I see the way everything is tending, it would not be strange if it came about. I have no dope up my sleeve, but it seems to me logical. If it ever comes about, the sight of a shoe factory several miles long, and high as the atmosphere will allow and let live, would just about take what leather the A. C. L. and National Calkskins Co.'s would produce. As for hides and skins, who is nearer the fountain than the Swifts? No one but the animals who wear the skins. So these miles of buildings must be covered by the bosses, and here is where Henry Ford adds to his small pile.

ANNIVERSARIES.

Moderation, the noblest gift of Heaven. —Euripides.

RECENTLY at a silver wedding anniversary of a prominent New Yorker the invitations, which were engraved in silver, contained these words at one side: "The demands of war relief are pressing. We hope for your presence—not presents—at our silver wedding anniversary." Among the guests present at this anniversary reception were scores of New York's most noted society folk, the very people whom we usually look to for leadership in such matters of social usage. So if you are looking for a precedent in adding to your invitations for anniversary receptions or other occasions when presents might be expected some indication of the fact that you would prefer not to have them, here it is.

The fact is that often people refrain from having wedding anniversary parties for the simple reason that they hesitate to send invitations that will make the recipients feel that they are obliged to make some sort of present. When this is for a tin or wooden wedding the obligation is trifling, but when it is for a silver or golden wedding then there is more cause for this hesitancy.

Usually any anniversary for anything less than a silver wedding takes the form of a party only for one's intimate friends. But when one has been married twenty-five years then there is real occasion for a large reception. This may be in the afternoon or evening. For the afternoon affair the hours on the invitation cards would usually be from three to six, though guests seldom do arrive before half past three or four and many late comers linger after the six o'clock hour. No guest, however, would arrive after the last hour mentioned on the card.

Bear in mind, however, if you are sending an anniversary present that although a wedding present is sent to the bride, the anniversary present is sent to both husband and wife.

The question of whether or not to wear one's first wedding frock is one that puzzles some women when planning their twenty-fifth anniversary, and really it ought not to be very difficult to solve. There is the best of precedent for the custom but when the bride of twenty-five years has changed very much in form the wedding dress may be extremely unbecoming to her or it may need very considerable alteration to make it possible to wear. The effect then is not apt to be pleasing, and the woman so dressed may look very much less attractive than if she were dressed in a reception frock less rich in association. Under no condition should she wear the bridal veil, however, as this is alone appropriate to the maiden bride.

Essex "Aggie" School Notes

New Science Teacher

The trustees have elected Harold A. Mostrom as instructor in agricultural science in place of Mr. Young, who resigned. Mr. Mostrom attended the public schools in Lynn and Saugus, and graduated from the New Bedford high school. He was a student at Mass. Agricultural College in 1912, graduating with the class in 1916. Since graduation he has been a successful teacher at New Hampshire State Normal school at Keene, City Agricultural Club leader of Keene, N. H., County Club leader, Merrimac County, N. H., and State Club leader for New Hampshire. Mr. Mostrom is married and will move to Danvers at once, taking up his work at the school on August 1st.

Enrollment

More than 100 students have applied for admission to the entering class. The new term opens on September 6th and with the previous large enrollment new problems are arising. There are some doubts in minds of trustees about being able to admit all who apply. The limiting factors will undoubtedly be size of teaching staff and equipment.

Calendar at "Essex Aggie"

August 13—Junior field day.
August 17—Essex Pomona Granges picnic and field day.
August 27—Poultrymen's field day.
September 6—Homemaking department opens.
September 6—Term commences for first year agricultural student.

Market Garden Tour

An automobile tour of market gardeners from Essex County has been planned by the Extension Service for Wednesday, August 3rd, from the Agricultural School at Hathorne to Lexington.

The special feature of this tour is the annual field day at the market garden field station at Lexington, where there will be demonstrations in seed treatment for diseases, plant setting, irrigation and new machinery; experiments in crop feeding, breeding and variety tests; exhibits of new varieties of vegetables and of garden tools.

All market gardeners should meet at the Agricultural School promptly at 9 o'clock.

Seasonable Notes

This is an important time of the year with the poultry flock. Young chicks respond to free range. A corn field now furnishes the ideal shelter and range.

Why not plan to plant a few fruit trees for shelter in the hen yards? This is the season to study and determine varieties for such use. Plums and peaches succeed well in such locations, the latter on the lighter soils.

You can still "catch up" in your resolve to have a strawberry bed in the home garden. Potted plants set now will give an excellent crop next June.

Now that moisture is again available the lawn owner can re-establish a bright fresh green lawn by spreading nitrate of soda at rate of 1 lb. to 200 sq. ft. of lawn. Best applied before or during rain or washed in with artificial irrigation.

This is a proper season for pruning some of the ornamental shrubbery, particularly varieties which have just finished blossoming. Pruning designed to correct a poor shape in ornamental plants is always in order.

MR. OWL IS WISE BIRD.

MANY years ago, long before Mr. Fox was called clever or sly, or Mr. Owl a wise bird, or any of the wood folk had earned any name for themselves other than their own, there was trouble between Mr. Fox and Mr. Possum.

It happened in this way. Mr. Fox one night went for chickens to a farm a long way from his home, and when he arrived he found that the poultry house door was open and it was easy enough to get all he wanted, for Mr. Dog was away.

The only trouble was that he had no place to store them, and it was too far to carry them to his home and go back for more.

Mr. Fox happened to think of Mr. Possum, and he decided that he would make a bargain with him to take care of his poultry until he could carry it to his home.

As I told you, this happened long before Mr. Fox was clever; he would not do such a thing now.

So he called on Mr. Possum and told him if he would take care of the chickens he would give him two fine ones to pay for his kindness.

Mr. Possum said he would and that he would store them safely away under a rock by his house where there was a cave.

Mr. Fox trotted back and forth all night with fat chickens which he put in the cave under the rock, but he did not know that as fast as he put them away Mr. Possum carried them to another part of the woods.

When it was almost daylight Mr Possum took another chicken and departed for good, and when Mr. Fox looked into the cave he found only a few of the many chickens he had placed there.

Mr. Possum was nowhere to be found. He had moved bag and baggage to another home, but Mr. Fox hunted until he found him, and the trouble began.

Mr. Possum said he was not the same Mr. Possum. "I never lived in the place you speak of, and I do not know about any rock or cave or chickens; you have the wrong fellow, Mr. Fox," he said.

Mr. Fox was surprised at the bold manner of Mr. Possum, for he was sure he was the one he was looking for; still there was a chance that he had made a mistake.

Right here is where Mr. Owl earned his title. He was sitting in a tree near by where Mr. Possum had made his new home and heard all that had been said.

"Perhaps you are mistaken, Mr. Fox," he said; "you had better go back to the cave under the tree and look again."

"It is under a rock, not a tree," corrected Mr. Possum, who had just said he did not know anything about the cave or rock.

"Oh, ho," exclaimed Wise Mr. Owl, "you do know something about it, after all."

"Mr. Fox, go right in and search this fellow's home, and if he makes any trouble about it I will call all the wood folk and tell them what a deceitful fellow he is."

"Oh, how wise you are, Mr. Owl!" said Mr. Fox as he came out of Mr. Possum's house with his chickens; "you are the wisest bird I ever knew, and wise you shall be called from this day."

And when there is any dispute among the wood folk now they always call on Mr. Owl to settle it for Mr. Fox told everybody how clever and wise was Mr. Owl in finding out about his chickens, though he was careful not to tell who had them.

PLAYGROUND CHILDREN ENJOY PICNIC AT EMERSON PARK WEDNESDAY

Watermelons and Mollycoddles

Wednesday afternoon children from all of the city playgrounds assembled at Emerson Park for a mid-season picnic. The first thing on the program was the carving of four immense watermelons and the distribution of mollycoddles. The kiddies lined up and each and every one received a piece of watermelon and a mollycoddle. The hot weather did not seem to bother the children, more than 500 being present to take part in the festivities. All agreed that the watermelon went big, with their faces buried in the juicy rind.

The shute, merry-go-round, tilts, swings and the various games were in constant demand. The sand box was literally filled with little tots busy with their work of building houses and digging caves.

The races were held in the shade of the elm trees along Park avenue. The youngsters were very eager to compete in the different events, offered for the suitable prizes offered by the commission. A part of the events were run off as trials for the Leather Workers 'field day, August 6. The result of the races and the prizes won were as follows:

Boys' 50-yard dash (age 13) ,won by ohn Bongett, baseball glove; 2nd, John Horan, flash light. Boys' 50-yard dash (age 12(, won by Israel Cohan, baseball glove; 2nd, James Murphy, baseball. Boys' 50-yard dash (age 10), won by Carl Swartz, baseball; 2nd, Manuel Enos, baseball. Girls' 50-yard dash (age 13), won by Ruth McParland, ked shoes; 2nd, Marjorie Smith, bathing cap. Girls' 50-yard dash (age 12), won by Mary Montgomery, tennis ball; 2nd, Doris Mahoney, tennis ball. Girls' 50-yard dash (age 10), won by Dorothy Henken, tennis ball; 2nd, Louise Moore, tennis ball. Special matched race (age 10), won by Marjorie Smith, Samuel Brown school, tennis ball.

Miss Woodman met physical training classes from two of the playgrounds at the Community House gymnasium Tuesday afternoon and reports that the children were interested, and that good progress was made on the start.

"Joe" Kirane's Bleachery playground team handed the Mack Park playground team their first defeat of the season at Mack Park Monday afternoon by a score of 7 to 2. The features of the game were four extra base hits off the Bleachery team and the pitching of Hammond.

Several complaints have been received by the commission concerning the troublesome work of boys, who are not of playground age, on two of the playgrounds. A warning should be sufficient, for the commission intends to follow up these complaints.

Muzzled.

Speaking of garters, have you heard of the Harvard students who spied a pair with silver clasps in a Harvard Square shop window, and, thinking to raise a smile, at least, from the charmer at the counter, asked the price of a dog-collar, pointing at the same time to the silver-clasped garter? She turned, looked sweetly at the young men, and said: "We do not separate them for puppies, sir."—Boston Herald.

Boxing Bout At A.O.H. Party

The annual lawn party of Division 11, A. O. H., which is to be held at the O'Shea grounds on August 11, promises to be one of the best the Hibernians ever held in this city. Charles Allen, Boston's most popular baritone, will render some latest song successes at intervals throughout the evening. The American Legion band of Lynn, which pleased everybody so well at last year's affair, will furnish the music in their usual manner. There will be midway attractions of all kinds, an Irish step dancing contest, also there will be suitable prizes awarded for the best performances in modern dancing.

The suggestion of a boxing bout is being considered and the committee have in view two of New England's famous fistic artists who will appear if arrangements can be made.

"Herb" Brown Ranks Second Mail Carrier

Herbert L. Brown, the second ranking letter carrier of the Peabody postoffice in point of service, was appointed a substitute carrier in 1897. He was made a regular carrier two year later and has been on the job ever since.

Born in South Peabody, the son of Louis Brown, now a well-known resident of Lynnfield and Summit streets,

HERBERT L. BROWN

Letter Carrier Brown didn't take kindly to farming and when the call came to enter the employ of Uncle Sam, he heeded. He had been in the leather trade a few years prior to donning the grey of the letter carrier.

In his 24 years of postal service, he has covered every section of the city save the East end. He is at present in the business section of the city and consequently is called on to handle much valuable mail matter.

He was married in 1903 to Mary F. Davis and the couple make their home at 173 Lowell street. Letter Carrier Brown is treasurer of Jordon Lodge of Masons and is a member of Holten lodge of Odd Fellows and the Peabody lodge, Knights of Pythias.

"Brownie" as he is popularly called by a legion of friends, has a smile that radiates sunshine. He likes an argument and is one of the few male genders who can argue and smile at the same time. He was born Feb. 24, 1868.

Leather Trade Bit Slow But Leaders Optimistic

As I see it today, shoe making is being done largely in the west. It must be that good and sufficient reasons are there for this condition. I have hammered away at this subject until it is useless to continue. But when my letters are handed down to posterity, this gentleman will add another name to the seven wise men and if it isn't Charley Chaplin, Henry Ford, Tom Edeson or others more or less famous, they might pick the Enterprise. But I hope this will not happen, for my name might get mixed into it and there has been little doing in my family since the days of Lord Nelson who came before me. He took so much glory there has been none left for the rest of us.

—*—

I understand Max Korn has embarked in the calfskin business. Having made splits famous with the reputation of being at the head of the list, he proposes to tackle calf and with Harold Perkins as the tanner, he will show the rest of the gang something. Mr. Korn has been a successful business man. He is progressive, which means he keeps on the top wave of improvements which cut costs, therefore we predict a successful business in his new venture. Mr. Perkins was formerly with the National Calfskin Co. under H. V. Hunt and is equipped.

Roger C. Merrill who sells the output of the cut stock department of the A. C. L. Co. is sojourning at Plymouth, somewhere near the rock of fame.

Horace A. Wilson has been under the weather and shows decided improvement the last week. Hiring the help at the A. C. L. plant is not running a peanut stand, especially when a strike is on. There were strenuous times for Hod in many months.

I note that shoes in the local windows are being offered at greatly reduced prices. Some real shoes at $8.00 for two, when it was $8.00 for one. I have an idea we will buy shoes soon at prices which will compare favorably with pre-war times. It will help some.

Some fellow in Danvers, the original baseball town, has a new process for applying tanning to leather. Go to it my boy, we need you to improve methods, for while some tanners claim they are letter perfect, they spell or apply the letters wrong in many cases. When leather can be manufactured as a Ford car is, starting at one end, each man having his part, and come out at the other on an endless belt, all will be well.

A tariff on hides could not make cattle raising profitable in this country, but would deal a death blow to its third largest industry. The only possible excuse for the imposition of a tax on hides is that it would be in effect a bounty upon cattle. As a fact it would not operate in that way. The stockman would not receive the money. There is nothing better than a nebulous theory of aid to stockmen to offer in extenuation of a tariff which stabs a leading industry in the back and renders it unable to compete with the progressive tanners and shoe manufacturers of Europe who will continue to enjoy the free entry of hides and skins into their ports.

The idea of taxing goatskins is so monstrous a proposition that the kindest thing we can say is that it was conceived in ignorance and born in obsession. Not to exceed two per cent. of the millions of goatskins tanned annually in the United States are of domestic origin. The manufacturers of glazed kid have for years imported tremendous quantities of goatskins for conversion into leather, about sixty per cent. of which they have exported. We have here one of the conspicuous triumphs of American industry—the importing of raw material and the export of the finished product made therefrom. This is the sort of protection to industry that should make every red-blooded American proud of his country—the protection coming from enterprise, ability and manufacturing skill.

In recent years the production of glazed kid has greatly increased in England which has always been our largest customer. Japan has built many plants for making kid from goatskins. Following the war Great Britain established export duties on goatskins from India with a substantial preference to her colonial possessions. This enables Canada to buy India skins and convert them into leather under more favorable tax conditions than our tanners enjoy. If the fifteen per cent. import duty is added the glazed kid industry of this country may as well close its plants and take to the woods, if they do not care to alienate themselves and transfer their plants to Canada or Europe.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

A. C. L. Co. Employes Raise $484 In Aid of Enterprise Fuller Fund

The Peabody Enterprise Fuller Fund totals almost $1000 today for the benefit of the widow and children of the late police officer William P. Fuller, who lost his life when he fell from a moving automobile some weeks ago. The Enterprise gratefully acknowledges a check from the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. for $484.65, which was subscribed by employes of the main and Waters River plants. General Manager Charles P. Kelley headed the subscription paper with a substantial sum. James H. Gavigan, foreman of the sheep department in which the auto victim worked, started the paper and all of the foremen of the big plant solicited donations.

The worthy cause for which the Enterprise has opened its columns for public subscription has met with gratifying response and many words of commendation have been received from contributors to the fund. Many who cannot afford to give a large sum to a cause of this kind are glad to add their "mite" to other donations, with the result that a substantial amount is realized. As usual the people of Peabody have loosened their purse strings and given generously to a worthy cause. Any contribution, however small, will be gratefully acknowledged. The fund will continue for another week or two.

Bradley's Body Probably Lost

Mrs. Harvey J. Risteen of Pierpont street, sister of Mrs. George Bradley of Alberta, whose husband was reported drowned in an exclusive story published in last week's Enterprise, received a letter yesterday giving more details of the fatal accident. The body of this heroic war veteran, who served four and a half years in the war as a Canadian volunteer, will probably never be recovered. The dead man was a brother-in-law of Archibald A. MacKinnon, also of this city. Here is the letter sent to Mrs. Risteen by friends of her sister:

Saunders Creek, Alta.,
July 24, 1921.

Dear Mrs. Risteen:

It is with deepest regrets that I

FYFE BLOCKS EFFORT TO GRAFT STATE AID FOR UNWORTHY MEN

Commissioner of State Aid, Andrew Fyfe stands up in his boots and measures pretty close to six feet. He is possessed of plenty of sand and full of honor and no one is able to use politics with him to get some undeserving name on the list of government pensioners.

ANDREW FYFE
Commissioner of State Aid

Report has it that what might be called actual intimidation has been resorted to by a man somewhat prominent in city affairs to compel Commissioner Fyfe to put a name on his pension list that is no more entitled to such assistance than some of us fathers of sundry children who are trying to pay bills and keep the wolf from the door.

They picked on the wrong man when they selected Fyfe as an easy mark. He is the kind of a man who can look you straight in the eye and tell you to go plumb to jerico. While he is on the job there will be no graft in his office, so far as he can prevent it.

Commissioner Fyfe called a special meeting of war veterans last night in City Hall to ascertain the exact number of disabled veterans who are entitled to more government assistance, medical or financial.

Richard H. Ward, Veteran Clerk At Post Office, Now On 26th Year

Peabody has a postal clerk who saw Manila Bay before Admiral George Dewey became famous in 1898 by capturing that far east port from Spain. He is Richard H. Ward, money order teller, who is the ranking clerk in the postoffice, his appointment dating from July 15, 1896.

RICHARD H. WARD
Ranking Postal Clerk

"Dick," as he is familiarly hailed by his many friends, entered Manila bay in 1884 while President Arthur was in office. He had signed up on a Salem sailing schooner bound for the Far East on a voyage that required 18 months. When he returned from that voyage on the briny after many thrilling experiences in which gales threatened to engulf the craft, he had his billet as an able seaman. The 18 months was long enough before the mast for him, however, and he went back to the tanning industry, satisfied that 18 months was far too long for any tanner to be on the high seas.

"Dick" was born Dec. 24, 1862, in Portland, Me., where he lived up to the time he was nine years old. Then his father, the late John M. Ward, migrated to Peabody and became the first florist in the city. That was in 1871. Dick with his brothers attended the local schools, including the high school, and then he went into the leather game.

On his return in 1885 from his sailing voyage to the Far East, "Dick" went back to the leather trade. He received the appointment as the first clerk in the local postoffice in 1896 under Thomas H. Jackman, postmaster. John F. Moreland was assistant postmaster at the time. Both of the latter two officials have passed beyond.

There were five carriers attached to the Peabody postoffice when Ward joined the force of Uncle Sam's employes. Today there are 11 carriers and six postal clerks required to handle the business of the mails.

In 1888 he married Miss Florence L. Harding, daughter of Capt. Solomon G. Harding, well known sea captain sailing out of old Salem harbor. There are no children.

"Dick" Ward is treasurer of Jordan lodge, A. F. & A. M., is a member of the A. O. U. W. lodge and the United Penny Aid Society. He served at one time as a member of the Lyceum and library committee, this being his only poiltical office. He and his wife reside at 118 Lowell street, where they have a pretty home.

Dick returns from a 15-day vacation tomorrow and will be given a welcome back to his duties. He is conscientious and insists on having things tally up to the mark in everything. He is well versed in postal law and makes a dependable man under Postmatser Dullea.

Charge Shoe Unions Wrecking Local Plants

(By ENERGY)

Indeed this is a great country, and with gerat possibilities they tell us. But please do not tell this to leather and shoe men, for that look might do you harm. The possibilities are great if there is proper conditions behind, and right now there appears not to be those conditions, at least so far as the leather business goes. Congress has not added to the comfort of those interested, for whether a tariff is to be placed on hides and finished leather is problamatical. We of New England are a small part of U. S. today. We have been used to thinking that the rest must come to us if they wish to start something. Why dodge the truth?

In order to keep above water some heavy thinking must be done or our leather industries will go west and not by the advice of Horace Greeley. In fact, those wise bucks born and brought up on the plains with plenty of fresh air not of the hot variety are 21 plus. We have many in New England, but the rising generation brought up to have and not produce, and by this generation I refer to those young men who have been unfortunate enough to have a rich father, are not equipped to compete.

—*—

Nothing is more natural than for fond parents to indulge their children. But it is a punch which their offsprings will look back upon and regret as they face the world. This is but a small part of the trouble I admit, but there are many cases of this kind. Then labor unions are refusing to accept a cut of any proportions in the shoe trade, in Lynn, Haverhill and near stations. Here is a case: A Lynn shoe manufacturer, a big one, recently purchased another factory beside the one he owns in Lynn. It is situated in Massachusetts, the location does not matter. This purchase represented a factory capable of making 5000 pairs of shoes daily. He made the cutters in the Lynn plant a proposition based on a large order. They refused to accept the conditions imposed, so this factory is closed and the work being done in the other plant. There is no come back. The Lynn cutters have lost the business, with a big chance of their looking for

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA AGAIN LEAD THE WAY IN REDUCED PRICES

New Reason for Boys Joining Scouts

The Boy Scouts of America is highly gratified to announce that arrangements have been made permitting a substantial reduction in the price of Boy Scout uniforms and equipment, effective August 1st. Because of the new scale of prices it will be possible for the boy to get complete equipment for approximately $10.00, making the Boy Scout outfit the cheapest clothing a boy can wear. This will undoubtedly greatly stimulate interest in the Boy Scout movement, and it is hoped will add to the ability of the scout leaders to have all scouts and scout officials correctly uniformed according to the new standard by January 1, 1922, when all options will cease and the requirements will be one official standard uniform for every scout and scout official in the community in accordance with the standard as adopted by the local council of that community.

MOTOR TRUCK LIGHTS

According to Chapter 483 of the Acts of 1921, Massachusetts Legislature, which goes into effect August 26, 1921, every motor truck, trailer and commercial motor vehicle used solely as such, having a carrying capacity of three tons or over, in addition to the lights now requred by law shall dsplay a green light attached to the extreme left of the front of such vehicle so attached and adjusted as to indicate the extreme left lateral extension of the vehicle or load.

Big League Scouts May Scan Peabody Rotarian Players For Some Baseball Talent

DR. HENRY I. YALE

DR. LAWRENCE K. KELLEY

The Peabody Rotary Club upheld the reputation of Oceanside Park at Marblehead last Tuesday afternoon, when they staged a baseball game which went to the winning side by one run. The score was 9 to 8, with the pennant flag going to Judge William H. Fay's team. Judge Horace P. Farnham marshaled the losing side, which but for the accident that befell Mayor Shea in running home from third base might have "copped" the victory.

It was one of the features of the Rotary Club outing and it brought to light a number of ball players that have been hiding their prowess in the national pastime under a bushel basket. For instance, "Larry" Kelley essayed the mound for the winning team and performed a la Amos Rusie, once renowned pitcher.

"Bill" Dodge guarded the middle station and the way he scooped in grounders and the way he didn't, brought first applause and then mirth.

T. Henry Millea, the Foster street grocer, played the second game of baseball in his life at this outing. He was willing to try any position and since catching is the easiest place (so someone said) they let him fill in that job and Henry used his big mitt to excellent advantage. Roger Crehore was pitted against "Doc" Kelley in the pitching honors and it was a pretty even thing with the kid manufacturer keeping the hits so well scattered that only inside baseball helped Judge Fay's nine to win.

Lummus' Star Catch

Frank Lummus was in left field. He started with a glove like any real ball player and when some fly went over his head he threw the glove away and grabbed the next fly with his bare hands and held it.

George Barnaby proved how major league scouts miss 'em in this game, for he walloped the ball to all corners and caught a game that did himself credit.

Probably the classiest ball player in the line-up was Phil O'Rourke, the baby of the Rotary Club, who held down second bag on the losing nine. Bill Dodge worked a double steal with Chet Bent, the latter going home while the acid king bumped the ball out of Phil's hands.

Bart Ronan may be one of the men the big scouts overlooked, for he was a whale at the bat for the winning team and hustled after long hits into right garden with the alacrity of a Harry Hooper.

Len Pickering, member of the Salem Rotary Club, and Judge Fay showed the grandstand how Fred Tenney used to cover first bag, for they got everything, saving infielders from wild throws. Joe Noyes, plant super at Thayer Foss', made his initial debut in baseball at this outing. He wasn't afraid of fast pitching, but it did seem as if his bat was a bit slow in perambulating the quarter circle necessary to emulate Babe Ruth. Now and then Joe drew a base on balls.

"Doc" Yale, oldtime Salem high school champion, speared a fly running like Speaker, but at the bat he just simply wasn't.

It was the consensus of opinion that the stellar light in this embryonic game was none other than Roger H. Smith, chairman of the entertainment committee. He was at home either at shortstop, where he took everything, or in the box where he finished the game for the pennant winners, and lest it be omitted here, it should be said that he was a second edition of Babe Ruth gracefully knocking out three baggers.

Fred Bodge, son of Rotarian Arthur P. Bodge, played third base for the losing side and showed up as a major leaguer both at bat and in the infield.

Harry E. Trask umpired the game and Silk O'Loughlin had nothing on his manner of running the show and squelching clamorous players who wanted to dispute. Harry robbed Bart Ronan of a two-bagger across first base, calling the ball foul.

Mayor Sprains Leg

Mayor Shea was the only player to get a stiff leg and he slipped running home and was an easy out.

Following the ball game, which went nine full innings, the club members had one of John Adams' finest shore dinners and concluded their outing by a sail.

Those in the party were: George H. Curtis, William B. Dodge, Dr. S. C. Tucker, A. P. Ames, John Meagher, Phil O'Rourke, Chester Bent, Joseph Noyes, Ernest Woelfel, John W. Power, Harry F. Whidden, Atty. B. J. Ronan, Frank Lummus, Arthur P. Bodge, Fred Bodge, Charles C. Hills, Leonard Pickering, Judge William H. Fay, George A. Barnaby, George A. Blaney, Thomas Mulherin, John E. Fitzgerald, John E. Hayes, Harry E. Trask, Dr. Henry I. Yale, Roger H. Smith, Mayor William A. Shea, Dr. L. K. Kelley, Charles S. Batchelder, Judge Horace P. Farnham, Roger M. Crehore, Max Korn and Frank W. Penniman.

Teachers' Conference

The agricultural teachers are attending a conference called by the state department of agriculture this week. The meeting is held at the Bristol Co. Agricultural school at Segreganset, Mass.

An automobile party of members and friends from the Marsh's Corner Improvement Society, Methuen, visited the school Saturday, July 30th. A visit to the school and farm was enjoyed by everybody.

Cattle Men Meet

County Agent Stiles is arranging for a meeting of the Holstein-Friesian dairymen of the county. The meeting is to be held on Tuesday, August 9th, at 10 A. M., at the farm of Edward D. Taylor in Methuen. A most valuable meeting is planned. Several speakers of prominence have already agreed to attend. It is hoped that a county organization may be perfected.

Homemaking Teacher

The trustees have appointed Miss Ethel L. Browne as teacher of sewing and related studies. Miss Browne is a graduate of the Beverly high school class of 1909, post graduate of Glen Falls, N. Y., high school class of 1911. She also graduated from St. Lawrence University in 1918 and has been teaching continuously since. She will be responsible for the teaching of sewing, millinery, cooking, textiles and hygiene.

Grange Field Day

The Pomona Granges of Essex County will hold a union picnic and field day at the Agricultural School on Wednesday, August 17th. A full program of entertainment and sports have been carefully arranged. The State Grange will give beautiful cups for winners in athletic events. The Pomona Granges also offer gold prizes as follows: For the person who places ten fowl in the proper order and also for the one who exhibits the two best fruit jars of canned product, one of fruit and one vegetable. These prizes are to be awarded to any grange member or one from the family of a member. A fine speaking program and a varied children's entertainment, both commencing at 2 P. M., should interest everybody.

Seasonable Notes

Fruiting raspberry canes should now be pruned away and burned, thus destroying some disease.

Farmers may well encouarge swallows about the buildings. These beautiful birds destroy numberless flies and other obnoxious insects.

There is yet time to sow lettuce, spinach and radish in vacant spaces in the home vegetable garden. The soil, owing to frequent rains, is in excellent condition.

The growing chick, the laying hen, and the moulting fowl need attention as regards the content of the ration. If not getting the best results, why not ask our poultry men?

The amateur grape grower will get even more satisfaction out of the well managed vine. Why not write us (Agricultural School, Hathorne, Mass.) for bulletin information?

A MATTER OF SAFETY

"So you prefer automobile races to horse?"

"Yes. No matter how much you may think you know about automobiles, you are not tempted to back one of 'em to the limit, same as you are a racehorse."

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

Major General Henry J. Allen, commanding the United States army of occupation in Germany and a company of American infantry from the Rhine, have been ordered by the war department to attend the unveiling of the Flirey monument at Flirey, France, this summer. The monument is a memorial to the American expeditionary forces. Two hundred and fifty members of the American Legion who have been invited to tour France as guests of the French government will participate in the ceremonies. John G. Emery, national commander of the Legion, will be one of the speakers.

Because he believes married men make better citizens, Rev. John W. Inzer, national chaplain of the American Legion, has announced that he will perform without cost marriage ceremonies for members of the Legion attending the national convention of the organization at Kansas City this fall. The convention committee believes the chaplain's inducement will result in so many marriages during the convention that it has appointed a special newlyweds committee to look after the comforts of bridal parties.

—*—

An expressed desire to be buried with her son, who lost his life overseas, was realized by Mrs. John Johansen, Sr., of Davenport, Ia., who died a few minutes before the train bearing her son's body reached Davenport. Mrs. Johansen had been ill ever since the shock caused by news of her son's death. It was a strange fate that brought about the double funeral. The American Legion was in charge of the funeral.

—*—

William N. Day of Great Falls, Mont., has been appointed by John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, to serve as national auditor of the Legion. He has assumed his duties at national headquarters, Indianapolis. He was formerly a bank examiner in Montana. The headquarters staff of the Legion now has representatives from 34 states.

—*—

Roy Albert of St. Louis, Mo., said to have been the smallest man who served with the American army overseas, was killed by a train at Casper, Wyo. He weighed 93 pounds. The American Legion took charge of the body and arranged funeral plans.

—*—

The Montana department of the American Legion is investigating the disappearance of F. A. Woodard of Sidney, Montana, who has been the object of a three weeks' search. Woodard disappeared from his room at a Great Falls hotel, where he had stopped over on his return from the convention at Lewiston. He had been one of the active delegates to the convention and was considered as a candidate for state adjutant.

—*—

Clifford A. Laflin, winner of a Croix de Guerre, who survived several major engagements in France as a first lieutenant of the 17th Field Artillery, died recently in a St. Paul, Minn., hospital from a pin scratch. The funeral was conducted by the American Legion.

—*—

"The American Legion is one of the bulwarks of the world," said Marshal Foch in a recent interview with an American newspaper correspondent. Referring to the Paris post of the Legion, the marshal said it was "the American heart of France."

—*—

Citizens of Seattle were amazed recently at the sight of Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion; Hugh M. Caldwell, mayor of Seattle; Brig. Gen. Maurice Thompson, and other prominent members of the American Legion, in chains and wearing the army fatigue uniforms with the familiar "P. G." (prisoner of war) on their backs, being led through the streets. It was only a part of the initiation of the "40 and 8" society, the play organization of the Legion.

—*—

"The greater portion of solid, right-thinking, right-living young Americans got into service during the war, only the dregs were left in civil life," declared Chief of Police Pendegast of Los Angeles, Cal., to officials of the American Legion. The police chief said that he had never yet found a criminal who could show a good service record.

—*—

Formal demand has been made to Mayor Thompson of Chicago by Theodore Roosevelt Post of the American Legion for an investigation of the conduct of city officials who served on a reception committee to welcome Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, back to Chicago from the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.

LEATHER NOTES

work elsewhere, which is darn scarce.

—*—

So Lynn and Haverhill are as dull as a graveyard. There are shoes being manufactured in other centres with the employes working for less and being kept busy. Will those affected finally wake up and accept conditions? I sincerely hope so. In at least two places in Maine shoemaking is brisk. You say this seems peculiar, no, just a case of addition. A shoe is produced there for $3.60 a pair, which are composed of everything first class. The best of sole leather, innersoles, vamps and quarters, in fact a first-class article. I am told that solid made shoes can be produced today for inside of $4.00 a pair. This means the profit of the manufacturer is included in this price. Then we look around in the retail stores and what is the answer? Price $18.00 a pair down to $6.00, according to rents and what profit is wanted.

—*—

Here is a case: A shoe manufacturer visited a Boston store incognito. He saw his own make of shoes offered for $16.00 a pair, and the storekeeper told him the next invoice would be $18.00. Now this manufacturer sold these shoes inside of $5.00 a pair. The next invoice would not cost any more, so one can easily see there is something wrong. The producer at least in the shoe game is not responsible for high prices. It is the non-producer who, may be a necessity but who thinks so? It is a fact that the concerns who sells their own output by means of retail stores have made good.

—*—

No one will begrudge a retailer getting a fair profit on their sales. Perhaps the purchasing public are to blame for high prices, and if they refused to pay, these same shoes would be offered for much less and then at a fair profit. This war drunk is longer getting over than home brew if you know anything about it.

—*—

Thus the local tanners are affected by shoe conditions. Lynn and Haverhill have been good to our tanners, for they have consumed a big pile of our output and when stopped we feel it, particularly among the smaller ones. The outlook now is anything but encouraging. But looking down the list, some lines are selling, particularly patent leather, which has beet shot to pieces as though hit by lyddite. Sheep leather is moving five miles an hour, which appears slow in the automobile of industry. The fellow who has had business come to him must quit that way, dress up in his best and hustle or he will wonder what has happened when he sees his competitor getting busy.

—*—

One local manufacturer for whom I have much respect for his business sagacity, thinks that now is the time for a man equipped to make real leather, to start a small business. With no overhead eating at the vitals, and close supervision, such a man could make a dollar, he believes. This overhead, the phantom of the business, has brought costs so high that unless the volume is large the losses are staggering. So I agree, with the market full of raw material, that can be bought right, there is a future for the little fellow, a situation which bodes well for the future. They tell you after once installed this overhead is there to stay. Bosh. Sentiment may keep it there, but cold blooded business sense will cut these costs which in some cases mounts to four cents a foot in manufacturing, and the little fellow can make the stuff for that money.

—*—

So cheer up, for your tax bills are being prepared, and when received, smile if it hurts.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HOLD BANNER OUTING AUG. 17

The third annual outing of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce to be held Wednesday, August 17 at Suntaug Inn, Lynnfield, promises to be the largest, most entertaining outing in the history of the Chamber of Commerce

Chairman Harry F. Whidden has given much time and effort in preparing a program to meet the tastes of all. His enthusiastic assistants on the sport committee of which Roger H. Smith is chairman, with Mark E. Kelley and William F. Carlin as hearty co-workers, have prepared an afternoon program of sports which they intend will meet the approval of the most fastidious. There will be a ball game in the afternoon, followed by field sports of various kinds and should one fail to be an enthusiastic supporter of our national game, he will find that in the list of pastimes provided following the ball game ample opportunity is given to indulge in his own favorite competitive exercise.

Archie Hurlburt, "mine host" at the Suntaug Lake Inn, and incidentally manager and proprietor of the Boston Tavern, has offered an exceptional menu to be offered the attendants at 5.30.

There will be no speaker. The thought of the committee on this matter being that a paid entertainer would prove a greater satisfaction as well as attraction. The committee, therefore, has secured through the White Entertainment Bureau of Boston, Miss Gertrude Crosby and her assistant to provide amusement for all following the dinner. Miss Crosby is a talented and well-known artist who has been well received here wherever she has appeared and has proven her versitivity as a singer, dancer, reader and monologist, kinds without number. Her assistant is a capable and entertaining pianist and in this entertainment offered by Miss Crosby, there will nothing appear to offend the most particular person in the audience.

All in all this appears to be the finest outing planned in Essex County. From the advance sale of tickets indications are that this year's attendance will eclipse anything in the past, and those desiring to go are urged to se-

Dr. Campbell Named Dentist

Dr. Charles E. Campbell of Peabody, whose offices are in Salem, has received the appointment as dentist at the new million dollar Essex County hospital in Danvers and will take up his new duties at once. He received the appointment out of a long list of dentists who sought the berth. Dr. Campbell is a graduate of Tufts Dental College and enjoys a nice practice.

SALEM CHARGED WITH PROPAGANDA IN SEWER MUDDLE

Propaganda was charged against Salem city officials last night by City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham as part explanation for the present existing conflict between Peabody and Salem over the sewer question. Judge Farnham charged that a Salem newspaper was helping along the agitation in defense of Salem and intimated that it was quite ignoring the rights of Peabody through the sewer contract.

The statement came following a question by President Duggan of the Council who asked if the City of Peabody was being protected against possible civil suits growing out of the present muddle. Judge Farnham replied that Peabody was safeguarding its rights and that everything was being done by City Engineer Emerson to absolve the city from suits for damages which might ensue from the dumping of leather plant sewerage into the North Brook.

Councillor Frank E. McKeen, after the Council meeting last night, declared that the propaganda is being used to the disadvantage of Peabody and gave it as his opinion that the propaganda was largely newspaper talk. It is not expected that a Salem newspaper would be interested in advancing the cause of Peabody.

Every move made by the City Engineer of this city is made known to Salem officials through some leak in the municipal government of Peabody. This appears certain, for inside of a few hours Salem officials are notified. Where the leak is does not appear established. Theres a Benedict Arnold somewhere abroad in Peabody.

The City Council consumed less than 20 minutes last night to transact its business. Licenses were granted several applicants and the rules were suspended in some cases to hurry along legislation.

Councillor Hogan introduced an ordinance to increase the pay of the City Physician from $500 to $700, to date from Jan. 1, and Councillor Jones followed with another ordinance increasing the pay of the chauffeur of the street sweeper to $34.25, to date from March 1, an increase of $3. Both were ordered advertised.

Barney Raskin was given permis-

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce is proposing a series of articles entitled "Little Talks Among Ourselves," addressed to the manufacturers and to the workers in this vicinity primarily in the leather industry, as it is the most important in this locality.

These articles are written by Charles H. Eglee, who has been retained as industrial counsellor to the Massachusetts Leather Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Eglee began his life as a day laborer in water works construction in 1879. He went through the positions of day laborer to foreman, superintendent and senior partner, employing at times as many as 5000 men.

He has been a member of the National Conference Board, has made many research studies in various lines of industry and is today devoting his energy to the harmonizing of the relations between the employer and the employee in Peabody and surrounding cities and towns.

Mr. Eglee is the author of the following article which the Chamber of Commerce endorses in the effort to create a better understanding between labor and industry, based on the principles of a square deal, co-operation and service:

Little Talks Among Ourselves
Co-operation

The three great principles of life in this country are first: "Justice," which means a square deal between man and man; next, "Service," which means the best work every man can do; then, "Co-operation," which means getting together, a fair day's work for a fair day's pay, live and let live, helping each other, playing the game like a good sport—together.

The ball team that wins is the team that plays nine men together, like one man; it is the team where the players watch the signals, play for the team instead of for their own records, sacrifice when necessary and work together for runs. This is co-operation.

The Peabody water works is a good example of co-operation. Everyone in the city is taxed so that each citizen may have water in his own home; it is a united work a getting together.

One of the workers in a tannery in Peabody gave me his idea of co-operation something like this. I will try to repeat his words as near as I can remember.

He said: "The other day I went out to buy me a few shirts. I hadn't bought any in a couple of years the price was so high. I found the shirt I used to pay a dollar for was a dollar and a half now, but the girl said it had been as high as three dollars.

"Well, I planked down my good money, feeling glad I could afford some new shirts just as a time when so many good fellows were out of work. I was in luck, and that set me to thinking. Suppose, said I, that everybody was working, then there would be more money to buy shirts and help along the fellow who is making shirts. If everybody was working there would be more money to buy shoes and more leather would be made in Peabody.

"I see what you mean by co-operation. I not only earn wages, but I pay wages, too. I paid some of the wages of the men and women who made those shirts for me. The men who plowed the fields and planted and

ARBUCKLE STRAND'S HEADLINER

"Brewster's Millions," which has been read by millions and which is considered one of the most popular novels ever penned by George Barr McCutcheon, has been adapted to the screen and serves as a feature for Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle. The rotund star will appear in the production at the Strand today and Saturday with a cast that includes Betty Ross Clarke, Charles Ogle and Marion Skinner. The story has served on the stage also, but impartial critics declare the screen version excels it as a medium of humor.

The story is one of pure comedy romance—one that sparkles with a number of incidents that appear neither in the book or the play. This greatly enhances the comedy value. The idea concerns a young man whose career is the bone of contention between two wealthy grandfathers, one an aristocrat, who believes he should not have to work, and the other a self-made man who wants him to work for a salary. In other words, one grandfather will give him ten millions if he will spend the other grandfather's two millions in a year. It is released as a Paramount special attraction and is directed by Joseph Henaberry, which is sufficient guarantee of its excellence. A Ham comedy and an exciting chapter of Joe Ryan's serial play, "The Purple Riders" are the other attractions thrown in for abundant good measure.

"FATTY" ARBUCKLE

Bessie Barriscale in "The Woman Michael Married," an adaption of a novel of the same name by Kathleen Norris, will be the main attraction for Sunday evening. David Butler and Florence Vidor in "The Other Half" is the second attraction for Sunday. This program ranks high above the general run of Sunday shows and is well worth a special effort to see.

Presenting in novel form a problem that is understood by every man and woman, "What's Worth While," a Paramount picture directed by Lois Weber, will top the double feature bill the local playhouse will offer for Monday and Tuesday. The story deals with an aristocratic girl who has been brought up in a cultured environment. The life has palled upon her and she longs to associate with people who are not extremely "cultivated." She is urged by her father to take a western trip with him and when the destination is reached she is confronted with an elemental type of man who immediately arouses her curiosity. It is not long before events throw her directly in his care and subsequent events effect a cure.

The other feature for Monday and Tuesday will be a screen version of Jack London's charming story, "The Little Fool," with a cast of talented players headed by popular Milton Sills. Other prominent players to be seen in the picture are Nigel Barrie, Ora Carew and Marjorie Prevost. The story is built around the Forrests who are living on a lonely ranch when Evan Graham, a friend of Richard, comes for a visit. He falls in love with his friend's wife and she returns his affection. The solution of this triangle is a surprising one, and one that reflects credit upon the entire cast.

Katherine MacDonald in "The Notorious Miss Lisle" and Viola Dana in "The Offshore Pirate" will be the bill for next Wednesday and Thursday.

New England Place Names.

An interesting set of New England place names is drawn from the Bible. In these names, quite as much as in those brought from the home land, the early settlers expressed their deepest selves. Hebron, Gilead, Lebanon, Canaan, Bethlehem, Sharon, Mt. Carmel. Goshen, and Jerusalem are found in Connecticut alone. The names of three women in the parish register of one of these towns were Obedience, Silence, and Mindwell. Clearly, these people had never read, or at least believed, Shakespeare's "What's in a name?"

Notice is hereby given that Bank Book No. 37,413, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912.

Salem Largely To Blame For North River Nuisance Through Faulty Sewer

(By ENERGY)

Now that Salem is after our tanners claiming solids are allowed to run into the sewer together with the liquids, a knotty problem arises as to who is to blame. Peabody has always claimed that the trouble lies with Salem in not taking care of the sewerage at the outlet. When this mess will not flow, the backing up process fills the pipes and the consequence is that those situated on Grove and Caller streets and immediate vicinity have their troubles.

—*—

It has always been evident that two municipalities cannot agree to agree on any project where they are partners. Particularly Salem and Peabody have never agreed on how to run a city or town. Therefore, when they did come together and become sewer partners, it has been one darn thing after another. Since the advent of chrome tanning, the water consumption has trebled at least. The matter of solids has not increased proportionately. The settling basins have been constructed after the most approved ideas and without doubt have done their work well.

—*—

In my opinion there will be an objectionable odor from North river when tanneries are forgotten. By that I mean the tanneries are not responsible for all of the trouble, for the chemicals used are far from the skunk variety. True it is the Salem sleuths have found solid matter in their travels which is easily traced to certain tanners. They are making a hue and cry which they hope to influence the proper authorities to stop the so-claimed nuisance.

—*—

Salem and others conversant with the situation have known for many moons that the brook has been taking part of what the sewer should care for, the reason being, Salem had not taken the stuff away fast enough. No tanner here unless it be one who has come recently would dump their stuff into the brook when their settling basins costing thousands of dollars would do it.

—*—

The Salem Evening News has given this trouble much publicity and evidently thinks it will help the Salem end. The lawyers are being well paid to dig up evidence, and that goes with their business. Meanwhile Peabody is standing pat, and claims to have something up their sleeve which will be presented in due time. Perhaps it would be well to change the name North river, for after the many years this stream has given forth smells,

Flag Day Observed Since 1889.

Flag day, June 14, is the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the continental congress in 1777. The day has been more or less observed since 1889. In that year George Bloch, a New York teacher, commemorated the birth of the flag with special patriotic exercises by his kindergarten pupils. Patriotic societies took up the observance and Flag day has become well established.

Time's Wondrous Changes.

Archeologists believe that even in the Stone age direct maritime relations existed between northern Jutland and the distant countries to the south.

"Yes, boys," continued the steeplejack, who was telling "true" and thrilling stories, "yes, I was working a clock tower one afternoon about 12 minutes to 6, when I slipped, slid down the roof and caught on the long hand of the clock. There I dangled while the town folks collected below. So I yells to 'em, "Say, you folks, go home to your suppers, it'll be close to half an hour before I drop."—Houston Post.

Salem Largely To Blame For North River Nuisance Through Faulty Sewer

up goes the nose automatically. How would Pacific river do? Perhaps the ocean of that name would object to it, because of its reputation. Salem with a $32 or more tax rate is not rotten with money. Therefore there should be some way to agree to agree, for court fighting costs money. Get together gentlemen for the man with the chip on his shoulder always is worsted.

When we get the sewer situation fixed up and leather sells as of yore, we fellows will feel better. Some of us had things coming our way for some years. We awoke in the morning with the feeling that the world was pretty near right, and that our troubles were over. That feeling sunk in so far that it requires more than a dentist to pull it out. All the good things we had, have in many cases disappeared only to find the world the most barren piece of land in the heavens. The moon is supposed to have some big dents, but those handed to us the last two years have the others topped 100 per cent. We had planned to have summer estates in several parts of the globe, but alas, the cottage by the sea must suffice. Such is living.

So the tanner of today with some prominent exceptions wonders if leather has gone to stay. We also wonder if New England will make more than a few dozens of shoes. There is one thing certain, the abandoned farms will welcome new owners, and another good bet that those who take them will eat three squares each day, and that barrel of cider in the cellar will help to cheer us to the thoughts that after all it is better. Ever think of it in that way? They might call such reasoning philosophy, but call it as you will, it is true.

Here is the dope as I see it. The chap who can make the best leather never need fear of going broke. He has an asset that will win. If the other fellow who cannot sell his product would allow himself to think that his leather is not as good as his competitor and go about it to improve his stock, it would set him on the right road to success. Am I right?

So the world keeps revolving on its axis and each day is one nearer to better business. Push and pluck, plenty of punch, (not what you mean) proper propensity to plunge, is prosperity personified. Pursue that path and promote prosperity.

Phil Hunt, son of H. V. Hunt, who needs no introduction, is in Labrador where there are no ice men. He has escaped something by so doing. Phil is showing the natives how to do things, even if they will not follow his footsteps. When it don't rain the roof don't leak, and that is the matter with the people of Labrador. They would not think of cutting wood until the last stick is burned, and in that country the thermometers are a yard long to admit of the mercury descending to the proper depths. But the rigors of winter are little compared with the trenches in France, so Phil calls it easy. He is selling tons of tobacco ,and trading anything that looks right. It is nothing out of the ordinary to take a run of 50 miles out on dog sleds for an evening's entertainment.

ARE MORE THAN MERE SHOES

Gone are the days when the plain black or tan shoe sufficed for dress occasions, for milady of fashion now demands a shoe as destinctive and attractive as her especially designed gown. The above unusual design comprised a feature of a recent fashion show in London, where they were made.

MUST SPECIALIZE TO GAIN SUCCESS

Great Opportunities in Accountancy Profession

The aftermath of the great war and the period of inflation that followed is the cause of the severe depression in business which is now upon us. Far-seeing, shrewd men realize that such depressions are but the resting places and that the next turn is bound to be toward greater activity and prosperity.

To the young man in particular this is a crucial time, because his future success and happiness depend more than ever before on his equipping himself to do some sort of skilled work which the world needs and will pay for.

There seems to be more and better opportunities in the accounting profession than any place else; whether it be in public accounting, commercial accounting or cost accounting.

But to succeed, it is necessary that a man have a thorough mastery of the subject; that is, he must be a specialist. To acquire this mastery, he must get his practical education at an institution which in turn specializes in training men for accounting and finance and does not waste the time and energy of both its students and itself in attempting to force into the curriculum subjects not directly related thereto.

The school in the United States which sets the standard by which others are rated is the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, 125 Tremont Street, Boston. In the two-year course at this school, the whole field of accountancy and finance is covered in a most comprehensive and thorough manner, and the man who has completed the course can face the future with entire confidence that he has a profession in which the demand far exceeds the supply.

Mother's Cook Book

'Tis looking down that makes one dizzy.—Browning.

Don't worry when you stumble; remember, a worm is about the only thing that can't fall down.

SUMMERY FOODS.

DISHES easy of digestion and those refreshing as well as easy to prepare are those that interest us during the warm days.

Creamed Chicken in Crown of Rice.

For a crown mold holding one pint of material, wash a scant cupful of rice and cook in one quart of chicken broth, in whole or part. Salt, using one-half teaspoonful. When done butter the mold and pack in the rice. Set the mold on several folds of paper in a dish of boiling water and let cool until the filling is ready. Melt one-fourth cupful of butter. In it cook one-fourth of a cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and pepper, a scant pint of liquid, broth or milk, one or both. Fill the center with the creamed chicken and serve at once.

Sardine Hors d'Oeuvre.

Cut Boston brown bread into rounds. Cut out a thin round one-eighth of an inch from the edge. Fill this open space between the two with sardines skinned and boned, seasoned with lemon juice, salt and paprika and Worcestershire sauce mixed together. Salt a slice of hard-cooked egg at the center and a row of capers around the edge.

Coffee and Tapioca Trifle.

Have ready two cupfuls of clear strained coffee and one-half cupful of pearl tapioca. Cook the tapioca with the coffee until well done. When done add one-half cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, turn into glass cups and finish when cold with whipped sweetened cream.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Mutton.

Cold mutton chopped, some of the gravy or sauce with which it was served may be mixed with it, seasoning well and use as a stuffing for green peppers. Cut the peppers in halves or remove the tops; parboil for five minutes; drain and chill, then fill. Bake in a moderate oven basting with broth occasionally.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A PLACE TO TIE.

I'VE noticed afloat and a-tramping,
I've seen it on river and land,
The thing that the most
You need is a post
To tie to when night is at hand,
Some sort of an anchor to hold you,
Some hawser that never will fail,
Some place you can tie
Till the storm has gone by,
To help you to ride out the gale.

So many go foolishly drifting
While rapids are roaring below,
Afloat on the tide
Without compass or guide,
Till down to disaster they go;
The need of us all is an anchor,
A painter to tie to the shore,
Some place to make fast
Till the tempest is past
And the waters are rolling no more.

So many afloat on the river,
The turbulent river of life,
Have only their own
Poor resistance alone
To conquer the trouble and strife.
A fellow needs something to tie to,
His trail o'er the sea or the sod,
Some friend that is true
Who will carry him through—
A woman, a pal, or a God.

LACE IN BLACK AND WHITE

Material Lends Conveniently to Looped Effects—Tendency to React From Dyed Laces.

Panels, loops or draperies that hang below the skirt give an effect of fullness without actually widening the skirt, as they also give the appearance of greater length, although in many instances the length of the skirt has not been increased. For fashion has quite definitely decided that skirts must be lengthened, and has also made an unsuccessful struggle to widen them.

Laces lend themselves well to looped effects, although they bring us to a slightly different sort of evening dress from the simple crepe de chine things. While the lines may be similar and the draping done in much the same way, the effect cannot fail to be dissimilar, because the fabrics are so unlike.

There is a tendency to react from the dyed laces, although this does not mean that they are not used. Quantities of them still are seen, but they appear a bit garish beside the black-and-white combinations or the frocks in all white or entirely of jet black lace.

Spanish blond laces still are in frequent demand. They make pleasing semi-evening dresses for midsummer, to be worn with transparent brown hats.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BLACKGUARD."

IN OLDEN days the palaces of kings and the palaces of nobles were by no means as well furnished and as clean as they are at the present day, and it was customary when members of royalty or the nobility visited each other that the guest should bring with him all his kitchen utensils, pots, pans and even a certain amount of coal. The scullions and lesser retainers had charge of these goods, rode among them, were smutted by them and received the contemptuous appellation of the "black guard." In time the word came to be understood as meaning any troop or company of ragamuffins, and finally, when its original application had been buried in the lore of centuries, it was applied to a single person as an epithet of opprobrium—as being synonymous with a rogue or rascal who would stop at nothing in order to gain his ends.

It was in the earlier sense, however, that Dryden used the term as a stage-direction in his play "Don Sebastian." "Enter the captain of the rabble with his black guard at his heels," and Fuller likewise spoke of the "devil's black guard" in the Crusades as meaning the number of thieves, debtors and runaway slaves who joined in the Holy war.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

THE TRAINED NURSE.

NURSING is going to be a greater opportunity for the right woman than ever before in the history of medicine.

There is going to be better regulation of working hours and an advance in salary. For the demand is exceeding the supply and inducements to take up the profession must necessarily grow more attractive.

If you want to be a nurse it is your duty to take the training, for you are wanted, and your work waits for you.

In some of our states there are no laws making the registration of nurses compulsory. Because of this, untrained or partly trained women compete with the trained nurse for private work. Laws must be passed that will alter these things for the better. The Red Cross is hoping to demonstrate the need of the properly trained nurse so strongly that every community will be led to demand a proper registration law and a certain degree of training for its nurses.

In choosing your training school, be sure that you select a first-class hospital. You will get infinitely better treatment and your diploma will count for far more.

Nursing is hard work, but for the woman with a vocation it is work that she loves. A graduate nurse is a valuable member of the community. Her standing is secure, and she can be sure of a good income. In her professional life she is thrown with men and women of high caliber. If you have any leaning that way, it is worth much effort to get started.

"Somebody in the audience laughed during my death scene," complained the eminent tragedian.

"Don't you worry about that," said his manager, soothingly. "I had the fellow put out."

"But why did he laugh?"

City Hall Notes

When the news of tax rates in many cities in Massachusetts is received, we find Peabody at $28.10 is much lower than most of the others. Mayor Donnell tells us the rate could have been around $23 if appropriations in the several departments had been kept as they were, or $120,000 more than last year.

—*—

We presume Mayor Shea will be charged with this increase, but we must remember the Council have the check, and had they used it as well in the first budget as they did in the supplimentary one the tax rate would have been lower.

—*—

In order to complete the schools, furniture and grading must be done. It is too late to make appropriations this year, so that some arrangement must be made to date bills ahead. The school committee should act.

—*—

No one can blame the plumbing contractor, who got the job in the new schools for having the advantage of a falling market. It is true that plumbing supplies are cut in halves, some more, for instance solder was 60 cents a pound, now 20 cents, which is lower than before the war.

—*—

John Russell resumes his duties as City Hall janitor Monday next, and is welcomed by his assistant. This is a two man's job now summer and winter.

—*—

The employes of the municipal garage are under civil service. In fact, all are but the heads of departments. They would seem secure in their positions, but they must be on the job.

—*—

The price of electricity remains the same as before the war and during the war, which speaks well for our municipal plant. Under poor management it would be another story as in Wakefield. Municipal heads with practically no check get into bad ways many times, but not so with Warren.

—*—

That storeroom for records has not materialized. It might be better to put money there than in many other ways in the past. There will be a sorry mess when that fire comes, which is not beyond reason.

—*—

No motorcycle cop, no playground for South Peabody, no water in West Peabody, at least not enough to talk about, no sidewalks where they are needed in many sections of the city, is the answer to a treasury which is money shy. Someone can be blamed, but who?

—*—

One of the biggest surprises when Peabody became a city was the fact there was $115,000 in the treasury. It did not take long to melt that pile and so goes municipal doings. But it is true the people got something for their money and our good roads show it.

—*—

The new high school is an imposing looking structure. It should suffice for many years, and it will not be for long when the cost will be forgotten.

—*—

Judge Hall of the local court is feeling much better and hopes to get about again soon. He has plenty of courage, which means everything.

—*—

Councillor and ex-City Clerk and Treasurer Francis L. Poor underwent another operation recently, which has left him in a weak condition. His friends are pulling for him to rally and his ultimate recovery.

—*—

Many are wondering what the city is doing about the sewer question. After the expense Salem has gone to, Peabody should be dusting up their records, and such may be the case. There is much speculation as to the outcome.

—*—

The tax bills are half completed and will be sent out before September first. They are due Oct. 15, and after November first interest will be charged. Pay up early, for the city needs the money.

—*—

That car of the health department needs painting. We presume too much business halts the job.

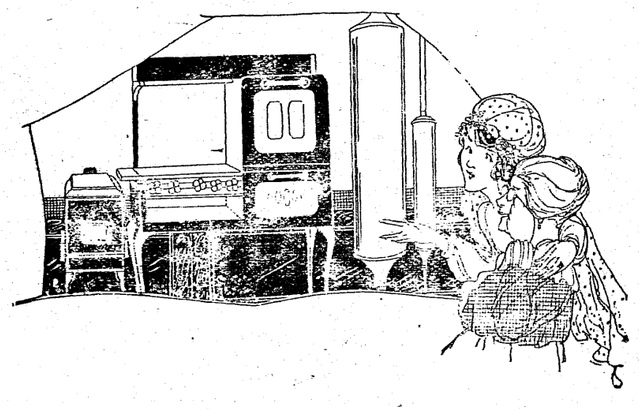
—*—

Had Sawyer is in his element at the head of the West Peabody ball team. Had is long on the inside stuff, which no doubt accounts for the many victories of the West Peabody team.

Moose Lodge To Have Queen For Festival

Something entirely new for Peabody—an outdoor carnival to be conducted by a local organization—is scheduled to take place at Emerson Park for six days and nights, beginning Monday, August 29. The affair will be known a sthe "Harvest Home Fiesta," and will be presented under the auspices of Peabody Moose Lodge. A week's program of special events has been cleverly planned as follows: Monday night—Public officials and civic organizations; Tuesday night—"Casey night for K. of C.," "Tabs," A. O. H. and Foresters; Wednesday night—Moose night for visiting "Paps" and members of their ladies' elgions; Thursday night—Ladies' night with confetti and serpentine battle; Friday night—for Elks, Eagles, Masons, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Beavers, etc. Also closing of "Queen contest"; Saturday afternoon—Grand baby parade and review; Saturday night—Everybodys night—the grand finale.

One of the biggest attractions of the week will be the deciding of the question, "Who is the most popular lady (married or single) in Peabody?" This interesting question will be decided by a popular vote contest, and the winning candidate will be adjudged "Queen of the Fiesta." A diamond ring will be awarded the winner and to the person or organization that nominates the winner will be given $25 in cash.



Those in direct charge of the affair are: P. T. Langan, chairman; Edward Cranney, secretary; William Robinson, treasurer; John McGinness, William H. Sweeney, Charles Homan, Alfred Labelle, Gardner A. Viles, John F. Young, Stuart McEwen, Alfred La Freniere, Michael Reddin, Patrick J. Walsh, Chester H. Smith, William Connors, John Breare, Edward Sylvester, Harry F. PLAYGROUND SEASON ENDS WITH EXHIBITION THURSDAY

Next week marks the closing of the Peabody playground season. The event will be celebrated on Thursday with an exhibition at Emerson Park, in which practically all of the several hundred playground children will participate.

Although playgrounds have been operated during the summer season in Peabody for the past 10 years, the season of 1921 has been the first in which the playgrounds have been conducted under an organized supervisory. It is also the first season in which every community in the city has been served. The number of playgrounds was this year increased to 10, and this action on the part of the park commissioners has enabled the children of the South and West Peabody communities to enjoy the same privileges that are given to the young folks in the heart of the city.

The City Fathers have this year assumed a kindly attitude toward all measures that have been introduced carrying appropriations for playground purposes, and this fact, together with the efficient service rendered by supervisors and instructors, has made possible this most successful season of accomplishments in the 10 playlots of the city.

Slightly more than 500 children have received the benefits of the playgrounds this season. The majority of these are of tender ages. The swings, slides and other playground equipment have made possible for them one of the most pleasant

Glue Works To Open Sept. 12

Notice has been posted at the local plant of the American Glue Company announcing the resumption of business on a normal basis commencing Monday, September 12. This announcement will be received with pleasure by the 450 employes who were laid off indefinitely early in July.

Superintendent J. P. Newbury of the plant stated yesterday that about 100 employes are already at work at the plant engaged in the first stages of work on gelatine products, preparatory to the return of the full force of men and women.

While the future of the industry depends in a large measure upon the action of congress in connection with the tariff, officials of the company are hopeful. Representatives of the company are now in Washington working in behalf of the local industry.

CITY CLERK DOWD LAUGHS AT LAW--- SNUBS ENTERPRISE

What is apparently an attempt on the part of City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to pick a quarrel with the Peabody Enterprise is shown by a story in a Lynn paper of some days ago which quoted the Peabody City Clerk as intimating that the Enterprise had threatened to bring court proceedings to require him to no longer conceal the marriage intentions from publication.

There had been no threat on the part of the Peabody Enterprise nor is there any political fued that animates this newspaper or can possibly induce Peabodys newspaper to start any controversy with Clerk Dowd. He was never known to make any such an extended talk, and it is obvious that someone else is largely responsible for the outburst which strangely appears in a Lynn paper.

It is possible that the assistant clerk has done the talking to the Lynn correspondent. It has long been the practice of the assistant City Clerk to ask couple applying for marriage intentions if they wish their approaching marriage to be published immediately, placing a question on the romance and making it appear that secrecy was the desired thing. The insinuation is apparent in any event and would in most cases be rightfully resented.

It is a fact that City Clerk Dowd has refused to give the Enterprise access to the marriage intentions filed in his office. He has accused us also of having published someone's marriage intentions after his assistant clerk had informed the Enterprise that no publicity was to be given the particular intention. In other words, someone assuming authority in the City Clerk's office has decreed that the statute which allows publicity on a public record for every marriage intention filed in Massachusetts is an idle law and does not apply in Peabody, the world's largest sheepskin center.

City Clerk Dowd admits the marriage intentions shall be a part of his public record and consequently as such is, of course, open to inspection by every citizen of Peabody, whether a property owner or not. By the same token, of course, the record is public for inspection of any reporter for the Peabody Enterprise. Yet Clerk Dowd rules otherwise.

Washington St. May Be Reopened Thru Efforts Chamber Commerce

The Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce are extremely hopeful of the eventual reopening of the Washington street route of the Eastern Massachusetts street railway. Just at present the committee is awaiting a conference with Frank I. Hardy, former manager of the Salem division of the road, who is now stationed in the Chelsea division. A previous conference with Mr. Hardy was postponed because of the latter's illness.

While the railroad officials have issued the ultimatum that the route cannot be reopened without an outlay of $20,000 in repairs to the roadbed, and only with the understanding that the city repave the street between the rails, the Chamber committee are hopeful of reaching a satisfactory understanding in both directions.

It is felt that members of the council who have shown a disposition to sit tight on the lid of the city treasury in many other matters, will consider it a matter of good politics to pass any order that may come before for the repaving of Washington street between the tracks, when the matter is eventually brought before them for action. The demands of the residents of the Washington street section of the city for a resumption of the street car service on that route has been so insistent that the Council will hardly dare to ignore the requests from the large percentage of voters in this territory.

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS NEW DANIEL F. KEEFE SCHOOL

The keys of the new Daniel Francis Keefe school on Washington street were turned over to the city at informal exercises held at the school building yesterday afternoon. Members of the school committee accepted the keys following an inspection of the building. The meeting of the board was called at 3 oclock.

Exercises marking the official opening of the new school will be postponed until after the classes have been installed in the building.

The new building is the most up-to-date in the city. Its six class rooms with accommodations for about 175 pupils will greatly relieve the congestion in three schools, particularly the Center school. Pupils for the new school will also be drawn from the Wallis and South schools. The grades will range from one to six. Mrs. Mary S. Murphy, who was a teacher at the Thomas Carroll school last season, will be assigned as principal of the new school. Mrs. Murphy was formerly principal of the Endicott school. The grade teachers have not yet been assigned.

The buildings, a one-story brick and stucco structure, is modern in every detail. Fire hazard has been practically eliminated by individual doors leading from each of the six class rooms directly onto the walks surrounding the building. Many modern features, which are new to Peabody schools, have also been installed to conserve space. The class rooms have been laid out for greater convenience to both teachers and pupils.

A large hall, with a slightly raised platform at its rear, is located in the very center of the building. The class rooms lead off the hall, two on each side, and one each to the right and left of the front entrance.

One of the features of the class rooms is the so-called Chicago system of closets for clothes, in which the minimum space is used. The closets are so located in each room that when not in use a series of sliding doors can be lowered and the closets completely concealed. An individual black board forming the top panel of each sliding

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

More than 170,000 women, members of 3400 units, will be represented at the first national convention of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion to be held at Kansas City simultaneously with the third national convention of the Legion October 31 to November 2. The Auxiliary has completed departmental organizations in more than thirty states. At the coming convention it will select a national headquarters and perhaps a new name.

When Nathan Potak, a youth from Ukrainia, gave his life to the service of the United States in the world war, he made a sacrifice which may save his father, mother and two brothers from deportation. The family arrived in Minneapolis nearly penniless and were taken in custody by immigration regulations. They then learned for the first time of their son's sacrifice. The American Legion is endeavoring to obtain for them the $10,000 government insurance, state bonus and dependents' allowance.

The Hollywood, Cal., post of the American Legion, composed chiefly of members of the motion picture colony, will send more than 100 entertained to the annual reunion of the ninety-first division at Los Angeles, Sept. 24 and 25.

George Boehmer, overseas veteran of Springfield, Ill., waited two years for the war risk bureau to adjust his claim for compensation. The award came eight hours after the veteran had succumbed to tuberculosis. William G. McCauley, department commander of the American Legion, who had been assisting Boehmer with his compensation claim, wired to Washington as follows: "Boehmer received his reward this morning. Case now in hands of his Maker."

Joyce Lewis, member of the American Legion at Long Prairie, Minn., was among the mourners at the funeral of his buddy Corporal Robert Burns Hess at St. Paul, Minn., last week. Lewis owes his life to the dead soldier. The latter had dragged him wounded out of a shell hole and was later killed in action. Lewis recovered and returned to the United States. He lost all trace of his rescuer until he read in a newspaper that the Hess' body would be brought from France for reburial.

Altitude trials, parachute drops and a spectacular aerial derby, participated in by Eddie Rickenbacher, William Furlow, Edgar Tobin and other famous aviators, will be included in a flying circus to be held during the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City October 31 to November 2.

Charging that Winthrop D. Lane, a sociological expert employed by a legislative investigating committee in New York City, is editor of a pamphlet called "Uncle Sam, Jailer," which attacked the government on the political prisoner question, the executive committee of the King's County of the American Legion, comprising seventy New York posts, has sent a petition to State Senator Meyer, chairman of the investigating committee, requesting Lane's dismissal.

A clash between employes of a circus and the police of Fremont, Nebraska, as the latter attempted to stop alleged "con" games, came to an end when the mayor of the city threatened to call out members of the American Legion to preserve law and order. The police were outnumbered by the circus roustabouts, who refused to obey orders of the mayor until the latter announced that he would call Legion men to assist the police.

A baseball game between members of the Woodston, Oklahoma, post of the American Legion and members of the Women's Auxiliary resulted in a victory for the women with a score of 28 to 18. The right hand of each of the Legionnaires was tied behind his back, a handicap too great to overcome.

LYNN MERCHANTS OFFER BIG VALUES

Lynn merchants through the Trade Extension Committee of the Chamber of Commerce have completed their preparations for one of the biggest trading events of the season, to be known as SUBURBAN DAY, which will take place August 20. All previous efforts at price reductions fade into insignificance when compared with what Lynn merchants will offer to the buying public who visit Lynn on that day.

Accordingly upon deciding to conduct SUBURBAN DAY on August 20, Lynn merchants realized that to bring to Lynn those living in nearby cities and towns a far greater effort to offer the best in merchandise at the least possible cost to the purchaser than was ever attempted before was necessary.—Adv.

wall. A prominent Boston banker tells us the break in hard times has arrived. He says it will take some time to get going, but he can see that the going is soon to be good. Coming from the source it does, I have considerable faith in his statement. The banks practically control the situation. Business must look to them for credit and when credit is given where for two years it has been refused, why not better business? The big fellows have been hard hit in the credit matter. There have been failures recently, or assignments if you will, that involved men with millions, and there have been many of this kind on the brink of financial trouble. There has been big lots of leather sold at prices less than the cost of the raw skins, The end to such things is in sight, it is claimed, and the downward tendency of commodities is certain. This readjustment is a long and tedious process at the best. We have mastered it to the extent of bringing back faith in the future, and Father Time with the scythe which should be used more by the people, has cleared a path for better times. Here's hoping he does the trick.

There is 50 per cent. of the leather workers idle today. It is to be regretted that such is the case, but there is no remedy until we get business. Now and then appears bright spots, with certain kinds of leather having the call. It is as unhealthy as is the man who sits down to a meal with no appetite except to pick here and there. The loss in wages mounts up and affects everybody in the city.

The Turner Tanning Machinery Co. is doing little. I understand officials representing the United Shoe Machinery Co. are there sizing up conditions, and what will be done is problematical. Naturally changes will come, as the situation warrants. New owners generally mean new ideas. Therefore the tanners are much interested and watching developments.

CAN YOU PICK THE MOST POPULAR LADY IN PEABODY

Who is the most popular lady in Peabody? If anyone can solve that problem successfully, there will set at rest more than one vexed and perturbed mind and incidentally the identity will be established of the particular female who is to be crowned "Queen of the Fiesta" here at the big out-door celebration of Peabody Lodge of Moose, which is scheduled for the week of August 29 at Emerson Park.

The person or social organization that first nominates the winning "queen" candidate is to be the recipient of a cash award of twenty-five dollars on Friday evening, September 2, the closing night of the competition.

P. T. Langan and his aides on the Fiesta arrangement committee are determined that this celebration is not to be an exception to the time-honored precedent. A "queen" there is to be and the "who" of it will be the final result of what promises to develop into a decidedly exciting period of popular balloting ere the contest reaches the finale.

"Not Guilty" at Strand Theatre Featuring Sylvia Breamer and Richard Dix Today and Saturday

"Not Guilty," the photoplay which will top the Strand's bill for today and Saturday, will arouse interest among the patrons of that house because many of them have read Harold McGraths thrilling novel, "Parrot & Company," from which it is adapted. Sylvia Breamer and Richard Dix head a big cast of players.

The plot is an unusual one and involves twin brothers who love the same woman and who, strange to relate, are both loved by her. One of the brothers commits a crime, turns out to be a murderer and his twin changes identity with the guilty brother. Then events follow in rapid sequence. The innocent brother self-exiled goes to India, the land of "brilliant days and purple nights," where the love, the life, the lure of the tropical east soothe the hearts and the hopes of the civilized west. Then by a strange coincidence the girl visits India. But the course of true love, which never did run true, winds thru a veritable jungle of tense situations to an amazing climax. The picture is a First National attraction. "Pretty Lady," a Sunshine comedy, and a smashing chapter of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" are the other attractions listed for showing today.

Bessie Barriscale in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands' 'and Zazu Pitts in "The Heart of Twenty" will be the double bill for Sunday evening.

New York, ever-changing, ever-fascinating and gay, is the local of the George Fitzmaurice Paramount production "Paying the Piper," which, with Conway Tearle in "Bucking the Tiger," will be the program for Monday and Tuesday.

"Paying the Piper" is from an original story by Ouida Bergere, who wrote the continuity for that other Fitzmaurice masterpiece of New York life, "On With the Dance," and it possesses scenes, characters and situations just as convincingly real as did its predecessor. For "Paying the Piper" the authoress chose people typical of New York—Wall street millionaires who have heartlessly marched to the top; their spoiled, reckless offspring; ambitious hardworking professional people who find their success or defeat in the great metropolis. Around them she has spun a theme showing that money cannot buy happiness or the most desired things of life. Dorothy Dickson, the famous Follies dancer, makes her debut in this picture. Other favorites in the cast are Alma Tell, George Fawcett and Rod La Rocque.

Outcasts from the four corners of the globe are the characters in "Bucking the Tiger," the second feature on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. Scenes are laid in the wild snow-bound wastes of the far north, where man takes the law into his own hands unhampered by the red tape of legal procedures. It is generally considered the greatest role of Mr. Tearle has yet essayed.

Failure of the City Council to pass an appropriation for $3000 asked by Mayor Shea in his budget to provide for water pipe and supplies for renewals, deprived one family residing at 53 Harris street of water for four days this week. The matter was only straightened out after an urgent appeal had been made to Mayor Shea.

Agent James J. Ray of the Health Department who was called into the case, found that the family consisted of a husband, wife and three children. There was sickness in the family and danger of more serious illness because of the absence of running water.

Agent Ray took the matter up with Acting City Engineer Roger Macdonald who was powerless to do anything.

Relief for the family was only secured after the matter had been brought to the attention of the Mayor. The water supply in the house was completely cut off, due to corrugated pipes leading from the water main in the street.

The following letters relating to case are self explanatory:

Office of the Department of Public Health,

Mayor Gets Hearing To Put Lynn Trolleys Back On Washington St.

In his effort to bring about the return of the Lynn cars onto Washington street, Mayor William A. Shea has asked the Trustees of the Mass. Eastern Street Railway to grant a public hearing. The trustees have set the hearing next Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 12 noon at 1 Beacon street, Boston.

Mayor Shea has received numerous letters from factory owners urging the return of the cars as a better accommodation to their employees. Mayor Shea has the word of several Foster street plant owners that they will be glad to have the Lynn cars taken from that thoroughfare.

The Mayor's letter is as follows:

Office of the Mayor, City Hall,
Peabody, Mass., August 23, 1921.

Homer Loring, Chairman,
Board of Public Trustees,
Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.,
No. 1 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

My dear Mr. Loring:

I respectfully petition your honorable board to grant a public hearing to the people of this district relative to the restoration of car service on Washington street in the City of Peabody, on the Lynn and Peabody line.

It is my belief that both the trustees and the people would be greatly benefited by the requested hearing because the true conditions as they exist at the present and the advisability of the elimination of the said conditions by the restoration of the said service, could be ascertained with accuracy.

Thanking you kindly for your anticipated attention in this matter, I am,

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM A. SHEA,
Mayor.

CLUB WOMEN TO PREPARE LUNCHES FOR HIGH SCHOOL

The completion of the new high school addition will give to the pupils at that school a real lunch room, which has never before been possible. In preparing the plans for the new building, more space was set aside for lunch room purposes. This will be fitted up to meet the needs of the school.

Mrs. Edward A. Blaney of the Peabody Woman's club, who has been in charge of the lunch counter at the high school since the movement was started by the Woman's club several years ago, will again take up her duties with the opening of the school term Sept. 7.

For many years the pupils at the school have been provided with recess luncheons at cost price. Sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream have been served at a ridiculously low figure, and sometimes at a small loss. This loss in the food products has been covered, however, by a small margin of profit through the sale of candies.

In the past an average of about 400 pupils out of the total of 600 in the school have been served during the half hour recess each day. It has been the custom to prepare about 480 sandwiches. The sandwiches are made by Mrs. Blaney in her home and the bread and cake are purchased outside.

Mrs. Blaney is making plans for a busier season than ever when school is reopened, for in the new lunch room with its two counters and entrances and exits for both boys and girls, the work of putting out the food will be simplified.

State Police Order Change At Keefe School

Several changes in the ventilating and heating systems at the new Daniel F. Keefe school in Ward 2 have been made necessary as a result of the failure of State Building Inspector Cheney to approve the systems installed at the school. The fact that the state inspector condemned the heating and ventilating system became known this week. The school committee instructed the architect to take an appeal from the finding of the state inspector to Chief Plunkett of the state police. When this action was taken the chief sustained the finding of his inspector.

The necessary changes have now been named, and other changes in the electrical apparatus which have been suggested by City Electrician O'Keefe are also being made in order that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the school sessions on time.

Final approval of the school by the state police will not take place until the cold weather has set in. It is stated that it is impossible to make a proper test of the heating and ventilating systems of the schools until the temperature outside has reached the low level of 32 degrees, so that final acceptance of the school by the school board will probably be delayed until after the report of the state police has been received.

Burglars After Cellar Stock

"Come up here quick, there's two yeggmen crawling in my cellar window."

This was the message received over the telephone at Peabody fire headquarters one night this week. The voice on the other end of the wire was that of a w. k. resident of Andover street.

The report was turned over to the police. On arriving at the house two guardians of the law entered the house stealthily and proceeded immediately to the cellar, where they of course expected to meet two desperate characters.

After several minutes their searchlights fell upon two perfectly harmless citizens, friends of the excited tenant. The two intruders were seated in the darkest corner of the cellar, beside one of those old-fashioned steel-hooped receptacles, the contents of which were once credited with making Milwaukee famous.

There were no arrests.

Every Small Boy Knows It.

The man who first loved a dog—probably a puppy which he had taken from its mother's lair—placed mankind under a profound obligation for all time. We can imagine the sense of friendly security which the presence and the fidelity of that puppy, grown up to doghood, gave that primitive man.—Svetozar Tonjoroff in the Boston Herald.

SOME LEATHER PLANTS RUSHED WITH ORDERS AS IN WAR TIME

(By ENERGY)

When one goes about the leather factories in Peabody, the striking conclusion arises, why is it a certain few of the factories are busy and the rest doing little or nothing? This week I visited a sheepskin factory here where business is as rushing as at any time during the war. I do not know if this concern has pickled sheep in quantities to finish, but I do know that they are busy today and have been for months. I note they are producing a large variety of finishes, from blacks, many colors, to pearl ooze leather. It comes to me that perhaps such tanners are making a superior article to their competitors.

I am ready to believe this is the case until I am shown. I know that chrome tanners may have all the ingredients and the skill to mix them so as to get proper results. But there are other things which enter into the proper tanning of leather which have been overlooked by the large majority. Perhaps I should not enter into the home brew game. But there is a chemical process there which must be watched to get results. I am told beer should be kept in the proper and even temperature to be right. I offer this to show that leather tanned by the chemical process should have the same conditions. In the kodak industry the temperature and humidity of the work rooms are the same the year round. Making leather must follow in the footsteps of the kodak and brewers if you may, to get better results.

—*—

I know one factory that follows out this line of procedure and the leather produced by them is called as good if not the best in the market. One can readily see, if looked into, that leather made in cold weather is different than in summer. Therefore an even temperature and humidity not varying will give better results.

—*—

Here is where one of the biggest steps has been taken in the leather industry. Here is where science comes in, and the old fashioned tanner who cared not how he tanned his hides so far as temperature went it outclassed. The same thing would have applied to vegetable tan, but when we think that vats in the open were common, and later only covered with a shell of a building where the thermometer inside and out corresponded, then what is the answer? The leather varied when finished and why in the name of common sense shouldn't it?

—*—

So all tanners will finally come to the conclusion that their factories must be so constructed as to have an even temperature. It is being done by those who have dug deep into leather making, and those who insist it makes no difference will lag far behind. In fact today, the factories which are doing a fair business can be picked as the ones who produce the best leather. The shoe manufacturer of shoes today has his pick of leather. His pants at the knees need no longer be worn, and he is consuming the best leather only. There may not be enough demand to keep all busy. But there is considerable leather being cut into shoes today. There is today more raw material coming here than for many moons.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Yolk of eggs are "well beaten" when thick, light and lemon-colored.

A bit of thyme added to the filling for a fowl will give a good flavor.

An electric iron outfit in the sewing room is a great convenience.

Even a spoonful of cereal is worth saving to thicken soup, gravy or sauce.

After washing the sink, sprinkle a little chloride of lime down the drain pipe.

The best-shaped utensil for deep fat-frying is a cast aluminum kettle with an oval bottom.

Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and dry and add to two cupfuls of plain mayonnaise. This makes a deliciously fluffy dressing.

Butter made from pasteurized cream or milk should be given to children in their sixth year. Before that age jellies and fruit butters are much better for them.

A fruit salad may be served with cheese balls in place of the customary dessert. The bread sticks may be split open, buttered and laid on the edge of the salad plate.

If you have difficulty with your cake becoming stale, try cutting out a portion right across the middle first and put the two sides that are left together.

A good dressing for fruit salad is made by adding to one cupful of plain mayonnaise three tablespoonfuls of sweet whipped cream and three-quarters of a cupful of grated coconut.

Gingham is highly commended as summer cottage curtain material and the up-to-date nursery, whether in town or country, now has summer curtains, crib coverings, dresser coverings, etc., of fine checked gingham.

ULLVEN IN THRILLING LEAP AT MOOSE LODGE BIG FIESTA

The Peabody Loyal Order of Moose Harvest Home Fiesta will be the attraction at Emerson Park all next week with several big features. Chairman P. T. Langan and his associates on the committee have made all arrangements for the big outdoor celebration. The opening night will be tomorrow night.

The grounds will be illuminated. Tomorrow afternoon there will be entertainment such as the merry-go-round and ferris wheel for the kiddies and the women folks.

Beginning next Monday night, the Fiesta management will offer nightly at 10.30 o'clock a special feature "free attraction" in the open air, consisting of a daring "slide for life" performance by one Dare Devil Ullven. This exhibition is scheduled to take place at 10.30 and is described as a real thriller. The performer is hoisted to the summit of a pole sixty feet high and then at a given signal starts his daring descent to the ground some six hundred feet away, where he lands in a safety net. The halo of a spotlight constantly keeps him clearly in sight.

It is confidently expected that one of the very largest attendances ever known at Emerson Park will be recorded there during the Fiesta. Every night is a special event night of some sort and special letters of invitation have been sent out generously to all the various fraternal organizations that are represented here with local lodges. Wednesday evening of next week should particularly bring out a record breaking crowd. This is Moose and Lady Legion night and visiting delegations are quite reasonably certain from the lodges of neighboring cities and towns.

As is to be expected, there is strongly in evidence a greatly increased interest in the "Queen of the Fiesta" voting contest which has been staged to determine the identity of just who is the most popular lady in Peabody. The winner of this interesting balloting event is to receive the distinguished title of "Miss Peabody" for a period of one year from the date of her election, and that honor is well worth hustling for, to say nothing of the beautiful solitaire cluster diamond ring which is offered as first prize. The latter, together with the solid gold lady's wrist watch and the diamond studded barpin third prize, are now on public display in the store windows of Parke Snow, Inc., where they are naturally attracting much public attention and admiration.

The "queen" race is on in earnest, with a present total of ten candidates. Here is the line-up: Mrs. Veta M. Brown of Chestnut street extension, Miss Alice Smith of Washington street, Miss Elizabeth Shea of Washington street, Miss Ruth Batchelder of Clement avenue, Miss Ella Emerson of Lowell street, Miss Blanche Levasseur, 16 Northend street; Miss Barbara Johansen, 2 Waters street; Miss Mae Jermyn, 112 Lynn street; Miss Lillian Boyarski, 8 Sanborn street.

The special contest committee has made an enterprising move by arranging with several of the most progressive of Peabody's merchants to give away "queen" voting coupons to cash customers. A special window card tells the public the exact location of these stores, as also does the display advertisement of the Fiesta in today's issue of the Enterprise.

For the information of those interested in the "queen contest," this competitive event is to be brought to a conclusion on Friday night of next week and then on Saturday, the closing night of the celebration, is to be observed the presentation of the prizes and the official coronation ceremony with the formal crowning of the "queen."

LACES PREDICTED FOR FALL

Embellishment Promises to Be Fashionable for Use on Blouses as Cool Days Come.

The blouses now found in the show rooms of the smarter shops are principally made of georgette, with the exception of some types of mignonette. The belief is expressed, however, that laces of many sorts will be fashionable for blouses in the fall.

Some newer models of the sport suits are exceptionally attractive. The combining of homespuns in overplaid with duvetyn is particularly effective in a suit where the plaited skirt is developed in homespun of a brilliant shade of red, with an overplaid in black and white. A silk duvetyn coat is faced with the homespun of the skirt. The same model is made of Harding blue plaid homespun, combined with black duvetyn. While box coats are shown, they are invariably accompanied by narrow buckle or tie belts. Sport topcoats are entirely mannish as to cut and are shown in long and three-quarter models.

Keefe School Well Protected Against Fire

The changes made this week in the ventilating system to meet the requirements of the state police consisted of the removal of every other blade from the louvre on the vent from the hall of the school and also from the boiler room and basement. The removal of the blades increase the size of the air inlet. And the openings in the basement have been provided with shelter to protect radiation in extreme cold weather.

Pending the final approval of the school by the state police and its acceptance by the city, payment of 15 per cent. of the total cost of the school building will be held back from the contractor, according to the terms of the contract.

Protection against fire afforded pupils at the new Daniel F. Keefe school in Ward 2, through the automatic equipment that ha sbeen installed in that school under the personal supervision of City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, is as nearly perfect as mechanical equipment will permit.

On either side of the large hall of the school there are two manually operated combination auxiliary and local fire alarm signalling station, each having a substantial iron case, provided with a door mounted on brass hinges and provided with suitable lettering to clearly instruct the person who desires to give a signal.

These boxes are pulled in the event of fire by breaking the glass, which automatically sends a pre-determined code signal throughout the building on the large tapper bells, and at the same time registers a box number on a device in the principal's office, where it can readily be seen by the firemen when they enter the building in search for the fire.

At the same time the street box number 212 is automatically pulled from the inside of the building at that point and the fire department summoned without the person giving the alarm having to run one or more blocks to the nearest street fire alarm box.

At the same time the many doors on all sides of the building afford ready exits for the 200 children direct from the class rooms to the outdoors.

QUINN-MULLEN

A wedding of more than local interest was solemnized at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at St. John's church, when in the presence of a large number of friends, Miss M. Alice Mullen of this city was united in marriage to Harold T. Quinn of Salem and Worcester, by Rev. Charles D. McInnis. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengren's wedding march played by Miss Mary P. Clifford.

Little Elieen O'Brien, the flower girl, was daintily dressed in white net over pink taffeta and carried a basket of sweet peas and pink shores. The bride was becomingly attired in white Canton crepe with overdrapery of chantilly lace. Here tulle veil was caught coronet fashion with lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Bessie Mullen who wore a dress of pale pink georgette and black lace hat. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses. The best man was James T. Wentzell of Salem.

The groom's gift to his bride was a crescent of pearls and to his best man a ribbon watch chain. The bridesmaid received a set of arm bangles.

The reception which was held at the home of the bride's aunts, Misses Elizabeth and Amelia McCarthy, 9 Ayer street, was attended by about 100 guests including friends from Boston, Athol, East Douglas, Worcester, Salem and Providence. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, hydrangeas and garden flowers, and music was furnished throughout the evening by Higgin's orchestra. The gift room, where a veritable shower of beautiful things were on display, was in charge of Miss Marion McBride The bride who has been employed as stenographer at the B. E. Cox Leather Co. received an entire set of cut glass serving glasses from her employers and a mahogany chime clock from the employees. The groom who is an optimetrist with Andrew J. Lloyd of Salem, received a purse of gold from his associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn have gone on a two week's trip to Atlantic City and on their return will reside at 9 Ayer street, where they will be at home to friends after October 1st.

POULTRY FIELD DAY

Interesting program planned at Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorn, Mass.

A full program is planned for the First Essex County Field Day to be held on the lawn of the Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorne, Mass., Saturday afternoon, August 27th at 2:15 p. m. This meeting offers an exceptional opportunity for poultry raisers to visit the Egg Laying Contest and the School Poultry Plant, to talk their problems over with other poultry raisers, and to ask questions of the different specialists present.

Program

2:15 P. M.—"The School as a Factor in the Poultry Industry in Essex County," by Fred A. Smith, director Essex County Agricultural School.

2:30 P. M.—"Using Pullets for Breeders," by A. W. Richardson, New Hampshire State College.

3:30 P. M.—"Culling: A Factor in Breeding," by W. C. Monahan, Massachusetts Agricultural College.

4:15 P. M.—"First Essex County Home Egg Laying Contest," by John S. Carver, Poultry Specialist and Instructor, Essex County Agricultural School.

The Essex County Agricultural School opens under auspicious conditions on September 6th. The staff is without broken ranks, and there is every prospect of a large entering class.

The school grounds are in excellent shape at present, due to the constant attention of Herman Herrick, a member of the class of 1921.

The field of fodder corn, directly below the dairy barn, is receiving the favorable comments from visitors to the farm.

Seasonal Notes

Now is the time to bud seedling trees. This applies to all the common fruit trees.

Two revised bulletins from the State Department of Agriculture have come to our notice which will be of interest to farmers; i. e. Orcharding Series No. 2, and Small Fruits and Berries, Bulletin No. 4.

The cultivated orchard, if on a side hill, should now be sown to rye and vetch or some other winter cover crop to prevent soil erosion and to provide green manue for plowing under in the spring.

BE A BOOSTER

Anita Stewart At Strand Monday In Her Latest National Film

The novel situation of a brilliant young physician losing his identity and joining an illiterate community in the Blue Ridge mountains has been made into a photoplay and will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday. It is called "The Blazing Trail," and Frank Mayo is the star. It is a picture that gives the star a great opportunity to inject punch drama into snappy romance. As the story opens Mayo is seen as Dr. Bradley Yates, a young physician who has spurred his brain over the border of amnesia. He has been working too hard on a specific for blood poisoning and is found wandering in a daze about the city. At the suggestion of a fellow physician he goes to the most illiterate community in the Blue Ridge mountains where he cannot be distracted by the scientific problems which have driven his mind to exhaustion.

In the mountains he finds a problem of another kind which gives his mind greater action than ever before, yet leaves him the strong and vigorous young fellow he was before the laboratory sapped his strength and upset his poise. In the joy of protecting some one weaker than himself is a genuine surprise, one that will linger long in the memory of all who see it. Lillian Rich, Ray Ripley and Mary Philbin head the supporting cast. Miss Philbin is to be starred by the Universal company next year. Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders" and "Sunless Sunday," a screamingly funny Mremaid comedy round out the program for today and Saturday.

Milton Sills, a fine actor and general favorite, will appear Sunday evening in Cosmo Hamilton's novel "The Week End." Marguerita Fisher co-stars, with Mr. Sills in this production. Mary Anderson in "Bubbles" will be the second feature on the bill for Sunday evening.

Anita Stewart in her latest special attraction "Sowing the Wind" will be the big attraction the Strand will offer for Monday and Tuesday. Critics declare this to be Miss Stewart's best effort in interpreting the silent art, of which she has long been recognized as one of the most popular exponents In "Sowing the Wind" an unusual story is unfolded—it concerns an innocent convent girl who goes out into the world only to discover that her mother is the keeper of a notorious gambling house. Her struggles to get away from the possibility of emulating her mother, her subsequent meeting with the man she loves and finally the locating of her father combine to make a story of rare charm and understanding. A cast of unusual importance supports Miss Stewart. James Morrison, Mrytle Stedman, Ralph Lewis and William Vong are especially worthy of commendation for their finished performances in the meritorious picture. As the picture is nine reels in length it will be impossible to show any other picture except the News Weekly with it.

Tom Moore in "Hold Your Horses," with titles by Rupert Hughes and Billie Burke in "The Frisky Mrs Johnson" will be the double bill for next Wednesday and Thursday.

BALL GAME

The Peabody Y. M. H. A. will play the Father Mathews, Sunday, Aug. 28th, at 3 P. M.

The Y. M. H. A. promises to surprise the Father Mats, as Manager Paitchel has secured some new players. The Father Mats will have their strongest line-up, including Eddie O'Connor, Hubby Lawrence and other stars.

Firestone

Again Reduces Price

Extra Size 30x3½ $16.65

Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid, May 2. Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3½ size, made this possible.

Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3½ tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for our Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Goggin Bares Plot To Get Soldier's Aid

City Auditor William F. Goggin was responsible for the cutting off of $45 graft from the soldiers' aid payroll last week which a city employee tried to collect from the city in addition to $169.39 salary from the City Engineer's department. The man, a regular army service man, who enlisted in 1900 while war was being waged in the Philippines, had asked for aid on the ground that he was unemployed. He has several children.

He was employed on the night gang work cleaning the sewer and received his four weeks pay during the month of August up to last Saturday night.

Gourley Boy Shoots Self

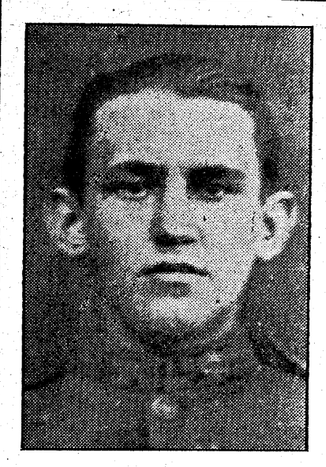
Arthur Gourley, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gourley of Milk street, is at the hospital hovering between life and death as a result of a self-inflicted wound by a bullet which punctured his lung and came out his back. The shooting accident occurred yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the A. C. Lawrence Co. garage on Crowninshield street, where the youth was with his uncle, Gordon Gourley, one of the chauffeurs. The gun belonged to Chauffeur Frank Moore who is licensed to carry a weapon.

Unbeknown to any of the garage employes young Gourley got hold of the gun which he found on Moore's truck and turned it on himself and pulled the trigger. The gun was loaded and the shot brought the employes to the lad who was unconscious. He was rushed to the hospital where Drs. Pomeroy and Foster operated to save his life. He is in a precarious condition.

The boy's parents left the city yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., for a visit over the holiday. They were notified and arrived home today. The boy attended the Wallis school. There are two other children.

PATRICK LYNCH

May Remove Lynn Cars To Washington St.



Mayor Shea and City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham, accompanied by the editor of the Enterprise, conferred with the trustees of the Mass. Eastern Street Railway company in Boston Wednesday, when the Mayor took up the matter of restoring the Lynn electrics to Washington street.

Chairman Homer Loring of the board promised to make an inspection of the rails on Washington street from the Bleachery to Main street, and following the report of Supt. McCormick of the Salem division, intimated that the trustees might favor removing the cars from Foster street.

It is understood that the condition of the rails on Washington street may be found capable of doing service for the next few months before new rails and ties are laid. With a little outlay it may be possible for the change of the cars to be made in the near future.

The attitude of the trustees was plainly to heed the popular demand

P. H. S. GRIDIRON PLAYERS WILL SEEK CHAMPIONSHIP

Peabody high will have this season one of the strongest football aggregations that have ever entered the field from that school, in the opinion of Faculty Manager Henry A. King. Under Coach Marty Donovan the Peabody boys at the high school gave a good account of themselves in both football and baseball last year.

Both Faculty Manager King and Coach Donovan have expressed themselves as very optimistic as to the laurels that are in store for the local team this season, and after a series of wins that took Peabody up to a second place last year, they are not backward in predicting a league championship for Peabody this year.

There will be but four new players on the 1921 eleven, so that Peabody will have the advantage of a line-up that has been very efficiently trained for the 10 games that have been outlined for the coming season.

It is stated that Coach Donovan may send out the call for football candidates almost any day, and from these the best timber will be selected to fill the four vacancies due to the graduations last year. The substitutes will also be selected from among the large group of candidates who are expected to answer the call.

Due to the fact that the high school sessions will not open until Monday, Sept. 12, and the first games in the North Shore League schedule are listed for Oct. 1, unless the football practice season is started before Sept. 12, but very little time will remain for practice and training work.

Two holiday games will be played in Peabody during the football season. On Columbus Day, Oct. 12, Beverly high will meet the local aggregation at Emerson Park, and Chelsea high will come to Peabody Thanksgiving day.

The one outstanding game of the season will be that scheduled to be played with Salem high, Saturday, Nov. 5, at Salem. The contracts for this game have already been signed and Peabody is to receive a purse of $500, which is guaranteed, rain or shine.

Coach Donovan will start on his second season in Peabody with the opening of the football season. Peabody will play nine games in the North Shore League schedule, and while this schedule has already been drawn up, it will be revised in several instances, to satisfy outside teams. The Salem game will be a separate contest, apart from the North Shore League schedule, making a total of 10 games.

With the following high school boys listed for places on the team, Peabody will boast of one of the heaviest elevens in the league: Bandy Donohue, who weighs about 212; Arthur Gavigan, Mansfield Munroe, who will play in the back field, where he distinguished himself last season; Bill Crean, end; Frank Hennessey, the star center; John Connelly, who was a substitute last year, will probably tackle; George Lawrence will play in the back field; Morris Harris, quarterack. Ralph Holden has already been elected captain of the eleven and will play a line position.

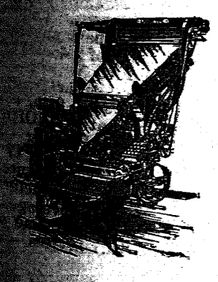
Eglee Works For Shop Spirit

The Peabody Enterprise has published two articles entitled "Little Talks Among Ourselves," the first of which was called "Co-operation," the second "Justice." Today the third article appears under the caption "Service."

CHARLES H. EGLEE

These "Little Talks" are sponsored by the Peabody Chamber of Commerce and are written by Charles H. Eglee, who has been retained as Industrial Counsellor by the Massachusetts Leather Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Eglee is an engineer by profession, having been engaged for years in building irrigation dams and water power installations, often employing over 5000 men, usually in remote localities in the west. He began his work as a day laborer in water works construction in 1879, and passed through the positions of foreman, superintendent, partner and owner of his business. He was thirty years of age and with a family growing up around him before he began studying engineering.



He is a member of several engineering societies. He was an advisory member on the staff of the National Industrial Conference Board; has made a number of research studies in various industries; was part owner in a small shipyard during the war, constructing tug boats for the U. S. government, and is now using his experience in endeavoring to harmonize the relations of employer and employe in Peabody and other near-by ities and towns.

He bases his endeavor entirely upon the principles of "A Square Deal" between man and man; "Co-operation" or getting together and working together; and "Service" to the public in order to increase the volume of business. In other cities he has obtained very satisfactory results both to workers and manufacturers. His article this week appears on Page Six.

Looked Too Youthful to Him.

After typhoid fever auntie had to have her hair cut off. One day a little friend came to see her. The child seemed interested in auntie's bobbed head and said: "My, but you've got awful young hair for an auntie."

MRS. MARGARET DONOVAN

The death of Mrs. Margaret M. Donovan, wife of Daniel F. Donovan of this city, which occurred last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at her home on Franklin street, was a sad blow to her family and the wide circle of friends by whom she was held in the highest esteem. She was an ideal mother and a true friend. A staunch Catholic, she was a devout attendant at St. John's church, a member of the Married Ladies' Sodality and of St. Theresa's Court of Foresters. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin of Lynn and Miss Ella V. Donovan of this city, a deputy collector in the office of internal revenue, Boston; a brother, John Cannon of New Jersey, and five grandchildren.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at St. Johns church on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. T. P. McGinn, assisted by Rev. Fr. Shaughnessy as deacon and Rev. Fr. Dixon of Salem as sub-deacon. The spiritual bouquets and floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, where Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy read the committal service.

Versatility In Leather Making, Road To Success

(By ENERGY)

All one hears today is that business is slow. Sometimes I think many people are bound to have it so, and continue to do their part toward that end. We of Peabody can only judge business as we see it here. Traveling men may be excepted, but many of us seldom leave this burg long enough to get in touch with outside conditions. We scan the newspapers and they tell us time and again the Republican congress is not doing things that will bring us out of the long spell of depression. Allowing this to be true, if they do not change their tactics we are doomed to have poor business for at least two years, or until a new congress comes in.

I will say right here better business is coming down stretch and before the snow flies it will have arrived. I do not want to hear more of the dullness in the leather trade. I could name at least a dozen factories in Peabody today who are working to capacity. It may be the owners of this stock are gambling on the future, but from what I can glean this stock is selling. It might be wrong to publish the names of the busy ones, but it does not matter, for other tanners know who they are and the public doesn't care a rap.

I know of one concern who have purchased more pickled sheepskins than ever before in their existence. I know of one sheepskin plant whose best average previous to this year was an average of 268 dozen skins daily. They are today turning out 380 dozen daily, and everything points to a continuance. Is this a sign of depression or a forerunner of what is to come shortly? I have no patience with some tanners who sit back and wait for business. There are many of this kind here in our midst. I am aware that perhaps their kind of stock is out of the market just at the present time, but a tanner who cannot make but one line had better take what money he has and either go out of the business or quit kidding himself his line will come some day.

That is what happened to the old brogan tanners in the 80's. They kept telling themselves brogan leather will come back and what they should have said was it had gone back, and the thousands which were sunk could have been saved.

Any man or concern who get fixed on any line is gone. It grows on him like a mushroom, and he wonders why the other fellow is making good. So while those lines of leather which are not popular has placed some tanners in the doldrums, let these fellows consider they can make other leather and go to it. Versatility must be a factor in tanning as in other lines to make winners.

Henry Ford has brought something in the powder line which he proposes to make into imitation leather for those Lizzies he manufactures. This is not a new idea, for the Duponts have made this imitation many years ago. But the fact he has purchased such a large amount of this material

Essex "Aggie" School Notes

Homemaking Department

The trustees are loath to make the following announcement, which is believed will be self-explanatory:

"The trustees of the Essex County Agricultural school announce that because of the crowded condition of the homemaking department, and owing to their inability to go forward with their proposed extension to the homemaking building, that no more new applicants from girls desiring to attend this department of the school can be accepted for the coming school year, 1921-1922.

The trustees deeply regret the necessity for making this announcement."

The office will continue to receive applications from future candidates.

Bauer Prizes

Trustee and Mrs. R. S. Bauer of Lynn have again offered the gold prizes. $100 will be distributed to the prize winners in the agricultural and homemaking departments of the school. The prizes are awarded for efficiency and accomplishment, as shown in the work of the summer projects. The judging will done by the board of trustees. These prizes have been a great incentive in urging the students of the school to do valuable, conscientious work.

New Department Head

Miss Marion P. Crawford, head of the homemaking department of the school, has been granted a leave of absence by the board of trustees, the same being allowed because of sickness of a parent. Ella S. Morrill of Andover, a member of the Women's Advisory Council of the school, has been appointed temporary head of the department to fill the vacancy. She has had a long experience in school teaching and administration work, having been a teacher in both the grade and high school, and also a member of the school board of her native town. Mrs. Morrill is well and favorably known throughout the county where she has long been prominent in the work of the Federated Woman's club.

The School and the Fairs

The various divisions of the school are busily engaged in preparing exhibits for the four county fairs. An effort will be made this year to have the exhibit of even greater educational value than ever before. The master idea which is being carried out in all of the exhibits is "economy."

Field Meeting

The extension department of the school is planning for the annual summer auto trip and field meeting. The date which has been decided upon is Saturday, September 10th. The party will visit seven prominent farms in Essex county, Mass., and Rockingham county, New Hampshire. During the noon hour after luncheon, a short speaking program will be conducted. All parties interested in good farming are invited to participate in this outing.

Poultry Meeting

The school conducted a well attended poultry meeting Saturday afternoon, August 27th. Upwards of 150 men and women, prominent in poultry raising, were present. The speakers were very well received and their lectures were fully discussed. The guests appeared to be well pleased with the program of entertainment, nd many stayed long after the meeting to visit the poultry plant of the school.

Miss Frances Brown of Danvers is oing special canning work at Sunbeam farm, Swampscott.

Seasonable Notes.

During the present drought period constant cultivation of market crops will pay liberally.

Most gardeners will have tended to the piling of sod in their compost pile by this time.

Flowers for decoration or exhibition purposes should be cut very early in the day before the bright sunshine reaches them.

Words of appreciation were offered to Mr. and Mrs. Riley by Col. J. H. Bartlett in behalf of the club, and the host and hostess invited the club to return next year. George L. LEATHER NOTES shows us he will continue to make autos until every man, woman and child on this earth has at least one. When we were put on this earth legs were given us so that we could navigate. Today we have little use for these same legs when out of doors. In fact, it has taken away 50 per cent. of the usefulness of legs, thanks to Henry and the rest.

—*—

Imitation leather looked at one time as being substituted for leather in many cases. It is used largely in furniture covering and the like, but to be a serious contender with leather for popularity it has made little advance. Suit cases are being made and sold from this imitation and the bag shows it. Chair seats show the difference and so down the line.

—*—

After an exhaustive search in the hoe business for waste, the report comes the biggest waste comes in the controversy between labor and the hoe manufacturer. I believe there is ess waste in the shoe and tanning industry than in any others. Every piece of hide, the flesh, hair and trimmings we eat or wear. Every crap of leather goes for some purpose from fertilizer to purses and ongues. These tongues may not be as dangerous as those possessed by females, but they are necessary in the shoe. So while an expert is paid to dig out wastefulness and must make a howing, he will find it tough picking n most tanneries, likewise shoe factories.

—*—

Below you will note an article which ays much in a few words as to placng a tariff on hides and skins. hanges in Europe has placed the tarff in a different light than formerly, therefore such changes may be vital to the leather interests and what congress does will be interesting.

Foreign Tariffs and Free Hides

A report of the tariff commission explains the reasonably well-known fact that the tariff policies of foreign countries have greatly changed as a result of the war. Extracts from this report have been printed in the leading newspapers so that it is not necessary to repeat the matter. The British Empire long ago instituted export duties on hides and skins with preferential duties favoring the constituent parts of the empire.

The tariff situation of the world has an important bearing upon the question as to whether hides and skins should be admitted free of duty into the ports of the United States. The hide tariff has ceased to be a domestic question and must be considered in connection with foreign tariff regulations.

Members of our trade who are to appear before the finance committee of the senate next month should dwell strongly upon this phase of the situation. One of the greatest of the many world problems today is free raw material as the basis of industry. All other things being equal the countries having the best access to raw materials will prosper at the expense of countries which find themselves unable to obtain crude products upon similar favorable terms.

If the attempt to impose duties on hides and skins is considered in the light of world tendencies it will be seen that a tariff on hides and skins in the United States would be a suicidal measure. In connection with the discriminatory export duties on foreign hides and skins coming into our port a tariff of fifteen per cent. imposed by our government would automatically stop the export trade in leather and encourage imports of leather and shoes.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

WITH THE FIREMEN

Combination 4, which is a horse-drawn kit, has been in the past one of the fastest teams in the department. That was in the days when the old pair of black horses were on the job. They served faithfully for 20 years. The pair of horses on the wagon today were never mated. One is considerably older than the other, and not as fast. The result is that the very efficient drivers stationed at this house cannot make the good showing that was their old-time record. It is only a matter of time before two new horses must be placed in this house, or else a motorized kit installed.

—*—

What fire alarm box is most frequently pulled in Peabody? What is the most dangerous box in the city?

—*—

Strange to say, both these boxes are located on the same street at different corners. The first is 421 located at the corner of Caller and Walnut streets. Out of a total of about 30 bell alarms that have been sounded in the eight months of the present year, 421 has struck 11 times. Box 42 is considered by the firemen to be located in the most dangerous section of the city. And the latter box, located at the corner of Walnut and Wallis streets, holds second honors with five bell alarms so far this year.

Just four hours and 55 minutes after the year came in, box 421 was pulled, the first alarm in 1921.

—*—

Considering the large number of big wooden buildings located in the manufacturing district of Peabody, the city has been remarkably fortunate in its fire losses, which have been very low. There are several sections, particularly in the Walnut street district, where a good start and a strong wind would certainly play havoc. There have already been several very threatening fires in that section this year, but the firemen have given a very fine account of themselves in every case.

—*—

With the end of the summer vacation season, only two weeks away, members of the fire department will no wstart to make plans for next year.

—*—

The fire department will be back to normal, as far as its personnel is concerned, in two weeks, when the ast two men on vacations will return to their duties.

—*—

Inspections made by members of he fire department as a precautionary measure to keep down the fire losses will be resumed shortly, after a lapse of several weeks during the vacation period, in which little work has been done along this line, due to the shortage of men in the stations. Through the inspections of property many bad fires have been averted in the past few years. Since the city, through Mayor Shea, has set the example in removing all fire hazards on city property, property owners should do likewise.

—*—

Arthur Flynn of Engine 1 will start on his vacation Monday. He will make the trip to Washington, D. C., where he will be the guest of his brother.

—*—

Acting Capt. William Brown of the Hook & Ladder company at the Central fire station, will spend the next two weeks in New Hampshire.

Postmaster Dennis J. Dullea is pending his vacation touring Northrn New York.

Firestone, as "Porter," Conducts the President to Bunk in the Mountains

PRESIDENT HARDING is shown above inspecting the tent where he bivouacked one night recently while a member of the famous Edison-Ford-Firestone camping party which spent ten days in the mountains of Maryland and West Virginia.

He is being conducted to his tent by H. S. Firestone, Akron tire manufacturer, and has placed his personal effects inside.

The president was the guest of Henry Ford. Thomas A. Edison and Mr. Firestone, making the fourth member of a party to which John Burroughs, the aged naturalist, belonged until his death last spring.

The first camp was pitched beside Licking creek, a small stream that trickles into the Potomac river through the Maryland mountains. There they found quiet, fishing, and splendid country roads for horseback riding astride thoroughbred animals that Mr. Firestone shipped from his farm, where he was born and reared, near Columbiana, Ohio.

While in camp the president chopped wood for the kitchen fire, made up his bunk in the converted army tent, and proved himself a model camper.

It does not require a second glimpse of his face to sense the fact that he is glad to get away from the affairs of state to spend a while in camp.

After two days and a night in camp, the president was called back to Washington on official business, the others continuing with their scheduled trip.

H. S. Students Will Be Glad Of Auditorium

A large hall and an excellent floor promise some fine exhibitions in basketball at the Peabody high school during the coming winter season. Following last year's successes, which were brought about under difficulties, Faculty Manager King is outlining a busy program for the winter months.

A series of games will be played with Salem high, and other games will be arranged from time to time with such teams as look like strong rivals.

Due to the fact that there is no organization for such work, there will be no track events at the local high school this winter. Much disappointment has been expressed among the students who are interested in athletics, that the track in the rear of the school, which was originally planned, could not have been completed this year.

There are no facilities at the local school for indoor track events, and no gymnasium to meet the needs of such athletes.

It is hoped, however, that with the advancement of the athletic program under the very capable leadership of Messrs. King and Donovan, that in due time the city will find the way open to provide the necessary facilities, that Peabody students may enter with other high schools along the North Shore into this very popular athletic diversion.

At the present time the salary of the coach is paid entirely from the treasury of the High School Athletic Association, not one penny coming from the city treasury. This fact in itself is sufficient to demonstrate the manner in which the students receive the atheltic instruction that is made possible through the maintenance of a coach. Additional facilities will increase the value of this good work.

Fifty Years of Life.

A French statistician has been dabbling with figures to find out just what man does with that precious thing called time. He concludes that at the age of fifty years the average man has slept 6,000 days, worked 6,500, walked 800, amused himself 4,000, spent 1,500 eating, and has been ill 500 days.

SALEM LAUNDRY

Miss Helen Tucker returned Wednesday evening from an eight weeks' stay at the Aloha summer camp for girls at Fairlee, Vermont.

Miss Eleanor Hall is visiting friends at South Peabody for the week-end.

Sprague Upton returned from Gardner, Me. last week after a summer spent with his grandparents.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Skelley at the J. B. Thomas hospital Tuesday.

Miss Gertrude Lawton will spend the next two weeks at Pitman Hall, Intervale, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Barnes, leaves Saturday for a two weeks' stay at Hillsboro, N. H.

Maud and Marguerite Trask of Salem are stopping a few days with their aunt, Miss Alice Trask of Franklin street.

The Girl Scout camp that has been the summer home of so many of Capt. Edith Howes' troop, closed its season this week and compelled the return of the last of the Peabody Scouts. It has been a huge success and has been taken advantage of by a large number of local girls who have come home improved in health and advanced in standing in the organization and in the amount of merit badges to which they are entitled to display. The camp falls far short of being strictly a pleasurable affair, but rather calls for a huge amount of hard but instructive tuition in the essentials of Girl Scout principles. This camp covered Eastern Massachusetts and accommodated about 140 girls at all times.

Miss Shirley Merrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Merrill, entertained a party of her young friends at her home last Wednesday afternoon on the occasion of her ninth birthday anniversary.

Miss Nellie Merrill is spending the holiday at summer resorts along the coast of Maine.

The prevalence of the corn borer pest is becoming more and more obnoxious to the local farmers and the threat is being made that each infested community is to soon be quarantined individually. This state of affairs has been gradually put into effect in about one-third of the infested area with the eventual result that if strictly enforced that Peabody corn and other farm products affected can be consumed only within the confines of the municipal boundaries and transportation across the city lines absolutely prohibited.

Miss Margaret Batchelder of Emerson street returned yesterday from an eight week's stay at the Tall Pines Camp at Bennington, N. H.

Miss Judith Barnes returned Tuesday from a six weeks' stay at the Girl Scouts camp, Dunstable.

Robert and Richard Gilchrist of Medford Hillside are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Murch, of King street.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker are returning to Little Rock, Arkansas, after spending the summer at the Wilkin's farm on Lowell street.

Miss Julia Wilkins leaves the city Wednesday for Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Court are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, born at the J. B. Thomas Hospital, Wednesday.

'The Witching Hour; Holiday Film At Popular Strand Theatre

One of the brightest photodramas in months, with the screen's new sensation, will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday. It is called "Short Skirts" and gives Gladys Walton an opportunity to prove that she is a capable actress as well as a lovely bit of feminity. "Short Skirts" was filmed from the Saturday Evening Post story, "Cabella Drives the Nail," by Alice Tidsley.

Miss Walton appears as a seventeen-year-old girl, who desires to be regarded as a mature woman of wide experience. Her mother works in the campaign headquarters of a man who is running for mayor and who is scheduled to marry him the day after election. Because she is annoyed at the man for gently reproaching her about her conduct, the star tries to wreck his political position and nearly succeeds. The climax straightens out the tangle satisfactorily and gives drama to a story that tingles with humor and character touches throughout. Modish clothes, sophisticated people in them, small girls who vizualize themselves as modern Cleopatras, politicians, good and bad, and election scenes of remarkable realism, all add to the interesting qualities to this clever comedy-drama. Larry Semon, known as the "ace" of comedians, will be presented in his new comedy, "The Fall Guy," as an added feature for today. Semon always offers some new thrill along with his fun, and "The Fall Guy" is no exception, because during the making of the picture he met with an accident that put him in the hospital for several weeks. Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders" round out the bill for today.

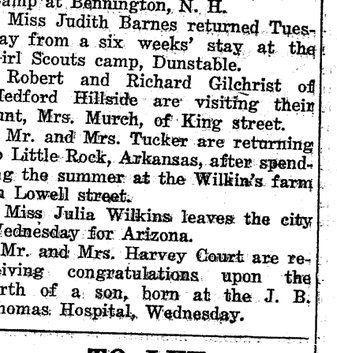
Bessie Barriscale in "The Luck of Geraldine Laird," an adaption of Kathleen Norris' popular novel of the same name, and Louise Hoff in "What Women Want" will be the double feature bill for Sunday evening.

Manager Chet Bent has arranged an excellent program for Labor Day and Tuesday, which is the start of Paramount week. Elliot Dexter in "The Witching Hour" and Dorothy Dalton in "The Idol of the North" comprise the bill. "The Witching Hour" is the best known of Augustus Thomas' stage successes. It would be unfair to disclose the plot of the production here. It is sufficient to say that the picture was produced under the direction of William D. Taylor, a director who stands at the top of his profession. Added to the talents of Mr. Taylor are the services of Elliot Dexter, who essays the role of Jack Brookfield, the Kentucky gambler, in whose hands lie the matter of clearing the murder charge against his protege. A large cast of favorites appear with Mr. Dexter, including Winter Hall, Robert Cain and Mary Alden.

Dorothy Dalton is back again in the role of a daughter of the Canadian Northwest in the days of the gold rush in her picture, "The Idol of the North," which will divide the headline honors on teh bill for the holiday. It is the best screen vehicle Miss Dalton has had in several months and her work is deserving of the highest praise.

Mayor's Order Aids City Farm

A fire hazard, due to defective wiring, which has threatened the lives of the 36 inmates and five employees for some time past, will be made safe at once, following instructions issued by Mayor Shea this week. The hazard existing at the almshouse was brought to the attention of Mayor Shea by City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, after that official had made an inspection.



City Electrician O'Keefe found that in many places about the building there are defects in the wiring system which are a constant fire hazard.

The cost of repairing to make the building safe will total about $200, according to the estimate of the city electrician, and Mayor Shea has authorized the work completed and paid for from his contingent fund.

Jobless Men Should Report To Chamber

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce is conducting a registration of the unemployed in this city at the request of the Department of Labor through President Warren G. Harding. The department estimates that there are in the vicinity of six million unemployed throughout the country and the United States Employment Service which is a branch of the Department of Labor has undertaken the task of securing the actual figures of unemployment from 231 cities included in its survey organization, of which Peabody is an integral part.

It is important that this information be secured before 12 o'clock Saturday as all the information secured must reach Washington Monday, September 12.

Thomas After Indiana Job

Ralph E. Thomas formerly secretary of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, is a candidate for the position of secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Evansville, Ind., Mr. Thomas is now connected with the Leo L. Redding Co. in New York City, and is at present in Columbus, Ohio.

ST. JOHNS SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY

St John's Parochial schools will open for the fall session next Monday morning. The age limit for entrance to the school has been fixed at five years and six months. And even with the increase in the age, a substantially increased registration is expected.

James Grenato and family spent the holiday at Salisbury Beach.

Bakeman's Plea Wins Council To Help Schools

An eloquent plea for co-operation between the School Committee and City Council delivered by Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of the former committee resulted in the Council appropriating $35,242 last night to pay for new furnishings for the several schools.

The Council received a communication from the Mayor which contained the school budget with the request that the appropriation be made. An effort to have it referred to the finance committee was amended to back up the committee and there was no opposition.

Before Mr. Bakeman was heard, Pres. Duggan asked if the Council was failing to co-operate with the Mayor or was the Mayor the one at fault. He thought that the new budget should have been accompanied by information as to where the money was coming from. City Solicitor Farnham said that after October 1, the city may issue notes for $50,000 more cash.

Committeeman Dr. Marrs and Supt. Robinson were present at the meeting last night.

One of the items calls for $5000 for grading the high school yard and Mr. Bakeman stated that he would favor the work being done by the city engineer's department, although anyone familiar with the situation knows it will cost twice as much money as by contract. This extra cost may be li-

Judge Robert W. Hill in behalf of the Peabody Enterprise, has filed today in the supreme court a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to permit this newspaper and its reporters access to the record of marriage intentions in his custody. Clerk Dowd has twice refused to allow the Enterprise to see these records, which are public records and as such open to inspection. The petition is as follows:

Put Peabody On Your Auto

A new design of automobile plate bearing the name "Peabody" has been approved by the Chamber of Commerce, and an initial order for 100 plates has been placed.

The new plates conform in style and design to the Massachusetts State registration plate used on automobiles. The name "Peabody" will be in raised white letters on a blue background. A raised white border will surround the outer edge of the plate.

The new plates will be ready for distribution in a week or two, and orders for the same can be phoned to the Chamber headquarters. The plates are the same that are at present in use on automobiles in Chicago, Brockton, Bridgeport and other large cities. Patent fasteners are attached to each plate.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?
By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"TO STOP AND TO STAY."

HOW frequently do we hear some one say, or read in a newspaper, "He is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel." A moment's reflection should tell the writer or speaker that a person does not "stop" at a hotel unless he walks or drives to the hotel and halts his progress there. It is proper to say, "The parade stopped at the hotel," meaning that the parade ceased its motion when it reached the hotel. But the parade could not "stay" at the hotel. A person makes a "stay" at a hotel, not a stop, and he stays there. One should not say, "I stopped at the summer resort six weeks," but "I stayed there six weeks."

The true meaning of the word "stop" was well understood by the man who did not invite his professed friend to visit him. He said: "If you come at any time within ten miles of my house just stop," says one authority of English.

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

THERESA.

ONE of the prettiest of feminine names which for some reason has always been associated with France and yet is essentially English, is Theresa. It is one of the many feminine names which come from the harvest and its original source is a Greek word meaning to reap or gather in a crop.

The first to bear the name was a Spanish lady, the wife of a Roman noble called Paulinus. Both Paulinus and his wife were devotees of St. Jerome. The name Theresa had great vogue in Spain and is finally found as Teresa on a throne in Leon in the Tenth century.

The most noted Teresa appears in the Sixteenth century when the Roman Catholic church produced the remarkable saint of that name through the Spanish connection of the house of Austria; the princesses of Spain and Germany were frequently christened Teresa.

In France it became Terrese through the queen of Louis XIV and Provence called it Terezon. The empress-queen added greatly to its fame, her noble spirit winning all hearts.

St. Theresa of course brought it to England through the Roman Catholic religion, though its vogue there did not begin until after the Reformation.

England also calls her Terry and Tracy; France makes her Therese. She is Theresa in Portugal and Teresa and Teresita in Spain, Italy uses Teresa and Teresina, in Germany she is Theresia.

Theresa's talismanic stone is amber. It promises her good health, wards off evil spirits and warns approaching illness by paling in color. Thursday is her lucky day and three her lucky number.

Playground Commissioners Have Enhanced Vacation For Kiddies

With one of its most successful seasons just closed, the Playground Commission of Peabody is already mapping plans for a record breaking summer in 1922, when various new improvements may be put into operation for the benefit of the hundreds of kiddies.

The work for the season just closed has reflected great credit on the commissioners, all of whom have given freely of their time and energy to give the children a worth-while playground program for the vacation. Chairman Henry A. King, on whose shoulders perhaps fell much of the initiative, is warm in his praise for the helpful suggestions and assistance of his fellow commissioners, George A. Gill and William T. Coyle.

The Bleachery playground retains the Chamber of Commerce cup for the best work of the season, and on exhibition day. Much greater interest was manifested at all of the playgrounds and the commission gives unstinted praise to all of its instructors. Particular mention is made by Chairman King of Miss Helen McElroy of the Eastend playground, Miss Ella Reed of South Peabody and Miss Grace O'Keefe of the Bleachery.

The season's record of the playground work is outlined as follows:

	Points Allowed

Among the Improvements for 1921 Were

Systematic program for the season.
Institution of physical training.
Repair of all park property.
Grounds kept in excellent condition.
Regulation of vendors of refreshments.
Regulating baseball games by issuing permits.
Installing drinking fountains in all but one playground, which was deemed inadvisable.
Steps taken to secure a new site for the South Peabody playground.
Regular visitation of playground commissioners to playgrounds for inspection.
Location for a new playground in West Peabody and the Samuel Brown school.

HENRY A. KING
Chairman of Playground Commission

Suggested Improvements for Next Year

Suggested by the present Playground Commission:
Securing new site for playground in Ward 3, doing away with the Wallis and Sutton Park playgrounds, by combining the same into one playground to be located in the Crow village district.
Securing a new site for the playground in South Peabody.
Construction of concrete swimming pool at Emerson Park.
Securing of new location for the West Peabody playground on land near the West school.
Planting of trees at the East End grounds.
Securing large flag for the Emerson Park grounds, to be kept flying during the playground season, on holidays and special occasions.
Strict enforcement of rules governing the sale of refreshments at the parks and playgrounds.
Exclusion of carnivals from the Emerson Park grounds.
Continuation of physical training, providing for the training of the boys.

Somewhat Strong.

There were times when the language used by "the first Commoner" would have been considered fulsome in an eastern court, as when Speaker Rich compared Henry VIII "for justice and fortitude to Samson, for beauty and comeliness to Absalom."—Manchester Guardian.

LEATHER TRADE BEGINS TO FLOURISH IN CITY

(By ENERGY)

That there is an improvement in the leather situation is an assured fact. It is in spots, but there is enough of these spots to have one make the claim all is better, if not well.

The trouble seems to be that shoe manufacturers are moving cautiously, for to be bitten once makes one that way. Therefore this caution serves to make the sale of leather for immediate wants only. But there is a healthy condition to this way of doing, we must all admit.

A salesman who covers practically all the shoe factories on the North and South shores, reports some conditions which will require some figuring. He finds those who manufacture cheap shoes in Brockton busy, those of the better variety doing little. He comes to Lynn and he finds the cheap shoe fellows doing little or nothing, and the better grades busy. Now why is such a condition It reverts back to what I have written in the past about tanners. The same condition exists here with them. It is easy enough to see that as some kinds of leather are dull that the makers of this kind find themselves out of the market. For instance, cabarettas, a leather which ranks with the best, is not selling today because a cheaper leather is taking the place. This means the shoe manufacturer is cutting costs to meet competition. No doubt he would prefer the cabarettas for topping, as it makes a shoe which will stand any inspection, so far as the tops go. But the imitation is a leather which stands the gaff to the ordinary buyer and the shoe sells. Therefore down the line, if the shoe manufacturer must compete with prices which have been cut to get business, the substitution process goes on, and the public gets a shoe for less money and less value.

Now so far as the wear goes, this cut price shoe may answer. It will not stand up as well, which all acknowledge. But with the downward tendency of commodities, first will come cut in values, then later values will be there for the cut in price. It is a quick process to inflate values but a slow one when the reduction process comes about.

During the war when everybody in business who employed help was striving to get men and women to work in the factories, five dollars a week raise in wages was common. Another week would serve to increase that amount, so instead of $20 a week it mounted to $100 a week in many cases. Now the afterclap is cutting these amounts and naturally the men and women resent it. Sober minded judgment tells all of us that the raise in wages was far too much. Do not get me wrong when I say this, for I believe that we all are better off under good wages. But after enjoying wages which in years back went to the big brains, it is indeed hard to drop back again. But we all know it must come and that we all must take it for it goes with living.

Patent leather is coming back, and the manufacturers of this kind of leather in Peabody report a decided improvement in this line. Suedes and calfskins are selling freely, with blacks and colors sharing the business. I saw this week some black shoes in a local store window which looked the money. Finished in a half dull, smoky style, they appeared to me the last word in the tanner's and shoemaker's art. These shoes were made by one of the high grade manufacturers, and from my standpoint one would pay the price for them. It would not take an expert to pick such shoes, for value was written on every angle.

HORSE ATE HIS HAT

Peabody firemen say the joke is on Charlie McCarthy, best little fire fighter of Hose 4, who mourned the loss of a good straw hat one night this week at Hose 3 station. Charlie left the hat too near one of Driver Bodge's fire steeds and "Jerry" proceeded to munch the straw. Before he had stopped this indoor sport the hat was wrecked and "Mac" had to go home bareheaded.

Agreeable.

BRADLEY'S BODY SWEPT 27 MILES

Word has been received by A. A. Mackinnon that the body of his brother-in-law, George Bradley, a Canadian overseas veteran, who was drowned in Alberta, July 28, was found on August 5 over 27 miles down the river from where he met his death. The body was recovered by patrols of Odd Fellows and Masons to which deceased belonged. This patrol followed the stream 12 days in their quest for the body. The funeral was in White Mountain House, Alberta, and was the largest funeral ever known in that place. Bradley served four and a half years in France. He visited Peabody on his return from overseas, joining his wife, Mr. Mackinnon's sister, in this city. Bradley lost his life while at work as a government forester in charge of a large district. He was crossing the river when his boat capsized.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

The body of Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion at the time of his accidental death at Indianapolis, Ind., in June, will not be interred in Arlington national cemetery at Washington, D. C., according to advices last week from the widow and brother of the late commander. Burial will be made at Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati, O., where the body was placed in a temporary vault following the largest military funeral in America since the Civil war.

With the practical closing of the harvest season, the employment office of an American Legion post at Aberdeen, S. D., where I. W. W.'s tried to cause a general "strike" among farm hands, has closed. In three weeks the Legion served 1017 free meals, found jobs for 617 men, gave 304 places to sleep, gave 373 free baths and 12 treatments by the post physician.

The city election in Birmingham, Ala., may be postponed at the request of an American Legion post of that city. The service men want to vote. When a law exempting them from poll tax was declared unconstitutional recently, the men were disqualified as voters. Thirty thousand World war veterans of the state are affected.

—*—

Evidence of the plight of unemployed service men was carried to cultured Boston last week, when Armand T. Gaudreau, University of Maine graduate, besought the American Legion employment bureau for any work that he could do. Previously Gaudreau, dressed in his collegiate cap and gown, appeared in the streets of the banking section, selling newspapers.

A silver reproduction of the historic statue atop Castle San Angelo, Italy, mounted on a pedestal of stone from Mount Grappa, will be brought to the American Legion by General Armando Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies, when he attends the Legion convention at Kansas City in October, cable dispatches declare.

—*—

To send back to her home on the Rhine the German widow of an American doughboy, wearer of five battle clasps and cited for valor, the American Legion of New York is raising a fund of $250. The veteran met his bride while with the Army of Occupation and through illness left her practically penniless upon his recent death.

—*—

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, and Charles R. Forbes, national director of the bureau of war risk insurance, spoke on the same platform in addressing the state convention of the American Legion of North Carolina last week.

—*—

The old Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago will be taken over by the American Legion of that city for the exclusive use of homeless and jobless service men in plans now being worked out by the Legionnaires. Accommodations will be provided for 1000 men.

—*—

When President Harding visits Birmingham, Ala., in October, he will be attended by an honor guard of 1000 members of the American Legion, drawn from each of the 80 posts of the state.

—*—

The parents of Merle Hay, one of the first three Americans killed in the World war, will receive no insurance because their boy died before the war risk act became operative. The American Legion of Iowa, Hay's home state, has petitioned for the parents' relief and is seeking to find any other parents whose sons "died too soon."

—*—

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

LITTLE TALKS AMONG OURSELVES

THE VALUE OF TIME

Fifty years ago very few people could afford to carry a watch; today watches are made in such quantities in so many factories that people can buy watches at a moderate price. Almost every one carries a watch and yet so few of us appreciate the Value of Time. Do we ever think when we hear the Peabody square clock strike the hour that it is a notice to us that the hour has gone. We never notice Time until it has passed.

We seem to think our watches are machines that divide the day into hours and minutes instead of the real fact that they are reminders that NOW is the time to do the thing that must be done. We do not stop to think we use a watch because we are civilized and intelligent. Drunken, insane and dead men do not need watches, they know nothing about Time and have no use for it.

No matter what a man does to earn his living, he begins to grow bigger and better and can earn more money as soon as he learns how to use to advantage the little bit of Time in every single day. He builds up his character by his work and his study so that the little bit of Time he calls his life will be of value. The great question is: "What am I doing with my Time?" "What have I done with it?"

Well, it doesn't look good during the year that is past. We haven't done much, but try to get over the mistakes of the after-war years when we wasted our Time in jazz and jag and joy rides and extravagance and as little work as possible. All of us. You and I and the whole nation. We didn't think of the Value of Time. "I should worry." "Let George do it." Wasting and fooling away the day. We thought we were prosperous. Wages were good; profits were good; we were feeding the world; we were ahead of every nation in the world. Why worry.

The war is ended. We have learned that the loss of lives, of money, of Time, must be all made up again. They must be made up by you and me each and every day on the job. We have to use our Time to the best advantage if we expect to hold our job. We cannot understand why there are so many who haven't any job and cannot use their Time to advantage. Why is this?

The explanation is simple, so far as this country is concerned. The United States must export one-fifth of all it manufactures or we have hard times here. Today we are not exporting anything like this amount of goods. The leather we used to make in Peabody and send abroad is not going. The foreign nations haven't the money to buy because they are not using the Time of every day to advantage. Russia is not working and people are starving. Poland is still fighting; Greece is at war with Turkey; France has not recovered from her terrible loss.

But Belgium is on her feet. Italy is in good shape once more. England has stopped her bitter strikes and gone to work again and now we can see that gradually business will improve. Slowly and gradually we'll get back into a steady, normal business. We will if we appreciate the Value of Time. They say that in Germany they are working ten hours, twelve hours and in many cases fourteen hours a day. We do not know whether this is true or not, but we do know that they are working long hours and getting in all the Time they can.

JUSTICE SERVICE CO-OPERATION

Can Germany beat us in our industry? No. Today we are the leaders of the world, because in this country we breed real men; skillful, intelligent, enthusiastic men. This is not any accident, but because it is a national business policy and a sure winner. It has been a winner in the past. Will it always be so? Well, it's up to you, son. No one else.

We think that just one man cannot do much. He cannot; BUT think what would happen if every man and woman in Peabody fully understood the Value of Time. Think, too, what one man can do when he gets his chance. Old man Foch got his chance and he won the war because he understood the Value of Time. Think it over and you'll find this is true.

Yes, we are the leaders today, but don't you fool yourself. The only way to be ahead is to KEEP ahead. We can't afford to waste time, for when war-tired Europe gets on her feet again and is rested, we'll have to hustle some to catch up if we throw away that priceless gift of Time.

We know how to do things. The problem now is when shall we do them. Look at that watch again and think of the wonderful Value of Time.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

MOTHERS MAKE MEN.

SAMUEL MATTHEWS VAUCLAIN, head of the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia, has had wide experience in the selection as well as the handling of men.

He admits that he has a method, a secret, in making his selections.

HE FINDS OUT WHAT KIND OF A MOTHER A BOY HAS, and pays no attention to the father. In the course of a long business life he has made few exceptions to this rule.

This theory of Mr. Vauclain has a negative as well as a positive side.

It explains not only why so many undistinguished fathers have distinguished sons, but also why so many fathers who are failures have sons who are successful.

There are two sides to the question. For one thing there is a tendency on the part of a boy to derive his predominant traits from his mother.

For another, the mother is obviously more instrumental than the father in creating the environment which plays a large part in the development of the sons.

In the average home the problem of providing a minimum of income—which is the duty of the father—is much less complicated than the problem of making both ends meet—which is the problem of the mother.

Long before statesmen ever dreamed of a budget system, that method was familiar to the women. In one generation after another they have had to pay their way with resources that did not increase in proportion as the families grew.

The carefulness, prudence and foresight that a woman displays in running her house naturally show themselves in the bringing up of her men-children. If she is incompetent and shiftless in one direction, she will be the same in the other.

The mother, as distinguished from the father, has played a leading part in the formative period of men of conspicuous genius who have lifted themselves "by their bootstraps" into places of great eminence.

The mothers of Abraham Lincoln and Napoleon Bonaparte supply the only available explanations of the rise to leadership of two men who are types of success, under the most difficult circumstances.

In each case a powerful, dominant character made possible the passage from a log cabin to the White House and from Corsica to the leading place in Europe and an imperial throne.

In our own time the supreme qualities of Marshal Foch are traceable to the powerful individuality of his mother.

From the dawn of history to the present day, in sacred and secular affairs, the influence of the mother has always been the greatest factor in the development of ability or genius. She has been the source of inspiration as she was the source of being.

Sometimes she has pulled the children, handicapped by the father's characteristics up to her own level.

Sometimes she has pushed them above both herself and the father by an indomitable determination that neither poverty nor ill fortune of any kind should interfere with her ambitions.

Mr. Vauclain's plan of selection will serve its purpose in the great majority of instances. He is safe in concluding that if the boy had the right kind of a mother he can count on his being the right kind of a boy.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"GOSSIP."

"GOSSIP" or "gossib," as Chaucer spelled it, was the name given by the Hampshire peasantry to the persons who acted as sponsors in baptism, the godfathers and godmothers. It was a compound word, made up of the name "God" and the word "sib," still used in Scotland in the sense of "akin"—the meaning being that the gossib was akin to God and stood in this relation to the child, a sense which is still extant in our own word "godparent."

Considering "gossip" in its ordinary use as one addicted to tattling or prattling or the carrying of tales and it appears to bear little relation to the word as originally coined. But it should be remembered that the "gossibs" were brought by a common sponsorship into a close familiarity with one another, which led eventually to trivial, idle talk and the carrying of information from one to another. That this failing is not peculiar to Anglo-Saxon godparents is evident from an examination of the French word commerage and the fact that commere has passed through precisely the same stages as its English equivalent.

Ethel Clayton Here Tonight As Strand's Leading Feature

A picture that will strike home to nine-tenths of the audience viewing it; an excellent combination of clever comedy and serious moral—is "Sham," Ethel Clayton's latest starring vehicle which will be presented at the local playhouse today and Saturday. As Katherine Van Riper, a "gentle grafter", Miss Clayton has a perfect light-comedy role that shows her at the very peak of her well known ability. Her cast in the picture is unusually fine and includes Theodore Roberts as a bluff old old millionaire while Walter Hiers is his hefty son. All in all, "Sham" contains all the humor that characterized the popular stage version with added touches made possible thru the enlarged visual scope of the screen. A thrilling chapter of Joe Ryan's "Purple Riders" and a Clyde Cook comedy entitled "All Wrong" will be the other number listed for showing today and Saturday. Clyde Cook, while a new comer to the screen, has, for years, been one of the favorite comedians of the European stage, chiefly thru his uncanny ability to twist his body into almost any shape.

Alice Joyce in "Cousin Kate," a role made famous on the stage by Ethel Barrymore, will be the main attraction on the Strand's bill for Sunday evening. "The Highest Law," starring Ralph Ince, is the second feature for Sunday evening. Mr. Ince is famous as an impersonator of Abraham Lincoln and his work in this picture has received favorable comment from the press of the entire country.

Tom Mix in "Hand Off" will top the double feature bill for next Monday and Tuesday. Needless to state this picture is replete with virile action of the most rugged sort. It is probably the best and biggest production Mix has ever offered to the public. It contains among its thrilling scenes a realistic stampede of horses which has never been equalled in motion pictures. In the path of the maddened animals is a four-year-old youngster, whom Mix reaches just in the nick of time. Escape on either side is impossible so the star rushes ahead and jumps into the town pump, where he holds the boy until the stampede is over. There are many other thrilling scenes in this picture which is adapted from one of the stories by William MacLeod Raine, a noted writer of Western life. Playing opposite the star is Pauline Curley and other included in the cast are Charles K. French and Lloyd Bacon.

Cullen Landis and Molly Malone will divide the headline honors in "Its A Great Life" which will be the second attraction on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. This picture is adapted from the story "The Empire Builders," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post.

WITH THE FIREMEN

"Jim" Cunningham, another member of the Bench Crew at the Central House, is one of the most efficient members of the volunteer force according to regular members of the department who aver that he would make a valuable addition to the department when the next appointments are made.

—*—

Have you ever seen that Boulevard Greyhound that Firemen Ray Skinner and Arthur Flynn use to get to fires quick, when they are off duty? They call it the "Gazunka" at Fire headquarters. It's an odd name for an odd vehicle. At any rate the thing goes, and if it don't go Skinner and Flynn simply turn it up, just as a father would a disobedient son.

Dick is the popular mascot of the firemen at the Central Fire station. When Dick first wandered into the Central station some nine or 10 years ago, he looked like a tramp, and the firemen taking pity on him established him in a comfortable box in the basement, and christened him Dick. All went well until Dick reported for roll call one morning with several little Dicks. Then the firemen discovered their mistake and thought to right matters they would call the mascot, Mary or Marion or something like that. And then Dick proved she was the female of the specie, by refusing to answer to either Mary, Marion or anything else but Dick. Dick has a habit of taking her naps in the basket on the top of the hook and ladder truck, but only once has she been caught napping in the basket when the gong rings. With the first stroke of the big bell Dick is on her feet and leaping to the floor. She had one wild ride in that basket on the old hook in her younger days, and she has never forgotten it. The fire was on Foster street and when the firemen arrived they found her in the basket more scared than hurt. She rode on the seat back to the station and has never been known to go out on the kit since that time. Incidentally she is the champion dog chaser of Peabody.

It is whispered that Charlie Lawrence is scouting for information. And if asking will get it, he has hopes of finding out just how many different ways there are in which to charge a chemical tank. To date his findings number two, one of which is Charlie's way.

—*—

The past two weeks have been rather busy days for the local firemen, with three bell alarms and three stills.

Stuart Pollock whose name is so closely linked with the Curtis Drug store, that to many the mention of the Curtis store means Pollock, and vice versa, is also a charter member of the Bench Crew at the Central Fire Station. Stuart is more than a member of the Bench Crew, however. Among the firemen he is rated as a valuable volunteer, particular in fires that occur on Walnut street. He is particularly adept with the hatchet. But they say that in North Salem there are those who would prefer to see Stuart riding behind the drivers of the swift Salem apparatus.

—*—

Frank Basford, has threatened to furnish certain members of the fire department with ear trumpets to go with their gas masks. Frank is rated as a full fledged member of the Bench Crew at the Central Fire station. This, however, has nothing to do with his threat. While on his way home one evening recently Frank discovered what he thought was an honest to goodness fire in the Barnes House on School street. He telephoned to the Central Fire station but over the telephone the man on duty at the Station undersood that there was a barn fire on School street. Members of the Bench Crew side with their chief in his opinion that there is neither a joke in a Barn fire nor a Barnes fire either. So, why not ear trumpets?

CARLIN INDUCES B. & M. TO SELL VALUABLE LAND

VIEW OF R. R. LAND ON WALNUT ST. SOLD TO MORSE BLACKING COMPANY

One of the most important real estate transactions in Peabody in recent years, entailing the transfer of valuable commercial property in the heart of the city, was closed this week when the Boston & Maine railroad voted at a directors' meeting Tuesday to sell to the Morse Blacking Co. of this city the land between Wallis and Walnut streets near the railroad tracks, consisting of 49,000 square feet.

On this property are located eight stores, fronting on Walnut street, blacksmith shop and the factory of the Morse Blacking Co. on Wallis street, also two storehouses and a wholesale junk shop and a boiler plant, which face the railroad tracks.

The sale was made through the office of William F. Carlin, after two years of persistent efforts to secure the authorization of the railroad officials to place this property on the market, as it is unusual for the railroad to dispose of their holdings.

The buying of this property by the Morse Blacking Co., whose growth since they opened their plant on Wallis street ten years ago, has been rapid, means much to the commercial interests of the city. It will open up valuable industrial sites with railroad sidings for which there is much need in this city.

The new owners have already started to construct a large addition to their plant, consisting of a one-story brick building built over the canal. The work is being done by the E. H. Porter Co. Because of the fact that the boundary line runs through the center of these buildings, it was necessary to demolish at least two of the buildings bordering on the railroad tracks. Papers will be passed in a few days.

HEBREWS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO FLAG

The Young Men's Hebrew Association will hold a mass meeting on Sunda, Sept. 18, at Moose hall, to celebrate Constitution Day, which commemorates the adoption of the constitution of the United States by the constitutional convenion on Sept. 17, 1787.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Constitutional League of America, of which President Harding is a member. Special entertainment will be furnished and the following speakers will address the gathering: Morris Miller of Peabody, who will talk on the Young Men's Hebrew Association; Rabbi A. Ordman, who will talk on the constitution and immigrant; and ex-Assistant District Atty. William H. McSweeney of Salem, who will talk on the constitution and the American flag.

LYNN CARS BACK TO WASH'G ST.

Mayor William A. Shea has won a victory for the citizens in inducing the Mass. Eastern Street Railway Trustees to restore the Lynn cars back on Washington street. The trustees gave the Mayor an interview some days ago when His Honor presented facts that surprised them. The rails will be repaired for winter use and next year new rails will be laid. Mayor Shea will ask the Council to appropriate money next year to pay for repaving the tracks on Washington street. The letter from the railroad trustees agreeing to restore the cars to Washington street is as follows:

Hon. William A. Shea,
Mayor,
Peabody, Mass.

My dear Mr. Mayor:—Referring to your request that the Lynn-Peabody car service be restored to Washington St., the Trustees beg to state as follows:

The track on Foster street is in excellent condition. The track on Washington street was laid in 1900 and therefore is twenty-one years old and needs rebuilding. The Trustees will make light temporary repairs to the Washington street track and run the cars into Peabody Square via this route, provided that the City of Peabody will agree that when the Trustees rebuild the Washington street track, probably in 1922 or 1923, the City will repave that portion of the street in which the repairs are made.

If you will notfy us that this arrangement is satisfactory to yourself and the Council, we will proceed at once to put the track in condition for winter operation.

Yours truly,
HOMER LORING,
Chairman of Trustees.

Horns Will Signal Fire

In line with the program which he has inaugurated to safeguard the public against accident, City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe announced today that two large claxon horns will be installed in the near future at dangerous corners in the vicinity of Peabody square, to warn the traffic police and citizens of the approach of the fire apparatus.

Since the new fire alarm system was installed at the local fire headquarters, the response of the apparatus to alarms has been speeded up to such an extent that traffic in the square has no way of receiving a warning before the apparatus is out of the Central fire station and speeding through the square.

The two mechanical devices will be installed to safeguard traffic in the square. One claxon will be installed on a post at the corner of Foster street and the other at Walnut street. The devices will be so arranged as to give the warning to traffic and policemen on duty at that point before the apparatus has left the Central fire station.

The claxon at the corner of Foster street will be sounded when the apparatus is responding to an alarm which necessitates its passing that corner, and the same warning will be given at the corner of Walnut street when the apparatus is proceeding in that direction. The detail of the equipment has been worked out by City Electrician O'Keefe and will be installed just as soon as his department has completed the rush work already ahead.

LEO GUILD LADIES WILL GIVE PLAY

In order to carry on its worthy work of relieving distress in needy homes in Peabody through the coming winter season, the Leo Guild will present a musical comedy in City Hall on the evenings of October 6 and 7, and it is expected that the affair will attract audiences which will fill the large auditorium on both evenings.

The first rehearsal will be held next Monday evening in K. of C. hall and the personnel of the cast includes such well-known entertainers as Joseph Lawlor, William Toomey, Samuel Boyle, Mrs. Theresa Roy, Miss Anna Hooks of Salem, Mrs. John Meagher and Miss Mary L. McCarthy of this city.

The show is entitled "All Aboard," and is quite appropriate, for the event marks the launching of another long season in the work of the Guild. The treasury is badly depleted, largely because of the conditions precipitated by the recent long drawn out strike in the leather trade, and the proceeds from the affair will be used entirely in promoting the work of the organization.

The chairmen of the various committees are: Tickets, Mrs. D. J. Conroy; advertising, James McLaughlin; talent, Miss Elene Masterson; finance, Mrs. J. J. Doody; general chairman, Miss Mary L. McCarthy.

When Smoking Was Under Ban.

To crush the increasing love of pleasure the Connecticut law of 1647 sternly decreed that only the solitary smoke should be permitted. Only once a day, at dinner or otherwise, might tobacco be used, "and then not in company with any other." No one might use tobacco in any other house than his own in the town where he lived "with and in company of more than one who useth and drinketh the same weed, with him at that time." For violating any item of the law the penalty was sixpence, and only one witness was required.—From "Ye Olden Blue Laws," by Gustavus Myers.

Crying Need of Boy Scouts Is For Capable Men as Leaders

Peabody Boy Scouts, Troop 2, made its fifth annual camping trip last month. The last two trips have been more unusual because, on account of the shortage of adult leaders, the troop has been forced to produce Scout Masters from within their own ranks. Stephen H. Cross and Roger B. Trask, tenderfoot scouts away back in 1916, have each given their services for a year, and conducted the troop successfully thru a camping trip.

The summer of 1917 found Troop 2, under Lloyd G. Davies, camping at King's Camp, in West Pebaody. He was assisted by Henry Osborn. The troop began to secure permanent camping material. A tick cart which is still in service was given by H. V. Hunt. The troop itself purchased a large sleeping tent. Some scouts who were in this camp, and whose names were not to appear on the records of the troop thereafter are: Perley Lovelace, Calvin Kennard, Donald MacCharles, William Holden, and Raymond Trask.

While this group of boys were at West Peabody, Troop 3, under T. R. Jeffers, was in camp at Baker's Island. Richard E. Smith, a civil war veteran, accompanied the boys. The camp was scheduled to last for a week, but no sooner had the tents been pitched, than a terrific thunderstorm drenched the boys and the camp. The sky did not clear for three days, and the troop with their spirits and personal effects much dampened, returned home on the fourth morning, only to enjoy fine weather for the rest of the week.

During the winter of 1917-1918, conditions led to the amalgamation of troops two and three, and the new troop was under the leadership of Lloyd G. Davies and Theodore R. Jeffers. Thru the efforts of Rev. Jason G. Miller, a troop committeeman, the first big campaign trip was planned for the summer of 1918, when 39 scouts, the largest number journeyed to Deerfield, N. H., and camped for two weeks.

The country was ideal for camping. There were woods, hills, lakes, and every boy had all that nature could offer. Rupert D. Graves, now a student at West Point, was an assistant leader. At "Camp Miller" were the following who failed to answer the roll call at the next year's camp: George Watts, James Walsh, Carroll Miller, Howard Quint, George Fellows, Howard Beechey, Merwin Tucker.

For the summer of 1919, a new site was desired. An advance "searching" party was forced to spend a night at Wells Beach, Maine. The land was favorable, and the troop has had the last three of its camping sites at this beach. On the first trip to Wells, the cook failed to appear, and the boys were thrust upon their own resources until another could be rushed to scene. It wis also upon this trip that Newell Bodge fractured his right elbow, the only accident which ever happened on any trip.

The camp master was ably assisted by Thomas G. Reid, William C. Munroe, and Arthur Glackin. The latter injected many novel features into the camp life, and was immensely popular with the boys. The following dropped out during the winter and did not return to camp with the troop in 1920: John Johansen, Samuel Upton, George Morrison, Harlan Stone, Addison Sillars, Frank Pitman, Edwin Van Dyke, William Ratcliff, Ralph MacCraken, Raymond Punchard, and Bertram Pitman.

After a very successful winter under Stephen Cross, the troop journeyed to Wells again in August of 1920. With the help of three years of camping experience, the troop enjoyed a banner year in camp. An innovation into the camping system of that year was a bank. The scouts' money was held by the treasurer, and they were allowed daily a limited sum. By this method the scouts were prevented from losing or spending their money all at once.

The trips have been individual in as much as the boys raised every cent of their camping money, and, moreover, have raised their own leaders. In the five yers of camping, there has not been a single case of sickness, and but one accident of a serious nature. The troop has been gradually equipping itself, and at present has an outfit capable of caring for 30 boys in camp.

It is an interesting fact to note that of the original 45 boys who formed troops two and three when they joined, attended the fifth annual camp. They are: Elmer Wiley, Francis Blaney, Stephen Cross, Roger Trask, William Glencross, Wendell Wiley, Malcolm Stone, Kendall Hanson, Daniel Wiggin, Percy Watkins, Wilbur Jackman, Raymond Viles, Newell Bodge, Jack Munroe, Stuart Quint, Willis Moore. It is thru the last few named that the troop has existed until today, and the future progress of the troop depends largely upon the interest of this group of veterans.

THEODORE R. JEFFERS

Fine Tribute For Teachers

A signal honor was paid to two teachers in the local public schools by Mayor William A. Shea at the recent reception to new teachers, when he presented bouquets to Miss Laura Whitney and Miss Carrie Upton in recognition of their long and faithful service in the Peabody schools.

Both teachers have been on the payroll of the school department for 42 years. Miss Whitney is a teacher in the sixth grade at the Center school, in which school she has been a teacher ever since she joined the local teaching staff. Miss Upton is well known at the Bowditch school.

Miss Whitney taught school under the late Principal Jefferson K. Cole at the Center school for 34 years. When she first took up her work she was assigned to the first grade, and in the period that has elapsed she has been advanced.

Many prominent men and women in the city have been her pupils in former years. Miss Whitney is a native of Lawrence and a graduate of the Lawrence high school. Just before her graduation from the Lawrence high her family moved to Peabody, and a short time later Miss Whitney was appointed a substitute teacher in the local schools. She was a substitute but a short time when she was assigned to a regular position.

Tracey of Pierpont street, and is grand knight of Leo Council, K. of C. Both young people have a host of friends who will wish them happiness and success in their married life.

H. S. Football Sees 60 Men In Line For Gridiron Honors

Sixty students at the Peabody high reported at Emerson Park on Tuesday, in answer to the call for recruits for the 1921 football team sent out by Coach Marty Donovan. The uniforms for the season were given out under the supervision of Faculty Manager Henry A. King at the same time.

The large group of recruits was divided into squads and put through a program of signal practice, throwing and kicking. The heavy practice will not start until the coming week, and by that time it is expected that selections to fill vacancies on the team will have been completed.

Coach Donovan is delaying strenuous practice as late as possible to avoid working out during warm weather. He is also desirous of getting his men in condition before undertaking any football.

Appointment of the team manager will also be made sometime next week, just as soon as Faculty Manager King has had an opportunity to size up the field candidates for that honor.

Team officials are very optimistic regarding the outcome of the present

Week" to be held Sept. 26—Oct. 1, inclusive, the Peabody Chamber of Commerce has ordered several hundred posters calling attention to the necessity of using care in order to prevent needless accidents, and these posters will be distributed throughout the stores, schools and factories of the city.

"Safety Week" is being held this year simultaneously with the Safety Congress which takes place in Boston and is to be attended by practically all the safety engineers from all over the country.

Other matters discussed at the directors' meeting were the present housing situation and the work being done by the Essex County Associated Boards of Trade, with which the Peabody Chamber of Commerce is affiliated.

The Peabody Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of an exhaustive survey on housing which was made by the Mass. State Chamber of Commerce during the month of August. The survey consists of thirteen multigraphed pages and contains report on the housing situation in practically every city and town of any size throughout the state, paying particular attention to the building activities, character of construction, decrease in costs, policy of fixing rents, and the present shortage of dwellings.

The report from Peabody is as good as the reports from other cities and towns throughout the state.

The merchants of Peabody are being solicited by a committee from the old Retail Trade Bureau for membership in the newly organized Mercantile Division, which is a subsidiary organization to the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. The sponsors of the Mercantile Division have outlined a tentative program for the coming year which they believe will be of a constructive benefit to all their members.

Among the more important planks in the platform for the coming year is a survey of the delivery system used by the retailers to determine costs and learn if co-operative system would be an economy and at the same time maintain adequate service.

Another important step in their proposed activities is to secure uniform opening and closing hour and see that, by agreement attached thereto, these hours are lived up to by all who sign the agreement. They also intend to enforce honest advertising by all the merchants and to put over a "Know Your City" campaign. Trade extension tours will be conducted from time to time in order to benefit by an interchange of ideas and to promote friendly feelings between the merchants of Peabody and other progressive cities.

WRESTLING BOUTS HERE

Peabody fans are to be given a wrestling exhibition in City Hall next week Saturday night. The main bout will be staged by J. G. Brown 198 pounds and Kasouf Hassan 200 pounds. The first bout will be between Tom Larrabee and William Frank, the latter of Fitchburg. The promoters hope to hold a series of matches this winter.

WANTED—Modern flat or single house not less than 5 rooms. Reasonable rent. Tel. 690. Mr. Mahoney.

PRAISE COUNCIL FOR CO-OPERATION

There is much comment being expressed on the vote of the City Council last week in appropriating $30,000 asked for by the Mayor and School Committee for furnishing for the new schools. Mayor Shea put in a sum to cover this needed money with his original budget but the finance committee cut it out in toto.

The Council placed the city in an unfair light since to have the schools erected and not completed brought forth much unfavorable comment.

That the Council saw the way to cooperate even at this late day is to their credit, in the opinion of many business men and tax payers. If cooperation continues between the Mayor and Council much faster progress for Peabody will be recorded.

audit of the Peabody Enterprise Fuller Fund to wit:

Editor Enterprise:

I have examined the record of subscriptions received for the Fuller Fund by the Peabody Enterprise and find that the whole amount was $1026.90. To this amount should be added 68 cents interest. I find that the amount of money on deposit to the credit of the Peabody Enterprise Fuller Fund at the Warren National Bank is $1026.90, which checks with the amount of subscriptions. I find that with the 68 cents interest the amount of money to be paid over to Mrs. Fuller is $1027.58.

Signed

HARRY E. TRASK.

The Peabody Enterprise wishes to thank its many readers for their generous support of the Fuller Fund. Mrs. Fuller wishes the Enterprise to convey her heartfelt thanks to all of the citizens who donated to the fund. She wishes she could thank each one individually. Her letter of appreciation is printed below.

Mr. Fuller met his death last July when he fell from the running board of an automobile on which he was riding to his home after a special assignment of police duty. He received injuries which quickly resulted in his death. He was secretary of the Eagles, and had been identified with the leather trade for many years, being with the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. employ. He was a member of the Father Mathew C. T. A. S. and numbered many friends. He had been a special police officer for several years. He left a widow and two small children. The stork is to pay another visit to the Fuller home.

LEGION WOMEN TO VISIT ASYLUM

The Women's Auxiliary Unit, Post 153, American Legion, has been assigned by the state welfare committee to visit the Danvers State hospital on Sunday, September 25, to entertain the 40 ex-soldiers who are in that institution. The various auxiliaries all over the state are carrying on this work and one is assigned to the nearest hospital every Sunday. Last week the boys at the Danvers hospital were given a shore dinner by one of the local posts, which was enjoyed immensely. The members of Post 153 Auxiliary will be very grateful for donations of fruit, smokes and candy, which can be left at the following places on or before Saturday, September 24:

Mrs. Charles Cassidy, 11 Sutton street; Mrs. Catherine Rennick, 155 Washington street; Mrs. Frank Bomer, Park street; Mrs. James Murphy, 11 Andover street. Owners of automobiles are asked to take about 30 of the members to the hospital on that day and see how much the boys appreciate the kindness shown them.

PERSONAL

Miss Catharine J. Higgins of Fay avenue is enrolled as a pupil at the Manchester School of Commerce, Boston.

Walter D. Higgins, P. H. S. '21, of Fay avenue will enter the College of Business Administration, Boston University, Monday, Sept. 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cassidy of 20 Cottage street are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a daughter, born at the Thomas hospital on September 10.

Lowell Street

Mrs. H. G. McAlpine (nee Bessie Sinclair) became the proud mother of a girl born last Friday at Rochester, N. H., in which place she and her husband located some few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Goldsmith are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a boy born at the Salem hospital last Monday.

Joseph M. Gilmore, who became a benedict during the summer vacation, and who has been in charge of the playground work at Peterboro, N. H., for the past two months, has returned to his local school duties and is occupying the apartment on Warren street lately vacated by Supt. of Schools Albert Robinson.

George W. Shaw was a witness before the Essex County grand jury at Lawrence yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chaplin (nee Shirley Ingraham) spent the week-end in Peabody.

Another fatal accident resulting from the habit of allowing young folks to use our thoroughfares as play grounds was barely averted last Saturday on Lowell street. A Salem bakery wagon swung around a corner and but for the absolute control which the driver had of his horse would probably have snuffed out the life of a younger brother of the little Faylure boy who lost his life in an automobile accident a few weeks ago. The driver appeared much more frightened than the youngster and is to be commended upon his dexterity in handling his team.

Mrs. Margaret Poor, who was injured by a fall three weeks ago and was operated upon at the Union hospital at Lynn, has returned to her home on Lowell street. After being discharged from the Lynn institution she recuperated for a week at Juniper Point before coming to Peabody.

Leander Macdonald, former coach of high school athletics, was last week elected grand knight of the South Boston Knights of Columbus.

Miss Alice McCann of Franklin street has been transferred from the Center school to the O'Keefe school.

Harry Partridge and Phillips Osborn will spend the next week on a combined business and pleasure trip through New York and Canada.

Big Increase In Local Schools

The registration of pupils in the Peabody public schools as reported at the office of Superintendent Albert Robinson, totals 3320, an increase to date of 159 over last year's record. The greatest gain is reported at the Thomas Carroll school, where there are 98 more pupils than last year. The total registration at the end of the month of September, 1920, was 3166.

The registration of pupils continues from day to day, and Superintendent Robinson expresses the opinion that by the end of current month the increased membership in all the schools in the city will reach the 175 mark.

A like gain is also reported in St. John's parochial school, where the additional registration will very nearly reach the 100 mark. The total registration at the close of the schools last June was 675. With the opening of St. John's school this week a total registration of 725 was recorded. It is estimated that there are from 80 to 90 new names recorded among the scholars in St. John's school, 70 of whom are registrants in the lower grades and about 20 in the grammar grades.

The registration of pupils at the new Daniel Francis Keefe school is very much larger than was originally anticipated by the school officials, with 228 pupils registered in the six rooms of the building.

According to the school officials, it is a natural increase, and while not as large as some few years previously, considerably larger than was anticipated, all of which is to be accepted as advance notice that the city is not built very far into the future as far as its schools are concerned, even with the increased facilities provided during the past year.

The registration of pupils in the individual schools as reported to date following:

	1920	1921
High school	614	652

Wallis	412	374

BALLENTINE TO BUILD HOMES

Following the action of the Chamber of Commerce Housing Corporation in starting work on a bungalow on Ellsworth Road comes the announcement today that John O. Ballantine, the contractor and builder is to begin the erection of four new bungalows on Thorndike and Orchard streets. He will place these homes on the market for purchasers.

Mr. Ballantine will begin work on his first house at once, the cellar already being in. He will conduct a general real estate business which promises to give Peabody a number of new homes. He has his eyes on several parts of the city where land is available for building sites. Mr. Ballantine has recently completed the addition to the Thomas Carroll school.

ENTERPRISE WON VIRTUAL VICTORY IN SUPREME COURT

The Peabody Enterprise scored most emphatically in the first round of its encounter with City Clerk Edward J. Dowd in the supreme court last Tuesday, on which occasion the petition the Enterprise has brought against Mr. Dowd for a mandamus to compel him to permit the newspaper to have access to his records of marriage intentions, was heard before Mr. Justice Peirce.

Judge Robert W. Hill, counsel for the Enterprise, presented the petition with a brief statement of the facts and of the law thereto applying, and Judge Peirce showed very clearly his astonishment that any one should ever have questioned the newspaper's right to the records.

Mr. Dowd stated very frankly that

Council Votes 7 to 3 To Restore Lynn Cars

President Duggan and Councillors McKeen (South Peabody) and Reed of Ward 5 voted aganst co-operating with the Mass. Eastern St. Railway Co. last night on their proposition to restore the Lynn cars to Washington street. Seven other members of the Council voted to meet the railroad's offer and Mayor Shea will so inform the trustees today. The railroad has promised to make temporary repairs to the rails and asks the endorsement of the Council to pave the inside of the tracks either in 1922 or 1923.

More than 60 employes of the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. reside in South Peabody and will be distinctly benefited by the return of the Lynn cars to Washington street.

Councillor McKeen said he had heard the railroad was to extend a line to South Lynnfield, and if it had money to do this it ought to be able to repair the Washington street tracks.

Councillor Eagan said with the coming on of winter the people in his district would be glad to get the car service back and it seemed a reasonable proposition to him to co-operate with the trustees. Councillor Eagan gives Mayor Shea much credit for getting the cars back.

Mayor Shea sent the City Council two communications last night asking that body to authorize the City Auditor to approve of overdrafts in the Poor and Water Departments and to refer to its finance committee the need of additional money for other departments which are running low in funds.

After much debate the Council did appropriate $1000 for the care of "TB" patients and sent the remainder of the communications to the finance committee.

President Duggan said he couldn't make heads or tails out of the communications, althouh they seemed logical enough and in perfectly good English. In substance, they asked the Council to waive the ordinance prohibiting the auditor from approving bills in excess of appropriations and the intent of the letters was to make regular the procedure.

Leather Trade Better Despite 'Doc' Gloom

(By ENERGY)

What is the matter with everybody? It just seems that the pessimists are bound to keep business under, if their talk will do it. But with all their talk the leather business is looking up, and only the fact that shoe manufacturers are striving to keep prices up, there is a good future ahead.

—*—

Perhaps I am not in touch with costs of production to assert that shoe prices are higher than is warranted. But no figures I can make will make me think that shoes need to sell for $9.00 a pair. Looking over a stock of fine shoes recently in a local store, I saw as fine an assortment as one could wish for. There were Stetson shoes for around $12.00 a pair, there were other makes that looked the money for $9.00, and the retailer must make $2.50 a pair on these shoes to get by. Not many years ago, shoes sold for this profit, and while not the quality of these shoes, they were a solid shoe made on honor.

—*—

I met a dealer of leather this week, who told me shoe manufacturers wanted to purchase leather for almost nothing. Sure, they always did want to buy for this price, but forcing leather on a man is a different story than selling him when he wants the stuff. Most any one will buy goods they can use in the future at prices that are prohibitive. But in the usual run of business these extremely low prices are speculative only. Odd lots to clean up answer this question, the regular lines bringing fair prices.

—*—

There is some inquiry of white chromes. No one dares to make this leather ahead, for fear the demand will slump. But as one man put it, if a tanner or dealer has white chromes on hand he can dispose of them at fair prices. What does this mean? It must mean that next spring, shoes of this kind will be worn extensively by those who are watching for style. Women have taken to these shoes in the past and evidently they are satisfied, and they want more. With the improved ways of refinishing such stock, they can be kept in proper condition.

—*—

I note patent leather shoes in the store windows. This leather has come back, and it means much to the three or more tanners here who manufacture it. A production of 4000 sides daily means much to the output of Peabody. The history of making patent leather would disclose many trials. No leather manufacture is so difficult to make and keep in condition. It is in summer that most of the trouble arises. And when a shoe manufacturer receives this leather and the surfaces stick together with the result that when it is pulled apart the finish comes with it, some idea of damage can be had. But no other leather manufactured has the class of this leather just the same.

—*—

I observe the question of overhead expense is being looked into more today than ever before. Natural. Sharp corners are being cut and it comes down to the many times I have written about it. Keeping one man to watch another may be a safe and sane way to do business, but the cost in dull times takes away the profit, or adds enough to cost of production as to make competition a tough proposition. The fellow today who has no overhead can produce leather that can be sold.

—*—

I hear of some tanners underselling the other fellows, and the whole difference can be traced to overhead. What extravagant ideas were developed during the war. There were in every factory scores of men who earned salt only. The number grew from month to month. It almost got to the point that armchairs were necessary. I suppose it was natural. But the afterclap now, the awakening as it were, has had the effect of these non-producers being out of a job, with no fault of their own. Such is tanning.

—*—

We keep hearing of this and that one being shaky financially, and doing business to keep from drowning in the business sea. But in many cases it is history that these fellows have had the wherewith to purchase skins in large quantities on the low market. Perhaps it is a gamble. Perhaps the banks believe as I do that the bottom has been reached and the time is ripe to make up the losses already sustained. But I believe that many of these merchants are not as bad as they are financially painted.

—*—

The examination of the sewer settling basins in the tanneries about the city shows that most of them are doing their work well. The exceptions in most cases are because of neglect. Not because they want it so, but all must admit that the boss cannot spend his time watching settling basins, but when the trouble is discovered it is remedied. Receptacles holding the fluid before and after coming from the basin shows a marked difference. The engineering department are putting in much time threshing out this matter.

—*—

Herbert Tetzlaff, formerly with the Kromene Tanning Co. rear of 96 Foster street, has accepted a position with a large calfskin concern in New York state. The business on Foster street is being run by Sidney Lippa, who has always been a part owner.

—*—

Ernest A. Woelfel is occupying a part of the B. E. Cox factory. The first man to emboss leather in Peabody, he has kept at it 15 years. Not only leather but paper enters into his work.

Lester F. Peabody, superintendent of the National Calfskin Co., has spent the summer months near the Homestead golf grounds in Danvers, and will stay into October.

Rev. Fr. O'Conor Says Boys Have Too Little To Do

Rev. George P. O'Conor, assistant director of Catholic charities in Boston who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. O'Conor of Peabody in an address before the national conference in Milwaukee this week declared that boys have too much spare time on their hands. This fallacy he maintained worked to the disadvantage of the boys. He said in part:

"The biggest problem in adjusting the delinquent with normal life is keeping him occupied." said Fr O'Conor. "Today boys have too many hours on their hands to loaf each day. They have nothing to occupy their time from the hour school lets out to supper time and from supper time to bedtime.

"In the morning the boy can sleep until the very last moment. He has nothing to occupy his spare moments. No wonder that he is continuously getting into trouble, into courts and reformatories. Idleness is responsible for nearly all delinquency.

"In the days of our grandfathers and even in our own days there were chores to keep us busy and take up the spare hours between sunrise and sunset."

Fr O'Conor suggested more recreational centers, playgrounds and social work, in connection with schools and churches. Fr O'Conor presided today at the session on delinquency.

Y. M. H. A. BOWLERS ISSUE CHALLENGE

The Young Men's Hebrew Association has a quintet of bowlers in the field and is out today with a challenge to the Bleachery A. C. or Pickey Gill's Lefties for a match game any night next week to be rolled at Manning's alleys. Sam Bernstein of 43 Central street is manager of the Y. M. H. A. five. Sam is also anchor man on his lineup. With him ready to show prowess at the game are: Bennie Levine, Happy Levine, Dave Schactman, and Harry Herman. They will roll in the lodge league.

SHOE SALESMEN RECEIVING ORDERS

One of the gratifying signs of the times is the demand for staple lines of shoes for men. It will be remembered that long after improvement was noted in women's lines there was genearl complaint that men's shoes were dull and depressed. The answer was that the men were doing the economizing while their wives and daughters were spending the money. It is a long lane that has no turning, however, and the fathers of families ultimately were compelled to vicit the shoe stores or go barefoot. In our industry there is always the saving clause that shoes are a necessity and not a luxury. They can be done without only up to a certain point.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Ancient Women Had "Rights."

In an ancient Babylon province there have been discovered records on clay tablets belonging to the period of about 2400 B. C., showing that a woman's "college" or "university" had been established in a suburb of the city called Burna, and that women had equal rights with men in commercial property and political affairs.

Merchants Will Work Together To Boom Trade

Peabody business men, members of the mercantile division of the Chamber of Commerce will hold their first fall conclave next Monday noon in the Masonic banquet hall. Chairman Benjamin A. Brownell announces lunch will be served promptly at 12 and the meeting will adjourn at 1.30 sharp. There will be a special musical program and some speakers who will bring a special message to every business man.

Some action may be taken looking to affording better transportation for West Peabody people who want to stop in Peabody. How to boom fall trade and make Peabody a better shopping center will be discussed.

The Mercantile Division of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce will be formally launched within the next week or two. It will replace the old Retail Trade Bureau which had been in existence for the past two years. In the change of name it is the expectation of the membership to broaden the scope and field of activity.

The organization will continue the same officers, of whom Benjamin Brownell, the live wire manager of the Parke Snow Co., is the head.

By-laws will be drawn up, in which provision will be made for the election of a treasurer, who would handle the funds of the Mercantile Division as a separate organization from the Chamber of Commerce. In connection with the latter clause in the by-laws, another will be inserted providing for nominal dues from the membership of the Division, this plan being adopted to eliminate occasional demands for contributions to carry on the necessary work of that branch of the Chamber.

Under the change of name, it will be possible for the Division to receive into membership other professions and business trade, besides the retail merchants, in which field the membership has been limited up to this time.

Real estate men, insurance brokers, members of the plumbing, heating and lighting trades, building contractors, professional men and others, will be eligible for membership under the new title and it is expected that the scope of work carried on by this branch will be considerably broadened.

The regular bi-weekly luncheons inaugurated by the old Bureau will be resumed by the new branch the latter part of the present month.

The program of activities of the Mercantile Division for the coming season includes:

Enforce honest advertising by all the merchants. Dishonest advertising injures the entire community, destroys confidence, takes trade away. The honest retailer suffers with the dishonest one. The Mercantile Division should make it a major activity to not only secure but have enforced laws relative to the elimination from the retail field of all dishoest merchants.

Safeguard against the itinerant merchant. Secure city ordinance protecting the retailer.

Survey of the delivery systems used by retailers to determine cost and learn if a co-operative system would be an economy, and at same time maintain an adequate service. Employ a collector co-operatively to get bad accounts.

Secure uniform opening and closing hours and see that by agreement with penalty attached, these hours are lived up to—by all signatures to agreement.

Secure copy writer for the handling of advertising—co-operatively or individually.

Put over a "know your own city" campaign. Conduct trade extension tours to get ideas—promote friendly feelings—exhibitions.

By means of creating our own treasury through payment of $1 per month per member. This, on a live program, is assured of execution.

NEW PEABODY CHAMPION

Peabody has unearthed another fistic champion who is winning laurels in the roped arena. He is Harry (Kid) Brown who now holds the belt for the 108 pound class in New England. He won his spurs last week at the Commercial A. C. of Boston and stands ready to defend his title. He lives on Dustin street and is a brother of Fred Brown, chauffeur, in the employ of the highway department.

'All Aboard' Promises Success

That the musical comedy "All Aboard," which will be staged at City Hall on the evenings of October 6 and 7 for the benefit of the Leo Guild is going to be one of the best laughing hits that a home talent crowd ever presented, is assured, if one can judge from the laughter caused in reading over the manuscript at the rehearsals this week. Those privileged to hear the first rehearsal of the leads were kept in a constant uproar by the reading of the ludicrous lines and the clever situations involved and as the rehearsals progressed during the week and the characters put action into their parts it proved still funnier.

Henry Collins of Salem who is cast to take the part of Billy Brady, the young college chap who is minus his four perfectly good front teeth (lost in a football scrimmage) and later adds to his plight by losing his four false teeth is particularly clever in his part. The part of his sister Dorothy, a breezy little college girl is to be taken by Miss Anna Hooks of Salem and she is given every opportunity to sing and dance herself into popularity. The part of Beatrice Sloane, Billy's sweetheart and with whom Johnny Grady (taken by David O'Malley of Salem) Billy's college chum is also madly in love will be taken by Miss Mary L. McCarthy of this city. Mrs. Sloane, Beatrice's mother, will be impersonated by Mrs. Theresa Roy who furnishes an amount of the comedy involved.

Then there are several other characters who help to unravel the plot which grows in interest as the play proceeds. Included are Joseph Lalor, William Toomey, "Sammy" Boyle, Miss Gertrude Leahy and John Higgins.

Asks Citizens To Fill Churches

Rev. John Reid, pastor of the South Congregational church in a forcible plea called on his parishioners last Sunday to enter more liberally into the activities of the church not in a spirit of opposition to any other parish but in order to swell church attendance. He called on the people of the evangelical churches to emulate the example of loyalty to their churches as shown by the Catholics.

It was a powerful plea for the "go to church" movement which he hoped would be embraced by people of all denominations. He declared the challenge was at hand and it was plainly the duty of all citizens to participate in the activities of their churches.

Next Sunday is to be rally day at the South church and Rev. Reid called on his congregation last Sunday to resume their church devotions following the summer holidays.

Peabody Rotary Club will be represented at the New England Conclave at Poland Springs, Maine, next week by eleven of its members, most of whom will be accompanied by their wife. Mayor Shea will be in the party. The Peabody delegation registered for the three days session which opens Wednesday night and concludes with breakfast Saturday morning are: George S. Curtis, Dr. and Mrs. S. Chase Tucker, Joseph Noyes and wife, John Meagher and wife, Philip C. O'Rourke, Miss Helen O'Rourke, George A. Blaney, Mrs. Carrie B. Clark, Miss Helen Clark, Ernest Woelfel, Dr. and Mrs. George W. Ewing and Frank W. Penniman.

Nangle A. C. In Challenge To Bleachery

Peabody Enterprise:

Dear Sir: As manager of the Nangle A. C. I would like to say a few words in their behalf in answering the challenge of the Bleachery A. C. As we are the undisputed champions of Peabody as well as Essex County on the Gridiron, and in playing a team inferior to ours we are lowering our standard, we take this opportunity to express to the fans the conditions under which we will play them.

First, that Manager Mack use only players residing in the Bleachery District and not go all over Essex County to garner players.

Second, that a side bet of $200 to be put up by Monday, September 26th, in the hands of a competent person;

And Third, that outside officials be secured to officiate.

Under these conditions we will gladly play them Sunday, October 2nd at 2.30.

Hoping that the fans, as well as the Bleachery A. C. will stop knocking, and criticising us when they have no reason to and trusting that Manager Mack will not make any more preposterous and obsolete claims.

I remain, yours truly,
NELSON JACKMAN, Manager,
15 Sewall Street.

Small Girl's Generous Offer.

Little Rose was playing with her doll when the wig fell off. Just then a man came along who had no hair on the top of his head. Rose ran up to him and said: "Say, mister, you can have this wig to cover that empty spot on the top of your head if you want it."

Babies' Hospital Has 32 Tots Battling With Death

There are 32 babies in the North Shore Babies Hospital which is to remain open for sometime yet.

One of the most interesting contributions which has been received by the North Shore Babies Hospital since the great drive was officially closed came recently from Miss Anna M. Mellow, R. N. Gloucester's Baby Hygiene nurse.

In a letter to Mrs. Charles F. Ropes one of the Executive Committee she writes: "I am sending you enclosed a check for $60 towards a fund for the North Shore Baby Hospital. This money was raised by a cake and candy sale and a few contributions from people who did not make cake or candy.

The amount is small, but I did want to do something for the hospital that has done so much for our Gloucester babies. Each case that I, personally, have sent there has certainly been a credit to the institution, and the nurses are always most kind to the mothers of the babies, seven in number, that I have sent there this summer.

Miss Gill the Superintendent is very kind and will always give a most satisfactory report of our cases. My only regret in sending this check is that it is not forty times as large."

LYNN CARS

What the Mass. Eastern Street Railway Trustees are asking Peabody to do by way of cooperation looking to the return of the Lynn cars to Washington street is in measure what every other city and town which has the trolley service has been asked to do, namely to pay for the cost of paving inside the tracks when new tracks are laid by the corporation. According to the Trustees this cooperation has been forthcoming without serious protest or long deliberation. The finances of the trolley concern do not allow it to expend sums at the request of every city and town. The attitude of the Trustees as shown to Mayor Shea in his conference was plainly one of cooperation and their final decision to restore the cars to Washington street is the thing to be desired by the many residents of wards two and three who are to be given the accommodation. If the 3200 feet of track from Main street to Quinlan Square is to be relaid another year the cost of paving inside the tracks would probably not exceed $3000. Mayor Shea deserves credit for his initiative in this matter and the hundreds of citizens who will be benefited by the prompt return of the cars to Washington street will applaud cooperation now on the part of the City Council. The railroad stands ready to restore the service immediately if the Mayor has the endorsement of the City Council.

POKING FUN AT POLICE

It is a question open to serious discussion whether or not we should permit motion picture men to poke fun at our policemen.

It may be true that burglars and others will lose all respect they ever had for coppers if the practice continues. At any rate the New Jersey guardians of the law are taking the matter very much to heart. They now want representation on the national board of censorship so that they can delete all scenes in which a policeman is the butt of a joke.

It isn't that the officer of the law can't take a joke. But he takes his work seriously. If you don't believe it try to drive your car past a "stop" sign. And his sign of dignity is keenly assailed when the motion picture man puts him in clownish uniforms, with tin saucer badges and upsets him in the mud when the hobo makes a getaway.

It's all in fun, of course, but you can't blame the copper. Policing is a serious business at any time.—Chelsea Record.

ACCIDENTS IN THE HOME

The "hazards of public industry" and the "dangers of the street" are constantly being brought to our attention, but how many people know that last year out of the 80,000 accidental deaths in the United States one-half occurred in homes. Falls constituted one of the most frequent causes of home accidents:

Falls from defective ladders.

Falls down stairs because of defective steps or lack of hand rails.

Falls on waxed floors; or trippnig over objects.

Falls from balconies and high sidewalks where a strong railing would have protected.

Falls into cistern—left uncovered—or without guard rails.

These are a few of the danger points which every parent should bear in mind and guard against. It means the life and limb of your children. Most home accidents need never happen.

MASS. SAFETY COUNCIL.

Suggested Improvements for Next Year

Suggested by the present Playground Commission:

Securing new site for playground in Ward 3, doing away with the Wallis and Sutton Park playgrounds, by combining the same into one playground to be located in the Crow village district.

Securing a new site for the playground in South Peabody.

Construction of concrete swimming pool at Emerson Park.

Securing of new location for the West Peabody playground on land near the West school.

Planting of trees at the East End grounds.

Securing large flag for the Emerson Park grounds, to be kept flying during the playground season, on holidays and special occasions.

Strict enforcement of rules governing the sale of refreshments at the parks and playgrounds.

Exclusion of carnivals from the Emerson Park grounds.

Continuation of physical training, providing for the training of the boys.

Glass Workers Lose Sight.

Many of the workmen in the glass factories of Venice begin to lose their sight after they have passed their fortieth year and soon become totally blind. The impairment of vision is caused by the excessive heat and the glare from the glass furnaces.

The Gaff and the Chaff

By ALBERT H. LAIDLAW

THAT which is set down herewith is old stuff, I'll admit. It's been said, in one way or another, and "by better men than I am, Gunga Din," many, many times. But it's food for thought that no man need be afraid of getting gluttonous with.

The thought is this:

The man who can stand the gaff gets the grain instead of the chaff.

The world just naturally hasn't got any use for a weakling, a whiner, a squealer, a quitter.

Even the weaklings, the whiners, the squealers and the quitters have a certain loathing for their kind.

It's just plain natural for mortals to pay their tributes to the human animal that isn't weak, and doesn't whine, and doesn' squeal, and doesn't quit.

Every man has his spells of sympathy for the so-called "under dog," but there's a certain contempt that goes along with the sympathy, and there's a pretty general feeling that when a dog is under it's primarily his own fault.

Too many under dogs have come out from under to give the whiner and the squealer and the quitter an excuse to stay under.

If Ty Cobb hadn't, as an almost puny rookie, fought the husky Charley Schmidt and the brawny Sam Crawford for the mere right to a locker in the Detroit clubhouse, and if he hadn't stood the gaff of the Detroit baseball bugs who thought he never would be a baseball player, he would be neither a manager nor the most famous baseball player today.

As a nation must do, or as a race of people must do, a man must stand up on his hind legs and fight for his rights or he won't have any—and vice versa.

For only the man who can stand the gaff gets the grain instead of the chaff.

Old stuff, but axiomatic and therefore eternally true.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

OFFICE JOBS, PENURY.

I VISITED a woman who I greatly respect; the sort of woman who is a credit to America and an asset to her neighborhood. She has three daughters, the oldest just fifteen, and as we sat over our tea she began to discuss her plans in regard to the future of her girls.

I thought that it would be well to give them training in some business capacity.

"Yes. But I don't want them simply to be fit for an office job and penury. And I rule out teaching. The life is too hard—and, again, too poorly paid. I want them to know how to do something that will lead to freedom, not slavery. And I want them to work at something that will grow an interest, not become a bore."

It was quite a large order, and yet reasonable. One of the girls was distinctly an artist, and her mother was going to give her a course in commercial designing. The second daughter was to be trained in domestic science and catering, and the oldest girl was to take an agricultural course. For each girl the mother had invested a sum of money that, while not large, would give the required start in their different professions.

If there were a little more of this sort of scheming for girls, things would be a lot easier for them. Most girls are driven to office jobs as the easiest road to follow. Which is one reason why they are so poorly paid.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

LADY SEEKING BEAUTY.

LADY seeking beauty, who Beautiful would be,
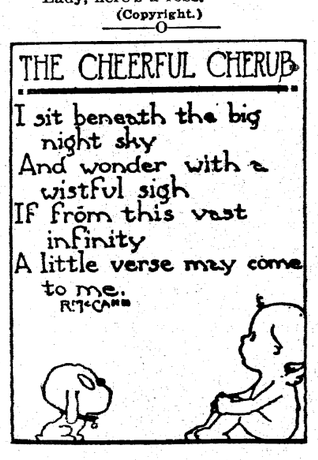
Where is beauty? Near to you
Waiting quietly
If you will but see.

Nature is articulate;
Can't you hear her call?
You need only imitate
Beauty by your wall,
Nature, that is all.



Here is beauty: 'Tis a rose,
'Tis a rose of red;
Yet she does not all disclose—
Beauty, be it said,
Shown too much is fled.

Only dignity may dare
Crimson harmonies,
Only women wise may wear
Colors such as these,
Lady, if you please.

Here is beauty: Quietness,
Modesty, repose;
Beauty is not fair unless
Dignity it knows—
Lady, here's a rose.

PURE GOLD

[Kalama (Wash.) News]

Speak a good word for your own town and country whenever an opportunity presents itself. More towns die for want of confidence, on the part of business men, and public spirit, than from rivalry of neighboring towns or adverse surroundings. When a man is in search of a home or business location, and goes to a town and finds everything brimful of hope and enthusiasm over the prospects of the place, and earnestly at work to build up the town, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he drives down his stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town and everyone expresses doubt and apprehension in the future prospects of the town, he naturally feels that it is not the the place for him, and at once shakes the dust from his feet, while he pulls with all possible speed for some other town. Consequently, try and make a live, enterprising, progressive town out of the one in which you live, and remember that when you are working or saying a good word for your town, you are accomplishing all the more for yourself. Then speak a good word for your town.

The Family Food.

TAKE one pound of chopped round steak, form into cakes one inch thick. Make a depression in the center of each, remove to a hot dish and fill the centers with grated onion pulp. Pour over and around the meat balls the following sauce: Sift one quart of tomatoes, cook down until thick, add salt to taste, four sweet, green peppers, steamed and cut into shreds. Serve with a border of finely shredded cabbage.

Melon Cream.

Choose small nutmeg melons that are fine flavored, after removing the seeds take out the pulp and put through a sieve. To one quart of whipped cream add one-half cupful of powdered sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla and one pint of melon pulp. Freeze until stiff and serve with a canton ginger sauce with some of the ginger finely minced sprinkled over the cream. A half cupful of orange or pineapple juice may be added to the above mixture and glace oranges may be used for a garnish.

Frozen Fig Pudding.

Wash one pound of figs and let soak over night, add one cupful of sugar and simmer until the figs are very tender, then cool and cut into small pieces. Place one quart of rich milk in a double boiler, add two well-beaten eggs and cook until smooth, stirring constantly, add the juice and rind of a lemon. Cool, add figs and one pint of heavy cream and freeze as usual. Use one pint of water over the figs and cook until tender in the same water, adding the lemon juice and rind to the figs if desired.

Banana Cream.

Scald one pint of milk, add two well-beaten eggs, two cupfuls of sugar and, when cooked until smooth, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Add one pint of cream and partly freeze, then stir in one pint of banana pulp, the juice of two oranges and one-half of a lemon. Serve in glasses garnished with banana balls dipped in lemon juice and rolled in powdered sugar.

Melon Lilies.

Cut small melons in halves after scrubbing them well. Remove the seeds and cut them into pointed petals ten or a dozen. Arrange on a plate and serve a small ball of vanilla ice cream in the center of each. A melon leaf or a small leaf from a squash or pumpkin vine will make an appropriate doiley. A sauce of canton ginger syrup or a dusting with cocoa may be used over the cream if desired.

Flowers Found New Homes.

It is not generally known that the belladonna lily was procured from South America in 1593, while the Guernsey lily was brought from Japan and was first cultivated at the beginning of the Seventeenth century in the garden of an Englishman in Paris. This plant is said to have derived its name from the following episode. A ship, laden with bulbs, was wrecked off the coast of Guernsey. A number of the bulbs were cast upon the shore and took root in the soil, where they grew rapidly.

Lovers' Quarrels Not Trifles.

It has been said that lovers' quarrels are but the renewal of love. There was never a falser word. Every quarrel is a blot on a fair page. Forgiveness may erase it, but, at the best, the mark of the erasure is there forever and the page wears thin.—S. G. Tallentyre.

Peabody High School Will Rank With Best In All Commonwealth

When the boys and girls of the Peabody High School assembled last Monday for the beginning of a new year in the old school they found that the building had taken on a very different internal aspect. The vacation months of the summer left scant time for fundamental alterations in a structure of its size, but the contractors, Charles H. Cunningham & Sons Co., did not waste their time and save a few minor matters of finish the building shows the completion of the plans of the architect, Frank Irving Cooper for the remodeling of this portion of what will be a dignified and adequate high school building for the city.

In its preparedness Peabody is in striking contrast to many other places in the country, for it has ready now a school for five hundred pupils and with the completed entire structure ready in about three months a capacity for one thousand students. With this record against the fact that in the country there will be this school year a million or two of scholars for whom no seat will be available in the schools, Peabody's forehandedness stands prominently out.

In the course of the remodeling the former entrance through the front of the high school has been closed, the doorway and steps have been removed, and in place of them a large window has been installed to match the ones already in place. Access to the rooms will be by a great central corridor which will in its extension serve all the rooms of the new as well as the old portion of the building. With exits at both ends and at the new central doorway, with the corridor fitted at intervals with smoke-proof doors, the safety of the occupants in case of an emergency is admirably cared for. This ensuring of the safety of the pupils is a specialty emphasized by Mr. Cooper, who is chairman of the Committee on Planning and Standardization of the National Education Association.

The summer has brought quite a series of changes in the rooms of the old part of the Peabody High School building. In the basement where formerly the heating plant divided the space with the gymnasiums for boys and girls and the lunch rooms, the removal of the gymnasiums and the heating plant to the new central building gives much more space for the rooms, which will now be convenient and afford ample elbow-room for all who wish to make use of them. On the first floor the space formerly taken by the entrance is now available for an enlarged rest room for the women teachers and a medical inspector's room, which will be available also for an emergency room, while a minor rearrangement gives place for a janitor's room and a storage closet. The room for women teachers, which faces the street, has a pleasant outlook, while its conveniences and furnishings will make matters much more comfortable than in the older school. The class and recitation rooms on the first floor are practically unchanged, and the same is true on the second floor, save a storage room, which has become possible through the connection of the main corridor with that of the larger building. On all the floors there is a large "axial" corridor running from one end wall to the other.

It is on the third floor of the old portion of the high school that the important changes have been made. Here in the older days was the assembly hall with its stage. The great new assembly hall serving the whole big building makes this one unnecessary, and in its place have been consructed one class room in place of the old stage and two big rooms for drawing in the place of the hall itself, with a corridor between corresponding to those of the lower stories.

"Admirably placed and admirably planned," was the exclamation of an authority on schoolhouses who recently viewed the Peabody High School, and one comes across its pleasing lines and proportions in the richly tinted brick, masked by the great elms at the curb is struck by the pleasant surroundings which modern schoolhouses sometimes secure, creditable to the government that affords such benefits and educational to the pupils in ways that are not set down in books.

Rev. Bakeman Has Plan That Would Aid Poor

Editor of the Enterprise:

Would it not be a wise plan for this comniunity to be preparing now for the winter that is before us?

Prosperity is coming sometime, but it is only facing the facts to say that there may be much unemployment and suffering this winter in Peabody. People have drawn heavily upon their savings and will not be in the position to meet the winter's demands that they were last year.

Many people have been living from hand to mouth in the warmer months and are without fuel and the means to buy it. What is going to happen to them and their families?

It seems to me that a small but live and representative committee of citizens should share the burden with the Mayor of meeting this probable emergency. Such a committee could at least act as a clearing house for employment and might be able to suggest ways and means by which actual suffering could be averted.

With a national conference on employment right at hand and the call of the governor to the cities to prepare for public works for the unemployed wherever possible, I feel sure that the appointment by the Mayor of such a committee would meet with public approval.

ROBERT A. BAKEMAN.

The final chapter of "The Purple Riders" and Harry Carey at his best in one of the most thrilling Western stories of his career, is the entertainment promised playgoers who attend the Strand today or Saturday. "Desperate Trails" is the title of Mr. Carey's latest picture. It was written by Courtney Riley Cooper and appeared in the Red Book Magazine. It was purchased to provide Harry Carey with a story in which he could display the qualities of drama and humor which have endeared him to picture fans as the foremost exponent of the out-of-door action tale. Irene Rich plays the principal feminine role, while Barbara La Marr has the second feminine lead, that of an unfaithful woman. Others in the cast are Edward Coxen, George Seigmann and Helen Field. The story concerns a big hearted westerner who believes that he loves a woman. A train is robbed and she tells him that her brother committed the crime. To save him, Carey takes the blame and goes to prison. He there discovers that the man is not the girl's brother but her lover, and he returns to exact vengeance. The climax is startling in its dramatic power but ends happily with the hero safe in the arms of a good woman. The climax episode of Joe Ryan's serial play "The Purple Riders" and one of the funny Torchy comedies are the other attractions listed for showing today.

Conway Tearle, one of the finest actors on the screen, will appear Sunday evening in "Marooned Hearts." Zena Keefe plays opposite the star. Blanche Sweet in "Simple Souls" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

Two popular stars, Bebe Daniels and Eugene O'Brien, will divide the headline honors on the big double feature bill for Monday and Tuesday. Miss Daniels will be presented in her comedy-dramatic hit entitled "Ducks and Drakes." In this adaption of Elmer Harris' stage play Miss Daniels is cast as an irrepressible young heiress, who almost drives her guardian to distraction by her naughty habit of calling random numbers on the telephone, and flirting with all the pleasant masculine voices that answer. The young woman has a fiancee, and he, too, knows about her wire flirtations. Unlike the guardian, however, he does not let it worry him. Being an efficient young business man, he merely applies business efficiency to the problem, and cures her of her habit by the simple expediency of enlisting the aid of some of his men friends. The picture is told in a series of very amusing complications which permit the star to score with her individual mannerisms. In the cast are such dependable players as Jack Holt, a star in his own right, Mayme Kelso and Wade Boetler.

Eugene O'Brien's starring vehicle, the second feature for Monday, is titled "The Gilded Lie." It is a story of virile action that keeps an audience guessing up to the final close-up.

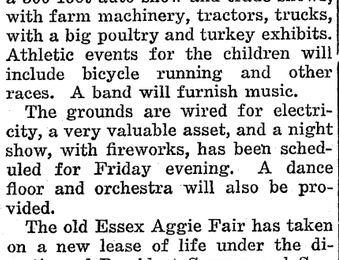
Essex Fair Opens Today

The Essex County Agricultural Society holds its 100th annual fair today and tomorrow at the Fair Grounds on the Newburyport Turnpike.

A much needed new exhibition hall for perishable exhibits has been erected. It will be used for the first time this year. A new half mile race track has been constructed and there will be horse racing between local horses. There will be races today and two tomorrow.

There will be eight Grange exhibits, a 300 foot auto show and trade shows, with farm machinery, tractors, trucks, with a big poultry and turkey exhibits. Athletic events for the children will include bicycle running and other races. A band will furnish music.

The grounds are wired for electricity, a very valuable asset, and a night show, with fireworks, has been scheduled for Friday evening. A dance floor and orchestra will also be provided.



The old Essex Aggie Fair has taken on a new lease of life under the direction of President Sawyer and Secretary Ralph H. Gaskill, and this year's fair is Exhibit A in its new career. The attendance will doubtless be large, particularly if the weather is favorable.

NEWS AND NOTES OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

No mystery surrounds the shooting in Nashville, Tenn., last week of Carl Peters, world war veteran. He refused to take a drink. Carrying out his American Legion injunction of "law and order," Peters when accosted on the street late at night by a hospitable bootlegger, politely declined a proffered draught of white whiskey. The h. b. insisted and when Peters still refused, the former drew a pistol and fired. The ex-soldier went to a hospital with a bullet in his leg and the moonshine merchant went to jail.

Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, will go to Kansas City this fall to visit the man who safely chauffeured him through France while he was commanding the famous Second Division, A. E. F., according to word received from him last week by the American Legion convention committee. Incidentally General Lejeune also will attend the Legion's national convention there. He will be driven through the quieter streets of the convention city by his erstwhile battle chauffeur, Victor H. Lenge, Kansas City.

The governors of Missouri and Kansas and the mayors of Kansas City, Kas., and Mo., joined in a formal expression of the honor they feel at the coming visit of Marshal Foch to those states and cities to attend the national convention of the American Legion this fall. A memorial to this effect was presented the French generalissimo by Charles W. Bartlett, Kansas City, at the recent dedication of the Flirey monument in France.

Representation in the American commission to the international disarmament congress November 11 by at least one soldier of the world war was asked of President Harding last week by the American Legion's national legislative committee at Washington. "There is no group in the nation that knows as much about war and has as vital an interest in the problem of war and peace as the ex-service men of the country," the Legion declared. The committee also urged Secretary Hoover to give the Legion representation on behalf of service men in the unemployment conference soon to be held.

During the celebration of "Buddy Week" in Baltimore last week, a relay of 24 American Legion runners carried the "buddy proclamation" from President Harding at Washington to the mayor of Baltimore. Service men from several eastern and southern states attended the meeting.

Use of New York state's many armories as places of shelter for jobless ex-soldiers is being considered by William F. Deegan, American Legion representative on New York City's committee on unemployment. The Overseas Women's League last week offered the services of its members to put the armories in condition for the men's occupancy. Fully 50,000 ex-service men are among the city's army of unemployed, according to Mr. Deegan.

Thirty-three bands already have registered for the $1750 prize musical contest during the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall. In the list are bands from New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Texas, Oklahoma, Indiana, Oregon, Kansas and Missouri.

Men who accepted officers commissions for the world war only and who were wounded or disabled should be retired with pension the same as are officers of the regular army, the American Legion's national legislative committee declared last week in praying Secretary of War Weeks to extend the privilege to them. The selective service law and an opinion of the army's judge advocate general were cited as justifying the claim.

After the state of New York had voted to give ex-service men a bonus by a majority of 700,000, the Court of Appeals held last week that the new law was unconstitutional. The American Legion of the state now is preparing to campaign for an amendment to the constitution, with the Governor of the state and members of the legislature behind them.

—*—

To assist in ridding the city of prowlers, petty thieves and holdups, the American Legion post of Wichita, Kas., recently volunteered the services of its 500 members. Due to numerous attacks on women and the resultant panic in their ranks, the chief of police and the city manager accepted the offer. The service men will patrol the streets.

More than three years after he had been gassed at Chateau Thierry, Richard Cross, American Legion veteran of Des Moines, Ia., suddenly was stricken blind while at home playing with his baby. Physicians blame the Germans' poison for his plight and entertain no hope for his recovery.

The Phoenix Club will conduct a dance tomorrow evening at the A. O. H. hall on Lowell street. The popular Phoenix orchestra of four pieces including the Irish bag pipes will furnish music. A pleasant evening is anticipated. The proceeds will be donated to the Irish refugee fund. The club has pledged a donation to this fund and is raising it by entertainments of this kind.
